Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Under and by virtue of the powers contained in a certain mortgage executed on the 24th day of April, 1912, by the Chilton Warehouse & Manufacturing Company, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Alabama, to E. A. Matthews, securing a certain indebtedness, default in the payment of which has been made, said mortgage being recorded in the office of the Probate Judge of Chilton County, Alabama, in Mortgage Record 121, page 332, I, E. A. Matthews, as mortgagee, will proceed to sell the hereinafter described real estate to the highest bidder for cash, at public outcry, before the Court House door of Chilton County, at Clanton, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, on Monday, the 26th day of May, 1913, to-wit:

The following described real property lying and being situated in the Town of Clanton, in the County of Chilton, in the State of Alabama, to-wit, a certain lot or parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad, described and bounded as follows, to-wit: commencing at a point on the line of the right of way of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company two hundred and ten (210) feet south of the intersection of the said right of way and Main Street, said Main Street now being known as Second Avenue, and runing thence in a westerly direction, parallel with said Main Street, four hundred and eighty-five (485) feet, more or less, to the line of W. D. Sartor's land as said line of W. D. Sartor's land was known or existed on the 10th day of August, 1893, thence in a southerly direction, along the line of said Sartor land line, and a continuation thereof, three hundred (300) feet thence in an easterly direction, parallel to said Main Street, four hundred and eighty-five (485) feet more or less, to said right of way, thence in a northerly direction, along said right of way, three hundred (300) feet, to the point of beginning, being a part of the land which was conveyed to John Randolph by F. C. Randolph, on the 12th day of February, 1902, by a deed which is recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, in volume 24 of Record of Deeds, on page 387. The said lot or parcel of land above described is known by the Official Map of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, and marked upon said Map "E. Y. McMorries University School." (The words Main Street wherever they occur in the foregoing description refer to the street now known as Second Avenue); and also a tract or parcel of land described and bounded as follows; to-wit: Beginning at the northeast corner of a certain lot, west of South and North Alabama Railroad, and south of and bordering on Second Avenue, marked on the Official Map of the Town of Clanton, "W. M. Wilson & Brother," and running thence east along said Second Avenue forty (40) feet, thence south two hundred and ten (210) feet, to the lot marked on said Official Map "E. Y. McMorries University School" thence West forty (40) feet, thence north two hundred and ten (210) feet to the point of beginning, and also a lot of parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad, described and bounded as follows, to-wit: beginning at the southeast corner of the lot marked on the official map of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, "E. Y. McMorries University School," and running thence west one hundred and sixty (160) feet, thence south eighty (80) feet, thence east forty (40) feet, thence south two hundred and eighty (280) feet, thence east to the right of way of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company, thence north to the point of beginning; also a lot or parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad, described and bounded as follows, to-wit: beginning at the north east corner of the lot marked on the official map of the Town of Clanton, Alabama "E. Y. McMorries University School," and running thence west thirty (30) feet, thence north sixty (60) feet to the lot of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company, thence east thirty (30) feet to the right-of-way of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company, thence south along said right-of-way to the point of beginning, and also a lot or parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad, described and bounded as follows, to-wit: beginning at the southwest corner of the lot marked on the official map of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, "E. Y. McMorries University School" and running south twenty (20) feet, thence east to within one hundred and sixty (160) feet to the right of way of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company, thence north twenty (20) feet to the south line of the said E. Y. McMorries University School lot, thence west, along said line to the point of beginning; together with all the buildings, machinery and appurtenances belonging to any, and all of the hereinbefore described tracts or parcels of land, and also a lot or parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad described and bounded as follows, to-wit: beginning at the northwest corner of the Episcopal Church, on the south side of Second Avenue, and running thence west along said Second Avenue one hundred and twenty (120) feet to the northeast corner of the Chilton Warehouse and Manufacturing Company's lot, thence south along the east line of said lot, two hundred and ten (210) feet to the Chilton Warehouse & Manufacturing Company's property, thence east along the north line of said property one hundred and twenty (120) feet, thence north two hundred and ten (210) feet to the point of beginning.

Said sale will be made for the purpose of paying in whole or in part the indebtedness secured by said mortgage.

This the 24th day of April, 1913.

LADY'S NOVEL TAILORED SUIT.

The demi-tailored suit is now the style, and prevails to a much larger extent than the severe models of a couple of years ago. The illustration shows an ideal design for one of these street dresses. It has a coat blouse, made quite plain in both front and back. The closing is slightly on the bias, and the overlapping side is outlined by simple sharp revers, which may be omitted if desired. The neck is finished with a large, handsome collar. The skirt is a two piece model, and the closing may be placed at either of the seams. The dress is one which will develop well in faille, in soft brocade for the coat, with a plain material in the same color for the skirt. It will also be appropriate for cotton fabrics, such as eponge, linen and the like.

The dress pattern (6178) is cut in sizes 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 4½ yards of 44 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

LADY'S TWO PIECE SKIRT.

The two piece skirt remains a favorite, but it is now shown with certain modifications. In the present instance the material is slightly gathered across the back at the waist line, and a little fullness is drawn to one side and held at knee depth at the side seam. The skirt may be high waisted or of normal waist line, as preferred, the high waist being better for part of a costume and normal waist preferred for separate skirts to be worn with odd waists. This skirt may be made of all woolen materials, such as serge and cheviot, of faille, of linen, and of other heavy wash fabrics.

The skirt pattern (6194) is cut in sizes 22 to 30 inches, waist measure. Medium size requires 2⅞ yards of 36 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CAMPAIGN.

It is to be hoped that all of the Sunday Schools in the county will be well represented at the different district meetings of this interesting campaign which will begin next Sunday and held at the places printed in another column during the following week.

Sunday School work is of the greatest importance to the religious and social welfare of a community and when undertaken it should be carried out in the most approved manner. The leaders of the campaign are selected because they have made a life study of the subject and can impart much information as to best methods.

Then the enthusiasm worked up by the meeting together and comparing notes and stimulating each other to action is of great value in bringing out the best efforts of all the workers. So, watch for the date in your district and see that there is a good attendance.

THE HOOK WORM.

We need not apologize for giving so much space to this subject. The investigations made by Dr. Grote in the county prove that the campaign against the disease will be of inestimable benefit to the county. The people are showing much interest in the matter and a large number are being examined. In Clanton, Saturday, about 150 were examined and a large proportion found infected who will be treated.

It is a duty every man owes his family to have them examined. It is not only the pale and sickly who have been found to be infected. Some young people in apparent good health have been found to be badly infected; this good health would not have lasted long, with quantities of the little blood - suckers sapping their vitality.

Remember the Doctor will be at Maplesville, May 13, 20.
Jemison, May 15, 22.
Verbena, May 16, 23.
Clanton, May 10, 17, 24.

The United States has officially recognized the new Chinese republic. We hope our new sister will be satisfied to grow at home and not try to spread all over America as the Japanese seem to want to do.

The general movement to "swat the fly" and starve him out, is a very sensible one and worthy of general co-operation. But what puzzles us is to figure out if the fly is so fearfully fatal as the writers make out, how does it happen that so many of us poor mortals are still alive and "swatting?"

CONVICTS ON THE ROADS

Decatur, Ala., May 2—(Special)—The county convicts being worked on the county roads here are costing the county about $3 a day, according to Probate Judge William E. Skaggs. There are at this time 25 convicts on the county roads. The big expense is due to the fact that the county has no work house for the convicts to work in during days that they cannot work outdoors on account of weather conditions. Hence on bad days the county has to board the convicts for no returns at all. Another thing is the county must provide convict clothes and when the convict has completed his term on the road he must be provided with a suit of citizen's clothes. He may be sentenced for only thirty days and his work may not pay for his clothing. Just what to do about the matter is a puzzle to the county officials. The county has spent a large amount of money for portable cages, wagons, mules, etc., for the convicts. —Age-Herald.

We have been watching for facts concerning the cost of using convicts on the roads. Statements like the above have been found from several counties, indicating that unless profitable work of other sort can be provided for days when road work cannot be done the convicts will be found too expensive.

"AIN'T IT AWFUL MABEL?"

What is this that we read? Home of a prominent Dallas county citizen entered and searched by officers, and all without even the formality of a search warrant. We rub our eyes and read again. Yes, that's what it says. But more amazing still, this search is said to be at the direction and with the approval of Emmet O'Neal, quondam "defender of the constitution," special and enthusiastic pleader for the rights of a man. It really was amusing to hear Emmet and other anti-amendment orators in their fervid fulminations against the thought of officers daring to enter a man's home to break up a blind tiger that was demoralizing a community and despoiling young men. From his course in pardoning so many notorious offenders against the prohibition laws since he has become governor, one is warranted in concluding that his interest in such citizens was not assumed.

But now the home of a prominent citizen is entered without a search warrant. This gentleman is not under suspicion as a tiger operator. Indeed, so far as is apparent he has violated no law whatever, there being no other warrant for the procedure than that there was a slight suspicion that he might possibly be harboring in his home a relative who was permitted by the administration to get away with a right tidy sum—just how much nobody seems to know. And the officers came very early on a quiet morning and invaded the home of this citizen. Now let the hirelings of Charlie Lewis get busy and exercise their artistic (?) tastes as of yore. This time they needn't show the members of the household in their "nighties," for, thank Heaven, during the parley at the door the family did manage to get their clothes on. It wasn't "about 12 o'clock noon" as in the Mobile case famous some years ago, and wherein, for some unaccountable reason, the women were pictured in "evening dress" Where are ye bold "defenders," and how do ye restrain yourselves? From north to south, from east to west, rise and make the welkin ring and let your governor understand what he seems to have forgotten in the turmoil of these trying days—that "the sanctity of the home is to be preserved at any cost." O, ye conservators of "our blood bought liberties," the times are crying out for you again. Let that same unselfish patriotism send you out once more "without money and without price" to warn the people of the state of the impending calamity—this threatened danger to "the rights for which our fathers died."

It is awful to contemplate that we live in a land where there are officers that will search one's home. O, never mind about them having no search warrant—that was just a slight courtesy which they overlooked. I suppose it may be counted unimportant. The way the papers tell it the officers seem to have slipped in and slipped out so unobtrusively and at such hours as to have made the procuring of a search warrant extremely inconvenient, if not impossible. The main thing is that a home can be searched, that such a thing has actually transpired here in Alabama, under the administration of a "defender" governor, a man who, in 1909, tearfully declared that he'd see himself and a whole lot of others where most folks don't want to go before he'd stand for any such thing—or words to that effect. Why, didn't we vote to knock out all of that homesearching business? Sure we did. It begins to seem that the time has about arrived to heed the advice of those orators of a few years since, and rub the rust out of the barrels of old "Betsy Ann" and get down the powder horn.

Mr. W. H. Conway brought in from his farm a mile north of Clanton some fine bunches of crimson clover. It was about 30 inches high and he says it will cut about two tons the acre. He also brought in some bur clover from his bermuda patch, the two making a fine combination all year grazing. This is the sort of stuff that can be raised here and our farmers would do well to give much attention to it. Boll weevil won't eat it but horses, cows and hogs thrive on it.

Only Half an Hour from Towr

MODERN business men and farmers have ceased to measure distances by miles. Minutes serve instead. "We are just half an hour from town," says a farmer who lives seven miles out and owns an International car. "I went to town today, starting half an hour after my neighbor went by my gate with his team, and I passed him just where the main street paving begins. We visit every friend within thirty miles, hear lectures, see entertainments, have a better time in every way since I bought an

International Commercial Car

An Ohio business man says "When I am using my International Commercial Car the expense is about the same as with a team, but when it is not in use it is not eating, and, therefore, costs nothing. After a year's experience, I find the repair bills to be no more than the bills for shoeing, harness repairs, wagon repairs, painting, etc., and there is the added advantage of getting around three times as fast."

When you own an International Commercial Car you make the trips you used to neglect because you did not want to take the horses from their work. It can be used in all seasons when the road is passable to horses. The wheels are high enough to give ample road clearance. Solid tires give good traction and eliminate many tire troubles. The engine is simple and powerful. It will pay you in many ways to know all about the International Commercial Car. A letter brings full particulars with many interesting facts and figures.

PERSISTENT DEVELOPMENT

In the operation of the Agricultural Department of the Immigration and Industrial Bureau, the L. & N. is not satisfied with merely locating settlers along its line, but is continually seeking ways and means of being of assistance to them.

The L. & N. furthers the work of the experimenters by placing at the service of the farmer experts to show them how they can apply the results of the study of the scientists in a manner that will work for his good. In other words the L. & N. endeavors to harness theory and practice together, believing that a team can pull a load that neither working singly can budge.

Thus the railroad has become an agronomist, a horticulturist, an entomologist, an animal husbandman and a dairy expert. Being continually called upon to analyze various minerals, it is also chemist, assayer and geologist.

One of the most valuable features of this work is the plan to take the knowledge gleaned in these various fields of research direct to the farmer through the medium of special trains, bulletins and personal visitation by experienced and sympathetic men equipped both theoretically and practically to preach Better Farming.

This work will be carried forward intelligently, sympathetically, persistently. Its object is to more rapidly develop the rich natural resources of the matchless territory along the lines of the L. & N. The service is free to those living along the lines of the L. & N. who make application to Mr. G. A. Park, General Immigration and Industrial Agent, Louisville, Ky.

The service will not be offered or urged on any individual farmer, but the hope is expressed that those engaged in agricultural pursuits will feel free to avail themselves of the facilities built up and retained by the L. & N. for the co-operative development of the territory to its highest and most economical efficiency.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

ECZEMA 25 YEARS FACE A MASS OF IT

Says "Resinol Cured Me of One of the Worst Cases Anybody Ever Saw."

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 20, 1912.—"I had eczema for the last twenty-five years, and have been afflicted so badly that for weeks I could not go outside the door. My face was one mass of pimples, and not only the looks of it but the itching and burning pains I experienced were just dreadful. I lost a great deal of sleep and had to keep dampened cloths on my face all night to relieve the pain. I had become disgusted with trying different things.

"One day I made up my mind to try Resinol, and after using one jar of Resinol Ointment, and one cake of Resinol Soap, I saw the difference, and now my face is as clear as anybody's, and I certainly don't need to be ashamed to go out. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment cured me of one of the worst cases of eczema, I guess, that anybody ever saw." (Signed) Mrs. C. Hellmuth, 5611 Appletree Street.

Nothing we can say of Resinol equals what others, such as Mrs. Hellmuth, say of it. If you are suffering from itching, burning skin troubles, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, chapped face and hands, ulcers, boils, stubborn sores, or piles, it will cost you nothing to try Resinol Ointment and Soap. Just send to Dept. 11-K, Resinol Chem. Co., Baltimore, Md., for a free sample of each. Sold by all druggists.

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Keziah Coffin, supposed widow, is arranging to move from Trumet to Boston, following the death of her brother, for whom she had kept house. Kyan Pepper, widower, offers marriage, and is indignantly refused. Capt. Elkanah Daniels, leader of the Regular church, offers Keziah a place as housekeeper for the new minister, and she decides to remain in Trumet. Keziah takes charge of Rev. John Ellery, the new minister, and gives him advice as to his conduct toward members of the parish. Ellery causes a sensation by attending a "Come-outer" meeting. Ellery's presence is bitterly resented by Eben Hammond, leader of the meeting. Grace apologizes for her guardian and Ellery escorts her home in the rain. Capt. Nat Hammond, Eben's son, becomes a hero by bringing the packet into port safely through fog and storm. Ellery finds Keziah writing a letter to some one, inclosing money in response to a demand. She is curiously startled when informed of the arrival of Nat. Nat calls on Keziah, and it develops that they have been lovers since youth. Daniels remonstrates with Ellery for attending "Come-outer" meeting. Ellery is caught by the tide and is rescued by Nat. They become friends. Ellery meets Grace while walking in the fields, and learns that she walks there every Sunday. The clergyman takes dinner Sundays with the Daniels. Annabel, the captain's daughter, exerts herself to make an impression on him. She notices with vexation his desire to get away every Sunday at a certain time. She watches him through a spy glass. Nat again importunes Keziah to marry him. He says he has had a quarrel with his father, who wants him to marry Grace. Ellery asks Grace to marry him. She confesses that she loves him, but says she fears to displease her guardian. Elkanah Daniels tells Eben about the meetings between Ellery and Grace. Eben declares he will make Grace choose between him and the preacher. Grace finds him in a faint, following the excitement of Elkanah's visit. Just before he dies Eben exacts a promise from Nat and Grace that they will marry. Keziah breaks the news to Ellery and later he received a note from Grace saying she is to marry Nat, and asking him not to try to see her again. Keziah tells the story of her own marriage with a man who turned out to be a good-for-nothing, and who was reported to have been lost at sea, and of her love for Nat, whom she cannot marry because the husband is alive. Captain Nat sails for Manila to be gone two years. He says he and Grace have decided not to marry until he returns. Nat is overdue, and it is feared that he has been lost at sea. Keziah gets a letter from her husband saying he is coming back. Grace goes on a visit to relatives of the Hammonds. A vessel flying distress signals is discovered off the coast. Ellery goes with party to board the vessel. A man is found suffering from smallpox, the rest of the crew having deserted. He is taken to an abandoned shack on shore and Ellery helps nurse him. Before he dies it is discovered that he is Keziah's husband. Ellery, left alone in quarantine, is found wandering in a delirious condition by Grace. She takes him back to the shanty and sends for help. Keziah and Grace nurse Ellery, who is suffering from brain fever. The doctor and Keziah spread a report that Grace and Ellery are engaged. News comes that Nat has arrived safely in Boston. The story of the wreck of Nat's vessel comes out and a home-coming is arranged. Nat fails to appear. Keziah intercepts Nat on his homeward journey and tells him of Grace's love for Ellery. He releases Grace from her promise to him. Keziah gets delayed letter from her husband saying he will return soon, and not having yet heard of the identity of the smallpox victim, she leaves Trumet. Ellery tells Nat that the dead man was Keziah's husband. Nat goes to Boston, finds Keziah and brings her home.

She hesitated. In a measure she was relieved, for she had feared the man at the door might be her husband. But she was greatly agitated and troubled. Everyone in the place was looking at her.

"Nat," she said, trying to speak firmly, "I can't see you now. I'm very busy. Please go away."

"Come!"

"I can't come. Go away. Please!"

"Keziah, I'm waitin'. And I'm goin' to wait if I stay here all night. Come!"

She obeyed then. She could not have a scene there, before all these strangers. She stepped past him into the little room. He followed and closed the door.

"Nat," she said, turning to him, "why did you come? How could you be so cruel? I——"

He interrupted her, but not with words. The next moment his arms were about her and she was pressed tight against the breast of his blue jacket.

"Keziah," he whispered, "I've come to take you home. Home for good. No, stay where you are and I'll tell you all about it. Praise be to God! we're off the rocks at last. All that's left is to tow you into port, and, by the everlastin', that's what I'm here for!"

When Upham came up the stairs after his long interview with "the boss," he found the door at the top closed. When he rattled the latch that door was opened by a stranger.

"Are you Mr .Hallett?" asked Captain Nat briskly.

"No, I'm not. Mr. Hallett is in his office on the first floor. But what——"

"On the main deck, hey? Well, all right; we won't trouble him. You'll do just as well; I judge you're one of the mates of this craft. You tell Mr. Hallett that this lady here has decided not to cruise with him any longer. No fault to find, you understand, but she's got a better berth. She's goin' to ship along with me. Ain't that so, Keziah?"

Keziah, pale, trembling, scarcely realizing the situation even yet, did not speak. But Captain Nat Hammond seemed to find his answer in her silence. A few minutes later, her arm in his, they descended the gloomy stairs, and emerged into the sunshine together.

That afternoon Mr. Abner Stone again "washed his hands" of his poor relation—this time, as he indignantly declared, "for good and all."

CHAPTER XXI.

In Which Keziah's Parson Preaches Once More.

Time has wrought many changes in Trumet. The packet long since ceased to ply between the village and Boston, the stage has been superseded by the locomotive, the old "square-riggers," commanded by Cape Cod men, no longer sail the seas. Along the main road the houses have changed hands. Didama Rogers peers no more from her parlor window; that parlor is now profaned by the frivolous and irreverent summer boarder. But the old residents love to talk of the days that are gone and if you happen to catch Mr. Isaac Higgins, now postmaster and a dignified member of the board of selectmen, in a reminiscent mood he will very likely tell you of the meeting of the parish committee called by its chairman, Elkanah Daniels, to oust Rev. John Ellery from the pulpit of the Regular church.

"I'll never forget," says Mr. Higgins, "that parish committee meetin' if I live a thousand years. I, and two or three other young shavers, was hid in the little room off the vestry—the room where they kept the dishes they used for church suppers—and we heard the whole business. Of course nobody knew that Nat was goin' to marry Keziah then, but they did know that he wa'n't goin' to marry Grace Van Horne, and had given her up to the minister of his own accord. So Daniels's guns were spiked and he didn't have no chance at all. However, you'd never have guessed it to look at him. He marched into that meetin' and up to the platform as stiff and dignified as if he'd swallered a peck of starch. He called the meetin' to order—'twas a full one, for all hands and the cook was there—and then got up to speak.

"He opened fire right off. He raked John Ellery fore and aft. The parson, he said, had disgraced the society and his sacred profession and should be hove overboard immediate.

"Three or four sung out 'Question' and 'Vote.' But Elkanah held up his hand.

"'Gentlemen,' says he, 'before I ask for the vote I want to say just one word. I've worshiped in this meetin' house ever sence I was a child. I was christened in it; my father worshiped here afore me; I've presided over the meetin's of this body for years. But I tell you now that if you vote to keep that rascally hypocrite in your pulpit I shall resign from the committee and from the society. It'll be like cuttin' off my right hand, but I shall do it. Are you ready for the vote? Those in favor of retaining the present minister of this parish will rise. Those opposed will remain seated."

"Every man on the floor stood up. Daniels himself was the only one that stayed settin' down.

"'It is a vote,' says he, white as a sheet, and his voice trembling. 'Gentlemen, I bid you good day.'

"He took up his hat and cane, give one look around the vestry, as if he were sayin' good-by to it, and marched down the aisle as straight and starchy as he'd come into it. Only, when he reached the door, he put up one hand as if he was steadyin' himself. There was precious few in that vestry that liked Elkanah Daniels, but I'm bettin' high there wa'n't a one who didn't feel sorry for him then."

"Keziah," He Whispered, "I've Come to Take You Home."

Captain Daniels and his daughter moved to Boston that summer. They never came back to Trumet to live. Annabel remained single until after her father's death; then she married a man very much younger and poorer than she was. It was remarked by acquaintances of the couple that the difference in age became less and less apparent as their married life continued.

On a Sunday morning, a few weeks after the committee meeting, the Regular church was crowded. John Ellery was to preach his first sermon since the San Jose came ashore. Every member of the congregation was present. Even Mrs. Prince, feeble but garrulous, was there. Gaius Winslow, having delivered his brood of children at the church door, made a special trip in his carryall to fetch the old lady. Captain Zebedee and Mrs. Mayo beamed from their pew. Dr. Parker and his wife smiled at them across the aisle. Didama Roger's new bonnet was a work of art and her neck threatened to twist itself off as she turned to see each one who came in.

Lavinia Pepper sailed to the front. She was dressed in a new black alpaca which rustled so very much like silk that nearsighted people might have been deceived by it. With her was a man, apparently suffering from strangulation because of the height and tightness of his collar. "It's Caleb Pratt, from Sandwich," whispered Didama. "Thankful Payne's relation, you know. Have you heard what folks are sayin'? I guess it's true, because — Look at Kyan! you'd think he was goin' to his own funeral.

There was a stir at the door. All heads swung in that direction—all but Mr. Pepper's, that is. The minister and Grace were coming up the aisle and behind them came Captain Nat Hammond and Keziah Coffin. Nat was smiling and self-possessed. Never before in his life had he entered the Regular meeting house as a worshiper, but he seemed to be bearing the ordeal bravely. It was Grace's first visit to the church, also, and she was plainly embarrassed. To be stared at by eighty-odd pairs of eyes, and to catch whispered comments from the starers' tongues, is likely to embarrass one.

Yet the comments were all friendly.

"I declare!" whispered Mrs. Prince, "I never see her look so pretty afore. I knew she was the best lookin' girl in this town, but I never realized she was such a beauty. Well, there's one thing sartin'—we've got the handsomest parson and parson's wife in this county, by about ten mile and four rows of apple trees. And there's the other bride that's goin' to be. I never see Keziah look so well neither."

The minister went up the stairs to the pulpit. He was still white and thin, but his eyes were bright and his voice clear. He gave the opening hymn and the service began.

They said it was the finest sermon ever preached in that church, and perhaps it was. When it was over before the benediction was pronounced, Ellery stepped out from behind the pulpit to the edge of the platform. He looked over the friendly faces upturned to his and, for an instant, it seemed that he could not trust himself to speak.

"My friends," he said, "I cannot let you go without a personal word. I owe you so much, all of you, that nothing I can say will convey to you my feeling of gratitude and love for this congregation and this church. You have stood by me all through. You trusted me and believed in me. I came to Trumet a stranger. I have found here the truest friends a man could hope to find—yes, and more than friends. If I live, and while I live, I shall hope to prove by the best effort that is in me my realization of the great debt I owe you and my desire to repay it, even though the payment must, of necessity, be so inadequate. God bless you all—and thank you."

There was much hand shaking and congratulation and the church emptied slowly. Among the last to leave were the Peppers and Mr. Pratt. Lavinia took the minister aside.

"Mr. Ellery," she simpered, "I've—that is, Caleb and me—will prob'ly want you to— That is, we want you to be the one——"

"Yes, Miss Pepper?"

"Oh, my sakes, you see— 'Bishy dear, come here a minute, won't you?"

Kyan approached—the picture of desolation.

"What do you want?" he asked gruffly.

"Heavens to Betsy! Don't look so sour. A body'd think you was goin' to be hung, to look at you. 'Bishy, you tell Mr. Ellery all about it, there's a dear. He'll tell you, Mr. Ellery; and remember we count on you. Neither me nor Caleb won't have nobody else."

She seized Mr. Pratt by the arm and led him hastily away. Kyan looked after them.

"Hung?" he muttered. "I wish, by godfreys mighty, I had the hangin' of some folks! I'd put a tighter collar on 'em than they've got now, I bet you!"

The minister's lips twitched. He knew what was coming. Hints of a surprising nature had been circulating about Trumet.

"What's the matter, Mr. Pepper?" he asked.

"Matter? Matter enough! You know what she's goin' to do? She's goin' to marry that!"

The last word was emphasized by a furious gesticulation toward the back of the gentleman from Sandwich.

"Who? Mr. Pratt? Is your sister to marry him? Indeed! I congratulate them both—and you. I suppose Mr. Pratt will take his bride home to Sandwich, and you, being here alone, will be more free."

"Free?" Kyan repeated the word wrathfully. "Free! I'll be about as free as a settin' hen under a barrel, I will. Is a feller free when he's got two pickin' at him instead of one? I thought I was goin' to have a little peace and comfort; I thought that same as you, Mr. Ellery. I've had my suspicions as to her and him for some time. That day when I cal'lated I'd locked her up and come back to find she's gone buggy ridin', I thought 'twas queer. When she went to conference and left me alone I smelt a rat. When she took to letter writin' the smell got stronger; until the last few weeks I've been sartin of the game she was up to. When Laviny come to me and told me what she was goin' to do, was I obstinate? Did I stand on my rights as head of the family and tell her she couldn't do it? No, sir-ee, I didn't! I was resigned. 'Bless you, Laviny,' says I. 'When you goin' to go away?' And what do you s'pose she says to me? Why, that she wa'n't goin' away at all. That—that Pratt thing has sold out his shoe store up to Sandwich and is comin' here to live. Comin' to live at our house, mind you, with her and me! 'Twill be so nice for you, 'Bishy dear,' she says, 'to have a man in the house to keep you comp'ny and look out for you when I ain't round.' Godfreys mighty!"

This portion of Kyan's disclosure was surprising, if the announcement of his sister's engagement was not.

"Mr. Pratt is coming to Trumet?" the minister repeated. "What for? What is he going to do here.

"Keep shoe store, I s'pose likely. Laviny says there's a good openin' for one in this town. However, he and Laviny ain't got any mortgage on the marryin' business. Other folks can do it as well as them. What do you think of Hannah Poundberry?"

"What do I think of her? What do you mean?"

He turned away and moved sulkily toward his beckoning sister and her escort; but wheeled once more to add, in a mysterious whisper, "Don't you forget now, Mr. Ellery. Remember that question I put to you: 'What do you think of'—Yes, yes, Laviny, I hear you!—of you know who?'"

That evening, at the parsonage, Keziah was clearing the table and Captain Nat was helping her. A happy party of four had enjoyed the meal, John and Mrs. Coffin acting as hosts and Grace and the captain being the invited guests. Now the younger couple had gone over to the church, the bell of which was ringing for evening service.

"She's Goin' to Marry That!"

"Hurry up, Keziah," urged Nat. "If you and me don't get decks cleared pretty soon we'll be late for meetin', and I'd hate to do that, considerin' I'm such a brand-new disciple, as you might say."

He walked to the back door of the kitchen, threw it open, and stood looking out.

"Keziah," he said, "come here a minute."

She came from the dining room and stood at his side. He put an arm about her.

"Look off there," he said, pointing with his free hand. "See that?"

The sun was just setting and all the west was gorgeous with crimson and purple and yellow. The bay was spangled with fire, the high sand bluffs along the shore looked like broken golden ingots. They were to be married in another month. It would be a double wedding, for Grace and the minister were to be married at the same time. Then Nat and his wife were to go to New York, where a new ship, just out of the builders' hands, was to be ready for him. She was a fine one, this successor to the Sea Mist. She had been building for more than a year and when Captain Hammond returned, safe and sound, and with their money in his possession, the owners decided at once that he should command the addition to their fleet. She was to sail for Liverpool and Keziah was to be a passenger.

"I can't hardly wait to get to sea," went on Nat. "Think of it! No more lonesome meals in the cabin, thinkin' about you and about home. No, sir! you and home'll be right aboard with me. Think of the fun we'll have in the foreign ports. I ain't rich enough to give you what you deserve, nowhere near; but I'll work hard and do my best, my girl—you see."

Keziah was looking out over the bay, her eyes brighter than the sunset. Now she turned to look up into his face.

"Rich!" she repeated, with a little catch in her voice. "Rich! there never was a woman in this world so rich as I am this minute. Or so happy, either."

THE END.

COULDN'T SIT COULDN'T STAND

But Now Rides Horseback, Walks Two Miles Without Tiring, and Has Red, Rosy Cheeks.

Tullahoma, Tenn.—"I am ever ready to praise Cardui, the woman's tonic," writes Mrs. Mary Carroll, of this place, "as it has done wonders for me.

I suffered so from womanly trouble, I could not stand on my feet long enough at a time to do anything, and I could not even sit down, I was in such misery. The pains in my head were terrible.

After taking only two bottles of Cardui, the woman's tonic, I felt much relieved.

I have now taken five bottles, and feel like my old self again. I can go where I please, ride horse-back, and even walk as much as two miles, without feeling tired, and I don't have those terrible pains in my head any more.

I look young again, and have red, rosy cheeks, like I had in my girlhood days.

Now I weigh 127 pounds.

I want you to use this letter in any way you see fit, as it may be the means of helping other suffering women."

Do you suffer from womanly trouble? Wouldn't you like to feel as Mrs. Carroll does? It's worth trying for.

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic.

MORE THAN EVER
Increased Capacity for Mental Labor Since Leaving Off Coffee.

Many former coffee drinkers who have mental work to perform, day after day, have found a better capacity and greater endurance by using Postum instead of coffee. An Ills. Woman writes:

"I had drank coffee for about twenty years, and finally had what the doctor called 'coffee heart.' I was nervous and extremely despondent; had little mental or physical strength left, had kidney trouble and constipation.

"The first noticeable benefit derived from the change from coffee to Postum was the natural action of the kidneys and bowels. In two weeks my heart action was greatly improved and my nerves steady.

"Then I became less despondent, and the desire to be active again showed proof of renewed physical and mental strength.

"I am steadily gaining in physical strength and brain power. I formerly did mental work and had to give it up on account of coffee, but since using Postum I am doing hard mental labor with less fatigue than ever before."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in new concentrated form called Instant Postum. It is regular Postum, so processed at the factory that only the soluble portions are retained.

A spoonful of Instant Postum with hot water, and sugar and cream to taste, produce instantly a delicious beverage.

The next morning, at the breakfast table, Sam appeared, and with solemn dignity returned the clock to his mistress, saying: "Me no likey; him wake me up!"—Sallie Bader, West Virginia.

BACK YARD FARMER

Interesting Pointers on Gardening for the City Man or Suburbanite.

WHAT TO PLANT AND WHEN

Advice by an Expert on Agricultural Matters—Window Boxes and Hanging Baskets—Eradicating Weeds —Beautifying the Yard.

By PROF. JOHN WILLARD BOLTE.

A comparatively small number of the people in our large cities have the ground available for a vegetable garden. A much larger number have some little plot that will raise flowers, but the flat dweller has nothing of the kind.

This does not indicate that flat dwellers may not have flowers in summer, however, as they can always have them in window boxes and frequently in porch boxes and hanging baskets.

Flowers of many kinds and hues will grow to fullest perfection in boxes of various kinds and all they need is sunshine and a little careful attention. They constitute the chief joy of the summer season and no one should be without them from May until frost time.

Almost any sort of a box will do so long as it is deep enough for the roots to hold the earth. An excelelnt window box can be made of three-quarter-inch lumber, one foot deep and one foot wide, the length being regulater, of course, to the size of the opening in which the box is to fit. The width of the window or porch box is immaterial, but the depth should not be less than ten to twelve inches. Bore a few three-quarter-inch holes in the bottom to allow for drainage and fasten the box firmly in place, as it will weigh a great deal after being filled.

Fill it with rich greenhouse or garden earth, having mixed in a quantity of well-rotted manure. Some fine wood ashes will assist the blossoms wonderfully, but coal ashes are a detriment. Have the earth fine and mellow and plant the flowers as soon after filling the box as possible.

The quickest and most satisfactory way to stock these boxes is to buy potted plants from the florist and transplant them. They are more sturdy than plants grown from seed in the boxes and they bloom much earlier. The cost is prohibitive in many cases, however, and almost any annual flowers will grow from seed in such boxes. Where the amount of sunshine is limited it is almost necessary to put in plants instead of weeds.

Geraniums are probably the most satisfactory flowering plants for the formal window box, and they are very widely used. Foliage plants are excellent and withstand the hot afternoon sun better than flowering plants. Ferns do well in shaded locations.

Small plants of English Ivy, Wandering Jew and many of the smaller vines are useful for draping effects and we have seen some of the larger growing anunal vines, such as Wild Cucumber, Scarlet Runner Beans and Morning Glory, used in window boxes with excellent results, the long, graceful vines, either climbing in the usual way or trailing down over the side of the box.

Hanging baskets, either fern balls, moss baskets, or boxes, can be hung in any sheltered location, and they are very satisfactory. We recommend the use of self-watering hanging baskets, as the ordinary hanging device is inconvenient to handle and it must be watered constantly.

Remember that success with boxes demands lots of water every day, three times as much as you would give the same plants in a bed.

Weeds.

Weeds have been aptly defined as plants out of their proper place. Thus, Kentucky blue grass is a treasure in the lawn and a weed in the adjacent corn field. We are all more or less familiar with what we generally call weeds—dandelion, pusley, quack grass, thistles, burdock, pigweed, mullein, milkweed, and many others, because these plants are always out of place, as far as the ordinary back yard farmer is concerned.

They are easily controlled in the flower beds, because these beds are usually small in size, the soil is loose and the weeds pull out easily, and if you wait long enough your wife will probably get disgusted and pull them herself.

In the vegetable garden, it is an entirely different proposition, however, Here the weeds start about two laps ahead of the earliest vegetables, having planted themselves the year before in preparation for a flying start. The soil is firm and they anchor themselves for the season in a very determined manner.

If we assail them early, before they are anchored, we can win out, but they never give up the battle and success is the result of constant labor. It's really remarkable, too, how a man grows weaker as the gardening season progresses.

The sun gets hotter, the hoe duller, the weeds more defiant, the soil harder, the mosquitoes start business earlier and stay later, and it is only the thought of previous labor invested that saves most gardens about the Fourth of July.

Under such discouraging conditions it behooves us to study the habits of our garden weeds and attack them in the most effective manner.

After plowing and pulverizing the ground, plant the early crops and let the weeds get a good start on the rest of the patch. Cut every one off below the ground with a sharp hoe, just before planting later crops. As soon as they start again cut they off again. Those that grow from perennial root stock, like the dandelion, should be pulled up.

When the vegetables come up, keep the earth between the rows hoed at all times, going over the garden after each rain to break up the earth's crust and hold the moisture in the ground. Never let the weeds get the start on you and it will not take half as much work to handle your garden this year.

Why should we keep the weeds out of the garden? Principally because they steal water from the vegetables, and water is the very life blood of plants. Secondly, the weeds are all very hearty feeders and every one in your garden is using up a considerable proportion of the available plant food.

Remember that hoeing is good for both the garden and you, the more hoeing the better, and a wheel hoe or hand cultivator is about the best tool that ever was made, especially in July.

Essentials of Beautiful Yard.

Every home should be surrounded by a beautiful and artistic yard. Almost all of us appreciate this fact, and it will not bear argument, but there is considerable divergence of opinion as to what can be done to make the yard beautiful.

In order to assist our readers to secure the most gratifying results possible, we will try to outline the essential features to be borne in mind when planning landscape gardening at home.

The one most important feature in planting operations is harmony. This is the keynote of all beautiful scenes. It does not mean that we may not employ contrasting colors and forms, but that these features give a pleasing general effect.

If your house is of any particular architectural style, let the shape of your walks, roadway, flower beds, shrubs and trees be of such a character as to carry out the lines and spirit of the house as far as possible. The formal house should be surrounded by natural things of geometrical patterns —square corners, formal shaped shrubs, straight walks, etc., rather than the graceful forms. The bungalow and the less imposing and rigid type of building must be treated in a decidedly different manner, as its lines are more on the graceful and beautiful order, and the lines of the surrounding grounds should carry out the same idea. Curved lines, even of a rather indefinite character, may be used to advantage. Flowing shapes in the trees and shrubs, profuse vines, beds and banks of wild flowers and related subjects should be adhered to largely.

Do not attempt to mix these two distinct styles of landscape art. Nothing can be more unattractive than a formal square house set in a woodland, unless it be a graceful, unpretentious country home in the midst of an Italian garden.

The house, while it is not really a part of the yard, is still the most important feature of the whole scene, from the standpoint of the person on the outside. This is why we place such special emphasis on the appearance and style of the building.

We take for granted that the importance of the lawn is thoroughly understood. The arrangement of the buildings, walks, roads, and plantings will determine its shape and extent, but it is highly essential that the ground be covered by a smooth, velvety turf, where not otherwise taken up for some specific purpose.

City front yards are usually so small that all we can hope to do with them is to keep them covered with a good lawn. Suburban front yards are much more ample and are covered by the general principles set down for city back yards.

The first care is to join the house to to the ground in a natural and artistic manner. The color of the house has a good deal to do with this, and the rest can be accomplished by a judicious use of flower beds, vines or shrubs near the house.

In planting for the small yard, do not put beds or shrubs in the middle of any stretch of lawn. Keep them either along the walk and roadway, or around the outer edges of the lot. By using taller and more distinctly colored and formal plants close to the house and smaller and less prominent varieties farther away we can secure an appearance of distance in the view from the house, and this is a very important feature in the effect of any landscape picture.

For the small city back yard the house must be ignored to a considerable extent and the planting is largely a question of the gardener's individual taste. Much more effective results will be secured even on the smallest lot, if the few simple rules here given are carefully borne in mind.

There With the "Nerve."

The conversation led to the beauty of having abundant nerve the other evening, when Senator Clapp of Minnesota told of a man who went into a fashionable restaurant, accompanied by a couple of children, and after ordering a lemon soda, asked the waiter to bring him three plates. This, according to Senator Clapp, the waiter did, but when he saw the man take some sandwiches from his pocket, put them on the plates, and pass them around to the kids, he reported the matter to the boss. "What are you doing?" indignantly cried the manager, rushing over to the sandwich party. "Don't you know that this isn't a free picnic ground, where you bring your own food?" "Is that so?" was the calm rejoinder of the man, passing along another sandwich. "Who are you?" "I am the manager," blustered the boss, with rising heat. "I—" "Just the very person that I have been looking for," interjected the imperturbed party. "Why isn't the orchestra playing?"

AWFUL ECZEMA ON FACE

Freeland, Md.—"Baby's eczema started in little spots and would burst and run all over his face and wherever the water would touch his face, it would make another sore. Pimples would break out and make his face sore and inflamed, and he was very cross and fretful. It was awful. He suffered tortures from it, and we had to tie mittens on his hands to keep him from scratching. A friend of mine told me of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I went to a drug store and bought them.

"When we would bathe his face with the Cuticura Soap and apply the Cuticura Ointment, he would be much better. He would wake up in the nights and cry with his face and we would put on some of the Cuticura Ointment and then he would rest all night. They have cured him completely of the eczema." MOVEMENT THAT WAS FATAL

Sitter at a Loss to Understand Why Temporary Absence Should Have Spoiled the Plate.

Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee was talking, at a luncheon in Washington, about tariff revision.

"We must obey the country's mandate," he said. "If we don't, our tariff revision will be disastrous. We'll fail as lamentably as the sitter for the wet-plate photograph.

"When photography first began, you know, they used wet plates, and a sitter required eight or nine minutes. Well, a man once went to be taken, and the photographer put in his wet plate, demanded perfect immobility, and took off the cap.

"During the long exposure, the photographer left the room a moment. On his return everything seemed to be going all right, but when the exposure ended, and he rushed to his closet to develop the wet plate, there was nothing on it but a blur.

"Very much disgusted, he showed this blur to the sitter.

"'You must have moved,' he said.

"The sitter looked at the spoiled plate and laughed in amazement.

"'Well, I declare!' he said. 'Who'd have thought that just running over to the window for a minute to see a drunken man would have done all that? I sat right down again.'"

Even in Death.

Sam Bernard was talking at the Lambs in New York about the recent arrest of some foreign dancers on the score of immodesty.

"Of course these dancers were all right," he said, "and they got off. Their arrest was dictated by prudery. Such prudery reminds me of a hospital I know.

"In the building of this hospital a cold storage chamber for the accommodation of dead bodies was included. One of the hospital doctors, in going through this cold storage chamber, found that a partition divided it in two.

"'What's this partition for?' he

"'Oh, sir,' said the foreman primly, 'that's to keep the sexes apart.'"

May Revive Old Law.

An old, forgotten law, enacted in Kansas at a time of great need and never used, is to be called into action after lying dormant in the statute books more than a third of a century. It is the old "warning out" law, made to fight the grasshoppers after the disastrous raids of the locusts in the early seventies. There never has been a time when it was needed heretofore, but Gov. George H. Hodges has been petitioned to invoke its use in central Kansas to fight the chinch bugs, which threatened to do great damage to growing crops this year.

Over-Night Relief for Constipation

A Small Dose on Retiring and You Are Well and Happy by Morning

Mr. A. B. Danner.

It is only natural that the simplest of ailments should be the most general, and so we have a whole nation suffering from constipation and indigestion, for they are closely allied. But common as constipation is many people do not seem to know they have it. They will complain of headache, drowsiness or biliousness, all unconscious of the cause of the trouble.

You should have a full and free movement at least once a day. If you pass a day you are constipated, and the result will be that you will catch a cold easily or have a more serious ailment. To cure the constipation and forestall still graver trouble take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night before retiring and by morning relief will come, without disturbance from sleep or any inconvenience.

Legions of people use it regularly in such emergencies, some of them formerly chronic invalids who have suffered from constipation all their lives. Mr. A. B. Danner, 326 Riley St., Harrisburg, Pa., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me almost instant relief from stomach and bowel trouble. I now eat anything I want, and sleep well." Many others will tell you that they have tried most things recommended for this purpose but have found Syrup Pepsin the only one always reliable. A bottle can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by families already familiar with its merits.

Syrup Pepsin is mild, pleasant-tasting, and non-griping. Mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is effective in grown-ups. It is for everyone who suffers from any form of stomach, liver or bowel trouble, constipation dyspepsia, biliousness, etc. Its action will so delight you that you will forever avoid harsh cathartics, purgatives, pills and salts.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

To Be Held at Ten Places in the County.

The most thorough Sunday School campaign ever planned by the Alabama Sunday Association was arranged Wednesday, April 23rd, at a conference between General Secretary Palmer of the State Association and E. L. Thornton and Miss Mary Carr Gibson, President and Secretary respectively of the Chilton County Sunday School Association. The conference was held at Verbena and resulted in a plan providing for a nine days campaign with four workers (two from the State Association and two from the County Association) beginning at one corner of the county and sweeping around in a circle, with from two to six meetings in each of the six districts of the county.

In this way every section of the county will be touched, and it is hoped that as nearly as possible every one of the sixty-three Sunday schools of all denominations in the county will be reached and helped.

The campaign will begin on Sunday, May 11th; and close on Monday, May 19th. The widest publicity will be given to the meetings throughout the county, every Sunday school of every denomination invited to attend. The speakers will be Leon C. Palmer, General Secretary, and Miss Myra Batchelder, Field Secretary and Elementary Superintendent, of the Alabama Sunday School Association, of Montgomery, and E. L. Thornton, of Mountain Creek, and Mtss Mary Carr Gibson, of Verbena, President and Secretary respectively of the Chilton County Sunday School Association. The meetings will be held as district Sunday school conventions and the topics discussed will be strictly of a practical nature, designed to help in the actual working of the Sunday school.

New Cedron, Sunday, May 11.
Stanton, Monday, 12th.
Mt. Nebo, Tuesday, 13th.
Mulberry Church, Wednesday, 14th.
Macedonia. Thursday, 15th.
Jemison, Friday, 16th.
Liberty Hill, Saturday, 17th.
Clanton, Sunday, 18th.
Salem, Monday, 19th, morning.
Cooper, Monday, 19th, night.

O'NEAL'S "GAPING RUSTICS."

In time of war when the safety of the nation is threatened or when some world outrage has been committed the call to arms is answered by "The Gaping Rustic."

In time of peace when the nation is threatened only by demagogues at home an appeal is made to—"The Gaping Rustic."

The "Gaping Rustic" raises food for himself, enough to feed the city and raises more for food for the famine stricken districts across the sea is raised by "The Gaping Rustic."

"The Gaping Rustic" is a powerful factor in the onward march of civilization. He feeds the world, he makes empires and republics; when they are distasteful to him he unmakes them.

"The Gaping Rustic" is the guy who put the tear in tyranny for no tyrant, little or big, king, president, governor or mayor of a little town ever bumped into "The Gaping Rustic" in an attempt to fool the people without shedding tears of remorse on the shores of that lonesome country called the land of political oblivion.—Bullock County Breeze.

WRONG KIND OF FARMING

A certain merchant in Florala remarked to us the other day, that last November a farmer brought him a bale of cotton and because the price was not around 15 a pound he let out some of the "grouch" that was in him. A little later in the day this same farmer bought of this same merchant a sack of corn, a side of meat, a peck of Irish potatoes and a gallon of syrup. Do you see the point?—Florala Democ't.

THORSBY DEPARTMENT

The Baptist Ladies Aid and Mission Society of Thorsby held their regular business meeting on Monday afternoon and they decided to have an "Apron Sale on May 17th. This will take the place of the regular social meeting. They will have on sale aprons of all kinds for the ladies and will serve ice-cream, sherbet and cake. Beginning at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at Mrs. M. R. Rasberries' old place of business. Everybody is invited to come. The money raised will be used for the benefit of the Baptist church.

Strawberry picking is all the go in Thorsby now. Up till Monday night there had been fifteen carloads shipped away this year, while that was the amount shipped during the entire season last year. The dry weather is injuring them now, but if it does not hold on too long the crop this year will probably reach twentyfive cars.

A large number of people from Thorsby attended the all-day singings at Collins Chapel and Cedar Grove last Sunday and report a good time and large crowd at each place.

The orchestra concert Saturday night was a success and spoke well for those who compose it.

Alphabet on Pinhead.

While almost incredible, a Portland, Ore., engraver has been able to cut on the head of a common pin every letter of the alphabet, and they are perfectly legible though a strong microscope, and it was only with the aid of such a lens that the work could have been possible. The pin, of the ordinary kind in common use for domestic and office purposes, is owned by Hal Thompson of Washington, D. C.

Profitable Thing.

Senator Pujo said at a dinner in Washington: "It is folly to build casties in the air. My finncial studies have proved conclusively to me that the profitable thing nowadays is to construct companies out of water."

Hoped It Wouldn't Be Mentioned.

Mrs. F. D. Moffett tells of a gallant young physician in Cherryvale who was driving his motor car in the suburbs the other day when he overtook a woman he knew going to town. He stopped his car and invited her to ride. He helped her out at Main street, and she thanked him profusely. "Don't mention it," replied the doctor. "No, I won't," said the woman nervously looking around. "But that woman over there saw us, and I bet she will tell."—Kansas City Star.

Panama Canal Islands.

"Floating islands" are one of the sights to be seen at the Panama canal, as well as in the Sargossa sea. They are large masses of vegetation and loosened from the bottom of Gatun lake by the rising water and blown out on the lake surface by ever-changing winds. One noon the workmen left work for lunch when the lake was blue and clear as the sky. An hour later, when they returned, the surface of Gatun lake was dotted with small green islands. All due to a veer in the wind.

The Tibetan Bible.

The Kah-gyur, or Tibetan Bible, consists of 108 volumes of 1,000 pages each, containing 1,083 separate books. Each of the volumes weighs 10 pounds and forms a package 26 inches long, 8 inches broad and 8 inches deep. This Bible requires a dozen yaks for its transport, and the carved wooden blocks from which it is printed need rows of houses, like a city, for their storage. A tribe of Mongols paid 7,000 oxen for a copy of this Bible. In addition to the Bible there are 225 volumes of commentaries which are necessary for its understanding. There is also a large collection of revelations which supplement the Bible.

Truthful Police Aid.

The youngest informer in the history of the St. Louis (Mo.) police department was revealed when Stella Schwartz, seven years old, told the police that her sweetheart, Roy Chester, eight years old, had stolen more than $1,000 from a neighbor. She said Roy crawled through a window of the home of Joseph Toniszkleivic and stole $800 in money hidden in a can, a gold watch valued at $20 and $240 in notes. Roy admits that until recently he was Stella's "sweetheart," but says that they quarreled, and he does not "care for her any more."

In Doubt as to Which Kind.

A freshman came home from high school the other day and told her mother she was discouraged. The mother asked her the cause. "Well," she replied, "I will have to go three more years before I will be in the senior class, and it really doesn't seem worth the trouble. This morning in a spelling contest the teacher asked a senior boy to spell 'pneumonia,' and he stood up and looked about the room a bit uncertainly and then said: 'Do you mean the liquid or the disease?'"

What

a great improvement would be made in the condition of horses and other animals if just the proper remedy were used when they became ill or injured. If your horse could talk he would ask you not to use any external remedy containing alcohol because it stings and tortures his flesh terribly. Some liniments have alcohol and other fiery ingredients which only inflame the skin and tissue without striking down to where the pain lies. Beware of such liniments. The great humane, quick-action remedy is MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT. Made of oils, without a drop of alcohol or other torturing element, it soaks straight to the bone and muscle. It soothes the wounded parts and is comforting while the healing work is progressing. Mexican Mustang Liniment is what you want because it your work lighter, saves your livestock from suffering and keeps them in good trim for work. For all forms of Lameness, Strains, Bruises, Cuts, Burns, Galls and Harness Sores in animals, it is safe and prompt and does not promise what it cannot perform. Mustang Liniment has been doing its wonderful healing work for 65 years. The amount of money it has saved livestock owners is incalculable. One man writes that he was about to kill his valuable horse because badly injured but Mustang Liniment made him well again. A Veterinary tells us he has used Mustang Liniment fifteen years and found it best liniment for cuts, strains, etc. And many others are enthusiastic friends of this tried and true remedy. Now you know just what makes

SUNDAY SCHOOL CAMPAIGN.

The Chilton County Sunday School Campaign, organized jointly by the Chilton County Sunday School Association, was opened Sunday with an all day District Convention at New Cedron Church. All four of the speakers, E. L. Thornton, and Miss Mary Carr Gibson, President and Secretary; respectively of the county work, and Leon C. Palmer and Miss Myra Batchelder, General and Field Secretary, respectively of the State Association, were on hand at the opening session.

A brief preparation service was held in the morning, at which Miss Batchelder spoke on "The needs of the County Sunday School," and Mr. Palmer on "The opportunities of the Sunday School Teacher."

In the afternoon a house crowded to overflowing greeted the speakers. Delegates had come from the other Sunday Schools in the Billingsley District and more people were present than could get seats in the church. A song service was held by W. J. Billingsley, after which Mr. Thornton, Miss Batchelder and Mr. Palmer carried out the program of the meeting. A "District Banner School Chart" was prepared to show the standing of each Sunday School in the district and reports were received from the delegates present.

At night a local attendance alone nearly filled the church. Miss Batchelder spoke on "The Trained Teacher," showing by means of an acrostic on the word "Trained," the seven qualifications of an efficient teacher. Miss Gibson spoke briefly on "The Gold Star County." Mr. Palmer discussed "The Organized Sunday School work," showing that the State and County Sunday School Association stood for denominational loyalty and promoted Sunday School efficiency.

THE INTEREST GROWING.

Monday was spent at Stanton, holding meetings both afternoon and night. In spite of the unfavorable time, Monday being a poor day for institute work, the attendance was large and the interest shown was gratifying. A majority of all the Sundayschools id the district were represented. In the afternoon three members of the four party spoke. Miss Bachelder spoke on "Improving the Sundayschool," Mr. Thornton on "Religion in the Home," and Mr. Palmer on "Practical Plans for the Small Sundayschool." At night Miss Batchelder spoke on "Teacher Training," Miss Gibson on "Sundayschool Work in Chilton County," and Mr. Palmer on "The Big Boy Problem."

The meetings which have been held every day this week at different points in the county, will be continued at Jemison, Friday 16th, Liberty Hill, Saturday 17th, Clanton, Sunday 18th, Salem, morning, Monday 19th and Cooper, evening, Monday 19th.

NOTICE TO SEVENTH GRADE PUPILS.

We have made arrangements to give a Seventh Grade Examination, such as is given in other counties in this State, at Thorsby Institute on Thursday, May 29. Students who pass this examination will be ready for admission to any County High School. The questions that will be used will be those that are used this year in some other counties in the State. If you would like to find out about the examination, write to S. H. Herbert, Principal, Thorsby, Ala.

IN MEMORY.

On Tuesday evening at about 6 o'clock, May the 6th, the white angel of death visited the home of Mr. J. M. Burnett and wafted his gentle spirit to the great beyond. He was sick only ten days with malarial fever. His sufferings were great. All that willing hands and a kind physician could do was done but the Lord wanted him to come higher. Mr. Burnett was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church and had been for ten years and he was always faithful to his church and to his Sunday school. He was a good Sunday school and church worker. Mr. Burnett leaves a widow, 3 children, father, 2 brothers, 1 sister and a host of relatives and friends to mourn the loss of a good man.

O, how we will miss that sweet smiling face at Sunday school, at church, at home and everywhere we go, but remember the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord.

He was laid to rest in Cane Creek cemetery, Wednesday, to await the resurrection morn. Rev. W. P. Lowery conducted the funeral service. There was a large crowd of people to bid Mr. Burnett a farewell.

AND LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

WEST CHILTON.

Farmers generally up with their work. Weather dry.

Mr. W. M. Wisdom of the People's Pulpit Association, Brooklyn, N. Y., will lecture here on a Bible subject May 28. He will probably arrive about 1 p. m. from South Alabama, will probably talk that afternoon and night. Those lecturers claim that a great dispensational change is now on and their work is to get the church ready.

People spent several days last week working at the new Union church.

The writer attended the singing at Center Hill Sunday. A large crowd was there, also several leaders. The singing was good, dinner was fine and nice and nice order.

The recent singing at Oak Grove was good, the community provided a rich and bountful dinner, it was a good day.

The spirit of sacred song in the old books is awake in the northern part of the county, they will organize a society soon that will meet in different communities. The work of sacred song is not only good for church work but it is good for those aged ones who yet linger on this side of the river. They know they are right close up against the chilly wave, they live in the past, so cheer them along the way. Some of them remember Terry, Walker, Holloway and King, and even White and Reese of the long ago are remembered by at least one aged singer in our county.

Our local class will bear in mind to meet next Sunday afternoon at the usual hour for singing. Bring books.

West Chiltonite.

SALEM.

The Thirteenth Session of the Annual May Singing at Salem Baptist church will meet on the Fourth Sunday, May 25th, 1913. All lovers of music are cordially invited to come and bring their song books and baskets well filled with dinner. Song books to be used New Lyrics of Praise and Songs and Hymns.

A VISIT TO THE SINGING CONVENTION.

Ensley, Ala., May 10; '13.

Editor Union-Banner:—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to the Singing Convention held at Cedar Grove church Sunday, May 5th. In company with twenty members of the Birmingham Sacred Harp Singing Class we boarded the L. & N. train at 6:20 and arrived at Thorsby about 8:30 and there found conveyances waiting which carried us to the church. There we met with the Chilton County Singing Convention No. Three and spent the day in singing the grand old songs of the Harp and Harmony. The singing was a grand success and was enjoyed by a very large attendance. The music was grand and the people of the community did all that could be done for the occasion, and at noon, oh my! it was grand to see such a bountiful dinner spread before such a large crowd and every body supplied with plenty, and it seemed as though there was enough to feed another such a crowd. But such is the history of the good people of Cedar Grove community. The people who came down with me from Birmingham and myself thank the people of Cedar Grove and community for their kind hospitality to us while with them on that day: we extend to them a cordial welcome to attend our singings in Birmingham which are held somewhere in the city almost every Sunday.

From Cedar Grove I went to my old home at Lomax and there to my sorrow and surprise found that the postoffice had been moved out and changed into something like a lot of tin boxes sticking out on the side of the road on a post. I did not make any enquiry into the matter but supposed these boxes belonged to private individuals and each individual his own postmaster. Now I must say that this does not look like a move made by progressive people. A place that has had the accommodation of two to four mails daily for forty years and step backward to such conditions. A progressive people holds to every inch of progress made and co-operates on all lines of progress.

With best wishes for the Union-Banner and its many Progressive readers,

I am for the Progressive way,
A. A. JACKSON.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Sunday school at 9:30 and preaching at 11 a.m. here next Sunday, by Rev. Nelson. Our Sunday school is good at present.

We have some sickness in the community now, hope that they all will be better soon.

Mr. W. A. Dozier and family spent last Sunday at Mr. A. D Duke's.

Mrs. Lee Vickers and little son, Wallace have returned from a visit in Coosa county.

Dr. Willis Massey of Birmingham is visiting his brother, G. H. Massey this week.

Mrs. A. D. Duke has returned from a visit to relatives and friends at Weogufka.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harris from near Randolph were recently visitors at Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Sims.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Dupriest visited relatives and friends at Marble Valley last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Duke spent Saturday and Sunday with Rev. B. H. Vickers near Liberty Hill.

Those old soldiers that are going to have to tell why that they are drawing a little pension just every now and then, will have to walk the chalk line with the bosses for they need some more money since the Lacy trouble.

I have always heard that anything that was free was not any good so I guess that is so, for that newspaper that was free to all that would take it out of their mail boxes has been advertised for sale to pay debts. I don't care for the mail carrier last year and postmaster telling the democrats who that I am for it is just me.

Let's all of us get our friends to take the Union - Banner that are not already taking it. I want to see a good correspondent to the Union - Banner from every schoolhouse in the county.

When the baby takes too much food the stomach turns; the result is indigestion, sourness and vomiting. Frequently the bowels are involved and there is colic pains and diarrhoea. McGEE'S BABY ELIXIR is a grand corrective remedy for the stomach and bowel disorders of babies. It is pure, wholesome and pleasant to take. Price 25c and 50c per battle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

JACKSONS CHAPEL.

The general health of this community is good. Miss Mary Parker is on the sick list this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Traywick and sister Miss Julie and Mrs. Red spent Saturday night and Sunday at Mr. Jack Parkers.

Preaching at Jacksons Chapel was enjoyed by all. Mr. W. C. Jones got up and looked over the congregation and said the singers had not come, and we would like to know who the singers are in the next paper.

The box supper was just fine.

PROVIDENCE.

It gives me great pleasure this beautiful morning to write a short letter from our community again, and indeed glad to say that our Ladies Ald, our Sundayschool and singings, and in fact our community in most every respect, is Blooming.

There was communion and footwashing here last Saturday as has been the custom for many years, and also preaching on Sunday.

There will be singing here on next Sunday aiternoon, May 18.

Messrs. Armstrong, Houlditch and Lowery will be with us to conduct singing.

Glad to see the erection of a new house at the Duncan farm. Mr. York is residing there.

At the meeting of our Ladies Aid held May 12, most every member was present and all seemed to enjoy themselves tho' sorry to state that our Sec-Treas. was sick and could not be present. At this meeting it was agreed that Mr. Mattheney a well known gentleman of our community be employed to repair and paint our church. It was also decided to give a box supper at Mr. W. A. Sims, Thursday night, May 22.

The Ladies Aid.

PATES CHAPEL.

There will be a box supper at Pates Chapel Schoolhouse Saturday night, May 17th. Everybody invited to come and bring a box.

Just One.

CROSS ROADS.

There will be an entertainment at Cross Roads, 1½ miles south of Thorsby on Saturday night, May 17 Admission 10c. The collection will go for the benefit of the school building.

A MEMBER OF THE CLUB

MOUNTAIN CREEK.

Chilton county will not need immigration if all the married couples would follow the lead of Mr. and Mrs. D. Norris who live near here. In a day less than a year they have become the proud parents of four fine children—two pair of twins. All doing well.

FALAKTO.

The health of this community is fairly good with the exception of a few cases of heart trouble.

Mr. W. C. Driver and daughter visited Mr. and Mrs. Ed Giles Saturday, also Misses Leona Wilson and Essie Mims.

The singing at Ed Giles Saturday night was fine. There was a large crowd and all enjoyed themselves. The organists for the eveuing were Mrs. Gilns and Miss Roberta Driver. The recitation rendered by Prof. O. H. McDowell was fine. Mr. and Mrs. Giles appreciate highly the young people coming to sing with them.

One Who Was There.

LIFE IN THE NAVY.

Thursday 17th. At 8 a. m. got underway and anchored in the roads at 9:30, when liberty was granted and many had occasion to step upon terra firma for the first time since our departure from Boston. That was my second liberty in Norfolk since July, 1910, and it was highly appreciated too, for Norfolk was where I had my first four months naval training.

Friday 18th. Liberty party returned. Lt. C. B. Matthews in charge of 18 marines ordered to Winthrop, Md., to hold small arms target practice. Got under way at 2:30 p. m. and anchored in Tangier Bay at 5:30 p. m. It was expected that the Rhode Island would return to Boston about the 20th, but we had instructions to assist other ships that had not fired, and probably we will touch in around Boston about the 8th or 10th of May.

Saturday 19th. We fired 12 torpedo runs, all of which were successful. About midnight all the engineer's force were called out to go below and light up four extra boilers as we had some bad weather and our anchor dragged the bottom until we were in danger of striking the Delaware anchored some 400 yards away. It got calm towards morning.

Sunday 20th. Everybody rested up after a weeks continuous work. Read mail, etc.

Monday 21. Fair and pleasant. Quarters for muster at 9:15 a. m. Exercised at abandon ship drill, fired one torpedo from each tube, received mail from the Patuxent. At 1:15 p. m. held quarters for bag inspection. Nearly everybody had to draw clothing, so as to have a complete regulation outfit. Believe me, that's what digs into our month's pay, this having to draw so many regulation clothes. We are feeling a little blue over it as we are expected to go to New York for general liberty and, of course that requires lots of cash. I consider myself lucky, I had to draw the sum of 33c (a regulation watch cap) so old New York looks good to me.

Tuesday 22d. Got underway at 5:35 a. m. in obedience to signal from the S. O. P., and stood out towards southern drill grounds; speed 15 knots; passed tail of the Horseshoe light ship at 7:25 a. m. Umpire from the Delaware reported on board for torpedo tests. Fired one torpedo from each tube at the Delaware. The Delaware fired several torpedos at this ship during the afternoon. We anchored in Hampton Roads at 7:20 p. m. Liberty party went ashore at 8 p. m.

Wednesday 23. Quarters at 9:15, exercised at fire and colision drill and abandon ship, etc.

Thursday 24th. (The dirty day.) Commenced coaling ship at 6:30 a. m., finished coaling at 4 p. m., having put on board 1293 tons of black diamonds. Liberty party left the ship at 6:30 p. m.

From the 26th to the 30th was carried out in exercising in all kinds of drills, such as colision and fire, abandon ship and general quarters. And at the same time general liberty was granted from 4 p. m. until 8 the following morning.

April 1st. Got under way at 7 a. m. for the Southern drill grounds to tow targets for the Virginia and Nebraska and New Hampshire while they fire, as they have just arrived from the Mexican waters. We will probably sail late this afternoon or early tomorrow for Newport, R. I.

Well, I think this is all of any interest, and I think it will give you a slight idea of what a battle practice is. Now, who says the farm is not better? As this letter is beginning to grow long and I will pretty soon have to go to chow and then to the fire room for four hours of good muscle exercise.

Through the Union-Banner I will send my best regards to those who read it. I will remain as ever, yours,

J. C. WAGONER.

A man living at Auburn, New York, had a severe attack of kidney and bladder trouble. Being a working man, not wanting to lose time, he cured himself completely by using Foley Kidney Pills. A year later he says: "It is a pleasure to report that the cure was permanent." His name is J. A. Farmer. Upchurch Drug Co.

COATED TONGUE MEANS LAZY LIVER

A Lazy Liver Needs a Dose of Dodson's Liver Tone—Guaranteed to Take Place of Calomel.

When your doctor looks to see if your tongue is coated, he is trying to find out if your liver is working properly. A few years ago doctors had to prescribe calomel—there was nothing else to give.

Recently in many sections of the country Dodson's Liver Tone has practically taken the place of calomel as a liver remedy. Dodson's Liver Tone is mild, pleasant tasting and harmless—which makes it a fine medicine for use when your children become bilious and constipated. But the most remarkable feature of Dodson's Liver Tone is the fact that Alred Drug Co., who sell it, guarantees it absolutely. The druggist will return your money without argument if a bottle fails to give entire satisfaction.

Price, 50 cents. We suggest that you get a bottle today and have it ready for the next member of your family whose liver goes wrong. Alred Drug Co.

Dizziness, vertigo, (blind staggers) sallow complexion, flatulence are symptoms of a torpid liver. No one can feel well while the liver is inactive. HERBINE is a powerful liver stimulant. A dose or two will cause all bilious symptoms to disappear. Try it. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

THE CONSOLATION OF HOPE.

Beneath the slab our loved one lies,
There is a vacant place in our home
My dear sweet sister is gone,
Her rosy cheek has faded away
Her precious sweet voice is still.
She now lies in the silent grave
Mouldering and cold as clay.
Oh, God, how sad to say
Our loved one has gone away,
Never, never to return.
Never will I see her sweet smiles again
'Till we reach that happy golden shore
Where the angels part no more.
Then what a joyful meeting it will be
To meet just beyond the sea.
In my imagination
I can see her bright eyes sparkle
Like a diamond in the sky;
Can hear her voice as meek and mild as a lamb,
Can hear the noise of her wings
Hovering around the throne of God.
Can see her angel face,
Can hear her footsteps soft and low.
I feel that she is at the beautiful gate,
Waiting and watching for me.
Teach me to feel other's woe,
To hide the fault I see.
That mercy I to others show,
That mercy show to me.
It is sad indeed to give up our loved ones in death,
But it is God's will and His will must be done.
Let us then be up and doing
With a heart for any fate,
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait.

Written by Mrs. W. H. Burns.

The spring months often find a woman tired out, with pain in back, hips and head, nervous and sleepless. Foley Kidney Pills will quickly prove their worth and value as a healer of all kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

A CONDENSED RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

SEVEN DAYS' NEWS AT A GLANCE

Southern.

In Birmingham, Ala., one man was killed and two injured by the explosion of a pot of molten slag at the Alice furnace of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company. The dead, Ernest Corley, a a negro switchman. Injured, R. L. Montgomery, engineer, badly burned about shoulders; J. A. Rogers, fireman, burned on arms. The molten slag spread over the negro, and the men on the engine saved themselves by uncoupling the pot car and running the pot engine out of danger.

The United States mail boat Laporte, a gasoline launch which carries mail to the St. Johns river towns in Florida, sank while off Arlington. The boat was overloaded with mail and parcels post matter besides some cargo and went down in 19 feet of water, 200 feet off shore.

In New Orleans several hundred panic-stricken school children fled from the Amesville school building in a blinding rainstorm when lightning struck an oil tank belonging to the Texas Oil company and set fire to the more than 2,000,000 gallons of crude oil which it contained. There was no explosion, but the flames burst forth in an instant and enormous volumes of black smoke ascended to a height of more than a thousand feet.

Two men are dead and a third mortally wounded as a result of two pistol battles near Vienna, Ga. The first encounter was between Oscar Blow and P. P. Sangester, the latter being killed. When Sheriff Bennett and his deputies cornered Blow he opened fire, shooting the sheriff in the stomach. The officer killed Blow as he fell.

One hundred thousand dollars' damage was done, and several hundred men and women thrown out of employment when fire destroyed four cigar factories, three sponge houses, two lumber sheds and several smaller buildings in Key West, Fla. The fire was discovered in the factory of the Key West Cigar company, and spread rapidly, for a time threatening the lower business section of the city.

General

One man stoned to death and another seriously hurt in a race war at Miami, six miles from Globe, Ariz., between Americans and Mexicans. A number of Americans were the aggressors, and three of them are in the county jail at Globe.

Proposals to reorganize the Republican party were discussed at a conference at Chicago between six Republican United States senators and 32 other Republican leaders, representing nine states. The immediate subject before the conference was as to what action shall be sought at the meeting of the Republican national committee at Washington on May 24, looking toward "reorganizing the party along progressive lines" and as to whether there shall be a Republican national convention this year.

Twenty-five federal officers, including an infantry and artillery colonel, taken prisoners during the fighting above Guaymas, were shot at a public execution by order of the constitutionalist commanders, according to information received at Nogales, Ariz. The execution is admitted officially by state authorities at Hermosillo.

The international opium conference will reassemble at The Hague next month, the exact date to be announced as soon as responses to the invitation have been received from the government of Peru, Turkey, Switzerland and Greece.

The worst typhoon experienced in many years struck the Philippine islands, causing many deaths and also wrecking small steamers and numerous lighter craft. The known fatalities at sea total 58, but the total death list from the storm is swelling with the incoming reports. It is believed no Americans lost their lives.

William Jennings Bryan, speaking at a dinner given in honor of the foreign members of the international conference that is arranging the celebration of 100 years of peace among English-speaking peoples, in New York, declared that "the new peace plan offered by President Wilson to all nations is the latest and longest step toward peace. It contemplates time for investigation and deliberation," he said, "and this makes the possibility of war remote."

Inquiries instituted at Lloyd's in London have developed the fact that the insurance companies are reaping a golden harvest as a result of suffragette depredations. Business has received a great impetus from golf links and fire risks.

William Crispen lowered himself 100 feet by a rope in the Pecone mountains near Easton, Pa., in quest of eagles' eggs, and fell 200 feet to his death. Crispen had collected birds' eggs all over the country.

Kingston, Mo., has sold its lock-up to obtain funds to light its streets. It will be used as a chicken house.

It is stated that long-standing British claims against Guatemala are to be enforced soon.

One of the bands of militant suffragettes assigned to interfere with the pastimes of the men of the British isles, celebrated Whit-Monday, which is a general holiday in London, by burning down the headquarters of the Nottingham Boat club on the banks of the river Trent. The structure, which contained many valuable race and other skiffs, was destroyed, the loss being $10,000. A bomb operated by clockwork was discovered under the veranda of the pavilion of the Limpsfield Tennis club in Surrey.

The sultan of Turkey, through his legal representative, was notified that in an American law court his position is the same as that of his humblest subject. The question of the sultan's right as a litigant arose in the New York state supreme court, which has before it the Turkish ruler's suit to get possession of $10,000 insurance money on the life of an Armenian merchant, who was assassinated in New York City.

At Los Angeles Lieutenant J. D. Park, a military aviator, who started from San Diego on a flight to Los Angeles, was killed at Olive, nine miles north of Santa Ana. Lieutenant Park met his death in a fall of less than fifteen feet.

Professor Hugo Munsterberg, a German citizen, told the American committee ararnging for a celebration of 100 years of peace among English-speaking peoples in New York, that there were many "non-English people" who regarded the movement a forerunner of an alliance between England and the United States antagonistic to Germany.

Washington

The government's contention that it has the right under the act of March 26, 1910, to deport undesirable alien women "any time" after found practicing questionable pursuits, was upheld by the Supreme court in Washington in the case of Helena Bugajewitzs of Denver.

Congress will be asked next year to appropriate for one battleship, a mammoth dreadnaught displacing 40,000 tons and costing about twenty million dollars, according to tentative plans of the navy general board, made public. This year the navy department asked for three battleships and got one as it did last year when two were asked for.

The "seed blacklist" of the department of agriculture, published annually in accordance with law, and which always causes indignation from dealers, this year names one dealer whose name has appeared five successive years; twenty that have appeared three years, and eighty who have been caught twice for selling adulterated crop seed.

Keen interest is being displayed by the government and the public generally in what action the United States will take as a consequence of the virtual repudiation of Ambassador Wilson by President Huerta. The president has made no statement either to Ambassador Wilson or to the public qualifying his statement that Mr. Wilson, "diplomatically, has no standing" but foreign. Minister De La Barra displayed an eagerness to minimize the incident.

Charles C. Glover, the Washington banker, who recently attacked Representative Sims, of Tennessee, on account of a speech delivered in the house, was brought before the bar of the house in Washington and reprimanded by Speaker Clark for violating the privileges of the house. A resolution authorizing the banker's arrest had been adopted with only four dissenting votes. When brought in by the sergeant at arms, Glover read an apology, saying that his act was committed under great stress of feeling and that he did not know he was affronting the house.

All fourth-class postmasterships, except those paying less than $180 a year, were thrown open to competitive examination by an order issued by President Wilson at Washington. These positions are retained in the classified service, but about 50,000 incumbents who were "covered" into the classified service by executive orders of previous administrations, will have to meet all comers in competitive examinations to hold their positions with civil service protection.

Approximately 93,000 acres of mountain land in Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina and West Virginia, was approved for purchase by the national forest reserve commission. This will make almost 600,000 acres bought by the government up to date for the Appalachian and White mountains forest reservation.

By a vote of 41 to 32 the senate refused to accept an amendment to the sundry civil bill by Senator Gallinger striking out a clause exempting labor and farmers' organizations from prosecution under the anti-trust law with funds appropriated by the bill. Three Republican senators, Jones, Lafolette and Norris, voted with the Democrats against the Gallinger amendment and two Democrats, Pomer and Thomas, joined the Republicans in supporting it.

President Wilson believes negotiations between Japan and the United States over the alien land legislation are not in an alarming stage, but that the interchange of views thus far have been along frank and friendly lines calculated to remove the appearance of discrimination against Japanese subjects. He believes the Webb bill will not violate the treaty. The president revealed that the question of naturalization has not yet entered into the discussion with the Japanese ambassador, but that of course underlying the bill, it was realized that federal courts not finally passed upon it.

COMBINED FOR FOREIGN TRADE

PRESIDENT FARRELL SAYS COMBINATION WAS NECESSARY.

HOME TRADE NOT ENOUGH

Head of Alleged Steel Trust Denies That Products Are Sold Cheaper Abroad Than at Home—Tells of His Rise.

New York.—The United States Steel Corporation was pictured by James A. Farrell, its president, as a combination organization, not to suppress competitors, but to develop the sale of steel in foreign lands, a development which could not have been accomplished, he said, if the corporation had not taken the various companies competing for foreign business under its wing. He was testifying as the first witness for the defense in the government suit to dissolve the corporation as a combination in restraint of trade.

Mr. Farrell amazed his hearers by his intimate knowledge of affairs in remote parts of the world, and held them keenly interested as he narrated the story of his rise from a common laborer in a steel mill at the age of 15 to be the head of the greatest industrial corporation in the world at the age of 50.

The witness traced the growth of the steel corporation's export business from 292,000 tons, the first year it was organized, to 2,246,600 tons in 1912, and from $31,000,000 in value in 1904, to $92,000,000 in 1912, and said that efforts of the corporation to push its foreign trade had been "continuous and indefatigable." The result had been that 90 per cent of the country's foreign trade in steel was done by the corporation, he said.

"We have made the strongest effort possible to increase our foreign trade as compared with our domestic trade," Mr. Farrell declared. "Our competitors have only been concerned with foreign business when domestic trade has been insufficient to keep their capacity employed. We have kept the foreign trade continuously. If we had not, it would have been impossible to develop it."

TREATY NOT VIOLATED BY BILL

Such Is Position of President Wilson on Jap Measure.

Washington.—President Wilson believes negotiations between Japan and the United States are not in an alarming stage, but that the interchange of views thus far have been along frank and friendly lines, calculated to remove the appearance of discrimination against Japanese subjects. The president, discussing the subject informally, took the position that the Webb bill would not violate the treaty between Japan and the United States. He intimated that Japan's protest was not founded upon a claim that the treaty would be broken in any way, but upon the feeling that there was an effort to discriminate against Japanese on the ground of their alleged ineligibility to citizenship. The president said the question of naturalization had not yet entered into the discussion with the Japanese ambassador, but that, of course, underlying the bill, it was realized that federal courts had not finally passed upon the question of eligibility.

WOULD UNITE WITH G. O. P.

Hadley Says Coalition Not to Be Effected by Scheme.

Chicago.—That a uniting of the Progressive party with the Republican party is not only desired, but actually is sought, was the gist of sentiment expressed at the close of a two days' conference, at which Republican leaders outlined plans for reorganizing the party. Herbert S. Hadley, formerly governor of Missouri, who, with Senators Cummins of Iowa, Borah of Idaho and Sherman of Illinois, led the discussion at the conference, said afterward that the desire to have those back in the party who left it to join the Progressive party was "manifest." The coalition, he added, was not to be effected by any scheme, such as the passing of resolutions by leaders, "but rather by a remedying of the causes in the Republican party which resulted in the separation."

Will Choose Depositories.

Washington.—Secretary McAdoo of the treasury will begin consideration of the applications of depositories for the $10,000,000 to be distributed among national banks throughout the country.

Pan-American Pentecost.

Atlanta.—Scores of delegates arrived in Atlanta to attend the "Pan-American pentecost," which will open here Thursday, with representatives of the four leading Presbyterian Church organizations of America in attendance.

Court Martial for Smith.

New York.—Capt. Roy G. Smith, U. S. N., faced a general court-martial in the Brooklyn navy yard. He is charged with negligence in running his ship—Arkansas—on a shoal off the coast of Cuba, February 13 last.

Danced 15,000 Miles.

St. Petersburg.—The world's long distance dancing record is claimed by the Countess Lamsdorf, who estimates that she has covered 15,000 miles on ballroom floors.

FEDERAL OFFICERS ARE EXECUTED

WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER TOOK PLACE NEAR GUAYMAS.

200 STATE TROOPS KILLED

Deaths of Chief Bule of Yaquiz and Col. Guitterez Is Confirmed—Cutting of Railroad May Tie Up Transpotration Facilities.

Nogales, Ariz.—Twenty-five federal officers, including an infantry and artillery colonel, taken prisoners during last week's fighting above Guaymas, were shot at a public execution by order of the constitutionalists commanders. The execution is admitted officially by state authorities at Hermosillo.

The official statement also admits the loss in killed of 200 state troops during the three days' fighting which resulted in the driving of the retiring federals into the first station north of the gulf port town. Fighting at this last stand continued.

The reported death of Chief Bule, commander of the insurgent Yaqui Indians and of Col. Guitterez of the state troops was announced as confirmed in the report.

Mexico City.—What may become for the government a more awkward situation than that caused last week by rebels' successes in the north was the cutting of the railroad from Tampico to San Luis Potosi. Over this route all the fuel oil used by locomotives is moved, and it will now be necessary to ship from Tampico to Honterey.

The Tampico-Monterey line has been cut repeatedly and has only been temporarily repaired. If this is cut again and the rebels prevent repairs between Tampico and San Luis Potosi, it will be necessary to use the west coast ports as a makeshift. The oil on hand is sufficient for only two or three days. Any condition that would prevent a further supply would result in the practical suspension of transportation.

CRIME TRUST HEAD IS HELD

Barney Bertsche Alleged to Have Been Paid for Protection.

Chicago.—Gamblers, confidence men and clairvoyants, who have poured into Chicago since the police shake-up following the Rosenthal murder in New York, were given a severe jolt when it became known that the police had dared to arrest Barney Bertsche. As proprietor of a West Randolph street dive-saloon, as ex-convict, as ward politician, Bertsche is said by State's Attorney Hoyne to have become the protector of gamblers, thugs, wire tappers and all kinds of confidence men, and for many months the protection money paid to him appeared to provide immunity to the operators here. His seeming power to grant immunity enticed a crowd of New York criminals to this city, when they found that the "protection" game was up in New York for the time being. Bertsche is charged by the state's attorney with being the head of a great crime trust, and his arrest is causing the crooks much anxiety as to where to move next.

Plan Biggest War Craft.

Washington.—Congress will be asked next year to appropriate for one battleship, a mammoth dreadnought, displacing 40,000 tons and costing about $20,000,000, according to tentative plans of the navy general board.

Oden, Ark., Wiped Out.

Fort Smith, Ark.—The business section of Oden, Montgomery county, was almost wiped out by fire, entailing a loss estimated at $35,000. The postoffice was among the buildings destroyed.

Will Fly Across Keys.

Key West, Fla.—Augustine Paria, the aviator, will enter the contest for the $10,000 prize offered by the city of Havana, Cuba, for the first successful flight from Key West to that place. Paria will drive a biplane.

Four Hurt in Strike Riot.

Cincinnati.—One man was probably fatally injured and three others were hurt when the first clash between the employes of the local traction company and strikers and their sympathizers occurred.

JAPAN TREATY NOT VIOLATED

SINCE ALIEN BILL NOT YET LAW, NO PROTEST LIES.

CONFERENCES ARE URGED

Japanese Ambassador Given Assurances That the Whole Matter Will Be Taken Up in a Friendly Manner.

Washington.—It is given out here by a well-known news service that the people may consider these three propositions as substantially the first reply of the United States government to the protest of Japan:

First—That by reason of the present status of the California alien land law, as yet unsigned by the governor of California, the equity of protest in international law has not yet arisen so as to justify the present protest of Japan.

Second—That the federal government has not violated the treaty of 1911 by the United States and Japan.

Third—The United States suggests to the imperial government at Tokio that there be a series of conferences on the questions which will arise if the California alien land law is put into operation in the state of California.

Official statements have not been officially given out.

Whatever statement to the contrary may be made, it is certain that these three propositions are already in the hands of Viscount Chinda and have been sent in cipher to the Japanese government.

It is significant that the cabinet devoted all or nearly all of its session to the discussion of the Japanese question.

Mr. Bryan left the cabinet meeting and hurried over to the state department, where the Japanese ambassador was awaiting his reply to the protest of his government.

It is freely understood that the Japanese ambassador has been given every assurance that our government would proceed in a very friendly spirit with the discussion which would follow the deliverance to him of the text of the United States.

BRYAN TALKS PEACE PLAN

Declares Plans of President Wilson Would Prevent War.

New York.—William Jennings Bryan, speaking at a dinner given in honor of the foreign members of the international conference that is arranging the celebration of 100 years of peace among English-speaking peoples, declared that "the new peace plan offered by President Wilson to all nations is the latest and longest step toward peace."

"It contemplates time for investigation and deliberation," he said, "and this makes the possibility of war remote."

Mr. Bryan's Subject was "Press Toward Peace." He said that the part of the United States in the cause of necessity would be large, because "more than any other nation it had a population which is attached by blood to nearly all other nations."

Primary Bill Passes.

Tallahassee, Fla.—The state primary election bill prepared by United States Senator N. P. Bryan, the purpose of which is to do away with the need of a second primary by voting for second choice in the first primary, was passed by the lower house of the Florida legislature.

Fight for Pure Flour.

Washington.—The fight for "pure" flour has been carried to the supreme court by the department of justice.

Trouble Kills Mother.

Wabash, Ind.—Mrs. Gideon Hester, 70 years old, mother of Superintendent S. L. Hester, of the Pittsburg public schools, died at her home. Physicians claimed that the charges made against her son hastened her death.

Rainfall Records Broken.

Tulsa, Okla.—All 24-hour records for rainfall in this section were shattered when 5.18 inches precipitation were recorded at the government weather bureau.

BUFFALO WITHOUT VEHICLE TRAFFIC

TEAMSTERS VOTE TO JOIN EXPRESS AND DELIVERYMEN.

POLICE FIRE INTO RIOTERS

Department Store Clerks, Bakers and Others Join Strike, Which May Cause Practical Suspension of Every's Business.

Buffalo, N. Y.—As a result of the disorders that marked the express and deliverymen's strike, Mayor Fuhrmann authorized the chief of police to swear in 500 more policemen in addition to the 300 already called. He hopes to control the situation and says he does not believe it will be necessary to call out the militia.

The trouble developed first when a crowd of about 100 strikebreakers arrived from New York and Philadelphia. Strikers and sympathizers attacked them and their police escort and the police were obliged to bring their revolvers into play before the strikebreakers were gotton safely into their hotel. The crowds then gave their attention to the few wagons in operation, which they attacked and overturned in the streets. Later the express companies managed to move a few wagons under heavy police escort.

The express drivers' strike makes it impossible to receive shipments of fresh vegetables and is causing much discomfort.

The clerks and drivers of the department stores are still out.

About 2,400 persons are involved. Some of the department stores attempted to make deliveries, putting strikebreakers and policemen on the wagons, but this brought about several clashes with strike sympathizers, who pelted the wagons with all sorts of missiles.

The teamsters voted to call a strike and this will tie up practically every line of vehicle traffic in the city and make deliveries impossible. Several thousand men will be involved.

The union bakers in the city are now out. Machinists in some of the big plants have quit and the linemen and repairmen of the Federal Telephone Company have struck.

At Niagara Falls 1,700 men in the United States Heating and Lighting Company have struck. The spirit of unrest is spreading and an effort to unionize other factories will be made this week.

Joseph J. Ettor, the leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, will arrive here this week. Just what connection he will have with the strike is not announced by the Socialist leaders, who have thus far been conducting most of the strikes.

The frequent disorders and the long hours that have been forced on the police officers during the past week has nearly exhausted the men. With the extra men available the authorities believe they can cope with any situation that may arise unless a general strike is called, as has been threatened.

A REFERENDUM IS CERTAIN

Thodore Bell Says Petition Ready for Circulation in California.

Sacramento, Cal.—Theodore A. Bell, Democratic leader and candidate for governor two years ago, who believes the Webb alien land bill is useless on account of the clause permitting leases, said: "If the governor signs the alien land bill, referendum petitions will be in circulation all over the state within a few hours. They are already printed and ready for distribution and it will be only a matter of a short time before the necessary 20,000 signatures are obtained."

58 ARE KILLED IN TYPHOON

Death List in Philippines May Go Higher.

Manila.—The worst typhoon experienced in years struck the islands, causing many deaths and wrecking several small steamer and numerous lighter craft. The known facilities at sea totalled 58, but the total death list from the storm is swelling with incoming reports. It is believed no Americans lost their lives.

Americans Are Presented.

London.—The king and queen held court at Buckingham Palace. The Americans presented were Adrian Iselin and Miss Louise Iselin, Mrs. Charles Edward Greenough and Miss Helen Marie Stuart, all of New York, and Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, the writer of Connecticut. Mrs. Wilcox said afterwards that she was greatly impressed by the splendor and elegance of the assemblage, and particularly by the great preponderance of youthful and beautiful women.

Must Be Pure.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—A bill passed by the senate provides that all public officials in the state must take oath upon assuming office that they will not gamble or be guilty of drunkenness while holding an official position.

Extend Civil Service.

Washington. — Postmaster General Burleson announced that it was the purpose of President Wilson and himself to take into the classified service, probably during the next year, all postmasters of the second and third classes.

Delinquent Taxes.

The State of Alabama, Chilton County—To whom it may concern:

Take notice that the Tax Collector has filed in my office a list of delinquent tax payers, and of real estate upon which taxes are due, and there in reported as assessed to the following named persons, or to owner unknown, as here shown, the following real estate, to-wit:

This is to notify you to appear before the Probate Court of this county at the next term thereof, commencing Monday, the 19th day of May, 1913, then and there to show cause, if any you have, why a decree for the sale of said real estate should not be made for the payment of the taxes assessed upon the same, fees and costs.

This the 21st day of April, 1913.

E. B. DEASON,
Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE.

Under and by virtue of the powers contained in a certain mortgage executed on the 24th day of April, 1912, by the Chilton Warehouse & Manufacturing Company, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Alabama, to E. A. Matthews, securing a certain indebtedness, default in the payment of which has been made, said mortgage being recorded in the office of the Probate Judge of Chilton County, Alabama, in Mortgage Record 121, page 332, I, E. A. Matthews, as mortgagee, will proceed to sell the hereinafter described real estate to the highest bidder for cash, at public outcry, before the Court House door of Chilton County, at Clanton, Alabama, during the legal hours of sale, on Monday, the 26th day of May, 1913, to-wit:

The following described real property lying and being situated in the Town of Clanton, in the County of Chilton, in the State of Alabama, to-wit, a certain lot or parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad, described and bounded as follows, to-wit: commencing at a point on the line of the right of way of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company two hundred and ten (210) feet south of the intersection of the said right of way and Main Street, said Main Street now being known as Second Avenue, and runing thence in a westerly direction, parallel with said Main Street, four hundred and eighty-five (485) feet, more or less, to the line of W. D. Sartor's land as said line of W. D. Sartor's land was known or existed on the 10th day of August, 1893, thence in a southerly direction, along the line of said Sartor land line, and a continuation thereof, three hundred (300) feet thence in an easterly direction, parallel to said Main Street, four hundred and eighty-five (485) feet more or less, to said right of way, thence in a northerly direction, along said right of way, three hundred (300) feet, to the point of beginning, being a part of the land which was conveyed to John Randolph by F. C. Randolph, on the 12th day of February, 1902, by a deed which is recorded in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, in volume 24 of Record of Deeds, on page 387. The said lot or parcel of land above described is known by the Official Map of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, and marked upon said Map "E. Y. McMorries University School." (The words Main Street wherever they occur in the foregoing description refer to the street now known as Second Avenue); and also a tract or parcel of land described and bounded as follows; to-wit: Beginning at the northeast corner of a certain lot, west of South and North Alabama Railroad, and south of and bordering on Second Avenue, marked on the Official Map of the Town of Clanton, "W. M. Wilson & Brother," and running thence east along said Second Avenue forty (40) feet, thence south two hundred and ten (210) feet, to the lot marked on said Official Map "E. Y. McMorries University School" thence West forty (40) feet, thence north two hundred and ten (210) feet to the point of beginning, and also a lot of parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad, described and bounded as follows, to-wit: beginning at the southeast corner of the lot marked on the official map of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, "E. Y. McMorries University School," and running thence west one hundred and sixty (160) feet, thence south eighty (80) feet, thence east forty (40) feet, thence south two hundred and eighty (280) feet, thence east to the right of way of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company, thence north to the point of beginning; also a lot or parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad, described and bounded as follows, to-wit: beginning at the north east corner of the lot marked on the official map of the Town of Clanton, Alabama "E. Y. McMorries University School," and running thence west thirty (30) feet, thence north sixty (60) feet to the lot of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company, thence east thirty (30) feet to the right-of-way of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company, thence south along said right-of-way to the point of beginning, and also a lot or parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad, described and bounded as follows, to-wit: beginning at the southwest corner of the lot marked on the official map of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, "E. Y. McMorries University School" and running south twenty (20) feet, thence east to within one hundred and sixty (160) feet to the right of way of the South and North Alabama Railroad Company, thence north twenty (20) feet to the south line of the said E. Y. McMorries University School lot, thence west, along said line to the point of beginning; together with all the buildings, machinery and appurtenances belonging to any, and all of the hereinbefore described tracts or parcels of land, and also a lot or parcel of land west of the South and North Alabama Railroad described and bounded as follows, to-wit: beginning at the northwest corner of the Episcopal Church, on the south side of Second Avenue, and running thence west along said Second Avenue one hundred and twenty (120) feet to the northeast corner of the Chilton Warehouse and Manufacturing Company's lot, thence south along the east line of said lot, two hundred and ten (210) feet to the Chilton Warehouse & Manufacturing Company's property, thence east along the north line of said property one hundred and twenty (120) feet, thence north two hundred and ten (210) feet to the point of beginning.

Said sale will be made for the purpose of paying in whole or in part the indebtedness secured by said mortgage.

This the 24th day of April, 1913.

IT'S HARD TO WORK

It's torture to work with a lame, aching back. Get rid of it. Attack the cause. Probably it's weak kidneys.

Heavy or confining work is hard on the kidneys, anyway, and once the kidneys become inflamed and congested, the trouble keeps getting worse.

The danger of running into gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease is serious. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, a fine remedy for backache or bad kidneys.

A New Jersey Case

Louis Henry, 626 Grove St., Jersey City, N. J., says: "I suffered almost everything from broken down kidneys. My back was stiff and pained terribly. I was all run down. Doan's Kidney Pills gave my kidneys new life and a few boxes cured me completely."

SPECIAL TO WOMEN

Do you realize the fact that thousands of women are now using

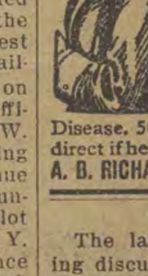
Paxtine

A Soluble Antiseptic Powder

as a remedy for mucous membrane affections, such as sore throat, nasal or pelvic catarrh, inflammation or ulceration, caused by female ills? Women who have been cured say "it is worth its weight in gold." Dissolve in water and apply locally. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women.

For all hygienic and toilet uses it has no equal. Only 50c a large box at Druggists or sent postpaid on receipt of price. The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

Why Scratch?



"Hunt's Cure" is guaranteed to stop and permanently cure that terrible itching. It is compounded for that purpose and your money will be promptly refunded WITHOUT QUESTION if Hunt's Cure fails to cure Itch, Eczema, Tetter, Ring Worm or any other Skin Disease. 50c at your druggist's, or by mail direct if he hasn't it. Manufactured only by A. B. RICHARDS MEDICINE CO., Sherman, Texas

Right Course.

The late Edward Dowden was being discussed in Philadelphia.

"Dowden's style was ponderous and somber," said a sonneteer, "but I often met him in Dublin, and his talk, unlike his writing, sparkled with true Irish wit.

"I once told him of my many vain efforts to swear off, and of my resolve, none the less, to make another trial.

"'Right!' said Professor Dowden. 'Right! Turn over a new leaf. You needn't mention to any one the number of the page.'"

QUALIFICATIONS FOR POSTMASTERS.

The postoffice department is beginning to come up to the measure of other businesses in requiring business qualifications in its postmasters. The following, which applies to fourth-class offices, should be applied to all and then communities would not be in danger of having drunken ne'er-do-wells thrust into their postoffices to pay political debts.

Washington, May 10.—Fourth class postmasters must be able to read, to count accurately the money they receive, to measure the oilcloth on the floor of their offices, and to write a decipherable letter.

Persons to take the civil service examination must be a citizen of the United States over 21 years old and must reside in the community served by the office he aspires to fill. No one will be eligible who is crazy, an ex-convict, who has been dishonorably discharged from the army or navy, or who is disposed even occasionally, to reduce the visible supply of strong drink.

IN THE INTEREST OF SANITATION.

Saturday night Dr. Sanders, State Health Officer and Dr. Dinsmore gave an illustrated lecture at the Courthouse in the interest of better sanitation and better care for the health of communities. There was quite a large crowd in attendance who received a large fund of information along these lines and doubtless it will have a good effect. The amount of illness that is due to preventable causes is astounding, and "Providence" is charged with a great many ills that care and common sense could have warded off.

The State Board of Health is doing a good work in calling attention to these matters and the county health board will cooperate with them as far as the people will let them. Health boards can effect little unless they are dealing with an awakened and willing people.

If you care for the health of yourself and families, act upon the suggestions they put before you.

Mr. John A. Thomas, of the Peoples Savings Bank returned Monday from attending the Bankers Convention which met at Dothan last week. Dothan gave them a big time and then they had a glorious trip to St. Andrews Bay where they had all the fish they could eat and a dip in the surf.

Mc D. Ruffin was last week adjudged a bankrupt. Stock is ordered for sale on the 19th day of May.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

CRIMSON CLOVER AND THE PRESENT STEP TO INSURE ITS SUCCESS NEXT FALL

To the Editor of The Union-Banner:

Crimson clover is better adapted than any of the other winter growing legumes for soil improvement during the winter season when the land would otherwise be idle. This is largely on account of its early maturity. On the experiment station farm at Auburn we are usually able to plow under a heavy growth of crimson clover the first week in April or in ample time for the production of a bale or a bale and three-quarters of cotton per acre on land naturally sandy and thin.

It is easy to succeed with crimson clover, but one point must be constantly stressed—the need for inoculation. There has often been complaint that suitable soil for inoculation could not be obtained in all parts of the state. This is, in large part, a misunderstanding, since in almost every county observation made in April or May reveals the presence of some true clovers growing wild, the soil from which will serve to inoculate crimson clover.

In order to extend more widely the knowledge of the wild clovers that are suited to this purpose, thereby making the growing of crimson clover a more general success through the state, the Alabama experiment station sent out in the spring of 1911, and again in the spring of 1912, about 500 specimens of two of the most common of the wild clovers adapted to the inoculation of crimson clover.

The two selected as most generally growing throughout the state were the Carolina, or annual white clover, and one of the little hop clovers having a small head of very minute yellow blooms. This was done in connection with the crimson clover experiments which have been conducted by this station for several years in a number of counties as a part of the local experiment work provided for by an act of the legislature passed in February, 1911.

The point I would now stress is that those who would win success with crimson clover next fall should at once make examination for the Carolina, or annual white clover, which is now dying, and stake out spots where it grows, so that the soil from these spots may next fall be used to inoculate crimson clover.

This Carolina, or annual white clover may now be recognized by its brownish dead or dying seed heads, about half an inch wide and distinctly flattened. In April the head or collection of blooms was white, and about the size of the end of one's first finger. The leaflets, of which three are borne in a cluster, are roundish and small and heart shaped. If one should mistake the perennial or running white clover for the Carolina, no harm would be done, since soil from around this will also inoculate crimson clover. The perennial white clover has also a roundish white head, but it continues to bloom later in the season.

The Carolina clover is most apt to be found along roadsides, in old lawns, in low spots in old pastures, etc.

It is especially gratifying that in almost every case the farmers who are making in a number of counties experiments with crimson clover for this station report a very successful growth of the plant this season. One man wrote from Macon county, April 11, that his was then "about 16 inches high, and as thick as anything could grow, and just beginning to bloom."

Another wild clover of which great numbers of specimens have been sent to the Alabama experiment station during the past few weeks, from widely scattered localities, is also suitable as a means of inoculating crimson clover. This is Buffalo clover. It bears the most conspicuous bloom of any clover, the heads being about an inch in diameter, and of a flaming red color. The heads are roundish or flattened, instead of long, which difference easily distinguishes Buffalo from crimson clover. It would be well worth while for the seed of Buffalo clover to be saved for sowing next fall, with a view to spring pasturage. The seed of Buffalo clover cannot be bought.

Matters of Especial Moment to the Progressive Agriculturist

Honor is not without its profit.

Keep up your spirits. Better days are coming.

Beauty is said be only skin deep, and some folks are terribly thin skinned.

The price of good government is constant watchfulness on the part of the people.

To lift up is better than to look up. Both are necessary to a forward moving life.

"Every man his own politician," is a timely slogan for these days of unrest and reform.

The most economical man is the one who spends the most money to the best purpose.

Running farm machinery means more than sitting on the seat and holding the lines.

Every farmer should carry life insurance—widowhood is sad enough without the curse of dependence.

People who wait for greatness to be thrust upon them forget that the supply of thrusters is always limited.

It requires large bodies of men and very costly methods to make laws that often one official easily destroys.

Many a man who boasts that he is the architect of his own fortune must have stood in with the building inspector.

That's a good old-fashioned one from the Vermont man who prefers an ox team paid for to an auto with a mortgage.

There is one class of farmers who never need worry about their children going away from the farm. There's another class that doesn't care.

TO MARKET FARM PRODUCTS

Co-Operative Action Among Farmers Reduces the Cost of Selling and Transportation.

The vast majority of the average farmer's time is given to production and the little remaining to distribution, or the marketing of his products. Why should a farmer spend weeks of toil and thought on growing a credible crop and then dispose of it to the first buyer that appears in many cases? Think of the effort on all sides put to production without a thought even to marketing. The cause of this condition in this country is the plenty on all sides and numerous markets. Only in a few cases has necessity worked to form co-operation among growers which results in discriminate selling as well as growing. Western fruit growers for instance were forced to co-operate because they were far distant from any market. Denmark was changed from a country of want to one of prosperity by the operation of a well-defined co-operative system. Germany would be at a loss without it.

Co-operation selling among farmers reduces the cost of selling and transportation. It standardizes the products and guarantees the quality of product. Lastly it equalizes distribution. The latter trouble is especially apparent on the apple market in this country. Not enough apples are produced to supply every demand. Yet, in many localities apples go to waste for lack of market.

A complete system of co-operative selling could not go into effect at once. It must come gradually. Parcels post will aid the farmer to work up his own special trade which means that he will reap profit from his marketing as well as from his production.

They Want to Work.

When any boy wants to work we believe he should be encouraged, for there are too many boys and men who are afraid of the real thing. We know a good many boys who really want to work. They are students of agriculture in our colleges and want employment on the farms of progressive men during vacation time, which is usually about three months, beginging in June. Farmers who can use these boys should write us at once. As they are studying various branches their prospective employers should state the line of farming followed. The boys will expect fair farm wages and try to earn them. They need the money for their education.

Fruit Growers Combine.

Fruit growers of the Pacific coast are forming a local association for the handling of their crop. One of these associations recently sold 250 carloads of apples in one lot to a single firm in Kansas City and got better prices for them than they had ever received before selling in the old-fashioned way.

WHAT FARMERS REALLY NEED

Sufficient Information Has Been Secured Regarding European Co-Operative Associations.

We cannot understand all this impetus just now in the running over to Europe of various special commissions to learn about the credit systems for loaning money to farmers. It seems strange in the first place that we have to run to Europe for new ideas when we are so smart ourselves, but the bug is on and the people are going over under one form of organization or another, notwithstanding that all the facts were officially determined long ago, so that we really do not need to go hunting for anything, says the Denver Field and Farm. In 1892—over twenty years ago—Edward T. Peters prepared a report on co-operative credit associations in European countries and their relation to agricultural interests for Hon. J. M. Rusk, secretary of agriculture, who published it.

In this report there is discussed quite clearly, though concisely, the German credit unions or people's banks, the Raiffeisen loan associations, German legislation on co-operative associations, people's banks of Austria-Hungary, co-operative banking in Italy, and co-operative banks in Russia, so that we cannot understand at this late date what the craving is all about. In transmitting the report it stated, "these people's banks have a success that justifies their existence, as they fill a virtual vacuum in banking opportunities for the agricultural and industrial classes." It is also said that in a large number of cases they have been of great benefit to agriculturists and that "co-operation has assumed an altogether new importance as the result of circumstances especially characteristic of the industrial era in which we live."

Since 1892 a great deal has been said through official investigations and still more has been written on this subject. Theses, magazine articles and books have been published, using the systems established in European countries a half century ago as the theme. Documents have been printed in great quantities. That such systems possessed undoubted merit has been recognized; indeed, the long-continued success these institutions have enjoyed should be ample evidence of their beneficial and sound character. Yet no permanent impression has been made on American minds. No agency or association such as the Grangers or Farmers' Union has taken up the matter in any businesslike way and pushed a movement forward calculated to put in operation in this country some one of these financial or co-operative plans.

It seems very strange therefore that a few people around the country are just beginning to wake up to all this clatter about foreign credit systems, which a few of us, at least, who are at the front of agricultural thought, have known all along. The thing has now become almost a fetish among certain people and this tendency has no doubt been ably fostered by the routing companies which make a specialty of hiking tourists off to Europe under one pretense or another. We now have a new expedition under way to be comprised of two delegates from each state, who are to sail under the direction of one of the big touring agencies, ostensibly to attend an international congress in Rome, with continental trips here and there, so that it looks like the same old junketing exploitation for the seeking of something with the finding of nothing but a good time and the accumulation of a few facts already known. All we need now is to codify these things into a substantial law.

GAIN OF CO-OPERATIVE [illegible]

Oldest Farmers' Organization of Its Kind in World Reports Best Year in History.

A farmers' co-operative society that has been successful for 30 years reported this the best year ever at its annual meeting held at Rockwell, Ia., recently. This is the oldest organization of its kind in the world, and has been copied all over America and to some extent in Australia.

The principle which has made possible the success of this society, and which is now being questioned in the courts, is that members must sell grain and live stock only through the company. If a member sells to any competing concern he must pay into the company treasury a stated penalty per pound or per bushel. Rigid adherence to this rule has made it possible for the society to compete with line elevator companies, and carried it through in the early days.

This year the society at Rockwell has paid the highest prices for grain and stock, and has sold lumber, coal, oils, meals, boots, shoes and clothing at the lowest practicable margin, and has cleared $7,688. They have handled 525,000 bushels of grain during the year. The society is on a solid basis, with total assets of $59,312 and liabilities of $31,836.

Acid Phosphate in Henhouses.

The best practice is to use acid phosphate or floats freely in the henhouse. You can put the manure into order for drilling by thorough exposure to drying air and then pounding up and running through a coarse sieve. It is deficient in phosphoric acid, which the soil usually needs, and at least fifty pounds of a good grade of acid phosphate should be added to each 100 pounds of the dry manure. Four or five hundred pounds per acre may be the most profitable amount for your rye.

Practical Fashions

SIMPLE AND YOUTHFUL.

The effect of youthfulness is sought above all others at present, and the growing girl has at last awakened to the advantages of being at the beginning of things. Her wardrobe also shows the same tendency. For this effect there is no daintier model than the one shown herewith. The simple blouse has a low cut neck, which is outlined by a large, effective collar, while the elbow sleeves are finished with a cuff. The skirt is a three gore design, and fastens in front on a line with the closing of the bodice. Linen, pongee, cotton eponge and the numerous ratine fabrics will make up well in this style, and the more simple woolens, such as serge, will also be appropriate.

The dress pattern (6186) is cut in sizes 14, 16 and 18 years. Medium size requires 4⅞ yards of 36 inch material.

GIRL'S DRESS.

This smart little dress offers several novelties in its construction. It is virtually of sacque cut, although it has a little skirt of three pieces. These are so flat and continue so well the outline of the upper part of the dress that they are hardly noticeable, the more so as their junction with the waist is concealed beneath a belt. The straps which extend over the belt offer an ornamental touch and the fancy tabs at the closing are also decorative. The sleeves are set in smoothly at the armhole, and are gathered into a cuff at the wrist. They may be cut off at the elbow and a flat cuff attached as shown. All wash materials, such as linen, pique, gingham, galatea and cotton eponge will make pretty dresses in this style, as well as serge and soft silk.

The dress pattern (6199) is cut in sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Medium size requires 2⅝ yards of 36 inch material.

Horticultural Advice

WATER KILLS MANY PLANTS

Some Persons Labor Under Delusion That Moisture Must Be Applied Freely Every Day.

More plants in the window-garden are killed, every year, by over-watering, than in any other way. Some persons labor under the delusion that water must be applied daily, and the consequence is their plants are literally drowned out, unless they happen to have the best of drainage.

Others go on the "little-and-often" plan—that is, they apply water in small quantities whenever they happen to think of it.

The result is the surface of the soil is kept moist, and from this the owner takes it for granted that the soil beneath must be properly damp.

Nine times out of ten examination will show that an inch or two below the surface the soil is dry. Of course the roots of the plants can not do their work under such conditions. The plant soon sickens and eventually dies and the owner wonders what caused the trouble.

Now, in watering plants several things have to be considered. First, the nature of the plant. Some like a good deal of water, others only a moderate amount.

Gladiolus.

Second, the soil. A close, loamy soil dries out slowly, therefore it will not require as frequent, or as large applications as a light porous soil from which moisture evaporates rapidly.

Third, location and exposures must be taken into consideration. Plants in the sun, or a very warm place, will need a good deal more water than those in full or partial shade, or a low temperature.

Fourth, the size of the pot must be reckoned with. The soil in a large pot will not dry out for two or three days, but the soil in a small pot will become quite dry every day. Little moisture needed.

Fifth, a dormant plant requires but little water. It is not in a condition to make use of much water, and an oversupply of it will surely result in harm. When the plant begins to grow, then increase the quantity and proportion this to the development made.

All these things must receive due consideration by the amateur who would know how to care for his or her plants intelligently. Study them. Experiment with them. In this way you soon become familiar with the individuality of each one and you will be able to give to each the care it needs.

We are often asked for some rules for watering plants. It is impossible to make any rule that can be followed strictly.

The only rule I have ever been able to give is this: When the surface of the soil looks dry, water. Use enough to thoroughly saturate all the soil in the pot.

You can tell about this by the escape of some at the bottom of the pot. Then wait until the dry look appears on the surface again, and apply water as before.

But, as I have said, one will have to modify this rule to fit the conditions. It is a general rule, subject to such change as may appear necessary to the intelligent plant-grower who does not believe in treating all her plants exactly alike.

Give fertilizers to growing plants only. A plant standing still needs none, and will be injured by the applications of the food it is not in a condition to make use of.

Petunia Regains Popularity.

There was once a time when no flower lover would have planted a garden without having petunias in it, and now that the plant experts have evolved many wonderful new forms, this flower is regaining its old-time popularity. Sow the seeds in a warm and sunny spot, and see to it that the plants never suffer from lack of water.

ALMOST LOST HER REASON

But Thanks To An Old Friend, This Terrible Catastrophe Was Avoided.

Tampa, Fla.—Mrs. E. C. Coram of No. 2905 Highland Ave. says: "I was very weak and worn out from womanly troubles. My husband bought me two bottles of Cardui to take as a tonic, and from the first day it seemed to me I felt its good effects.

By the time I had used the two bottles, I felt and looked like a new woman.

Some time later I got my feet wet at the wrong time, and I turned to Cardui to remedy the mischief done.

Before I had taken one bottle it gave me the needed relief.

Again, in later life, when passing over a critical time, I almost lost my reason, but thanks to three or four bottles of Cardui, I did not. That has been 15 years ago. I am now 59 years of age, and feeling fine.

I constantly praise Cardui to all my sick friends.

It is a wonderful remedy."

This earnest letter should take from your mind any doubt you might have as to the merits of Cardui, the woman's tonic. Mrs. Coram is certainly competent to recommend Cardui, since it helped her over three critical stages of life.

Don't neglect your troubles longer. Get a bottle of Cardui today.

"Please, miss," was the prompt reply, "when he's working he's a bricklayer; but when he's out of work he's a teetotaler!"

CLEARED AWAY

Proper Food Put the Troubles Away.

Our own troubles always seem more severe than any others. But when a man is unable to eat even a light breakfast, for years, without severe distress, he has trouble enough.

It is small wonder he likes to tell of food which cleared away the troubles.

"I am glad of the opportunity to tell of the good Grape-Nuts has done for me," writes a N. H. man. "For many years I was unable to eat even a light breakfast without great suffering.

"After eating I would suddenly be seized with an attack of colic and vomiting. This would be followed by headache and misery that would sometimes last a week or more, leaving me so weak I could hardly sit up or walk.

"Since I began to eat Grape-Nuts I have been free from the old troubles. I usually eat Grape-Nuts one or more times a day, taking it at the beginning of the meal. Now I can eat almost anything I want without trouble.

"When I began to use Grape-Nuts I was way under my usual weight, now I weigh 30 pounds more than I ever weighed in my life, and I am glad to in speak of the food that has worked the change." PROBE "LEAK" IN NAVY DEPARTMENT

IMPORTANT PLANS OF SHIPS AND OTHER DOCUMENTS ARE MISSING

OFFICIALS MINIFY LOSSES

Not So Much Perturbed Over Loss as They Are Anxious to Fnd "Leakage."

Washington.—Special agents of the department of justice, officers of a nationally known detective agency and the local police have been called in by the navy department to investigate "a leak" through which during the last four months several relatively important plans of ships and also minor unimportant documents have disappeared.

Naval officials are inclined to minify the importance of the losses.

The first losses were discovered shortly after the first of the year.

Some minor structural plans of the dreadnought Pennsylvania, now building, and other ships, were among them. Documents not especially secret disappeared.

Naval officials say they are not much perturbed over the occurrence of what already has been lost as they are to find "the leak" and prevent further losses. Each battleship has several sets of plans, all of which are sometimes widely distributed among the bureaus and contractors. The general plan is never much of a government secret.

The navy department issued this statement:

"The first losses were discovered on the night of March 4, inauguration day, when there were a large number of people in the state, war and navy building, assembled to witness the inaugural fireworks. There were taken, by persons as yet unknown, from the draughting room of the bureau of steam engineering, uncompleted plans of the electric wiring of the new battleship Pennsylvania. These plans showed the general arrangement of the decks and hatches, but would be of no particular value to anyone wishing to obtain naval information not generally made public. A short time after similar plans were missed from the same draughting room. The matter is still under investigation."

B. B. COMER FOR GOVERNOR

Eufaula, Ala.—In a letter to Theodore Pruden, prominent East Alabama politician, former Governor B. B. Comer says: "I will be in the race for governor, and if we all get together we can push the load over the hill."

A similar letter was written to a merchant in Birmingham. Comer's formal announcement is expected at an early date.

RESTRAINING ORDER DENIED.

Judge Jones Will Be Appealed to to Restrain Railroad Commission.

Birmingham, Ala.—United States Judge William I. Grubb declined to grant a restraining order on petition of Sidney J. Bowie, as counsel for the Louisville & Nashville railroad, enjoining the enforcement of the 2 1-2 cent passenger rate order recently made by the Alabama state railroad commission. Judge Grubb stated that if requested he would grant an appeal from his recent decision in which he refused to hold the railroad commission in contempt of court for issuing this 2 1-2 cent order, because under the law the Louisville & Nashville was entitled to an appeal, but that he would not grant a restraining order to hold up the enforcement of the rates while the appeal was pending.

It is now the purpose of Mr. Bowie, he states, to file a supplemental bill before Judge Thomas Jones in the United States court for the Middle district of Alabama, asking for a temporary rstraining order against the railroad commission.

WHERE HER THOUGHTS WERE

Most Married Men Have Had a Similar Experience, If They Will Admit the Truth.

The husband was reading a newspaper account to his wife. Now and then he paused and asked a question. The nature of her replies made him doubt that she was listening closely. He accused her of having thoughts elsewhere, and she indignantly retorted that she had heard every word.

He continued reading for a few minutes and then glanced at her. From the far-away look in her eyes he knew her thoughts were not upon the item he was reading. So, turning the sheet as an excuse for a pause, he continued as follows: apparently reading:

"'Last night, about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, just a few minutes before breakfast, a hungry boy about sixty years old bought an orange for nine pins and threw it through a concrete wall twenty feet thick. With a cry of despair he jumped into a dry mill pond, broke his arm at the knee-joint, and was drowned. It was only ten years later, on the same day and at the same hour, that a goat gave birth to six elephants. A high wind then came up and killed three dead horses and a wooden cigar Indian.' What do you think of that, dear?" he questioned, suddenly.

She gave a little start, smiled, and said:

"I think that's a splendid bargain, Henry. You had better get half a dozen, for your stock of shirts is low."

Young Financier.

Freddie came into the house one day and said that the woman next door had offered him a penny if he would tell what his mother had said about her.

"I'm so glad you didn't tell," remarked his mother. "I wouldn't have her know for anything that I even mention her. You're a wise little boy, my dear."

"You bet, I am," returned Freddie. "When she offered me the penny I told her that what you said was something awful and it was worth half a dollar."

SKIN DISEASE ON FACE

Barthell, Ky.—"I had a skin disease on my face, neck and hands that tormented me all the time and when I would get hot the places would burn so that I had to keep my face wet in cold water. It began as pimples and indeed it was disfiguring, for it would get in spots on my face and hands as large as a quarter of a dollar. It would get into blisters sometimes and I sure did suffer. My face burned all the time. It was this way so bad for about six years and I tried everything that I could hear of, but nothing did any good.

"One day I found the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and ordered some at once. I would wash my face good with the Cuticura Soap and then apply the Cuticura Ointment and they have cured me. It would take half a tablet to tell all I suffered in those six years." (Signed) Mrs. Della Hill, Jan. 3, 1912.

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

HAVE LONG DURATION OF LIFE

Salt Water Denizens Attain Immense Age, If Scientific Investigations Are Correct.

Water, particularly salt water, seems to conduce to longevity. There are gigantic mussels and oysters whose age is assumed to be comparable only with that of the Cape Verde baobab tree and the big tree of California, which live for 5,000 years. Indeed, there appears no particular reason why mussels should ever die, though it is also true that, considering the sort of life a mussel leads, there seems no particular reason why it should ever have lived.

Sea anemones, again, delicate and sensitive though they look when we see them in the rock pools, may attain great age. Sir John Dalyell, a Scottish naturalist, captured in 1828 a sea anemone of the liver-colored sort so common around our shores. Its age was then estimated at seven years. It flourished in Edinburgh until 1887, and was just attaining a vigorous and sober maturity when, from some unknown cause, it died.—London Mail.

Unnamed Heroine.

The anniversary is responsible for the publication of many reminiscences concerning the sinking of the Titanic. What the survivors and the chroniclers most like to dwell upon is the heroism displayed by passengers and crew aboard the vanished liner. There are tales of Major Butt, the Strausses, First Officer Murdock and many others, who showed fine metal in the hour of disaster. But there goes quite unmentioned, as she went almost unmentioned a year ago, the little English woman who said to the officer who would have thrust her into a lifeboat: "Oh, no, sir, I'm only a stewardess."

Neighborly.

Not long since a man moved into a certain village. After a week of so a friend called on him and asked how he liked his new home.

"Pretty well," he said.

"Have you called on your neighbors yet?"

"No," he replied; "but I'm going to if any more of my wood is missing."

In accord with the eternal fitness of things, a man who stole a watch wound up in jail.

Tact; Son Gets Down to Tacks.

Henry, age five, had two younger brothers. Henry's father had just moved, and was busy laying the kitchen linoleum. In order to facilitate the work he gave Henry the task of furnishing him with tacks. The little fellow worked faithfully for half an hour. Suddenly, however, he turned to his father and said:

"Papa, you like me best, don't you?"

"Oh, I like all my boys," said the father.

"But don't you like me a little bit better than the others?" queried Henry.

"I like all my boys equally well," answered the father.

"Well, papa," said the lad, after a moment of reflection, "what's the use of my handing you these tacks then?"

Easy.

"I see you have a new cook," said Mrs. Keen, as she smiled at the hostess across the table.

"Yes," replied the hostess. "How did you know?"

"I've been studying the thumb prints on the plates," replied Mrs. Keen.

Begin With It.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Foshee, Misses Ochie and Amie Daniel, and Messrs James Daniel, Hardy Sandlin, Earl Lenderman, Willie Fretwell and H. L. Maddox attended the memorial services at Macedonia last Sunday and report a very nice time and some very rough roads.

Rev. S. H. Herbert spent Saturday night and Sunday in Birmingham.

Mr. T. W. Robinson spent Sunday with his home folks.

Last Sunday mothers day was observed at the Congregational Church. Rev. E. W. Butler preached a sermon to mothers and about a mother.

Last Saturday night Mayor Bice went to Jackson's Chapel to a Box Social, he remained over Sunday and gave a long talk to the Sunday school on the progress of the Sunday school work along different lines.

Mrs. Holdridge has been very ill and was taken to Birmingham last week.

Rev. J. M. Trosper writes from Ky., that he would like a taste of Thorsby strawberries. He has a friend in Thorsby who is going to send him a taste.

Miss Tupper from the North is visiting E. W. Butler's family.

Dr. P. I. Hopkins, of Clanton, has been making frequent trips to Thorsby to visit the sick.

Charlie Peterson has been excused for serving on the jury this week.

W. B. Tomlin went to Calera Monday night to visit the F. U. of A. meeting.

We have one very fast strawberry picker in Thorsby; Mr. Wolf reports that he picked 8 quarts in one day.

Mr. Bice seems to be on the wing of late, he went to Lomax Monday evening.

The Twins.

Aunt Jerusha Dow will have her Album at Bates Hall, Saturday evening, May 17, at 7:45, and will show you all her kith and kin from Baby Ned to her sainted grandmother. Aunt Jerusha is showing her Album for the benefit of the Christian Endeavor Society. There will be musical numbers also. Admission 10c.

AUBURN'S HOME COMING WEEK.

The following proclamation has been issued by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute:

Proclamation!

To all true Sons of Auburn,

Love and Greeting:

Be it known to you that for this good year, Anno Domino, 1913, your Alma Mater, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, hath set apart the month of June, on the first four days days thereof, for the home-coming of all those loyal sons who, as former students, have passed through her portals and received her honors.

For a generation past Old Auburn has been sending her sons into all lands and regions, far and near; and her loving heart yearns once more to feel the touch of their vanished hands and to hear the sound of voices long silent in her halls. Wherefore her home-coming trumpet is sounding, and her banner of orange and blue is calling her children in love and grattitude to come and sit again about her feet as in days of yore. Amid the old familiar scenes, with the memory of the student years upon you, come and renew your youth. If sorrow hath fallen upon any of you, let the dear old College comfort you. If the passing years have brought you joy and prosperity, come and share them with your comrades of old. The campus will grow green for your coming feet, and Auburn roses will scatter fragrance before you. Town and gown will welcome you, wit and eloquence will beguile, and the banquet board will be heavy with the good things once dear to your hearts. Leave care behind, heed not the siren voices of business, but come and gladden again the heart of your alma mater.

VOL. 2 THE UNION 11th Year CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY MAY 22, 1913 THE BANNER 21st Year NO. 6

AT REST

FRANK CRICHTON.

On Monday morning, May 19th, 1913, at three o'clock, Frank Crichton, for many years editor of the Banner, entered into the rest eternal.

Mr. Crichton was born in London, England, on March 9, 1857. After adventurous years in many parts of the world, including Australia, he came to Clanton, a printer twenty years ago. He was first associated with Mr. White in the publication of the Banner, but soon bought him out and had sole control of the office until thirteen months ago when the Banner was merged with the Union. Last September he was stricken with paralysis from which he only partially rallied at times, and succumbed to a third stroke.

In 1907 he married Miss Nannie Smith, who was to him a faithful and loving wife.

He was a member of the Alabama Press Association from its beginning and took an active part in its sessions.

During his twenty years of hard work in Clanton he won the respect of all the citizens. He ever had at heart the welfare and uplifting of the community and his paper was ever clean and helpful. He advocated fearlessly all measures he believed to be best for the people, regardless of the political aspect. He was kind-hearted to a degree, ever ready to help the less fortunate, as many a roving printer could testify. And he was honest and straight forward in all his dealings. He was a great reader and much of his writings showed a clear head and a tender heart.

He was laid to rest in the Clanton cemetery Monday evening, Rev. Mr. Chappelle of the Methodist church officiating, while his many friends bid farewell to the body which was laid away under many fragant flowers until the time when he must answer the universal summons.

When man's work is o'er
Peace comes at last.

In the whole field of medicine there is not a healing remedy that will repair damage to the flesh more quickly than BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. In cuts, wounds, sprains, burns, scalds and rheumatism, its healing and penetrating power is extraordinary. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

A man living at Auburn, New York, had a severe attack of kidney and bladder trouble. Being a working man, not wanting to lose time, he cured himself completely by using Foley Kidney Pills. A year later he says: "It is a pleasure to report that the cure was permanent." His name is J. A. Farmer. Upchurch Drug Co.

L&N

PROSPERITY TO SHARE

The L. & N. is engaged in the creation and sale of passenger and freight transportation. To secure the maximum results the natural resources of the territory through which the road operates must be developed.

The L. & N. desires to build up the territory in order that more people might reside therein who will raise more products for the railroad to ship away and who will attain such a full share of prosperity that their mode of living will be greatly improved, and with an increased income they will purchase more furniture, clothing, farm tools and other things which the L. & N. will be paid to haul.

The General Industrial and Immigration Bureau is doing much work in its successful efforts to induce farmers living in the far Northwest and West to locate along the lines of the L. & N. Every time an Immigrant is settled, property and taxable values are increased.

The Agricultural Department of the Bureau, conducted by leading experts in their respective lines in the United States, renders service to the farmers living along the line of the L. & N. in the development of the territory.

Fruits, vegetables, cereals, hay, cotton, poultry, live stock, dairying and mineral production receive attention. In fact assistance is rendered to every line of endeavor looking to the successful development of the territory.

Prosperity of the people is ever and always the thought and effort of the officials of the L. & N., because they know that the L. & N. will share in the prosperity of the people, and that the L. & N. will prosper in proportion to the prosperity of the people.

The services of the experts comprising the Agricultural Department are subject to the wishes of the people living along the line of the L. & N. who make application to Mr. G. A. Park, General Immigration and Industrial Agent, Louisville, Ky. The service is free.

GRAND JURY REPORT

Hon. W. W. Pearson, Judge of 15th Judicial Circuit:

We, the Grand Jury duly empanelled and sworn for the Spring term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, beg leave to submit this our final report. We have investigated 86 alleged violations of the law and have returned into your honor's court 32 indictments.

As to the bonds of the various county officers, and as to the manner of conducting their several offices, we beg to say that the bonds are sufficient, and that all books are properly kept, so far as we have been able to determine. The books of the county treasurer show that the county has over ten thousand dollars on hand at the present time. The report of the treasurer is hereto attached, marked exhibit "A," and asked to be taken as a part of this report.

County property: We find that such repairs as are needed on the jail and courthouse, and to which the attention of the county commissioners was called by the preceeding grand jury, are receiving attention and the repairs are now being made.

We find that most of the violators of the prohibition laws in the county are being carefully looked after by the county officials, and that there have been a number of convictions in the county court. It is the sense of this grand jury that hard labor should be put upon every violator of the prohibition laws of the State where the evidence is clear and convincing, and we recommend that for the good of the county petit juries add a recommendation of hard labor to their verdicts of guilty, and that the judge in sentencing sees that the hard labor is enforced, as we believe that this is the only way to effectually check this great evil and promoter of crime.

The carrying of concealed weapons seems to be on the increase in the county and we recommend that hard labor be added to the fine in such cases where the defendant is unable to show any excuse for having a concealed weapon. We believe that the adding hard labor in cases of this kind will in a large measure stop this evil and be of great benefit to the county.

County Roads: We find that the roads throughout the county are as good as the weather conditions and the road system will permit. It is the sense of this grand jury that every citizen of this county is in favor of better roads, the only point of difference being as to what is the best means of attaining same. It is the sense of this grand jury, after making dilligent enquiry in all sections of the county that if an election on a bond issue for good roads was submitted to the people at the present time it would not carry, but it is also the sense of this grand jury that a failure of the people to vote for the bond issue would not be due to the fact that they are prejudiced against a bond issue, but would be due to the fact that they do not understand it, therefore do not realize the benefits that would accrue from a bond issue for bettering the roads. We firmly believe that if a systematic educational campaign were conducted in Chilton county so that the people would thoroughly understand what a bond issue meant, how it would be carried out, how the money would be secured and handled, the kind of roads that would be built and where they would be located, that the people of Chilton county, irrespective of party affiliation would vote for a bond issue by a large majority.

County Poor. We find that the county poor are being well cared for; that there are 18 inmates in the poor house and we heard complaints from only one, which upon investigation we found to be groundless.

We have returned indictment against all parties that we find in jail, except Jessie Heard, Wash Avery and Bud Brown. No true bills having been found against them we respectfully ask that your honor instruct the sheriff to discharge them from custody.

In case No. 86 on the grand jury docket, the defendants being Charles Jacob alias Kid Lou, Sterling Lyon alias Big Beechy, and Lee Dozier, all charged with murder, many of the witnesses being out of the county, and being unable to get them before the grand jury, said cause has been continued on the grand jury docket and we respectfully ask that your honor make such order as is necessary for the clerk to continue said cause on said grand jury docket; and that the witnesses as appearing on said docket be summoned to appear before the next grand jury; that the defendants in said cause be held in jail to await the action of the next grand jury of Chilton county.

We also ask that a proper order be made continuing case No. 8 on the grand jury docket and that the clerk be instructed to issue summons in said cause to appear before the next grand jury of Chilton County on the first day of its session.

Having completed our labors we respectfully ask that we be finally discharged.

W. H. STROCK,
Foreman.

A QUARTER CENTURY TEST.

Those who raise poultry in a small way often wish they could get the benefit of the life-time experience of the expert breeders and use the same remedies, but have not been able to do so because no manufacturer was willing to make them on account of the very small profit, until the Blackman Stock Remedy Company of Chattanooga, Tenn. manufacturers of the wonderful selling Medicated Salt Brick, decided to manufacture Poultry Remedies, the very best, regardless of cost or profit, believing it always pays best in the end. The formula was secured from D. M. Owen, one of the South's best poultry breeders, and is being used regularly by him and other poultrymen. If you want an abundance of eggs and your poultry to be healthy, buy a can of Owen s Ideal Poultry Remedy and Egg Producer.

EDUCATION ON THE BOND ISSUE

The grand jury in its report are of the opinion that the people of the county are opposed to a bond issue for good roads "because they do not understand it," and that "if a systematic educational campaign were conducted in Chilton county so that the people would thoroughly understand what a bond issue meant, how it would be carried out, how the money would be secured and handled, kind of road that would be built and where they would be located, that the people of Chilton county, irrespective of party affiliation would vote for a bond issue by a large majority."

Ever since the agitation for a bond issue started its advocates have been asked to give some information on the points mentioned above, but not one item of information has ever been brought forward.

So far, it seems to us that the question might be answered thus: A bond issue means that the people of Chilton spend a good sum of money in election expenses; that they issue $150,000 in bonds, which is all they can issue, that these bonds run for thirty years, at 6 per cent interest, that brokerage and other expenses would reduce the amount actually received to about $125,000, the interest, amounting to $9,000 would have to be paid every year, that until the bonds were paid off or the county greatly increased in taxable value, no more bonds could be issued for any purpose. That's what a bond issue means.

As to how it will be handled we will assume that it would be handled fairly.

As to what kind of road would be built and where they would be located we are left in the dark.

In other counties such roads have consumed at least $1,000 a mile, some much over. This would give, at best, 125 miles of road. Now "where would you locate it" so as to deal justly with the whole county and give satisfaction to all the tax payers? Where?.

The 125 miles of road built, then the $9,000 interest would have to be paid every year in addition to the amount necessary to keep up the roads. All the rest of the roads in the county would have to get on as best they could, there would be no county money to help them.

When you think of these things it can hardly be called prejudice which keeps you from voting for a bond issue, but common sense.

The $9.000 with a little added taxation and the spirit for community road working which is being aroused, the county can have what all so ardently desire, good roads.

This paper wishes to help "educate" the people on good roads, but it would hate to see them pay a $9,000 school bill each year for the road making lesson it would learn at the hands of the $125,000 contractors.

Gentlemen, our columns are open to you whenever you can bring out any facts along the lines you suggest. We will do anything reasonable to get good roads in the county. And if the bond issue had a reasonable promise of bringing about the desired end we would favor the bond issue. But we think, along with the majority of the voters in the county, that the work can be done at less expense and more satisfactorily without paying out large sums for interest and brokerage, not one dollar of which goes on the road.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL CAMPAIGN.

The District Convention was held in Clanton Sunday, with sessions in the morning and afternoon in the Baptist Church. The addresses made at these services were of great interest and undoubtedly helpful to all who heard and needed. Clanton people, however, did not seem to manifest the interest the occasion warranted. We are sorry to note that the attendance was small.

At the morning session Mr. Marbury spoke on the "Bible Schools," Mr. Palmer on "How to Hold the Big Boy," Miss Mary C. Gibson on "The Organization in Chilton County."

In the afternoon Mr. Marbury spoke on "The Aim of the Sunday School," Miss Batchelder on "How to Better the Sunday School,"

At night Mr. Marbury spoke on "Soul Winning," Miss Williams on "The Primary Class," and Mr. Palmer on "Co-operation in Sunday School Work."

The Chilton County Sunday school campaign inaugurated by the County Sunday School Association and coving nine days work throughout the different districts of Chilton county, closed Monday evening with a meeting at Coopers Station. In addition to the meetings held at Mount Cedron and at Stanton which has already been reported, meetings were held at Mount Nebo church Tuesday, May 13th, at which an interesting crowd of local Sunday School workers took part. At the afternoon session practical methods of Sunday School work were discussed by Miss Batchelder, Mr. Thornton and Mr. Palmer. At the night session Rev. O. W. Greer, Pastor of the Marbury Baptist church spoke on Bible Study, Miss Mary Carr Gibson, the County Secretary, discussed a standard for a Gold Star, and Mr. Palmer, the State General Secretary, spoke on "The Big Boy Problem."

Wednesday two sessions were held at Mulberry, the afternoon being given over to Helpful Sunday school problem, discussed by Miss Batchelder and Rev. O. W. Greer, and the night session devoted to inspirational addresses. The attendance at the night session was particularly gratifying.

Mr. Thornton, the County President who had taken part in all the meetings up this, was taken sick at Mt. Nebo and was unable to finish the tour, but Mr. Greer who join the party at that place finished the trip for him.

On Thursday a helpful and inspiring meeting was held at Macedonia, the majority of the local Sunday School workers taking active part and apparently receiving much help and benefit. The speakers in the afternoon were Rev. O. W. Greer and Miss Batchelder and Mr. Palmer. At night Mr. Greer, Miss Gibson and Mr. Palmer discussed various phases of modern Sunday School activities.

One of the best meetings of the entire campaign was the conference of Sunday School workers at Jemison in the afternoon on Friday, although the number present at this meeting were not nearly so gre[illegible]s at some of the other meet[illegible]t the fact that it repres[illegible] active Sunday School [illegible] the district, including [illegible] intendent and teachers [illegible] special significance. SEVEN DAYS' NEWS AT A GLANCE

Southern.

"I have been fighting melancholia for weeks, and an impulse to kill myself and family." This note was found in the desk of Maj. H. A. Hallock, United States army officer, retired, assigned as medical director of the hot water baths on the government reservation at Hot Springs, Ark. The search ended in the finding of his body in the woods near Hot Springs, the top of his head torn away by a bullet from a large caliber army revolver.

The first successful flight from the United States to Cuba, over the Gulf of Mexico, was made by Domingo Rosillo, a Cuban aviator. A prize of $10,000 was offered for the accomplishment of the feat, which was unsuccessfully attempted in 1911 by Aviator McCurdy.

A full-blooded Indian woman and her husband are camping for the summer at Indian Spring, Ga. She is the Indian princess Neola and perhaps the first ful-blooded Indian to camp at the springs since the time of Chief William McIntosh, from whom the spring was purchased by the whites. Her husband is Chief Eagle Eye and is an Indian in all respects except birth. He is a native of Ohio and was taken by the Indians when only seven years old and reared as their own child.

The supreme court of South Carolina rendered an opinion declaring that in the absence of specific legislative prohibition against the importation of liquor from another state, the provisions of the Webb bill were not applicable to South Carolina.

"I'm nothing but a hobo, fellows; get this poor devil out of here and let me be," were the words that greeted rescuers who raced to the scene of a wreck on the Seaboard at Rice's station, near Atlanta, Ga., in which Flagman J. T. Allen was crushed to death and Engineer R. B. Brooks was scalded so that he died before reaching Atlanta.

The waters of the Pacific ocean were let into the Panama canal. A giant blast, composed of 32,750 pounds of dynamite, was shot, demolishing the dike to the south of the Miraflores locks and allowing the water to flow into an extensive section in which excavations have practically been completed. The blast was successful in every way and the vibration was felt in Panama City, as though there had been a slight earthquake.

Faith in the American people to see that justice is done the Japanese is the dominating note in the discussion of the California alien land ownership legislation in Tokio, Japan. War talk is denounced and only calculated to embarrass the two governments which are laboring for a peaceful settlement by diplomacy The Nichi Nichi is of the opinion that the question as to whether the Washington government can procure for the Japanese equal rights depends upon the strength of Japanese diplomacy and urges the government to take a firm attitude.

Burned and blackened, the bodies of fifteen miners who lost their lives when an explosion of fire damp partially wrecked the imperial mine at Belle Valley, Ohio, were brought to the surface by rescuers working under the direction of Deputy State Mine Inspector Abel Ellwood. As each body was brought to the surface, it was identified by weeping relatives and taken into the engine room of the mine where it was prepared for burial.

The enormous growth of the tithe and mission funds of the Seventh Day Adventists of the World since the organization of the general conference in 1963 was indicated by the report of the treasurer, W. T. Knox, presented at the quadrennial conference board, held at Tacoma Park, Md. The total tithes aggregated $17,948,519, while the mission f[illegible]mounted to $7,765,172.

The torpedo boat Vesuvius was struck by one of its own torpedoes and beached on Hope Island, Narragansett Bay, when the lives of those on board seemed imperiled by the water which rushed in through a hole astern. The beaching of the Vesuvius was safely accomplished by Chief Gunner Thomas Smith, the commanding officer. Besides the regular crew, fifty seamen gunners were on board.

A heavy force of Mexican rebels is closing in on the port of Tampico. The insurgents already control all the land approaches to the port, thus cutting off the oil supply of the railroad. Railroad traffic throughout all the northern part of Mexico is entirely at a standstill. The government denies that it has entered into a compact with Japan with reference to landing Japanese troops on Mexican soil in the event of a break between the United States and Japan.

John Mulraney, who was to have been put to death as a murderer on March 17, but won a 65-day reprieve from the governor of New York by declaring in a personal appeal to the governor that he was going to death as the martyr of a criminal "code of honor," was electrocuted at Sing Sing prison. He went to his death with a smile on his lips.

King Peter of Servia intends to abdicate as soon as he possibly can after peace between the Balkan states and Turkey has been signed. He plans to return to Geneva, where he lived for many years before he was called to the Servian throne in 1903 after the murder of King Alexander and Queen Draga.

California's alien land bill became the law of the state against protests of Japan and representations of Presidfent Wilson and his personal envoy, Secretary of State Bryan. Governor Johnson signed the bill and ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature, or on August 10, the act will become operative.

A report of the battle of Santa Rosa, northeast of Guaymas, says that 350 rebels were killed, including the Indian chief Luis Bula. The Mexicans lost four men killed and 160 wounded. The report says the battle lasted sixty hours.

Three women and one man are dead and another seriously injured as a result of a Baltimore and Ohio express train striking the automobile in which the party rode at Leavittsburgh, Ohio. Four of the occupants were carried for 200 yards on the pilot of the engine.

Two men and a youth were slightly injured and 26 men were arrested, charged with disorderly conduct as a result of an attempt to interfere with the operation of one of the lines of the traction company whose employes are on strice in Cincinnati, Ohio. It was precipitated, it is said, by boys overturning a large garbage can in front of a car.

Governor Carranza of Mexico issued a decree declaring that the law of January 25, 1862, popularly known as the "law of Maximilian," would be enforced against Huerta and his associates when they are captured. This law provides that any person making an attempt on the life of the chief magistrate of the republic

Artificial contraction of waterways by bridges, causeways and other structures so placed as to make it impossible for the channels to carry away the enormous amount of water ersulting from an unusually heavy rainfall, was blamed for the devastation wrought by the recent Ohio floods in a preliminary report filed by the commission of army engineers appointed by Secretary of War Garrison to investigate the floods and recommend preventative measures.

Secretary Bryan handed Ambassador Chinda the reply of the United States government to the Japanese protest against the California alien land legislation. The ambassador immediately cabled it to Tokio. No intimation as to the nature of the reply was given out. Upon learning through press dispatches that Governor Johnson had signed the Webb land act, Secretary Bryan telephoned Viscount Chinda and invited him to come to the state department to receive the reply which he had been anxiously awaiting since the presentation of his own note on May 9.

As a result of progress made in the co-operative work of eradicating cattle mange by federal and state authorities, Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture has issued an order effective June 1, releasing from quarantine the counties of Hidalgo, Brooks and Jim Wells, in the southern part of Texas.

Vigorous denunciation of a "subsidized patriotism which seeks to create war because of the profits in armor plate and battleships," and of the "sensational and mercenary newspapers which prefer big, scarehead lines to the truth," marked an address by Secretary Bryan in Washington at a Hague anniversary meeting held under the auspices of the Washington Peace Society. It was in celebration of the fourteenth anniversary of the first meeting at The Hague.

A railroad is not warranted in exacting increased rates merely because it has not direct facilities for delivering shipments, the interstate commerce commission held, in effect, in a contested case involving freight rates on ice from Wisconsin points to Chicago. The "Soo' line has no terminal facilities in Chicago. "If it cannot afford to pay for terminal services," the commission announced, "it will doubtless have to retire from competitive traffic. It may not either by itself or in conjunction with other carriers maintain unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory charges."

JOHNSON SIGNS BILL REPLY HANDED JAPAN

SECRETARY BRYAN AND VISCOUNT CHINDA TALK FOR HOUR.

REPLY IS CABLED TO TOKYO

Referendum Is Likely—Two Japanese Leaders Arrive at San Francisco to Investigate Opposition of California.

Washington.—Secretary Bryan late Monday handed Ambassador Chinda the reply of the United States government to the Japanese protest against the California alien land legislation. The ambassador immediately cabled it to Tokyo. No intimation as to the nature of the reply was given out.

Upon learning through press dispatches that Gov. Johnson had signed the Webb land act, Secretary Bryan telephoned Viscount Chinda and invited him to come to the state department and receive the reply, which he had been anxiously awaiting since the presentation of his own note of May 9.

When the answer had been delivered the secretary and the ambassador conferred earnestly for an hour regarding the general aspect of the problem. Of course, the opinions expressed were tentative; as for his part, the ambassador felt that he must be guided entirely by the directions of the foreign office at Tokyo, and he could only surmise what might be the attitude of the officials at home. Meanwhile, it was understood that both the Japanese protest and the state department's answer would be withheld from publication, for the present at least, on the ground that it would be injudicious to submit the delicate questions at issue to heated discussion in the newspapers and at possible mass meetings.

GOV. JOHNSON SIGNS BILL.

Referendum May Delay Its Effectiveness Until November, 1914.

Sacramento, Cal.—California's alien land bill became the law of the state Monday. Against protests of Japan and representations of President Wilson and his personal envoy, Secretary of State Bryan, Gov. Johnson signed the bill, and ninety days after the adjournment of the legislature, or on August 10, the act becomes operative.

While the governor was signing the bill the steamship Korea was passing in through the Golden Gate, bearing two distinguished Japanese, one a fromer pupil of President Wilson, on a mission of investigation.

Meanwhile complications, national and sectional, beset the bill. Overshadowing all is the outcome of the negotiations now in progress between this country and Japan, which has interpreted the act as discriminatory and offensive.

Within California itself the act has encountered triple hostility, which may delay its operation until November 1, 1914.

CINCINNATI STRIKE IS OVER

Unions Are Recognized, but "Open Shop" Will Prevail.

Cincinnati, O.—The most serious street car strike this city has ever known was ended Monday night, when representatives of the Cincinnati Traction Company and of the Street Carmen's Union came to an agreement whereby car service will be resumed tomorrow.

The men won recognition of their recently formed union, but in return conceded the "open shop" principle. The company also pledges itself to an increase of wages to all union and non-union employes without discrimination. The amount of increase is subject to arbitration.

Employes discharged after the union was formed and before the strike was declared shall be reinstated.

MUST GIVE UP TRAFFIC

Roads Cannot Charge Higher Rates for Lack of Facilities.

Washington.—A railroad is not warranted in exacting increased rates merely because it has not direct facilities for delivering shipments, the interstate commerce commission Monday held, in effect, in a contested case involving freight rates on ice from Wisconsin points to Chicago. The "Soo" line has no terminal facilities in Chicago.

"If it cannot afford to pay for terminal services," the commission announced, "it will doubtless have to retire from competitive traffic. It may not either by itself or in conjunction with other carriers maintain unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory charges."

John A. Scudder Dead.

St. Louis.—John A. Scudder, a retirel capitlist, died suddenly at his home here of apoplexy. He was 83 years of age. In the golden days of river traffic on the Mississippi Mr. Scudder was a steamboat captain. He was an organizer of the Memphis and St. Louis line known as the Anchor Line.

FINED FOR CUSTOM FRAUD.

Woman Who Didn't Put Proper Value on Goods Must Pay $2,000.

Tretnon, N. J.—A fine of $2,000 was imposed on Mrs. Agnes Mangels of San Francisco, who is alleged to have landed on May 12 from the steamer Amerika at Hoboken without declaring a proper value of goods brought by her from abroad. Mrs. Mangels entered a plea of nou vult. Her counsel pleaded with the court to extend mercy and not impose a prison sentence.

15 MINERS KILLED IN OHIO DISASTER

BURNED BODIES REMOVED FROM PIT SUNDAY.

EXPLOSION OF FIRE DAMP

All of the Miners, Who Were a Mile and a Half Within the Mine, Were Killed by First Explosion—Gas Filled Mine, Blocking Rescuers.

Belle Valley, Ohio.—Burned and blackened, the bodies of fifteen miners who lost their lives early last evening when an explosion of fire damp partially wrecked the Imperial mine, were brought to the surface Sunday by rescuers working under the direction of Deputy State Mine Inspector Abel Ellwood.

Several attempts were made by rescue parties to enter the mine, but the gas had not vanished sufficiently to allow the rescuers to reach the bodies until early this morning. As each body was brought to the surface, it was identified by weeping relatives and taken into the engine room of the mine, where it was prepared for burial.

Nearly all of the 1,000 inhabitants of Belle Valley gathered at the mine entrance soon after the explosion and stood for hours watching the work of the rescuers.

The bodies were found a mile and a quarter from the mouth of the mine, lying face down and badly burned.

TRY HARD TO SETTLE STRIKE

Conferences Continue Until Midnight Without Result.

Cincinnati, O.—Street car officials and representatives of the employers' union held conferences, which, it is believed, will result in the ending of the street car strike in this city until a late hour without reaching any definite conclusion. Although the street railway company and its employes were not in direct communication, officials of both organizations held the meetings on the same floor of an office building.

Walter Knight, president of the Federated Association of Municipal Organizations, acted as intermediary. Though no definite statement was given out, it was believed that only minor differences remain to be adjusted and that a speedy resumption of traffic will take place. It is not known whether the street car company has yielded to the demand for recognition of the union, but it is willing to arbtirate this point.

No attempt was made to run cars and there was no violence.

LAW-BREAKING THREAT.

Employers Prefer Paying Fines to Paying Wages.

Chicago.—A cut to the starvation opint in the wages of women workers in Illino's, provided an eight-hour law is passed, was threatened Monday in an open hearing before the state senate sub-committee on labor. A committee of the state senate has such a bill under consideration. A. B. McCall, representing the fruit canning industry, said it was his present practice to ignore the ten-hour law and pay fines assessed against him because of the violation. He declared it impossible to get enough girls to handle a ripening crop, and that it was necessary to work long hours to keep it from spoiling.

Charity Got $300.

Chicago.—Records intended to show that one woman dependent upon charity received less than $300 during eighteen months, while approximately $5,000 was spent in investigating her condition, were produced Saturday before the legislative committee investigating charitable institutions.

PACIFIC WATERS IN CANAL.

Dynamite Demolishes Dike and the Shock Felt at Distance.

Panama.—The waters of the Pacific Ocean were let into the Panama Canal Sunday. A giant blast, composed of 32,750 pounds of dynamite, was shot, demolishing the dike to the south of the Miraflores locks, and allowing the water to flow into an extensive section, in which excavations have practically been completed. The blast was successful in every way.

PRESBYTERIANS IN ONE COMMUNION

FOUR CHURCH DIVISIONS, 3,000 PEOPLE, MEET TOGETHER.

THE DIVORCE EVIL ATTACKED

President Wilson Commended for Stand en Morals, but Vote to Include the Secretary of State Is Lost.

Atlanta.—For the first time in the history of Presbyterianism, the four grand divisions of the church, the Northern, the Southern, the United and the Associated Reformed, joined late in the afternoon in a union communion service. Participating were more than 3,000 communicants, including delegates and commissioners to the Pan-Presbyterian Pentecost and laymen from every section of the United States.

Presiding over the communion service, which was impressive in its simplicity, were Dr. J. S. Lyons, Dr. R. M. Russell and Dr. J. T. Stone, moderators of the Southern, United and Northern assemblies. A brief invocation of divine blessing, and the singing of psalms was followed by an address by Dr. Russell, in which he laid especial emphasis upon the significance attached to the union communion service as the forerunner of ultimate union of the whole church. A prayer by Dr. Lyons and pronouncement of the benediction by Dr. Stone ended the precedent-breaking service.

An interesting feature was the adoption by the Northern assembly of a resolution presented by the committee on Christian life and work, bearing directly upon the "divorce evil," and making recommendations for the enactment of uniform legislation on marriage and divorce.

At the session of the United assembly a lively scene followed the proposal to include in a telegram to President Wilson, commending him for his stand on moral questions, the name of Secretary of State Bryan. The motion provided that the telegram was to be signed by the moderators of the three assemblies.

THOUGHT AMERICAN WAS SPY

Harvard Junior Is Jailed by Italians for a Week.

Cambridge, Mass.—After a week in a dungeon, suspected by the Italian government of being a German spy, Walter Franzen, of St. Paul, Minn., a junior at Harvard, has been released through the intervention of the American consul at Milan. Franzen left college some months ago for Italy. While at Milan he was arrested, suspected of being Franz Walther, a German secret agent, whose home is in St. Paul, Hesse-Carrel. He was tried by the military authorities at the Milan fortress and found guilty. The intervention of the American consul, however, soon convinced the authorities that it was a case of mistaken identity.

UNWRITTEN LAW WINS.

Girl Who Killed Her Sister's Betrayer Is Acquitted.

Muncie, Ind.—Miss Doris Underwood, a pretty young Hartford City school teacher, charged with shooting down Otis Fisher, alleged betrayer of her sister Ada, was acquitted by a jury after twenty-eight minutes' deliberation. According to the verdict, the acquittal "was solely on the grounds of insanity." When the verdict was announced women in the courtroom sobbed hysterically and men shouted with joy.

Taxi Graft Charged.

New York.—Police Commissioner Waldo began an investigation of reports that men high in the uniformed police force were presented with free transporation by the Yellow Taxicab Company.

Nicaragua Under Siege.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua.—The government has issued a decree placing the republic under a state of siege. The step was taken owing to the threatening situation throughout the country.

Women Hiss in Court.

Muncie, Ind.—Women spectators at the trial of Doris Nnderwood, who is charged with shooting Otis Fisher, hissed when Fisher denied allegations made against him by Miss Underwood and her sister, Ada.

ALABAMA BREVITIES.

Many speakers of fame will appear on the program for the Horse Shoe Bend celebration which will be held in March, 1914, to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the decisive defeat of the Indians at Horse Shoe Bend in 1914. The state commission in charge of arrangements, will hold its first meeting in Montgomery soon and formulate a tentative program. An effort will be made to have federal and state troops at the celebration. The exercises will be most elaborate. Horse Shoe Bend is on the Tallapoosa river, near Dadeville and here the most celebrated battle with Indians in the history of Alabama occurred. A fine road is being built from Dadeville to the Bend and it is expected to complete the highway in time for the celebration. Alabama's contingent in congress are trying to put through a bill for the erection of a monument on the historic spot. The commission is composed of Gov. O'Neal and Dr. Thomas M. Owen, of Montgomery; Judge Samuel L. Brewer, of Tuskegee; Hon. James W. Strother, of Dadeville; Thomas L. Bulger, of Dadeville; John W. Overton, of Wedowee, and Felix L. Smith, of Rockford.

Failure of three officers of the Alabama National Guard to attend the examination held in Montgomery April 18 was the cause of their removal, according to an order issued from the office of Adjutant General J. B. Scully. The officers who resigned were Lieutenant Samuel Yarbrough, Company C, 4th infantry; Lieutenant Raymond A. New, Company 4, 4th infantry, and Lieutenant William F. Sullivan, Company L, 4th infantry. Recommendations of the examining board in these cases were approved. Lieutenant Robert Brantley, Company B, 4th infantry, also was absent, but he was excused on account of illness.

That Probate Judge R. L. Bradley, of Lamar county, will be a candidate for congress in the Sixth district, is a report that was brought to Birmingham by visitors from that district. In the event of Judge Bradley's entry this will make a three-cornered race for the congressional seat now held by Congressman R. P. Hobson, as William Bankhead, of Jasper, and W. B. Oliver, of Tuscaloosa, have already announced for this office.

Replying to letters from Alabama women requesting him to support the proposed woman suffrage amendment to the federal constitution, Representative John W. Abercrombie informs them, according to a dispatch from Washington, that he cannot see his way at this time to support any proposition that has for its object a transfer to the federal government of the reserved power of states to regulate the ballot. But he hopes, he says, the day is not far distant when Alabama and each of the other states will make provision for woman's emancipation.

SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES IN CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA.

The State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

Under and by virtue of the several decrees rendered in and by the Probate Court of Chilton County, Alabama, on the 19th day of May, 1913, for the sale of real estate for the payment of taxes for the year 1912, I will on Monday the 23rd day of June, 1913, sell to the highest bidder for cash, before the court house door of said county, in Clanton, Alabama, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate for the state and county taxes, fees, costs and charges, to-wit:

MANY MEET DEATH IN NEBRASKA STORM

22 RESIDENCES DESTROYED AT SEWARD AND 11 KILLED.

FOUR ARE DEAD AT TOMARO

Storm Hits Omaha and Thousands of People, Remembering Easter Visitation, Rush Into Cyclone Cellars—Wires Down.

Seward, Neb.—A tornado which took a toll of 11 lives, injured thirty-odd persons and destroyed more than a third of this town, occurred shortly before 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. Twenty-two residence were destroyed and many more were partly wrecked, but the business portion of the place did not suffer greatly.

The tornado struck the residence portion of Seward and swept everything in its path. Most of those killed were caught in the wreckage of their homes.

The tornado, after passing through Seward, continued to the northeast. Reports say that the towns of Tomaro, Luhston, Grafton and McCool Junction were wiped out. Four persons are reported killed at Tomaro and several at McCool Junction. Utica was in the path of the twister.

Before the last telephone wire went down an appeal was sent to Lincoln to send physicians and undertakers.

The tornado was followed in Seward by a hail and rain storm.

Omaha, Neb.—Omaha and South Omaha were hit by a strong wind storm. Less than one dozen houses were wrecked and there were no deaths.

In Omaha, thousands of citizens, remembering the Easter cyclone, spent half an hour in basements and cyclone cellars.

PLACE THREE MORE BOMBS

Public Library and Church Would Have Been Destroyed.

London.—The militant suffragettes' campaign of placing "bombs" in public institutions to coerce the government into granting the parliamentary franchise to women was carried on in several quarters of London and the provinces. A workmanlike canister of explosives, with a clockwork attachment, was found in the Rotherhite Public Library in Southeast Londan. It was labeled "Votes for Women." According to belief in some quarters, it was placed there by a man. Indeed, the police suspect many men have been engaged by officers of the militant suffragettes' society for this work. Another machine was found in the letter box of the Wandsworth District postoffice in Southwest London. It consisted of a glass tube containing fluid. A partly burned fuse was attached to one end. The police declare the bomb was apparently set there by militant suffragettes. Still another canister of explosives with a partially burned fuse was found in Holy Trinity Church at Hastings, a popular waterign place on the south coast, where the militant suffragettes have been most active during the past week.

ARIZONA ALIEN BILL A LAW

No Alien Can Own Land Unless He Becomes Citizen.

Phoenix, Ariz.—Gov. Hunt signed Arizona's new alien bill. It prohibits any alien, whether of Caucasian or Mongolian descent, from owning land in Arizona if he has not declared his intention of becoming a citizen. The law bars not only Asiatics, who cannot become citizens, but also many wealthy Mexicans who live on the American side of the line, but who have maintained their allegiance to Mexico. A vigorous fight was made to have the bill apply only to aliens ineligible to citizenship, that Mexican holders of property in Arizona would not be affected. There are few Japanese holding property in the state, but many Chinese hold titles, and these, like the non-citizens among the Mexicans, will be required to dispose of the real estate within five years. The law exempts only mining claims held by aliens or real property necessary to the proper working of mines.

Midland Valley Railway Co. Will Make Extensions.

Muskogee, Okla.—The Midland Valley Railway Company filed two mortgages here, one for the Fidelity Trust Company for $5,500,000 as an "adjustment" mortgage to take up the present indebtedness, and a second for $15,000,000 to the Girard Trust Company, the money to be used for extension purposes.

Drunkard Has Rights.

Topeka, Kas.—A drunkard may have liquor shipped to him from another state and the law cannot touch either the consignee or the consignor, according to a ruling made by John S. Dawson, attorney general of Kansas.

Kills Two; Commits Suicide.

Globe, Ariz.—After killing his wife, a hospital nurse, and wounding his wife's mother, Mrs. W. B. Webber, and the latter's daughter, Mrs Winnie Rowe, George Hamilton, a miner, placed the muzzle of a shotgun in his mouth and blew off the top of his head.

CONTRASTS THE BEST MATES

Quiet Men Should Wed Vivacious Women, an English Opinion, Expressed in Print.

"Does the average man prefer the demure, coy kind of girl or the bright and vivacious girl—in all probability a flirt—and which kind of a girl makes the better wife?" This is the question on which a modern girl asks opinion through a London newspaper.

"I have read in your paper many opinions on the modern girl given by young men," she writes, "but I have not found an answer to the question which countless other girls besides myself would like answered.

"It seems to me that the average man marries the coy, quiet girl, but after a few years of married life is apt to seek the society of the vivacious girl, very often at the expense of his wife's happiness."

Here are some opinions of London people:

Rev. C. H. Grundy, vicar of St. Peter's, Brockley, believes in the attraction of the opposite.

"I think the quiet man generally marries, and generally should marry, the vivacious girl," he says, "and the bright, vivacious man, on the contrary, prefers and gets on better with his opposite.

"Some of the quietest men I have known," he said, "thoroughly enjoy the vivaciousness of their wives.

"Men like contrasts. You don't want a replica of yourself. You want variety. A wife who is your double doubles your dullness.

"The best wife is the 'contrast' wife, and if you are both alike your home is dull and monotonous."

Answer to Query.

The act of uplifting the hand during the taking of an oath is so ancient that it would be futile to even attempt to say when it started. Homer attempts to say when it started. Homer mentions it as common among the Greeks of his time, and it is also found in the earliest biblical time. For instance, Abraham, the father of the Jewish people, says: "I have lifted up my hand to Jehovah," showing that even at that remote period the practice was existent. It was from the Jews, of course, that the practice found its way into christendom, where it has ever since held its place in judicial trials.

Wise Man.

Mrs. Excite—Oh, doctor, husband is in an awful way. Just as he goes to sign my checks he faints away.

Doctor—What am I to do?

Mrs. Excite—Get him so that he won't faint till after he signs them.

The important question: "Who is gong to pitch?"

HER "BEST FRIEND"
A Woman Thus Speaks of Postum.

We usually consider our best friends those who treat us best.

Some persons think coffee a real friend, but watch it carefully awhile and observe that it is one of the meanest of all enemies, for it stabs one while professing friendship.

Coffee contains a poisonous drug—caffeine—which injures the delicate nervous system and frequently sets up disease in one or more organs of the body, if its use is persisted in.

"I had heart palpitation and nervousness for four years and the doctor told me the trouble was caused by coffee. He advised me to leave it off, but I thought I could not," writes a Wis. lady.

"On the advice of a friend I tried Postum and it so satisfied me I did not care for coffee after a few days' trial of Postum.

"As weeks went by and I continued to use Postum my weight increased from 98 to 118 pounds, and the heart trouble left me. I have used it a year now and am stronger than I ever was. I can hustle up stairs without any heart palpitation, and I am free from nervousness.

"My children are very fond of Postum and it agrees with them. My sister liked it when she drank it at my house; now she has Postum at home and has become very fond of it. You may use my name if you wish, as I am not ashamed of praising my best friend—Postum." Name given by Pustum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum now comes in new concentrated form called Instant Postum. It is regular Postum, so processed at the factory that only the soluble portions are retained.

A spoonful of Instant Postum with hot water, and sugar and cream to taste, produce instantly a delicious beverage.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.—

RESINOL A SAFE SKIN TREATMENT

You need never hesitate to use Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. There is nothing in them to injure the tenderest surface. Resinol is a doctor's prescription which proved so successful for eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning, unsightly skin eruptions, that it has been used by other physicians all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval.

In a single month, two hundred and twenty-one doctors wrote us indorsing the Resinol preparations. They would not have done so if they had not found them highly valuable in their own practice. They prescribe Resinol freely, confident that its soothing, healing action is brought about by agents so bland and gentle as to be suited to the most delicate skin—even of a tiny baby.

The nearest druggist sells Resinol Ointment (50c and $1.00) and Resinol Soap (25c) or you can try them free by writing to Dept. 13-K, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for liberal sample of each.

SPECIAL TO WOMEN

Do you realize the fact that thousands of women are now using

Paxtine

as a remedy for mucous membrane affections, such as sore throat, nasal or pelvic catarrh, inflammation or ulceration, caused by female ills? Women who have been cured say "it is worth its weight in gold." Dissolve in water and apply locally. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women.

Real Merit Has Made Bond's Liver Pills

a household word through the South.

We have spared neither time nor money in perfecting BOND'S PILLS for the cure of Headaches, Biliousness, Constipation, Malaria and similar ills. MERIT was our chief object. Not how "cheap" but how good we could make them.

The extraordinary success of BOND'S PILLS is due solely to their MERIT, not to loud and misleading claims of CURING EVERYTHING.

THE LATEST FASHION NOTE

Says: "It is a wise precaution against getting holes in delicate hosiery to powder the shoes before putting them on." Many people sprinkle the famous antiseptic powder, Allen's Foot-Ease, into the shoes, and find that it saves its cost ten times over in keeping holes from hosiery as well as lessening friction and consequent smarting and aching of the feet.

THE RACE OPENS EARLY.

Comer, Seed, Kolb, Henderson, Wallace, so far comprise the list of candidates seeking the democratic nomination for governor.

Comer is "Agin the L. & N." Seed and Kolb are for "economical administration" and Henderson and Wallace are in because they would like to have the office.

If the people of the state will realize the nature of the political combination with which these men are all allied they will pay little heed to their nomination but will go ahead and nominate for themselves and elect a man free to look after the interests of the people, not hampered by ring control in any shape or form.

The ring has been in power long enough—it is time to make a change.

HOOKWORM CAMPAIGN.

The interest in the hookworm campaign is unabated. At all the points the doctors serve the crowds are larger at each visit. It will be impossible to estimate the value to the county of the work done by the hookworm commission. The Dr. will be at Verbena May 23, Clanton, May 24.

Dr. Grote writes that on account of the great number of cases coming for treatment, they will prolong the campaign in the county a week, and will be at Jemison May 29, Verbena May 30, and Clanton May 31.

Nearly 1000 cases have been treated in the county.

CIRCUIT COURT

The following cases are among those disposed of up to Tuesday evening:

Wesley Jones, S. L., $50, 6 mos hard labor sentence suspended.

Herale Hodgins, A. to. M., guilty of assault.

Josiah Heaton, P. D. $10.

John Hart, A. to R. not guilty.

Scott Craddock, S. L., guilty.

Essick Lee, dis. wom. in pub. place, $10.

Robt Bruce, forgery, plead guilty.

Thos Lucas, P. D., $10.

The court adjourned in the afternoon to attend the funeral of the wife of A. C. Smith, a member of the bar.

Only Half an Hour from Town

MODERN business men and farmers have ceased to measure distances by miles. Minutes serve instead. "We are just half an hour from town," says a farmer who lives seven miles out and owns an International car. "I went to town today, starting half an hour after my neighbor went by my gate with his team, and I passed him just where the main street paving begins. We visit every friend within thirty miles, hear lectures, see entertainments, have a better time in every way since I bought an

International Commercial Car

An Ohio business man says "When I am using my International Commercial Car the expense is about the same as with a team, but when it is not in use it is not eating, and, therefore, costs nothing. After a year's experience, I find the repair bills to be no more than the bills for shoeing, harness repairs, wagon repairs, painting, etc., and there is the added advantage of getting around three times as fast."

When you own an International Commercial Car you make the trips you used to neglect because you did not want to take the horses from their work. It can be used in all seasons when the road is passable to horses. The wheels are high enough to give ample road clearance. Solid tires give good traction and eliminate many tire troubles. The engine is simple and powerful. It will pay you in many ways to know all about the International Commercial Car. A letter brings full particulars with many interesting facts and figures.

What

a great improvement would be made in the condition of horses and other animals if just the proper remedy were used when they became ill or injured. If your horse could talk he would ask you not to use any external remedy containing alcohol because it stings and tortures his flesh terribly. Some liniments have alcohol and other fiery ingredients which only inflame the skin and tissue without striking down to where the pain lies. Beware of such liniments. The great humane, quick-action remedy is MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT. Made of oils, without a drop of alcohol or other torturing element, it soaks straight to the bone and muscle. It soothes the wounded parts and is comforting while the healing work is progressing. Mexican Mustang Liniment is what you want because it your work lighter, saves your livestock from suffering and keeps them in good trim for work. For all forms of Lameness, Strains, Bruises, Cuts, Burns, Galls and Harness Sores in animals, it is safe and prompt and does not promise what it cannot perform. Mustang Liniment has been doing its wonderful healing work for 65 years. The amount of money it has saved livestock owners is incalculable. One man writes that he was about to kill his valuable horse because badly injured but Mustang Liniment made him well again. A Veterinary tells us he has used Mustang Liniment fifteen years and found it best liniment for cuts, strains, etc. And many others are enthusiastic friends of this tried and true remedy. Now you know just what makes

Makes

CHAPTER I.

A Chance Encounter.

"Don't you know, boy, you ought not to get in my way?"

The tide was at its ebb; the boats stranded afar, and the lad addressed had started, with a fish—his wage—in one hand, to walk to shore, when, passing into the shadow of the rampart of the Governor's Mount, from the opposite direction a white horse swung suddenly around a corner of the stone masonry and bore directly upon him. He had but time to step aside; as it was, the animal grazed his shoulder, and the boy, about to give utterance to a natural remonstrance, lifted his eyes to the offender. The words were not forthcoming; surprised, he gazed at a tiny girl, of about eleven, perched fairy-like on the broad back of the heavy steed.

"Don't you know you ought not to get in my way?" she repeated imperiously.

The boy, tall, dark, unkempt as a young savage, shifted awkwardly; his black eyes, restless enough ordinarily, expressed a sudden shyness in the presence of this unexpected and dainty creature.

"I—didn't see you," he half stammered.

"Well, you should have!" And again the little lady frowned, shook her disordered golden curls disapprovingly and gazed at him, a look of censure in her brown eyes. "But perhaps you don't know who I am," she went on with a lift of the patrician doll-like features. "I don't think you do, or you wouldn't stand there like a booby, without taking off your hat." More embarrassed, he removed a worn cap while she continued to regard him with the reverse of approval. "I am the Comtesse Elise," she observed; "the daughter of the Governor of the Mount."

"Oh!" said the boy, and his glance shifted to the most important and insistent feature of the landscape.

Carrying its clustered burden of houses and palaces, a great rock reared itself from the monotony of the bare and blinding sands. Now an oasis in the desert, ere night was over he knew the in-rushing waters would convert it into an island; claim it for the sea! A strange kingdom, yet a mighty one, it belonged alternately to the land and to the ocean. With the sky, however, it enjoyed perpetual affiliation, for the heavens were ever wooing it; now winding pretty ribbons of light about its air-drawn castles; then kissing it with the tender, soft red glow of celestial fervor.

"Yes; I live right on top among the clouds, in a castle, with dungeons underneath, where my father puts the bad people who don't like the nobles and King Louis XVI. But where," categorically, "do you live?"

His gaze turned from the points and turrets and the clouds she spoke of—that seemed to linger about the lofty summit—to the mainland, perhaps a mile distant.

"There!" he said, and specifically indicated a dark fringe, like a cloud on the lowlands.

"In the woods! How odd!" She looked at him with faint interest. "And don't the bears bother you? Once when I wanted to see what the woods were like, my nurse told me they were filled with terrible bears who would eat up little girls. I don't have a nurse any more," irrelevantly, "only a governess who came from the court of Versailles, and Beppo. Do you know Beppo?"

"No."

"I don't like him," she confided. "He is always listening. But why do you live in the woods?"

"Because!" The reason failed him.

"And didn't you ever live anywhere else?"

A shadow crossed the dark young face. "Once," he said.

"I suppose the bears know you," she speculated, "and that is the reason they let you alone. Or, perhaps, they are like the wolf in the fairy-tale. Did you ever hear of the kind-hearted wolf?"

He shook his head.

"My nurse used to tell it to me. Well, once there was a boy who was an orphan and everybody hated him. So he went to live in the forest and there he met a wolf. 'Where are you going, little boy?' said the wolf. 'Nowhere,' said the boy; 'I have no home.' 'No home!' said the kind-hearted wolf; 'then come with me, and you shall share my cave.' Isn't that a nice story?"

He looked at her in a puzzled manner. "I don't know," he began, when she tossed her head.

"What a stupid boy!" she exclaimed severely. A moment she studied him tentatively through her curls, from the vantage point of her elevated seat. "That's a big fish," she remarked, after a pause.

"Do you want it?" he asked quickly, his face brightening.

"You can give it to Beppo when he comes," she said, drawing herself up loftily. "He'll be here soon. I've run away from him!" A sudden smile replaced her brief assumption of dignity. "He'll be so angry! He's fat and ugly," more confidentially. "And he's so amusing when he's vexed! But how much do you ask for the fish?"

"I didn't mean—to sell it!"

"Why not?"

"I—don't sell fish."

"Don't sell fish!" She looked at the clothes, frayed and worn, the bare muscular throat, the sunburned legs. "You meant to give it to me?"

"Yes."

The girl laughed. "What a funny boy!"

His cheek flushed; from beneath the matted hair, the disconcerted black eyes met the mocking brown ones.

"Of course I can't take it for nothing," she explained, "and it is very absurd of you to expect it."

"Then," with sudden stubbornness, "I will keep it!"

Her glance grew more severe. "Most people speak to me as 'my lady.' You seem to have forgotten. Or perhaps you have been listening to some of those silly persons who talk about everybody being born equal. I've heard my father, the governor, speak of them and how he has put some of them in his dungeons. You'd better not talk that way, or he may shut you up in some terrible dark hole beneath the castle."

"I'm not afraid!" The black eyes shone.

"Then you must be a very wicked boy. It would serve you right if I was to tell."

"You can!"

"Then I won't! Besides, I'm not a telltale!" She tossed her curls and went on. "I've heard my father say these people who want to be called 'gentilhomme' and 'monsieur' are low and ignorant; they can't even read and write."

Again the red hue mantled the boy's cheek. "I don't believe you can!" she exclaimed shrewdly and clapped her hands. "Can you now?" He did not answer. "'Monsieur!' 'Gentilhomme!'"

He stepped closer, his face dark; but whatever reply he might have made was interrupted by the sound of a horse's hoofs and the abrupt appearance, from the direction the child had come, of a fat, irascible-looking man of middle age, dressed in livery.

"Oh, here you are, my lady!" His tone was far from amiable; as he spoke he pulled up his horse with a vicious jerk. "A pretty chase you've led me!"

She regarded him indifferently. "If you will stop at the inn, Beppo—"

The man's irate glance fell. "Who is this?"

"A boy who doesn't want to sell his fish," said the girl merrily.

"Oh!" The man's look expressed a quick recognition. "A fine day's work is this—to bandy words with—" Abruptly he raised his whip. "What do you mean, sirrah, by stopping my lady?"

A fierce gleam in the lad's eyes belied the smile on his lips. "Don't beat me, good Beppo!" he said in a mocking voice, and stood, alert, lithe, like a tiger ready to spring. The man hesitated; his arm dropped to his side. "The very spot!" he said, looking around him.

A moment the boy waited, then turned on his heel and, without a word, walked away. Soon an angle in the sea-wall, girdling the Mount, hid him from view.

"Why didn't you strike him?" Quietly the child regarded the man. "Were you afraid?" Beppo's answering look was not one of affection for his charge. "Who is he?"

"An idle vagabond."

"What is his name?"

"I don't know."

"Don't you?"

A queer expression sprang into his eyes. "One can't remember every peasant brat," he returned evasively.

She considered him silently; then: "Why did you say, 'The very spot?'" she asked.

"Did I? I don't remember. But it's time we were getting back. Come, my lady!" And Beppo struck his horse smartly.

CHAPTER II.

An Echo of the Past.

Immovable on its granite base, the great rock, or "Mount," as it had been called for centuries, stood some distance from the shore in a vast bay on the northwestern coast of France. To the right, a sweep of sward and marsh stretched seaward, until lost in the distance; to the left, lay the dense Desaurac forest, from which an arm of land, thickly wooded, reached out in seeming endeavor to divide the large bay into two smaller basins. But the ocean, jealous of territory already conquered, twice in twenty-four hours rose to beat heavily on this dark promontory, and, in the angry hiss of the waters, was a reminder of a persistent purpose. Here and there, through the ages, had the shore-line of the bay, as well as the neighboring curvatures of the coast, yielded to the assaults of the sea; the Mount alone, solidly indifferent to blandishment or attack, maintained an unvarying aspect.

For centuries a monastery and fortress of the monks, at the time of Louis XVI. the Mount had become a stronghold of the government, strongly ruled by one of its most inexorable nobles. Since his appointment many years before to the post, my lord, the governor of the rock, had ever been regarded as a man who conceded nothing to the people and pursued only the set tenure of his way. During the long period of his reign he committed but one indiscretion; generally regarded as a man confirmed in apathy for the gentler sex, he suddenly, when already past middle age, wedded. Speculation concerning a step so unlooked for was naturally rife.

In hovel and hut was it whispered the bride Claire, only daughter of the Comtesse de la Mart, had wept at the altar, but that her mother had appeared complacent, as well she might; for the Governor of the Mount and the surrounding country was both rich and powerful; his ships swept far and wide, even to the Orient, while the number of metayers, or petty farmers that paid him tribute, constituted a large community. Other gossips, bending over peat fires within mud walls, affirmed—beneath their breath, lest the spies of the well-hated lord of the North might hear them!—that the peasant lass. That a simple church ceremony had preceded this step was both affirmed and denied; hearsay described a marriage at a neighboring village; more malicious gossip discredited it. A man of rank! A woman of the soil! Feudal custom forbade belief that the proper sort of nuptial knot had been tied.

Be this as it may, for a time the sturdy, dark brown young woman presided over the Seigneur's fortunes with examplary care and patience. She found them in a chaotic condition; lands had either been allowed to run to waste, or were cultivated by peasants that so long had forgotten to pay the metayage, or owner's due, they had come to regard the acres as their own—a delusion this practical helpmate would speedily have dispelled, save that the Seigneur himself pleaded for them and would not permit of the "poor people" being disturbed. Whereupon she made the best of an anomalous situation, and all concerned might have continued to live satisfactorily enough unto themselves, when unfortunately an abrupt break occurred in the chain of circumstances. In presenting the Seigneur with a child, half-peasant, half-lord, the mother gave up her own life for his posterity.

At first, thereafter, the Siegneur remained a recluse; when, however, a year or two had gone by, the peasants—who had settled in greater numbers thereabouts, even to the verge of the forest—noticed that he gradually emerged from his solitude, ventured into the world at large, and occasionally was seen in the vicinity of the Mount. This predilection for lonely walks clearly led to his undoing; one morning he was found stabbed in the back, on the beach at the foot of the Mount.

Carried home, he related how he had been set upon by a band of miscreants, which later, coming to the governor's ears, led to an attempt to locate the assailants among the rocky isles to the northwest, haunts of privateersmen, rogues and those reformers who already were beginning to undermine the peace of Louis XVI.'s northern provinces. In the pursuit of these gentry, the governor showed himself in earnest. Perhaps his own sorrow at the rather sudden death of his lady, occurring about this time, and leaving him, a morose widower, with a child, a little girl, led him to more relentless activities; perhaps the character of the crime—a noble stabbed!—incensed him. Certainly he revenged himself to the full; not only raked the rocks for runagates, but dragged peasants, inclined to sullenness, from their huts; clapped some in dungeons and hanged the rest. In the popular mind his name became synonymous with cruelty, but, on his high throne, he continued to more popular, though impoverished Seigneur Desaurac had been the favored suitor with the young woman herself, but that the family of the bride had found him undesirable. The Desaurac fortune, once large, had so waned that little remained save the rich, though heavily encumbered lands and, in the heart of the forest, a time-worn, crumbling castle.

Thus it came to pass the marriage of the lady to the Governor was celebrated in the jeweled Gothic church crowning a medley of palaces, chapels and monastery on the Mount; that the rejected Seigneur Desaurac, gazing across the strip of water—for the tide was at its full—separating the rocky fortress from the land, shrugged his shoulders angrily and contemptuously, and that not many moons later, as if to show disdain of position and title, took to his home an orphaned exercise his autocratic prerogative and cared not what the people thought.

Meanwhile, the Seigneur Desaurac, recovering, became a prey to greater restlessness; no sooner was he able to get about, than, accompanied by a faithful servant, Sanchez, he left the neighborhood, and, for a number of years, led a migratory existence in continental capitals. The revolt of the colonies in America and the news of the contemplated departure of the brave Lafayette for the seat of hostilities, offered, at least, a pretext to break the fetters of a purposeless life. At once he placed his sword at Lafayette's disposal, and packed himself and servitor—a fellow of dog-like fidelity—across the ocean. There, at the seat of war's alarms, in the great conflict waged in the name of liberty, he met a soldier's end far from the field of his ancestors. Sanchez, the man, buried him, and, having dutifully performed this last task, walked away from the grave and out of the army.

During this while the son by the peasant woman, intrusted to an old fishwife who had been allowed to usurp a patch of his father's lands, received scanty care and attention, even when the stipulated fees for his maintenance had continued to come; but when, at the Seigneur's death, they ceased, any slight solicitude on the caretaker's part soured to acrimony. An offspring of dubious parentage, she begrudged him his bread; kept him from her own precious brood, and taught them to address him as "brat," "pauper," or by terms even more forcible. Thus set upon, frequently he fought; but like young wolves, hunting in packs, they worried him to the earth, and, when he continued to struggle, beat him to unconsciousness, if not submission.

One day, after such an experience at the hands of those who had partaken of the Seigneur's liberality, the boy, all bruised and aching, fled to the woods, and, with the instinct of an animal to hide, buried himself in its deepest recesses. Night came; encompassed by strange sounds, unknown terrors, he crept to the verge of the forest, and lying there, looked out across the distance toward the scattered habitations, visible through the gloom. One tiny yellow dot of light which he located held his glance. Should he return? That small stone hut, squalid as it was, had been his only remembered home. But the thought of the reception that awaited him there made him hesitate; the stars coming out, seemed to lend courage to his resolution, and, with his face yet turned toward the low long strip of land, sprinkled with the faint, receding points of light, he fell asleep.

The earliest shafts of morn, however, awaking him, sent him quickly back into the dark forest, where all day he kept to the most shadowy screens and covers, fearing he should be followed, and, perhaps, captured. But the second night was like the first, the next like the second, and the days continued to pass with no signs of pursuit. Pinched by hunger, certain of the berries and roots he ate poisoned him, until in time he profited by his sufferings and learned to discriminate in his choice of the frugal fare about him. Not that his appetite was ever satisfied, even when he extended his explorations to the beach at night, digging in the sand with his fingers for cockles, or prowling about the rocks for mussels.

Yet, despite all, he hugged to his breast a compensating sense of liberty; the biting tooth of autumn was preferable to the stripes and tongue-lashings of the old life; and, if now frugal repasts were the rule, hunger had often been his lot in the past. So he assimilated with his surroundings; learned not to fear the animals, and they, to know him; indeed, they seemed to recognize him by that sharp unsated glint of the eye as one of their kind. When the days grew bleaker and the nights colder, he took refuge in a corner within the gray walls of the moss-grown castle of his ancestors, the old Seigneurs. No cheerful place, above all at night, when the spirits of the dead seem to walk abroad, and sobs, moans, and fierce voices fill the air! Then, creeping closer to the fire he had started in the giant hearth, wide-eyed he would listen, only at length through sheer weariness to fall asleep. Nevertheless, it was a shelter, and here, throughout the winter, the boy remained.

Sacking the Animals.

Spader Johnson, one of the principal clowns with the Ringling circus, was spinning yarns in the padroom and told this:

A rube visitor to the city had spent all of the morning reading circus bills and was just going to his hotel when he saw a red painted United States mail wagon going down the street. He sized it up for a circus wagon and followed it four miles to the postoffice and with wide open mouth watched the unloading of the mail.

Late in the afternoon he met another rube and remarked:

"Adner, I followed one of them circus wagons all the way downtown, an' when they unloaded they took the varmints out in sacks."—Chicago Post.

Our Chief Capital.

William Muldoon, the health specialist, said in a recent interview in New York: "The health of the average American is far below what it was a generation ago. The trouble is that we Americans put dollars ahead of health, ahead of life, ahead of everything.

"They say that a European, landing for the first time in New York, once asked a native: 'What is the capital of this country, sir?'

"'I forget just how much the capital is,' the native replied; 'but anyhow, it's all in Pierpont Morgan's hands.'"

Plans to Develop Iceland.

A French syndicate with a capital of 600,000 francs ($115,800) and financed by the Banque Francaise pour la Commerce et l'Industrie, of Paris, has purchased property on the south coast of Iceland for the purpose of building a new harbor there. The syndicate has also secured control of large waterfalls which are situated a few miles inland, and engineers have investigated the possibility of utilizing this power, which is estimated at about 200,000 horsepower, to generate electricity for operating factories, which will be built near the harbor.

COULDN'T RAISE HEAD OR HAND

And Had Lost All Hope of Recovery. Now Runs Sewing Machine.

Scottsville, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Miss Jennie Meador writes as follows: "I was in an awful condition, caused from womanly trouble. Was confined to my bed, and couldn't raise my head or hand. In fact, I had lost all hope of ever getting well.

I began taking Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I can now work in the garden, run a sewing machine, have gained 15 pounds, and am as happy as can be.

You may publish this letter if you wish. I wish all ladies suffering from womanly trouble would give Cardui a trial, as I am sure it would help them."

Cardui is a pure vegetable extract, that has no severe medicinal action, but acts mildly and gently, as a medicine should act, and therefore can have no bad after effects.

You can rely on Cardui to help you, just as it has helped so many thousands of other women in the past half-century. It goes to the seat of the trouble and builds up womanly strength where it is most needed.

It is always wise to have a bottle of Cardui on hand, ready for use. Get a bottle today, so that you can take a dose or two whenever you feel you need it. At your drug store.

His Quick Flop.

Hundreds of letters are received every month by John E. Kunkle, who is known throughout the country as the boy's friend, and is familiarly addressed as "Gunk." He always has his eye open for the bad boy, the tough kid of the neighborhood. This is the kind of boy that he likes to enroll in his league and decorate with one of his badges.

One of the masterpieces that he received through the mail from one of these boys says:

"Dear Gunk: I thought I would write to you and see if I couldn't get one of them badges. I have several bad habits. I swear, chew, smoke cigarettes, and say my prayers every night, but if you'll send me a badge I'll cut them all out and be good."

Justice With a Vengeance.

A broker was talking about J. Pierpont Morgan.

"The money trust investigation undoubtedly shattered him," the broker said. "He believed that this investigation was unfairly conducted. He likened it, in my hearing, to a horse-stealing trial out west.

"A jury was gathered in the street, he said, and shut up in a room, after a brief trial, and when an hour had gone by a mob burst in and unceremoniously demanded what the verdict was.

"'Not guilty,' said the foreman.

"'That won't do!' said the leader of the mob fiercely. 'You'll have to do better than that.' And he shut the jury up again.

"In half an hour the door was opened once more.

"'Well, gents, your verdict!' said the leader.

"'Guilty,' the foreman said.

"There were hurrahs from the crowd, and the leader said:

"'Correct. You can go now. We strung him up an hour ago.'"

HENRY M. FLAGLER PASSES TO BEYOND

DEATH OF AGED FINANCIER FOLLOWS SERIOUS ILLNESS OF SEVERAL WEEKS.

LITTLE KNOWN OF EARLY LIFE

H. M. Flagler's Greatest Achievement Was Extension of Railroad From Miami to Key West.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Henry M. Flagler, aged 83, the noted capitalist and railroad magnate, died at his winter home here after an illness of several weeks. The octogenarian sustained a fall from the steps in his home and because of his advanced age his recovery had not been anticipated.

Henry M. Flagler was born in Canandaigua, N. Y., in 1830. Little is known of his early life except that he was clerk in a country grocery in Orleans county, Michigan, while yet in his teens. Later he removed to Saginaw, Mich., where he engaged in the manufacture of salt.

Becoming interested in the possibilities of the petroleum industry, he removed to Cleveland, Ohio, where he organized the company of Rockefeller, Andrews & Flagler, engaging in the refining of oil. The Standard Oil company was the outgrowth of this venture and Mr. Flagler has remained actively connected with the management of the great corporation since its inception.

In 1885 Mr. Flagler paid his first visit to Florida, and became impressed with the business possibilities presented there by the railroad field, in connection with the development of winter resorts.

Entering actively into the work of turning Florida into one vast winter resort, Mr. Flagler built the Florida East Coast railroad and later erected the Ponce de Leon and Alcazar hotels at a cost of $3,000,000.

His greatest achievement, however, was the extension of his railroad from Miami to Key West. For many years his plan was ridiculed as impracticable and was called "Flagler's folly." The opening of this "over seas" line is listed as one of the engineering triumphs of the age.

Mr. Flagler formerly was vice-president and director of the Standard Oil company, president and chairman of the board of directors of the Florida East Coast railway and Jacksonville Terminal company, director of the Western Union Telegraph company, Morton Trust company and other corporations.

The body was buried in a mausoleum at St. Augustine, in the yard of the Memorial church, which he gave to the Presbyterians.

CUBAN PRESIDENT INAUGURATED

Ceremony Takes Place in Historic Palace in Havana.

Havana.—Amid scenes of intense patriotic enthusiasm, Gen. Hario G. Menocal was inaugurated as third president of the Cuban republic. The ceremony took place in the historic palace of the Spanish captains general in Havana and was attended by a brilliant assemblage, including a special American mission. Special fetes were held when the city was brilliantly illuminated. The principal streets, lined with triumphal arches and the buildings draped with the national colors, were thronged. There was superb electrical displays in the Prado and Central park. General Menocal was escorted to the palace by a squadron of rurales and cavalry and was met at the entrance by the retiring president, Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, and members of his cabinet.

REALISM CARRIED TO EXCESS

Lack of Drapery Would Seem to Have Furnished Excellent Incentive for Maternal Slipper.

A mother in Worcester, Mass., who had orthodox views, had told her children the Garden of Eden story. The children were greatly impressed. One afternoon, returning from town, the mother found the palms and ferns had disappeared from the veranda. Going into the darkened living-room she saw one of the boys, minus clothing, reclining under a big fern, while another, equally clothesless, was standing by a palm. They enlightened her by explaining that they were playing Adam and Eve in the garden.

At that minute her youngest boy, not three, came into the room as nature had first given him to the world, except that he wore a silk hat on his head and carried a cane

"And pray who are you?" asked the mother.

The little one looked up at her and smiled as he said: "I am the Lord Dod Almighty walking in the darden in the tool of the day."

BREAKING OUT WOULD ITCH AND BURN

Bellton, Ga.—"Some time ago my feet and ears were frost bitten, which troubled me very much every winter. My ears would turn red and swell, with terrible itching and my heel would crack. I had a severe scalp trouble and also a breaking out on my wrists and hands which would itch and burn until I could not sleep of nights. There was an eruption on my scalp with dandruff. I had to keep my hair clipped close to keep down the irritation and itching. I tried several remedies and cream and two treatments of —— remedies which did me no good. Then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I am now cured of all my troubles." (Signed) J. S. Echols, Mar. 12, 1912.

An abridged Bible is being advocated—one that will contain only the vital parts of the great book, and that omits hundreds of pages of matter now not read at all except by students. No doubt such a Bible would become instantly popular, because it would all be interesting and to the point. In this age, none except students will wade through very long books. Everybody wants the truth boiled down to the very shortest space. The great story of the crucifixion is told in very few words, and all the essentials of the Bible for the average person could easily be covered in one-fifth the pages required for the whole work.—Gallipolis Tribune.

UNIQUE CASE OF FILIAL LOVE

To Help His Mother a Penniless Nobleman "Tries" a Clown Act in Paris Theater.

Visitors to Paris who have recently wandered by chance into one of the "cafe concerts," which are mostly frequented by that class who neither toil nor spin, must have been amazed and saddened by a very unusual music hall turn, writes the Paris correspondent of the Brooklyn Eagle. Every night, between the "sentimental tenor" and the "chanteuse legere," a mournful looking young man appears. He is greeted with derisive yells.

He sings, or tries to sing, a sentimental ballad and a comic song. He also imitates animals, the noises of tools and the whistling of locomotives.

The effect is so deplorable that the audience recently insisted on the "noble clown" apologizing for his lack of skill. He humbly advanced to the footlights and bowed to right, left and before him. Then in a voice choked with sobs, he began to express his regret. With pathetic resignation he went down on his knees, offered profuse apologies for his lack of skill and promised to do his best to please them in the future.

Few who have seen this lamentable exhibition know its origin and excuse. This abject buffoonery is inspired by one of the noblest motives—filial love. This descendant of one of the oldest and noblest families in Venice was left alone, when very young, with his infirm and penniless mother. For many years they lived on the charity of friends, but the old woman is now in such health that admission into an almshouse would be the only means of saving her life. But this cannot be obtained without the payment of a certain sum, and her son is now employing the only means of procuring it open to him.

Transmissibility of Genius.

The sale of relics of Robert and Elizabeth Browning by executors of the estate of their son, the late Robert Weidemann Barrett Browning, which began May 1, again calls attention to the fact that the child of a union so richly dowered, from the literary and artistic standpoint, failed to show traces of the genius of either parent. He was an artist, but did nothing extraordinary. It would almost seem that genius not only has a way of sometimes consuming its possessor but also of consuming itself, as far as the immediate offspring are concerned. At any rate, the evidence as to its transmissibility is still lacking although, of course, there are plenty of facts to justify a belief as to the transmissibility of special talents.

Its Origin.

Miss Elsie De Wolfe, in one of the reception rooms of the Colony club, was talking about the new servant trust.

"It originated in the Philippines," she said, "among the army servants there. It traveled west to Honolulu. It is now spreading, they say, on to San Francisco.

"This coming trouble reminds me of a story.

"'Who originated the proverb about a rolling stone gathering no moss?' one man asked another.

"The other man quietly replied:

"'That, my dear fellow, is a quotation from an eloquent but vain appeal to a suburban cook to stay on one month more.'"

Did Not Live Up to It.

Our high appreciations and even our expressed desires are not always indices of our character. "Let me die the death of the righteous," was the prayer of Baalam. And then he went right away and joined himself to the heathen and was slain by a righteous man.

After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.

Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. Brown, 809 North Walnut Street, Iola, Kan.

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS:

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 16 years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanitive Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.—Mrs. Sadie Williams, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Profitable Side Dressing

The use of side dressing is increasing on COTTON and CORN. It pays to do it, if one uses the right goods.

Two applications of 200 lbs. each per acre are recommended by a well-known Southern investigator and experimenter. He suggests a 5-5-5 formula, or a mixture of equal parts of Acid Phosphate, Kainit and Nitrate of Soda.

Side dress cotton when the plants are 10 inches high and again when the bloom begins to open. Where cotton is inclined to rust, use making two applications of 200 pounds each per acre. This is also effective against root lice and cut worms on corn, if applied early enough. It will pay you to try it, for Potash Pays.

MOUNTAIN CREEK NEWS

The Baptist Church Sunday School people intend to hold a picnic on the grounds at the old Soldiers Home in the near future.

A number of old Veterans will leave for Chattanooga re-union on Sunday and Monday next.

Mrs. Susan Hood died at Tuscaloosa Insane Asylum last week and the remains were brought home and buried in Coosa river church cemetery.

Crops, since the recent rains are in splendid shape.

There will be a suitable program arranged at Soldiers Home for June 3rd, Jefferson Davis' birthday. Good entertainment is sure, so come, bring your lunch baskets for convenience, etc. W. P. T.

SALEM.

The Thirteenth Session of the Annual May Singing at Salem Baptist church will meet on the Fourth Sunday, May 25th, 1913. All lovers of music are cordially invited to come and bring their song books and baskets well filled with dinner. Song books to be used New Lyrics of Praise and Songs and Hymns.

T. L. Robinson, Chmn.
S. M. Yates, Sec.

JACKSONS CHAPEL.

At the request made in last week's paper wanting to know who are the singers at Jacksons Chapel, I mention some of them: Mrs. Warren Jones, Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. Bud Jones, Mrs. Hallie Jones, Mrs. Tom Jones, Misses Alice, Eanie, Annie, Lilly Mae, Essie Era and Ernie Jones, Essie Parker, Ethel Jackson, Bud and Robert Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Parker, Mr. Elbert Taylor and daughter Lizzie. I hope this satisfies the writer. We have plenty of good singing when they do all get there. W. C. Jones.

DARGIN.

All Day Singing.

There will be and all day singing at Dargin, 3 miles north of Calera, July 4th. Everybody invited to attend, especially good singers. Books to be used are "Songs and Hymns." Bear this in mind for we want to make the we kin ring at Dargin once more.

Dizziness, vertigo, (blind staggers) sallow complexion, flatulence are symptoms of a torpid liver. No one can feel well while the liver is inactive. HERBINE is a powerful liver stimulant. A dose or two will cause all bilious symptoms to disappear. Try it. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

A TRIED AND PROVED GUARANTEE.

Man Bought a Bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, Then Took It Back and Asked for His Money and Got It.

A man recently tried out the guarantee which Alred Drug Co. gives with every bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. He bought a bottle and then went back to the drug store and said the medicine hadn't helped him.

This druggist just reached into his cash register and took out a half dollar, the price of the bottle of Liver Tone, and handed it back to the gentleman. But he didn't take the money. He owned up that he was just trying the guarantee and, as a matter of fact, he had found Dodson's Liver Tone the best remedy for constipation and biliousness he had ever tried. "Why," he said, "my wife wouldn't be without a bottle in the house for anything. It's the best thing in the world for the whole family, and the medicine that I prefer to take or to give to my children for a lazy liver."

Alred Drug Co. sell Dodson's Liver Tone and guarantees it to start the liver without violence. It is taking the place of calomel everywhere. If you buy a bottle and don't find this pleasant-tasting vegetable liquid the best thing to start a lazy liver, he will hand your money back with a smile.

The spring months often find a woman tired out, with pain in back, hips and head, nervous and sleepless. Foley Kidney Pills will quickly prove their worth and value as a healer of all kidney and bladder ailments and irregularities. They are a splendid remedy for rheumatism, clearing the uric acid from the joints and system. Try them. Upchurch Drug Co.

sometimes reduces her strength to the depths of weakness—her devotion to household cares prevents sufficient rest and recreation. Thousands of women in this condition find Scott's Emulsion exactly what they need; it is predigested body-food so medically perfected that every drop yields direct returns in strengthening the organs and tissues and in making healthy, life-sustaining blood. Scott's Emulsion is devoid of alcohol or any harmful drugs, and overcomes tiredness and nervousness in a marvelous way.

Foley Kidney Pills repay your confidence in their healing and curative qualities. Any kidney or bladder disease not beyond the reach of medicine will yield to their use. Mrs. Cordelia Copeland, Ardeola, Mo., says: "I had kidney and bladder trouble for over a year and 5 bottles of Foley Kidney Pills cured me." It is the same story from every one who uses them. All say, "they cured me." Upchurch Drug Co.

THORSBY DEPARTMENT

Mr. Driver, of Clanton, who is drilling the well for the town of Thorsby, reports that he has found plenty of water, and it in good coarse sand at a depth of about 75 feet. The town ought to be well supplied with water now, the well being a four inch well.

Mr. and Mrs. Calloway of Wetumpka visited the latters brother, Mr. L. C. Robinson, Sunday.

Mrs. Burl Burnett, of Clanton, spent Sunday in Thorsby as as a guest of Mrs. J. M. Poole.

Rev. E. W. Butler preached a very interesting sermon at the Congregational church Sunday.

Rev. S. H. Herbert spent Saturday and Sunday in Birmingham.

Several people from Thorsby attended the base ball game in Clanton Saturday and seemed to have had a fine time.

Mr. Albert Wilson, of Montgomery, spent Sunday in town.

The Baptist Ladies Aid Society made a success out of their apron sale last Saturday. They raised more than sixteen dollars after all expenses were paid.

Miss Mabel Swan is spending the week with friends in Birmingham.

Mr. Gentle's brother-in-law and wife, of Michigan, are spending a while in Thorsby and have about decided to locate here for the future.

Miss Alma Lefstead, who has been teaching at Campbell for the past year, is at home again for the summer. Her many friends are glad to welcome her home again.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational chuach gave a play at the Institute Monday night which was enjoyed by those present and resulted in quite a sum of money being raised for the society.

Don't fail to attend the lecture on "Japan" given by Dr. Eaves at the Institute next Saturday night. This will be the closing number of the Entertainment Course.

Remember the commencement sermon which is to be preached next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in Bates Hall.

Mr. Claud Billingsley of Birmingham is spending a few days with his parents in Thorsby.

We are sorry to state that Mr. J. M. Poole is still confined to his bed but are glad to learn that he is improving some now.

The strawberry season is about over now. The last car was shipped last week and those that are picked from now on will be shipped by express to the local markets. The crop this year was very seriously damaged by the dry weather. There were twenty car loads shipped away however, but if the season had been favorable the crop would have been between twenty five and thirty cars. The short crop has been equalized by the raisers getting good to fancy prices for their berries. The average net profit for the berry raisers of Thorsby will be in excess of $100 per acre this year. This speaks well for the town as there are very few farmers who raise cotton that net that amount to the acre. The people of Thorsby do not depend on berries alona as there are several acres in cabbage this year but the dry weather is seriously injuring them also. Several acres are planted in cantalopes this year but no opinion can be expressed about their yield as yet. A few weeks ago I was out in the Macedonia settlement and I was very glad to see several large berry fields out there several miles from the railroad. The time is close at hand when the people of this county will turn their attention to something besides raising cotton.

When the baby takes too much food the stomach turns; the result is indigestion, sourness and vomiting. Frequently the bowels are involved and there is colic pains and diarrhoea. THORSBY INSTITUTE COMMENCEMENT.

Sunday, May 25th, 8 p. m. Commencement sermon by Rev. George Eaves, D. D., of Birmingham. Music by the Institute Chorus.

Tuesday, 27th. 8 p. m. Reception given by the Trustees of Thorsby Institute to the alumni and faculty at the home of Mr. S. E. Norton.

Thursday, 29th. 8:30 a. m. Seventh Grade examination for pupils from the rural schools who wish to enter High School next year.

Friday, 2 p. m. Commencement address by Congressman Richmond P. Hobson. Music by Thorsby orchestra.

4 p. m. Exhibit of the work done by the class in drawing and water-color in the drawing room.

8 p. m. Commencement Concert by the Music Department of Thorsby Institute.

The public are invited to attend the exercises of Sunday night and Friday afternoon and night. There will be no admission charge to any of these exercises. All exercises are held in the Institute building.

MOUNTAIN CREEK.
MISS GLENN AND HER CLASS.

Continually surprises are occurring at the Mountain Creek Old Soldiers' Home, and some of these surprises are pleasant.

But it is of Miss Mary Ellen Glenn and her Sundayschool class and their visit to the Home on last Saturday, that the old men will look back to and remember as an occurrence that reminded them of when they were like Miss Glenn and her class—young too; and liked to stroll through fields and pretty places and listen to birds sing, and drink from clear running brooks.

To see those pretty misses and their polite escorts enjoying life as they did reminds those old men at the Home of the real good that emenates from a well-organized Sundayschool as the Baptist people have at Mountain Creek where morality, religious beliefs and a high understanding of God's goodness is taught by just such girls as Mary Ellen Glenn. W. P. T.

MARS HILL.

There will be a working at Mars Hill Cemetery on Saturday, May 31. All who are interested in the graveyard come and bring all sorts of tools. Everybody invited to come, there will be preaching that day.

Yours to honor the dead,

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS
AND LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

WEST CHILTON.

Cotton chopping is all the go just now. All crops and gardens too are looking nice.

Some of our girls attended the commencement exercises at the Montevallo Industrial School last week.

The Baptists met at Union Springs, the new Union church last Sunday afternoon and organized a church. Revs. Carleton and Champion were present. All Christians have a right to hold services in that building, at any time; of course they will be careful to not conflict with each others appointments. A coat of paint will be applied to the out side of the house this week.

Singing all day at the Erven school house, on the Montevallo road, on the second Sunday in June, in the Harp and Harmony. All leaders, singers and lovers of sacred music are invited. The singers will rest at 11 o'clock a.m. long enough for preaching by Rev. Hodgens. Bring your books and dinner.

The high cost of living continues, regardless of the tariff changes. It may decrease by and by but alas, the cotton grower will done have marketed his crops doubtless at a falling price. President McKinley, that great Republican, said: "Open the mills instead of the mints." He did that and unparalled prosperity followed. Some say the one crop policy is against the South, and we think the one party policy is also against the South.

We consider the bond issue in Chilton county dead.
WEST CHILTONITE.

MULBERRY.

The farmers are very busy working their young crops. I see a great many of our people are trying the Conway plan this time and we wish them much success.

Wd are glad to say that the Sundayschool at this place continues to grow. I notice there were several new students on last Sunday's report and we eqtend to them a hearty welcome and trust they will fall in line with the older ones and help to bring more into the grand work for our Heavenly Father. If we could only get the necessity of a Sundayschool more deeply impressed upon the minds and hearts of the older people, such a great work could be carried on, not only in our community, but in all others where the people are so little interested. I fully believe we need to congratulate the people both young and old of our community for their regular attendance, and also our faithful superintendent and Mrs. M. Manning for her careful instruction of her class of "Busy Workers."

On Sunday last the school appointed a committee of eight to make a house to house canvass, to show to the people that we are in earnest about having them to fall in line and all work together, and with which we Sunday workers send a united prayer that this will impress on the minds of the people that there is a great good being accomplished and they will soon join us.

Now, we also congratulate the young men of our community on the interest they have taken in their debating society, which was organized only a short time ago. The subject for Saturday night is "Resolved that the scenes of nature are more attractive than the art of man." Affirmative: Messrs. Clifford Mullins, Marvin Davenport, Jim Rasberry. Negative: Willie Martin, Carlos Williams and Tom Mooney. After which there will be a recitation by Miss Maggie Martin, and jokes by Mr. Wilbur Spur. We hope to have a large crowd so as to encourage the young speakers. Remember that the debating society meets on every Saturday night and there is a glad welcome for one and all.

Mr. Willie Martin and sister, Miss Maggie, will entertain the Sunday school class (busy workers) at their home on Friday night, June 6. Not only to their class do they give an invitation but to all. Will assure you they will do all they can to make every one have a pleasant time.

Messrs. Briggs Spur and Spurgeon Williams are attending the old Soldiers re-union in Chattanooga this week.

Well, as this is my first attempt to write in a good while, I will close with best wishes to the Union-Banner and its many readers. S. S. WORKER.

SALEM.

The thirteenth session of the Salem Annual Singing met Sunday, May 25th.

The meeting was called to order by a song by former chairman T. L. Robinson.

Prayer by Rev. J. L. Jones.

T. L. Jones was re-elected chairman and S. M. Yates, Jr., re-elected secretary.

A program committee consisting of R. L. Smith, T. L. Dennis and E. A. Norris was appointed by the chair to arrange a program for the day.

The program arranged was as follows:

T. L. Robinson, S. M. Yates, Jr., T. L. Dennis, 20 minutes each.

Recess 15 minutes.

A. L. Robinson, R. A. Smith, L. T. Grant, J. W. Lowery 20 minutes each.

Adjourned an hour and a half for dinner. There seemed to be plenty for all.

Called to order by chairman at 1:30.

Recess 10 minutes.

Ivey Huett, R. M. Robinson, Lee Robinson 15 minutes each.

The organists for the day were Misses Valie Norris and Lillian Robinson, Messrs. Lee Robinson, Lee J. Grant, C. H. Robinson and H. C. Collins.

This was among the best, if not the best, singing we have ever had at this place. People seem to be learning and caring more about good music. There was a very large crowd there as is usual.

The meeting was closed by a song by the chairman and prayer by E. A. Norris. To meet again in 1914 some date.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our grateful thanks to our neighbors and friends for their heroic efforts in trying to help us save what we could of our household furniture during our late misfortune of getting our home burned, and for their kind care for us and help rendered to us in our great time of need. May the blessings of God rest upon each and all of them is our humble and sincere prayer.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Our Sunday school is moving right along; we have good attendance every Sunday.

Mr. Lee Duncan has been very low with appendicitis, but is improving now.

Mr. and Sydney Phillips of Coosa county spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives in this community.

Mr. Hill Sharbut of Texas is spending the week with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Jones spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Massey.

Mrs. Katie Duncan is spending this week with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Smith, out near the river.

Mr. T. C. Sharbut, of near Bethel, spent Tuesday night with his sister, Mrs. Tennie Lindsey.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Watson spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Massey.

Messrs. Dan Hayes and Manly Foshee of Mt. Carmel attended our Suuday school last Sunday evening.

There will be a box supper at Mount Pleasant next Saturday night for the benefit of the Sunday school. The proceeds will go toward buying an organ for our Sunday school. Everybody is invited to come.
LITTLE VIEWER.

MAPLE SPRINGS.

Health of this community is good; there don't seem to be so much heart trouble at present as at my last writing. Everything has quited down and all seem to be in peace and quietude.

Most all of us young folks attended the singing at Salem last Sunday and I say we nad a grand time.

The singing given by Mr. and Mrs. Alpnus Wilson Saturday night was enjoyed by a large crowd.

There is to be an all day singing here the third Sunday in June; books to be used I presume will be new Lyrics of Praise and Songs and Hymns. The church is one-half mile from Falako.

The Falakto Ball Team went over and took a donble-header on Concord boys Saturday morning, the score being 17 to 1 the first gdme and 16 to 8 in the second in Falakto's favor. This makes five games Falakto has played and won each in proportion to the above named games.
BLUE JAY.

SHADY GROVE.

Health of this community is very good at present.

Our Sunday school is still progressing nicely.

Quite a crowd from this place went to the singing at Salem last Sunday.

Mrs. Argie Howard, of Cook Springs, Ala., is visiting relatives here this week.

TWO CHUMS.

IN MEMORIAM.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. DuBose Saturday morning, May 24th and took from them their only child, little Carl, 21 months old. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved father and mother. Little Carl has only fallen asleep in the arms of Jesus to await the coming of his dear parents. Perhaps if he could speak he would say weep not. He bore his sufferings with patience until the end. All was done for him that loving hands could do and two doctors, but the Lord directed all things for the best. He is free from this sin cursed world to never weep again. His Aunt.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU SAY.

Some may have faults—and who has not?
The old as well as young.
Perhaps we may for ought we know,
Have fifty to their one.

Then let us all when we begin
To slander friend or foe,
Think of the harm one word may do
To those we little know.

Remember curses sometimes like
Our chickens roost at home.
Don't speak of others faults
Until you have none of your own.

In speaking of a person's faults
Pray don't forget your own.
Remember those with homes of glass
Should never throw a stone.

If we had nothing else to do
Than to talk of those who sin,
'Tis better we commence at home
And from that point begin.

We have no right to judge a man
Until he's fairly tried.
Should we not like his company,
We know the world is wide.
Ora Jones.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TERSELY TOLD.

SOUTH, EAST, NORTH AND WEST

Notes From Foreign Lands, Throughout the Nation and Particularly the Great South.

Southern.

At Chattanooga over incoming trains brought hundreds of veterans and visitors to the twenty-third annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans. Many of those who arrived first came to attend preliminary meetings. These sessions included a welcome meeting of the Confederate Memorial association and the opening meeting of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. Chattanooga is in gala attire in honor of the momentous ocasion.

Davis Walter, a farmer, was shot and killed by Jerry Perdue near Hawkinsville, Ga. Perdue was shot through the thigh and W. H. Davis, a bystander, was shot in the neck, neither being wounded seriously. The killing is said to be the outcome of ill feeling Walker's father death several months ago, for which Perdue was tried and acquitted. Perdue came to Hawkinsville and surrendered.

Simplicity marked the funeral of Henry M. Flagler, when his body was laid in a mausoleum in the yard of the Flagler Memorial church. Thousands from all parts of Florida participated in the services at the church and viewed the body as it lay in state in the rotunda of the Ponce de Leon hotel, at St. Augustine, which he built.

John Matthews and Louise Seagers were drowned in the Ogeechee river, 14 miles from Savannah, Ga. There were four others in the party and three of them were saved by Will Parry Clay, the fourth member, who also tried to save May Jackson. The party were in a flat-bottomed bateau.

Up to his last moment of consciousness the young real estate man of Macon, Ga., whose tragic mistake, taking bichloride of mercury instead of a headache remedy, which cost him his life, Sanders Walker was calm and cheerful, comforting his grief-stricken wife and parents, and showing that the indomitable will which characterized his college days and his business life since has stood the final great test unbroken.

Henry M. Flagler, wealthy railroad builder and owner, died at West Palm Beach. Mr. Flagler had been sick for three months, although it was thought several weeks ago that he would recover. Mr. and Mrs. Flagler went to West Palm Beach in February. At that time he was suffering from excessive nervousness. A general breakdown followed.

The strict censorship which the Italian government has imposed on all news relating to the state of affairs in Trippoli and particularly with regard to the defeat of the Italian forces at Sidi Garba on May 16 has made it difficult to obtain exact information on the recent reverses in that territory. It has been learned, however, that the disaster at Sidi Garba was due to a well-laid plan of the Arabs in which Italian lost a thousand men.

Richard Curtis Smith, oiler, and H. F. Bock, chief machinist's mate, are dead and Alma Miller, oiler, who risked his life in an attempt to save Bock, is in a dying condition as the result of an explosion on the United States torpedo boat destroyer Stewart, at San Diego, Cal. The accident occurred 28 mile off port during a speed test, when a steam pipe in the engine room blew out.

Peter Bradovitch, an insane Austrian, confined in the Southern Idaho insane asylum at Banckfoot, Idaho, killed his five roommates by beating them on the head with a table as they lay asleep. Bradovitch was committed to the asylum two years ago from the state penitentiary, where he was serving a life sentence for murder. An investigation of the killing of five patients was held and the asylum officials were exonerated from blame. According to the testimony the institution was overcrowded, making it necessary to keep several patients in one room. Testimony also was given tending to show that in the two years which Bradovitch had been confined he had never shown any signs of violence.

A bomb exploded in the west dome of the royal observatory in Edinburgh, Scotland. The astronomical instruments were badly deranged, but the building itself escaped serious damage. The police declare that militant suffragettes committed the outrage.

In the presence of Major General Wood, chief of staff, and other army officers, President Wilson presented to Captain Louis J. Van Schaick, sixth infantry, the congressional medal of honor for distinguished gallantry in the Philippines.

In Philadelphia, over 10,000 union workers, men and women, employed in various industries in the city, are on strike for increased wages, reduction in hours of labor and the recognition of the unions.

Emperor William has granted a pardon to three English spies undergoing long sentences in German jails.

A most important task whose solution will be of the greatest interest to the American farmer has been undertaken by the American commission on agricultural organization, co-operation and rural credits now studying the systems at work in various countries in Europe.

The steamer Nevada, with 200 passengers on board, struck three mines in succession in the Gulf of Smyrna and sank. Only eighty passengers are reported saved. The mines were strewn on the coast waters by the Turks to prevent an attack by the Greek fleet during the Balkan war.

Luther McCarty, white heavyweight champion of the world, was knocked out in the first round in Calgary, Alberta by Arthur Pelky. The outcome of the bout was the biggest surprise since James J. Jefferies defeated Bob Fitzsimmons for the heavyweight championship. The men had just reached the center of the ring when Pelky landed several stiff blows. The big heavyweight tottered and then fell. McCarty died thirty minutes after the fight from the blow that won Pelky the championship.

In a battle near Sacramento in northeast Mexiico, 100 federals were ambushed and killed by constitutionalists, according ti reports circulated in Eagle Pass, Texas, by constitutionalists. Huerta's opponents claim to have captured the cities of Tactatecas, Parras and San Pedro de Celonias, near Torreon.

Walter Hines Page, United States ambassador to Great Britain, parried all attempts of newspaper men to obtain an interview when he arrived there from New York. He contented himself with the remark that his constant endeavor while holding his office would be to "maintain the more than friendly relations between the United States and the United Kingdom which had, happily, continued for such a long time."

The Mexican congress gave its sanction to an agreement for a loan of $100,000,000 at 6 per cent. interest. The amount is to be placed at ninety and will run for ten years. It is guaranteed by 38 per cent. of the customs receipts. The Mexican National bank is named as the representative of the bankers in the supervision of the disbursements.

The state railways of Belgium sustained a net loss of a million dollars from the ten days' strike for equal suffrage in April. The port of Antwerp lost 250,000 tons of trade in April as compared with the same period last year, and 78 fewer vessels called during the strike.

Under a bill approved by Governor Tener, ten verses of the Bible must be read daily without comment in the public schools of Pennsylvania. All teachers who violate the law are subject to dismissal.

It has been announced that Louis F. Post of Chicago has been selected as assistant secretary or the department of labor; Anthony Caminetti of San Francisco for commissioner general of immigration and John O. Densmore of Polson, Mont., for solicitor of the department of labor.

The United States torpedo boat destroyer Cassin, a 1,000-ton ship, took her maiden dip. Miss Helen Cassin Carusi of Washington, granddaughter of that late Rear Admiral Cassin, broke the bottle of champagne. The Cassin is a sister ship of the Cumming, which will go overboard early in July.

In addition to conducting hearings and digesting the answers to questions which are to be propounded to bankers and financial experts, the senate banking committee and currency committee will discuss numerous bills proposed to reform the financial system of the country before a measure is presented to the senate.

Government officials have received word of the death in London of Louis A. Gourdain, who swindled the public out of several large fortunes, which he squandered, and whose success drove him mad. Starting twenty-seven years ago as a clerk for the Louisiana State Lottery company, Gourdain organized a rival concern which netted him $750,000, it is estimated. The money came so fast his mind was affected, and he was sent to a hospital for the insane, after driving through New Orleans in a bath robe and attempting to make street speeches.

Responsibility for price agreements among manufacturers furnishing armor plate for American warships was placed directly upon the navy department itself by Secretary Daniels. In a statement following his announcement of his intention to submit a plan for a government armor plant the secretary declared the policy of the department in dividing plate contracts among all bidders at the lowest figures offered "makes all pretense of competitive bidding to get the lower market price a farce that cannot possibly deceive anyone acquainted with the facts."

Amid scenes of intense patriotic enthusiasm, Gen. Mario G. Menocal was inaugurated as the third president of the Cuban republic. The ceremony took place in the historic palace of the Spanish captains-general in Havana and was attended by a brilliant assemblage.

A railroad is not warranted in exacting increased rates merely because it has not direct facilities for delivering shipments, the interstate commerce commission held, in effect, in a contested case involving freight rates on ice from Wisconsin points to Chicago. The "Soo" line has no terminal facilities in Chicago. "If it cannot afford to pay for terminal services," the commission announced, "it will doubtless have to retire from competitive traffic. It may not either by itself or in conjunction with other carriers maintain unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory charges."

COTTON ACREAGE GAINS 3 PER CENT

CONDITION AS COMPARED TO NORMAL, 82.9 PER CENT.

HEALTHY AND VIGIROUS

Soil All Over Belt Is in Almost Perfect Condition—Rains Inadequate in East at Date of Report—West in Good Shape.

Memphis.—Reports of correspondents to a morning paper of date May 20 and 21 indicate a probable increase in the acreage planted to cotton this year of 3 per cent over last year, based on the revised figures of the government. These figures, while subject to slight changes on account of late planting, are more than usually complete, owing to the favorable season for planting that has prevailed.

The condition of the crop as compared to normal is 82.9 per cent, according to an estimate based upon reports of correspondents, compared with 78.9 last year and 87.8 year before last.

The crop is earlier than last year in all states except Texas, and in the eastern section of the belt, where dry weather has changed an early start to a late one. Over the entire belt the land is in almost perfect state of cultivation, and fields are universally clean.

The plant is generally healthy and vigorous. The principal drawback is in the way of imperfect stands, which farmers are striving to remedy by replanting.

From the detailed condition report it will be noticed that the general condition is lowered materially by the low figures in Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas, where dry weather has prevented germination of seed and caused very poor stands. At the date of this report rains had been very inadequate in that section.

Details of the reports show as follows:

Texas—Acreage increase, 5.5 per cent; condition, 93.

Louisiana—Acreage increase, 20 per cent; condition, 90.

Arkansas—Acreage increase, 4 per cent; condition, 90.

Tennessee—Acreage increase, 6 per cent; condition, 90.

Alabama—Acreage decrease, 1 per cent; condition, 78.

Georgia—Acreage decrease, 4 per cent; condition, 72.

South Carolina—Acreage unchanged; condition, 74.

North Carolina—Acreage increase, 3 per cent; condition, 76.

M'CARTY NECK WAS BROKEN

Blow to the Chin and Not to the Heart Dealt Death.

Calgary, Alberta.—A dislocated neck caused the death of Luther McCarty during his fight with Arthur Pelkey, according to information given out, following an autopsy of Coroner Costello. It was stated by the physicians that death undoubtedly had been caused by the dislocated neck and that the heart was found to be sound. A clot of blood on the brain aided in convincing the physicians that death was not due to the blow near the heart. Shortly after the contest began McCarty received a sharp jab to the jaw, which sent his head back quickly. It did not appear to have caused any pain and he was afterward on his feet for half a minute. The left to the jaw was followed by Pelkey with a right to the heart region, which caused the spectators to believe the latter blow had brought the knockout. Physicians are of the opinion that the dislocation of the neck was not sustained in the fall which followed. He fell slowly and did not strike his head.

DYNAMITE USED FOR MILL MEN

JOHN J. BREEN WILL NOT INVOLVE HEAD OF WOOLEN CO.

SAYS HE REFUSED $7,000

Breen Declared That He Did Not Know Damage Suits Could Be Settled for Less When He Asked for Sum of $13,000.

Boston.—Something of what went on behind the scenes in the city of Lawrnece during the great textile strike of 1912 was revealed at the dynamite conspiracy trial of President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Company, Frederick E. Atteaux and Dennis J. Collins, by John J. Breen, convicted and confessed "planter" of dynamite.

Breens story of his activity on behalf both of strikers and mill owners culminated in a declaration that he had refused to accept $7,000 from Atteaux's attorney, Daniel H. Coakley, the lawyer who was cross-examining him. Testimony previously introduced was that eight persons who had been arrested when dynamite was found in buildings occupied by them at Lawrence had later brought damage suits against Breen, who had "planted" the explosive.

Breen testified that he had gone to Atteaux to get $13,000 after his own counsel had told him that all the suits could be settled for $12,000. He denied he knew the damage suits could be settled at a lower figure when he was endeavoring to induce Atteaux to pay him $13,000.

Breen finally said that he had refused an offer of $7,000 from Coakley himself because he would not agree to the terms. Asked by Coakley what the terms were, Breen replied:

"You told me to put most of it in my pocket and settled with the poor slobs as cheap as I could. I didn't want that kind of money and rejected the offer."

Breen said Atteaux had engaged him to plant the dynamite and had arranged with Ernest R. Pitman, the Andover builder, who committed suicide when the grand jury began investigating the alleged conspiracy, to furnish the explosive.

Mr. Wood's name was mentioned only once and that was when Breen said he asked Atteaux if the mill president knew anything about the matter and Atteaux replied that he did not.

TO GUARD CABINET MEMBERS

Suffragettes Threaten the Life of the Home Secretary.

Cardiff, Wales.—The British cabinet ministers are exposed to such risks of being mauled by militants at public meetings that hereafter they are likely to refuse to attend unless those in charge of the meetings are prepared to guarantee their presonal safety. Because such assurance would not be given him, the home secretary, Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, did not appear at the Walsh disestablishment and free church conference.

BLAMES NAVY DEPARTMENT

Daniels Promises Reform in Armor Plate Cases.

Washington.—The responsibility for price agreements among manufacturers furnishing armor plate for American warships was placed directly upon the navy department itself by Secretary Daniels. In a statement following his announcement of his intention to submit a plan for a government armor plant, the secretary declared the policy of the department

Daniels Takes a Fly.

Annapolis, Md.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels traveled eight miles through the air in a flying boat. "It was delightful; I enjoyed the sensation thoroughly," he said in reply to an inquiry just after he alighted.

U. S. AWAITS JAPAN'S MOVE

STATEMENT FROM TOKIO ON GOV. JOHNSON'S ACTION EXPECTED.

UNREST THERE IS APPARANT

Mr. Bryan Thinks Mission of American Charge of Foreign Minister at Tokio Will Have Effect of Reassuring the Japanese.

Washington.—Interest in negotiations between the United States and Japan over the California land legislation has shifted from Washington to Tokio. The American government, having declared its reply to the Japanese protest, is awaiting the next step of Japan and the situation was not even mentioned at Tuesday's cabinet meeting.

In official circles it is regarded as significant of the desire of the administration to convince the Japanese government of its purpose to do everything possible to maintain its best relations that American Charge Bailly Blanchard has called upon the foreign minister at Tokio to assure him of the determination of the United States to find a friendly and satisfactory solution of the issues. Secretary Bryan already has verbally given such assurance to Viscount Chinda.

It is believed here that the visit to California of the Japanese statesmen, Ebara and Hattori, representing both of the great political parties of Japan, will be of benefit, as they will be able to enlighten their people at home as to conditions in California.

UNREST AT TOKIO.

Government Unable to Restrain Public Sentiment.

Tokio.—News that the California alien land ownership bill had been signed by Gov. Johnson was received here with regret, although it had been discounted in official and non-official circles. It was hoped up to the last moment, however, that Washington's intervention would prove successful. The newspapers published extra editions with the announcement that the bill had been signed.

Efforts of the Japanese government are concentrated at present on pacifying public opinion, but the task is regarded in many quarters as a more difficult one than at the time of the California school controversy, or even a year ago.

HENRY M. FLAGLER IS DEAD

Railway Magnate and Capitalist Succumbs at 83.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Henry M. Flagler, aged 83, the noted capitalist and railroad magnate, died at his winter home here Tuesday, after an illness of several weeks. The octogenarian sustained a fall from the steps in his home and because of his advanced age his recovery had not been anticipated.

Henry M. Flagler was born at Capandaigua, N. Y., in 1830. Little is known of his early life except that he was a clerk in a country grocery in Orleans county, Michigan, when he was in his teens. Later he removed to Saginaw, Mich., where he engaged in the manufacture of salt.

WOMEN SCORE BIG VICTORY

Suffrage Bill Is Favored by the Illinois Assembly.

Springfield, Ill.—The woman suffrage bill, granting votes to women for all statutory offices in Illinois, which was reported favorably to the Illinois house of representatives, was advanced to second reading. The measure already has passed the senate. Its advocates believe it will have equal success in the house.

TRUST AGREES TO DISSOLVE.

"Coaster Brake" Combination Meets Government.

Washington.—The so-called "coaster brake trust," with headquarters at Buffalo, N. Y., will be dissolved without a fight in the courts, to meet the demands of Attorney-General McReynolds, and the pending criminal cases against the combination and its officers will be settled in the near future, it is expected, by an agreement which practically has been concluded between the government and the interests involved.

GOT MONEY FROM LAWRENCE MILL

STATE WOULD SHOW IT WAS USED IN DYNAMITE CONSPIRACY.

PUT IN WORKMEN'S HOMES

W. H. Dwelley, Jr., Says Atteaux Offered His Services to Settle Strike to President Wood of American Woolen Co.

Boston, Mass.—Two checks, one of which was in payment of "expenses incurred during strike of Lawrence," were traced to the offices of the American Woolen Company at the dynamite conspiracy trial.

The checks were issued upon the authority of President William Wood of the company, and payable to Frederick E. Atteaux, a dye manufacturer who, with Wood and Dennis J. Collins, are charged with conspiring to "plant dynamite at Lawrence to discredit the striking textile operatives during the industrial troubles of 1912."

It was a check for $506, issued March 22, 1912, the voucher for which explained that the payment was for expenses incurred during the strike. The voucher corresponding with a second check, issued January 26, 1912, for $2,100, showed that it was "in full of all claims and demands to date." The $506 check was signed by W. A. Currier, assistant treasurer of the Woolen Company, and the $2,100 check bore the signature of William H. Dwelley, Jr., treasurer of the company. Both vouchers were marked, "Approved, William M. Wood, president."

Treasurer Dwelley, who was called as a government witness, testified that the check signed by him was issued at the direction of Wood. He said that Atteaux had volunteered his services to President Wood to help arrange a settlement of the strike.

JAPS MAY TAKE LEGAL STEPS

Action Held Up Because of Emperor's Illness.

Washington.—Probably as a result of the anxiety in official circles in Japan over the condition of the emperor, no instructions have been received at the Japanese embassy to make the expected further representations to the United States government regarding the California alien land act. The embassy is engaged in collecting material for the continuance of the negotiations on the lines idicated in the original Japanese note of protest of May 9. This matter relates principally to the phase of the negotiations touching the state law and the treaty, leaving to the foreign office the broader questions of policy. Legal proceedings of some sort seem to be indicated, both parties desiring to use that means of settlement of the issue, and the question apparently hinges upon which side falls the responsibility for making this test. The new law will not go into effect until August 10, before which date it would not be possible to bring suit, and for that reason the negotiations appear to be losing some of the features that characterized the early stages.

CAIRO ASKS FOR LEVEE AID

Legislative Committee Apparently Favors $250,000 Appropriation.

Cairo, Ill.—A joint committee from the appropriation committees of the two houses of the Illinois legislature, headed by Senator O'Connor, chairman of the senate committee, and D. E. Shanahan, of the house committee, visited Cairo to personally investigate the claim of this city for a state appropriation of $250,000 to aid in the 60-foot levee program. They were taken in automobiles, on a special train and by interurban car to every part of the district sought to be protected, and later made a visit to Mound City, which is seeking a $50,000 appropriation. Senator O'Connor, when questioned regarding the probable attitude of the legislature on the relief measures, said: "You have a bad situation and I think we will have to help you out."

Mob Breaks Up Meeting.

London.—Victoria Park, in the West End, was the scene of rioting when trades unionists and socialists attempted to hold a demonstration in support of votes for working women.

Harvard Democratic.

St. Louis—Harvard University is becoming more democratic, declared President Abbott Lawrence Lowell, speaking to 300 members of the Associated Harvard Clubs at the seventeenth annual convention. "The democratic spirit which we have all wanted to see more prevalent at Harvard, and the lack of which has been a cause of criticism, is growing into an actual fact," he said.

Actor Believed in Curse.

New York.—Philip Staats, an actor, who died at Baltimore on May 11, made a will, in the preamble of which he wrote: "May the curse of God, in whom I believe, follow the one who attempts to break this will."

Break Paterson Strike.

Paterson, N. J.—Two thousand strikers, all English-speaking and not affiliated with the Industrial Workers of the World, met and decided to go back to work early next week.

VETERANS TO MEET ON BATTLEFIELD

Reunion of Blue and Gray Armies to Be Held at Gettysburg, July 1, 2, 3.

40,000 EXPECTED TO ATTEND

State of Pennsylvania Extends Invitation to All Soldiers Who Fought in Conflict Fifty Years Ago—Good Time Assured All.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Veterans of the Civil War, both Blue and Gray, will again meet, after fifty years, on the battlefield at Gettysburg, Pa., on July 1. This time it will be a reunion and past differences will be but a memory.

The state of Pensylvania on May 13, 1909, created a commission to consider and arrange for a proper and fitting recognition and observance, at Gettysburg, of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg; to invite the co-operation of the congress of the United States, and of other states and commonwealths," defined the commission's duties and prerogatives and made an appropriation for preliminary expenses.

Text of Invitation to Veterans.

The invitation is as follows: "Pennsylvania, by its commission formally invites the congress of the United States and her Sister States and Commonwealths to accept this invitation from the commonwealth upon whose soil the battle of Gettysburg was fought, to share in this important anniversary and to help make it an event worthy of its historical significance, and an occasion creditable and impressive to our great and re-united nation," and likewise invites the co-operation and participation of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the United Confederate Veterans.

State Will Act as Host.

Pennsylvania—she providing all entertainment at Gettysburg during July 1, 2, 3 and 4, 1913, for forty thousand (40,000) "honorably discharged veterans of the Civil war," and she and the national government together, as provided by the act of congress of August 26, 1912, by each paying $150,000.00 for the war department with the $300,000.00 total, to create and maintain a great camp around the battlefield,

Camp Accommodations.

The camp comprises some two hundred and eighty contiguous acres, starting about two hundred yards from the high water mark monument on the battlefield, and lying to the southwest of the town and partly upon the scene of the first day's fight, consists of 5,000 tents, regularly holding twelve men each, but now to hold but eight veterans, each veteran being supplied with a separate cot. The Pennsylvania commission having charge of the order of exercises during the celebration; the physical control of the camp and grounds and the movements of troops and marching bodies therein to be in charge of the secretary of war, under such officers as he may detail for that purpose.

Free Transportation To and From Gettysburg.

With each commonwealth, state and territory rests absolutely the determination, as each deems best, to what veterans of the Civil war it will issue free transportation. Pennsylvania's invitation being that to such "honorably discharged veterans of the Civil war" as come to Gettysburg for the above celebration, either upon free transportation or at their own expense, and present proper credentials proving them to be such veterans, she will provide, food, shelter and entertainment during that period, but she furnishes free transportation to no one, save only to her own veterans or veterans now resident within her borders, and to them only under legislative direction, which is now pending in her general assembly, the national government furnishing no free transportation at all.

The Trunk Line Passenger association in whose territory Gettysburg is, has granted a one and three-fifths round-trip excursion rate, good going June 25 and returning to original starting point by July 15, a twenty-day ticket, good only on same route going and coming and costing two cents per mile, but each state must make its own arrangements with the similar associations covering the territory from that state to Pennsylvania. The railroads at Gettysburg refuse, because of lack of room, to park or accommodate there any cars on side tracks.

Program for Four Days.

The program for the four days' exercises and entertainment is not yet perfected in detail, but the tentative suggestions are:

July 1—Veterans' Day: Appropriate exercises under the joint direction of the Pennsylvania commission, and the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans.

July 2—Military Day: Under the direction of the chief of staff of the United States army. Special detachments of each arm of the regular service to participate as directed.

July 3—Civic Day: Under the direction of the governor of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, presiding, and participated in by the governors of the several states. Orations, sermon and music.

July 4—National Day: The chief justice of the United States presiding. Forenoon, oration by the president of the United States. High noon, he to lay the cornerstone of a great peace memorial. Evening, fireworks.

To Hold Reunion in Great Tent.

A great tent, seating between ten thousand (10,000) and fifteen thousand (15,000) veterans, will be erected immediately adjoining the camp, and therein will occur the above exercises, excepting the military parade and fireworks, and therein, save for the hours set apart for the above exercises, the veterans may hold all reunions they may desire, the tent being arranged to be subdivided into numerous separate enclosures. All veterans of the Civil war, north and south, are urged to wear their army, corps, division, brigade and society badges, as a means of identification to their comrades in like commands, in the expectation that it will assist in imparting information as to when and where their different organizations meet, and in bringing together comrades who would otherwise, by reason of lapse of time, fail to recognize each other.

40,000 Veterans Expected.

It is expected that 40,000 veterans of the war, not all of them, however, survivors of the Gettysburg battle, will be found encamped upon the field when reveille sounds on the morning of July 1. It will be a different reveille than that which the fife and drum corps of the two great armies sounded fifty years ago. The call to awakening will be a call to a peaceful celebration while the call to the awakening in July, 1863, was a call of armies to conflict and, to thousands of men, a call to death.

For years the veterans have been looking forward to this reunion. It is probable that there will be present many thousands of survivors of the battle.

Many of the states of the Union, north as well as south, have made appropriation to send their veterans to the Gettysburg reunion and to pay all other expenses. The battle of Gettysburg is recognized as the turning point of the war between the states. It has been called time and again one of the decisive battles of the world. Generally it is recognized that Gettysburg decided the great conflict, helped in the decision probably by the fall of Vicksburg on the Mississippi, which took place virtually at the moment that the conflict on the Pennsylvania field was decided in favor of the northern arms.

Large Sum for Entertainment.

The Battle of Gettysburg commission of the state of Pennsylvania has a large sum of money at its disposal for the entertainment of the visiting veterans, and the thousands of persons who will accompany them. Hospitality is to mark the days. Fifty years ago Pennsylvania aided in the work of repelling the visitors from the south. In early July next the same state will have its arms wide open in welcome to the men wearing the gray. Entertainments of various kinds will be offered the visiting veterans, but it is pretty well understood that their deep interest in revisiting the scenes where they fought, Little Round Top, Oak Ridge, Cemetery Hill, Culp's Hill, Rock Creek, the Stone Wall and other places will hold them largely to the pleasures and to the sadnesses of personal reminiscences. Arm in arm with the Union soldiers the Confederate soldiers will retramp the battleground. They will look over the field of Pickett's desperate charge. They will retrace the marching steps of Longstreet's corps. They will go to the place where Meade had his headquarters and to the place from which Lee directed his southern forces in battle.

It is said that this contemplated reunion has induced more interest among the old soldiers of the north and the south than any event which has happened since the day that the war closed. There is today at Gettysburg a great national park, in which is included a cemetery where thousands of soldier dead are buried. The United States government and the legislature of Pennsylvania worked together to make a park of the battlefield and to mark accurately every point in it which has historic interest.

It is expected that much good will come from the reunion of the Blue and the Gray on the battlefield of Gettysburg. Time has healed many wounds. The old soldiers have forgotten their animosities more readily than have the civilians. It is thought that this great coming together in peace of two once conflicting hosts will mark the passing of the last trace of the bitterness of the war between the states of this great Union.

Well-Trained Dog Useful to Thieves.

Governor Brown of Georgia told of a friend who bought a dog "to chase burglars, cats and tramps," but no sooner had be been introduced in the domestic camp than wifey wanted him trained to carry newspapers and other things for the entertainment of society. "Agreeable to his wife's wishes, my friend took the canine in hand and in a little while he had him so well trained that he would carry a package all over the town and keep it in his mouth until told to drop it. He had owned the dog about six months when he heard strange sounds in the dead of night, and, seizing his gun, he softly crept downstairs. The burglars were there all right—'Where was the dog?' impatiently broke in one of the governor's audience. 'Didn't he bark?' 'The dog was there,' replied the governor, 'but he was too busy to bark.' 'Busy!' exclaimed the others. 'What was he doing?' 'Carrying a lantern for the burglars while they ransacked the house,'" answered the governor.—The Argonaut

ALABAMA BREVITIES.

Because of an ice war between dealers of Gadsden and Huntsville, Boaz people are getting ice at 15 cents a hundred pounds.

The positive announcement was made in Birmingham by State Senator Thomas T. Kilby that he will be in the race for lieutenant governor.

President George H. Denny of the University of Alabama was injured in a runaway accident at Maplesville. Horses he was driving were frightened when the carriage pole broke and he was thrown out. His injuries are not regarded as serious though painful.

Under the direction of Mr. J. G. Norris the work of making some needed repairs at the county jail at Selma was started. The work was authorized at a recent meeting of the Court of County Commissioners and the jail will be placed in first class condition.

Lewis F. Downs, living at Rogersville, a town about 18 miles from Florence, was notified that he and his two brothers are heirs to an estate in Virginia amounting to about $30,000,000 left by a great-uncle. The property has been under a 99-year lease and the lease expires this year.

Since the beginning of the present commercial year last September, 116,160 bales of cotton have been rereceeived in Selma. Of this number the stock on hand at present is only 3,092 bales. This is perhaps, the smallest stock of cotton which has been on hand in Selma for a number of years past.

Lieutenant A. A. Carlson, of Montgomery, an officer of Co. A., 4th Infantry, resigned his position. The officer was examined before the State Military Examining Board and failed to make the proper qualifications and his office was declared vacant. An order covering the matter was issued by Adjutant General Joseph B. Scully.

Fireman Frank Johnson of Tuscaloosa was killed, engineer W. H. Connell, also of Tuscaloosa, seriously scalded, and C. R. Hamner, a passenger, was slightly injured when the Mobile and Ohio passenger train running between Columbus, Miss., and Montgomery was derailed near Holman, a small station about 20 miles west of Tuscaloosa.

A. G. Patterson of Falkville, grand vice chancellor was elected grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Alabama at the annual meeting of the grand lodge held in Montgomery. The grand lodge was voted almost unanimously in favor of changing the age limit from 21 to 18 and allowing males over 18 to become members. Montgomery was again chosen as the meeting place for 1914.

Contracts for eight aand one-half million fertilizer tags were awarded by C. Brooks Smith, State Auditor, to a Montgomery firm. The contract price was 51 cents per thousand. Six million 3-cent tags and two and one-half million 1 and 1-2 cent tags were included in the contract. Delivery must be made by September 1. The successful company furnished a bond of $1,000 guaranteeing that it would carry out the provisions of the contract.

According to Anniston attorneys, the ruling made by Milton H. Smith, President of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and sent out to all officials of that system, information of which was given out in Anniston, exceeds the Webb anti-shipping bill in its drastic provisions, as it makes no distinction between liquor used for legal and illegal purposes. Mr. Smith's decision, as given out in Anniston is that road will hereafter absolutely refuse to accept liquor shipments from wet territory into dry territory, regardless of the quantity of the shipments desired.

Only seventeen out of sixty-two applicants for teachers' licenses in Coffee County were successful in the last examination held by the State Board of Teachers Examiners, according to an announcement made by P. W. Hodges, Secretary. Forty-five were rejected.

Nine white teachers in Wilcox County were successful in the last examination, according to an announcement of P. W. Hodges, secretary of the State Board of Teachers' Examiners.

Two hundred men and a large number of teams will be at work on the Gadsden, Bellevue and Lookout Mountain railroad from Gadsden to Noccalula Falls, according to Loui Hart, who is promoting the enterprise. He says that 250 building lots have been sold there and that residences will be erected soon. He expects the car line to be in operation by July

HARD LABOR BETTER THAN FINES.

The grand jury in their report struck the right note when they urged the imposing of hard labor sentences instead of fines in cases of carrying concealed weapons and violations of the liquor laws. Such a course will certainly be more effective in ridding the country of great evils and upholding the majesty of the law. In the liquor cases the fine is too often looked upon as a license, and a rather cheap one at that, and the offender goes on with his traffic. In other cases reckless offenders have the feeling that some one will pay the fine for them and they can defy the law. A hard labor sentence brings the matter right home to them and will prove much more effective.

Governor O'Neal signed diplomas for the 203 corn club boys who won prizes in 1912. The average yield was 112.16 bushels per acre, at an average cost of 27 cents per bushel and an average profit of $81.24 per acre. That tells the story of how to get ahead of the boll weevil.

THE PIG CLUB.

Have you joined the Boys' Pig Club yet? If not, now is the time to act; get your father to help you get a pure bre pig, write Prof. Charles S. Jones at Auburn and Prof. J. W. Moore at Clanton for full particulars. Remember that there will be at least one hundred dollars given as prizes to the members of the Pig Club at the County Fair next October. This is the best opportunity the boys have ever had to enter a profitable and instructive line of stock raising. Besides winning the prizes you will have received good pay for your time and trouble in the knowledge you have acquired and still have the pig which will probably be worth several times what it cost you.

CO-OPERATION.

"If you want to make livestock profitable the thing to do is to join in with your neighbors; select a breed of hogs or cattle or poultry; all of you get the same breed and then stick to it until you give yonr community a reputation for the production of good stock of that particular breed. It will take only a few years to do this if you go at it in earnest, and the result will be a steady increase in the prosperity of the community."—Progressive Farmer.

Why not all join in together and build a reputation for the county as raising good Jersey cows and Berkshire hogs? Let every boy who can secure a Berkshire pig and continue to breed from it, and before he is an old man this county will be mapped as one of the most progressive hog growing communities in the State. And, again, it will do as much as any other thing you could do to lessen the damage sure to come with the boll weevil.

CRIMSON CLOVER.

It is surprising to hear of so many fine patches of crimson and burr clover and hairy vetch and to note how few farmers appear to take an interest in these great soil building crops.

When we can grow two tons crimson clover hay per acre from land producing a full crop of corn or cotton each year, and at the same time keep our land from washing during the heavy winter and spring rains, and yet refuse to be interested, are we doing our best?

CLANTON DRUGGIST DESERVES PRAISE.

The Upchurch Drug Co. deserves praise from Clanton people for introducing here the simple buckthorn bark and glycerine mixture, known as Adler-i-ka. This simple German remedy first became famous by curing appendicitis and it has now been discovered that JUST A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY. It's quick action is a big surprise to people.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The following were among the cases decided last week:

The State vs. Jim Vanderslice, A. to M. plead guilty to assault and battery and fined $100.

Lum Smith, S. L. $100.

Sanders Ogletree, S. L. $50.

Tom Waters, malicious injury to animals $40.

Chas. Jacobs, Sterling Lyon, Lee Dozier, A. to M., Jacobs and Sterling guilty, Dozier not guilty.

Jink Gentry, A. and B. $25 and hard labor.

Sam Reed, murder 1st degree, sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Scrapp Agee, murder, penitentiary for life.

Marvin Wilson, carrying concealed weapons, hard labor five months.

Tom Lucas, P. D., $10.

Jim Vanderslice, A. to M., $50, hard labor six months.

Lum Smith, S. L., $50, hard labor six months.

Sanders Ogletree, S. L., $50, hard labor 30 days suspended.

Hillery Bailton, S. L., hard labor, 100 days fine and cost and 3 months.

Tom Waters, malicious injury to animals, hard labor, 20 days and 57 days.

Sterling Lyon, A. to M., penitentiary 10 years.

Jink Gentry, A. to M., hard labor 6 months, 90 days and 115 days.

Jink Gentry, abusive and obscure language, hard labor 10 days and 88 days.

Sam Reed, murder 1st degree, penitentiary for life.

Bartley Crane, robbery, hard labor 6 months, 90 days and 73 days.

Oliver Crane, robbery, hard labor 30 days and 74 days.

Oliver Smith, robbery, hard labor 30 days and 74 days.

Court adjourned last Saturday evening.

IT PAYS TO PAINT

Money Spent For Good Paint Will Add Hundreds of Dollars to the Market Value of Your Property

To refinish or redecorate your home, select a definite specialized product—to do just the work you want done—simply, easily, at the least expense.
Pee-Gee Quality Paints, Stains, Enamels and Varnishes insure success in whatever finishing you undertake. Their undisputed superiority is a marvel to the user.

YOU WILL FIND BELOW JUST WHAT YOU NEED.

House Exterior Have it painted with MASTIC PAINT and secure a beautiful, hard, enamel-like surface of the greatest durability. Resists best the smoke and gases of the city. MASTIC WHITE is the very whitest house paint made. Don't experiment with cheaper paints or keg lead and oil, and be disappointed. Get MASTIC PAINT, "the kind that lasts." Made in 45 colors.

Porch Floors and Steps Pee-Gee PORCH PAINT is best for the purpose. Hardens quickly with high gloss. Stands wear and tear of walking on.

Screen Doors and Windows Should be painted with Pee-Gee SCREEN ENAMEL, both wire and frame. Will not fill the mesh. Saves your screens and your pocketbook.

Barns, Stables, Outbuildings Should be painted with our Pee-Gee BARN PAINT, red or green---white trimmings, make a pretty combination.

Roofs If tin, the Big Four Formula Metallic Paint gives the best and longest service at least cost. For shingles CREO-STAIN can be brushed or dipped. Soaks in and preserves the wood---doubles the life of the roof. Comes in 19 beautiful colors.

Concrete Work On cellar and porch floors and side walls, Pee-Gee PORTLANITE (dull or gloss) prevents dampness, staining and disintegration. Adds greatly to the appearance of concrete.

Interior Walls and Ceilings Don't paper them---or before you do---investigate Pee-Gee FLATKOATT, the velvet finish that is being widely used in place of paper. It's better, and lasts three times as long.

Inside Floors If the clear, natural grain of the wood has been preserved, use FIXALL VARNISH. Comes in light oak, dark oak, mahogany, cherry, walnut, etc. If your floors are badly worn, scuffed, stained or spotted, better use ADAMANT FLOOR PAINT. Dries hard overnight with a high polish. Comes in nine beautiful colors. Easy to apply. PEE-GEE Floor Wax for hardwood floors. PEE-GEE Crack Filler for filling cracks.

Furniture and Cabinet Work Should be rubbed lightly with fine pumice and water to remove spots or grease adhering---then varnished with a high-grade Cabinet Varnish such as our IMPERIAL PRESERVATIVE. Don't use common furniture varnish or you will ruin your surface. In case a dull, rubbed effect is wanted, use our Falk's Flat Finish. One coat suffices.

Re-Staining Furniture Original finish can be restored or new finish (Oak, Mahogany, Cherry, etc.) obtained by use of FIX-ALL---the perfect varnish stain. Stains and varnishes in one operation. Simple and easy to use. If Mission Finish is desired use Pee-Gee DYSTAIN.

Removing Old Paint Pee-Gee No. 23 Varnish Remover will take off old paint or varnish down to the bare wood where work is in condition to require this.

Kitchen Floors Can be painted with ADAMANT FLOOR PAINT. Dries over night with a hard, tile-like surface. Try our Yellow or Drab---neither shows the dirt readily.

Pantry Shelves Should be made sanitary and easy to clean by painting them with BLUE RIBBON FAMILY PAINTS. Lightens, brightens and makes cheerful.

Wicker Chairs Enamel white with Pee-Gee CHINA ENAMEL---or stain a pretty mission color with Pee-Gee DYSTAIN.

Porch Chairs and Swings Pee-Gee CARRIAGE PAINT is best; 11 colors to select from.

Bathroom A wonderful improvement can be made by using Pee-Gee CHINA ENAMEL. Resembles a white tile finish---hard and glossy.

Radiators Pee-Gee ALUMINUM ENAMEL or GOLD-LAK will not tarnish.

Manufactured By PEASLEE-GAULBERT CO., Incorporated, Louisville, Ky.

THE ROAD MEETING.

The attendance at the meeting called for Monday night to hear the report of the committees on the road to Lock 12, was so small that after an informal discussion of the matters in hand it was decided to call another meeting for next Monday night and urge all citizens to attend.

The business is in good shape to begin work and it is very important that all those interested come out action which will enable the work to begin at once.

Don't fail to come, for it is a matter of great importance to Clanton and the people between here and the river.

CLANTON HIGH SCHOOL CLOSING EXERCISES.

The first event in the series of entertainments which marked the closing of the school year, was the musical recital by Mrs. J. H. Middleton's music class on Friday evening.

The program was out of the usual run of recitals, being a fairy festival in which the queen of the flowers called for the songs of her favorite subjects. The children in each chorus sang well, were well drilled and in appropriate costumes made exquisite pictures. In between the choruses songs and instrumental pieces were given. The song by Mrs. J. O. Middleton was particularly sweet. The auditorium of the school house was packed beyond its comfortable capacity.

Sunday morning the school was gathered at the Methodist Church to hear the commencement sermon by the Rev. Mr. Webster of the Forrest Street Baptist Church, Montgomery. He gave them a good plain practical sermon on the necessity of choosing a plan of life and laid high ideals before them. At night Rev. Chappelle preached to the children on the value of little things. The music at the services was particularly good

On Monday evening a large audience enjoyed seeing the students in a play "The Royal Runaway," which was well acted. There were also some well rendered songs.

Tuesday night another very creditable entertainment was given by the children.

Wednesday night an address was made at the courthouse by Congressman R. P. Hobson, but as we go to press Wednesday evening we must defer account of it until next week.

Love Element In Writer's Lives.

Alfred de Musset's love for irresponsive George Sand gave his thoughts such an extraordinary elevation that he wrote many brilliant poems in consequence. Chaucer sang the praises of many queens, but his one great love was Philippa Picard de Rouet, the Lady-in-Waiting to Queen Anne of Bohemia. He waited nine years to marry her, but made it a matter of complaint in several poems.

Foley Kidney Pills repay your confidence in their healing and curative qualities. Any kidney or bladder disease not beyond the reach of medicine will yield to their use. Mrs. Cordelia Copeland, Ardeola, Mo., says: "I had kidney and bladder trouble for over a year and 5 bottles of Foley Kidney Pills cured me." It is the same story from every one who uses them. All say, "they cured me." Upchurch Drug Co.

HAVE YOUR LETTER HEADS AND ENVELOPES PRINTED

Every farmer, especially those on the R. F. D's, should have his stationery printed with the number of his route and post-office on it, and if possible with the name of his farm also. To encourage this we make the following One Dollar offer: We will furnish 150 envelopes and 250 sheets of note paper neatly printed as above for $1.00. We cannot mail them at that price as printed matter is unjustly deprived of the parcel post rate.

PROVED END OF THE ROMANCE

Contemplation of Work That Really Was Work Too Much for This Weary Willie.

"Oh, yes, we have romance in our lives," said the tramp, "but there is always something to spoil 'em. I had my last one last fall. I was pegging along a Rhode Island highway, thinking more of good feed than romance, when a couple of wearies ahead of me turned into a farmhouse. I turned in as well when I came along up and I walked into the kitchen just as they had locked a girl up in a closet and were about to go through the house. They invited me to take a hand in their game, but I took two in my own. They made it interesting for me for three or four minutes, but the average weary is no boxer. He depends upon wild swings instead of straight punches. I had 'em both down when the farmer came up from the field and the girl was released and the fellows sent off to jail.

"Well, currant jam, big red apples and mince pies were none too good for me for the next week. The daughter was a school ma'am about twenty years of age and I had won her romantic heart ere three days had passed. I think the old man would have sanctioned the match, but he didn't take me right. On the fourth day of my stay he took me out and showed me a ten-acre lot of the stoniest ground I ever saw in my life and intimated that I might start in plowing next morning. It was too much. That night I left the house by way of a window and daylight found me seven miles away. I would have helped gather apples or husked corn, but when it came to plowing among boulders as big as barrels romance fled, and I followed close at her heels."

WRONG SIDE OF THE FENCE

Most People Will Be Inclined to Agree With Lunatic in His Opinion of His Dupe.

In some of the lunatic asylums the less violent lunatics are permitted to do work. At one asylum a lunatic had been told off to paint a portion of the railings in front of the asylum.

As he was painting a passerby stood and watched him; the passerby was smoking a pipe. The lunatic looked at him for a minute and then said:

"If you will bring me a pound of tobacco tomorrow I'll show you where there is a great bag of gold hidden."

The passerby said: "Don't be silly."

The lunatic replied:

"No, really, if you bring me the tobacco I'll show you where a great, great bag of gold is hidden."

The next day the man returned; the lunatic was still painting the railing. The man handed him the tobacco; the lunatic put it into his pocket and went on painting the railing.

"Yes, but," said the man, "how about the great bag of gold?"

"What bag of gold?" said the lunatic.

"You told me," said the man, "if I brought you a pound of tobacco you would show me where a great bag of gold was hidden."

The lunatic looked at him a minute and then said:

"You know, you ought to be painting these railings."

Read Biographies.

A good tonic for the girl who is short on ambition and long on frivolities is reading biographies of men and women who have "arrived" after hard ups and disheartening downs. They reproach her for accepting the limitations of her lot, and sometimes inject into her mind a healthy bacillus of discontent.

The girl who enjoys biographies enjoys achievement, and vice versa, for the latter point to the former as a source of inspiration and enlightenment.

It is best to read of the doings of such men and women who have reached the top in your own line of work, for these make the strongest appeal to your will, and if you cannot read between the lines and pick out pointers for yourself you will at least feel the unexpected challenge to perk up and do likewise, if not a little better.—Exchange.

Teaspoon for Travelers.

Convenient for the feminine traveler who uses only a special brand of tea is a spoon with a cover that is perforated similarly to a tea ball. This spoon works on the principle of a pair of scissors, being governed by a spring near the root of the handle, which sends the base of the contrivance in one direction and the lid in the other. By soaking this spoon—of solid or plated silver—in a cupful of hot water which railway porters are always able to provide, the traveler who is a bit "fussy" about the quality of the cheering beverage may have it precisely to her liking.

Jealousy a Handicap.

"Some people would rather lose a dollar themselves than see another man make two," said a man who had been trying to bring about unity and co-operation among his employes. "They are so interested in fighting other people's plans that they have no time to push their own, and seeing somebody else succeed seems to trouble them more than failing themselves." That is a frame of mind not confined to any one trade business; it blocks the wheels of progress in many directions. The greatest problem in the carrying out of much good work is the elimination of jealousy.

KITCHEN NEAT AND COMPACT

Perfect Arrangement of Everything Necessary for Work Resulted in Great Saving of Labor.

The handiest kitchen this writer ever worked in was originally a rather roomy pantry, yet so carefully was everything arranged that there was no crowding, and never an unnecessary step as in a large room. The two doors opening into the dining room and store room opened out of the room. Being small it received sufficient heat from the dining room stove, so contained only a gasoline stove and a good-sized fireless cooker. Along one side was a big cupboard for the usual kitchen utensils.

A small shelf of convenient height held the food chopper always ready for use, while a flour bin with two compartments and sifters underneath was fastened to the wall. One folding chair stood at the end of the cupboard when not in use. On the opposite side was a large work table that let down against the wall, and above it was a cupboard for baking necessities. A hinged seat on the wall at the end of the table made a convenient place to sit while wiping dishes or preparing vegetables. A small iron sink contained the faucets, and provided an abiding place for the high stool with which every kitchen should be supplied.

The work for a family of three was done in this room with perfect ease, and even on washing day, when the machine and tub must be brought in, a little forethough prevented all crowding.

IS LOSING HIS INSULARITY

According to Correspondent, the Average Briton of Today Is Becoming Almost Human.

"Ten years ago the ordinary Englishman would walk the whole length of the platform in order to have a compartment to himself. If you happened in the same compartment he would shrink into a corner as if he feared you were trying to get his watch. Cheap excursion traffic and rapid, convenient suburban services have broken down the Englishman's desire for lonely journeys. He is becoming quite an affable traveling companion—as interesting and as interested as he is at a restaurant dinner table. He has got so that he is now almost human."

The foregoing extract appeared in a London newspaper report of "an informal address delivered by a leading member of the Anglo-American community at one of London's most popular clubs," according to a Detroit Free Press London correspondent.

The "humanizing" of the Englishman was attributed largely to the restaurant habit, the increasing tendency to live in flats, the coming of the department store, golf and continental tours.

Great Men and Music.

Bagpipes have a strange attraction for all sorts and conditions of people. That enthusiastic highlander, Dr. Alexander Duncan Fraser, in his book, "Some Reminiscences and the Bagpipe," tells how Henry Irving was lying seriously ill in a Glasgow hotel when a highland gathering was in progress in a room just below. He sent a message begging that the piper would play to him, which he did, marching up and down the passage outside the sickroom. Then the great actor told the piper how, in his youth, he had played in Glasgow in a piece called "The Siege of Lucknow." His entry had been the signal for the pipes to strike up. "I shall never forget," he said, "the wave of enthusiasm that swept over that great audience as the first notes of the pipe fell upon their ears—the highlanders were coming; Jessie's dream was answered; and Lucknow was relieved. I have loved the pipes ever since."

Playing It Safe.

An overweight business man bolted headforemost into a luncheon room the other day and pounded on the counter.

"Ham-'neg sandwich, quick!" he ordered.

There was a wait of five minutes and the man at the counter laid a roast beef sandwich in front of him.

"I didn't order this!" yelped the customer. "Bring me a ham-'neg sandwich!"

Another wait, and the counter man presented the exasperated customer with a cup of cocoa. The overwrought business man pulled his derby down over his ears and headed for the door.

"Where are you going?" demanded the counter man.

"To a restaurant where the cook doesn't gamble with the food!" snapped the overwrought citizen, as he disappeared.

Hint to the Bishop.

A bishop once rose to address the house of lords and began by saying he intended to divide the speech into twelve heads. Lord Durham thereupon got up and begged leave to interpose for a few minutes to tell the house an anecdote. He was returning home, he said, a few nights before, and passed St. Paul's Cathedral just before midnight. As he did so there was a drunken man trying to see the time. Just then the clock began to strike the hour, and slowly tolled out twelve. The drunken man listened, looked hard at the clock and said: "Hang you, why couldn't you have said that all at once?" After this narration the bishop condensed his remarks.—London Tit-Bits.

The LADY of the MOUNT

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman.

CHAPTER II.—(Continued.)

Here, too, Sanchez, the Seigneur's old servant, returning months later from long wanderings to the vicinity of the Mount—for no especial reason, save the desire once more to see the place—had found him. And at the sight the man frowned.

In the later days, the Seigneur Desaurac had become somewhat unmindful, if not forgetful, of his own flesh and blood. It may be that the absorbing character of the large and chivalrous motives that animated him left little disposition or leisure for private concerns; at any rate, he seemed seldom to have thought, much less spoken of, that "hostage of fortune" he had left behind; an absentmindedness that in no wise surprised the servant—which, indeed, met the man's full, unspoken approval! The Seigneur, his master, was a nobleman of untarnished ancestry, to be followed and served; the son—Sanchez had never forgiven the mother her low-born extraction. He was, himself, a peasant!

CHAPTER III.

A Sudden Resolution.

After his chance encounter with my lady, the governor's daughter, and Beppo, her attendant, the boy walked quickly from the Mount to the forest. His eyes were still bright; his cheeks yet burned, but occasionally the shadow of a smile played about his mouth, and he threw up his head fiercely. At the verge of the wood he looked back, stood for a moment with the reflection of light on his face, then plunged into the shadows of the sylvan labyrinth. Near the east door of the castle, which presently he reached, he stopped for an armful of faggots, and, bending under his load, passed through an entrance, seared and battered, across a great roofless space and up a flight of steps to a room that had once been the kitchen of the vast establishment. As he entered, a man, thin, wizened, though active looking, turned around.

"So you've got back?" he said in a grumbling tone.

"Yes," answered the boy good-naturedly, casting the wood to the flagging near the flame and brushing his coat with his hand; "the storm kept us out last night, Sanchez."

"It'll keep you out for good some day," remarked the man. "You'll be drowned, if you don't have a care."

"Better that than being hanged!" returned the lad lightly.

The other's response, beneath his breath, was lost, as he drew his stool close to the pot above the blaze, removed the lid and peered within. Apparently his survey was not satisfactory, for he replaced the cover, clasped his fingers over his knees and half closed his eyes.

"Where's the fish?"

The boy, thoughtfully regarding the flames, started; when he had left the child and Beppo, unconsciously he had dropped it, but this he did not now explain. "I didn't bring one."

"Didn't bring one?"

"No," said the boy, flushing slightly.

"And not a bone or scrap in the larder! Niggardly fishermen! A small enough wage—for going to sea and helping them—"

"Oh, I could have had what I wanted. And they are not niggardly! Only—I forgot."

"Forgot!" The man lifted his hands, but any further evidence of surprise or expostulation was interrupted by a sudden ebullition in the pot.

Left to his thoughts, the boy stepped to the window; for some time stood motionless, gazing through a forest rift at the end of which uprose the top of an Aladdin-like structure, by an optical illusion become a part of that locality; a conjuror's castle in the wood!

"The Mount looks near tonight, Sanchez!"

"Near?" The man took from its hook the pot and set it on the table. "Not too near to suit the governor, perhaps!"

"And why should it suit him?" drawing a stool to the table and sitting down.

"Because he must be so fond of looking at the forest."

"And does that—please him?"

"How could it fail to? Isn't it a nice wood? Oh, yes, I'll warrant you he finds it to his liking. And all the lands about the forest that used to belong to the old Seigneurs, and which the peasants have taken—waste lands they have tilled—he must think them very fine to look at, now! And what a hubbub there would be, if the lazy peasants had to pay their metayage, and fire-tax and road-tax—and all the other taxes—the way the other peasants do—to him—"

"What do you mean?"

"Nothing!" The man's jaw closed like a steel trap. "The porridge is burned."

And with no further word the meal proceeded. The man, first to finish, lighted his pipe, moved again to the fire, and, maintaining a taciturnity that had become more or less habitual, stolidly devoted himself to the solace of the weed and the companionship of his own reflections. Once or twice the boy seemed about to speak and did not; finally, however, he leaned forward, a more resolute light in his sparkling black eyes.

"You never learned to read, Sanchez?"

At the unexpected question, the smoke puffed suddenly from the man's lips. "Not I."

"Nor write?"

The man made a rough gesture. "Nor sail to the moon!" he returned derisively. "Read? Rubbish! Write? What for? Does it bring more fish to your nets?"

"Who—could show me how to read and write?"

"You?" Sanchez stared.

"Why not?"

"Books are the tools of the devil!" declared Sanchez shortly. "There was a black man here today with a paper—a 'writ,' I think he called it—or a 'service' of some kind—anyhow, it must have been in Latin," violently, "for such gibberish, I never heard and—"

The boy rose. "People who can't read and write are low and ignorant!"

"Eh? What's come over you?"

"My father was a gentleman."

"Your father!—yes—"

"And a Seigneur!—"

"A Seigneur truly!"

"And I mean to be one!" said the boy suddenly, closing his fists.

"Oh, oh! So that's it?" derisively. "You! A Seigneur? Whose mother—"

"Who could teach me?" Determined, but with a trace of color on his brown cheek, the boy looked down.

"Who?" The man began to recover from his surprise. "That's not so easy to tell. But if you must know—well, there's Gabriel Gabarie, for one, a poet of the people. He might do it—although there's talk of cutting off his head—"

"What for?"

"For knowing how to write."

The lad reached for his hat.

"Where are you going?"

"To the poet's."

"At this late hour! You are in a hurry!"

"If what you say is true, there's no time to lose."

"Well, if you find him writing verses about liberty and equality, don't interrupt him, or you'll lose your head," shouted the man.

But when the sound of the boy's footsteps had ceased, Sanchez's expression changed; more bent, more worn, he got up and walked slowly to and fro. "A fine Seigneur!" The moldering walls seemed to echo the words. "A fine Seigneur!" he muttered, and again sat brooding by the fire.

He Was, Himself, a Peasant.

In the gathering dusk the lad strode briskly on. A squirrel barked to the right; he did not look around. A partridge drummed to the left; usually alert to wood sound or life, tonight he did not heed it. But, fairly out of the forest and making his way with the same air of resolution across the sands toward the lowland beyond, his attention, on a sudden, became forcibly diverted. He had but half completed the distance from the place where he had left the wood to the objective point in the curvature of the shore, when to the left through the gloom, a great vehicle, drawn by six horses, could be seen rapidly approaching. From the imposing equipage gleamed many lamps; the moon, which ere this had begun to assert its place in the heavens, made bright the shining harness and shone on the polished surface of the golden car. Wondering, the boy paused.

"What is that?"

The person addressed, a fisherman belated, bending to the burden on his shoulders, stopped, and, breathing hard, looked around and watched the approaching vehicle intently.

"The governor's carriage!" he said. "Haven't you ever heard of the governor's carriage?"

"No."

"That's because he hasn't used it lately; but in her ladyship's day—"

"Her ladyship?"

"The governor's lady—he bought it for her. But she soon got tired of it—or perhaps didn't like the way the people looked at her!" roughly. "Mon Dieu! perhaps they did scowl a little—for it didn't please them, I can tell you!—the sight of all that gold squeezed from the taxes!"

"Where is he going now?"

"Nowhere himself—he never goes far from the Mount. But the Lady Elise, his daughter—some one in the village was saying she was going to Paris—"

"Paris!" The lad repeated the word quickly. "What for?"

"What do all the great lords and nobles send their children there for? To get educated—married, and—to learn the tricks of the court! Bah!" With a coarse laugh the man turned; stooping beneath his load, he moved grumblingly on.

The boy, however, did not stir; as in a dream he looked first at the Mount, a dark triangle against the sky, then at the carriage. Nearer the latter drew, was about to dash by, when suddenly the driver, on his high seat, uttered an exclamation and at the same time tugged hard at the reins. The vehicle took a quick turn, lurched dangerously in its top-heavy pomp, and almost upsetting, came to a standstill nearly opposite the boy.

"Careless dog!" a shrill voice screamed from the inside. "What are you doing?"

"The lises, your Excellency!" The driver's voice was thick; as he spoke he swayed uncertainly.

"Lises—quicksands—".

"There, your Excellency," indicating a gleaming place right in their path; a small bright spot that looked as if it might have been polished, while elsewhere on the surrounding sands tiny rippling parallels caressed the eye with streaks of black and silver. "I saw it in time!"

"In time!" angrily. "Imbecile! Didn't you know it was there?"

"Of course, your Excellency! Only I had misjudged a little, and—" The man's manner showed he was frightened.

"Falsehoods! You have been drinking! Don't answer. You shall hear of this later. Drive around the spot."

"Yes, your Excellency," was the now sober and subdued answer.

Ere he obeyed, however, the carriage door, from which the governor had been leaning, swung open.

"Wait!" he called out impatiently, and tried to close it, but the catch—probably from long disuse—would not hold, and, before the liveried servant perched on the lofty carriage behind had fully perceived the fact and had recovered himself sufficiently to think of his duties, the boy on the beach had sprung forward.

"Slam it!" commanded an irate voice.

The lad complied, and as he did so, peered eagerly into the capacious depths of the vehicle.

"The boy with the fish!" exclaimed at the same time a girlish treble within.

"Eh?" my lord turned sharply.

"An impudent lad who stopped the Lady Elise!" exclaimed the fat man—surely Beppo—on the front seat.

"Stopped the Lady Elise!" The governor repeated the words slowly; an ominous pause was followed by an abrupt movement on the part of the child.

"He did not stop me; it was I who nearly ran over him, and it was my fault. Beppo does not tell the truth—he's a wicked man!—and I'm glad I'm not going to see him any more! And the boy wasn't impudent; at least until Beppo offered to strike him, and then, Beppo didn't!' Beppo," derisively, "was afraid!"

"My lady," Beppo's voice was soft and unctious, "construes forbearance for fear."

"Step nearer, boy!"

Partly blinded by the lamps, the lad obeyed; was cognizant of a piercing scrutiny; two hard, steely eyes that seemed to read his inmost thoughts; a face, indistinguishable but compelling; beyond, something white—a girl's dress—that moved and fluttered!

"Who is he?"

"A poor boy who lives in the woods, papa!"

But Beppo leaned forward and whispered, his words too low for the lad to catch. Whatever his information, the governor started; the questioning glance on an instant brightened, and his head was thrust forward close to the boy's. A chill seemed to pass over the lad, yet he did not quail.

"Good-by, boy!" said the child, and, leaning from the window, smiled down at him.

The Lad Complied.

He tried to answer, when a hand pulled her in somewhat over-suddenly.

"Drive on!" Again the shrill tones cut the air. "Drive on, I tell you! Diable! What are you standing here for!"

A whip lashed the air and the horses leaped forward. The back wheels of the vehicle almost struck the lad, but, motionless, he continued staring after it. Farther it drew away, and, as he remained thus he discerned, or fancied he discerned, a girl's face at the back—a ribbon that waved for a moment in the moonlight, and then was gone.

Eight years elapsed before next he saw her.

CHAPTER IV.

A Dance on the Beach.

The great vernal equinox of April 178—, was the cause of certain unusual movements of the tide, which made old mariners and coast-fishermen shake their heads and gaze seaward, out of all reckonig. At times, after a tempest, on this strange coast, the waters would rise in a manner and at an hour out of the ordinary, and then among the dwellers on the shore, there were those who prognosticated dire unhappiness, telling how the sea had once devoured two villages overnight, and how, beneath the sands, were homes intact, with the people yet in their beds.

Concerned with a disordered social system and men in and out of dungeons, the governor had little time and less inclination to note the caprices of the tide or the vagaries of the strand. The people! The menacing and mercurial ebb and flow of their moods! The maintenance of autocratic power on the land, and, a more difficult task, on the sea—these were matters of greater import than the phenomena of nature whose purposes man is powerless to shape or curb. My lady, his daughter, however, who had just returned from seven years' schooling at a convent and one year at court where the queen, Marie Antoinette, set the fashion of gaiety, found in the conduct of their great neighbor, the ocean, a source of both entertainment and instruction for her guests, a merry company transported from Versailles.

"Is it not a sight well worth seeing after your tranquil Seine, my Lords?" she would say with a wave of her white hand toward the restless sea. "Here, perched in mid air like eagles, you have watched the 'grand tide,' as we call it, come in—like no other tide—faster than a horse can gallop! Where else could you witness the like?"

"Nowhere. And when it goes out—"

"It goes out so far, you can no longer see it; only a vast beach that reaches to the horizon, and—"

"Must be very dangerous?"

"For a few days, perhaps; later, not at all, when the petites tides are the rule, and can be depended on. Then are the sands, except for one or two places very well-known, as safe as your gardens at Versailles. But remain, and—you shall see."

Which they did—finding the place to their liking—or their hostess; for the governor, who cared not for guests, but must needs entertain them for reasons of state, left them as much as might be to his daughter. She, brimming with the ardor and effervescence of eighteen years, accepted these responsibilities gladly; pending that period she had referred to, turned the monks' great refectory into a ball-room, and then, when the gales had swept away, proposed the sands themselves as a scene for diversion both for her guests and the people. This, despite the demur of his Excellency, her father.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Doubtful Success.

Much excitement was caused a few weeks ago in Calcutta by a particularly insanitary and evil-smelling tank suddenly changing to a perfumed one, giving off the refreshing smell of lemon.

To the natives this portended the coming of a great Indian goddess, who would arise out of the water; so the pilgrims gathered in thousands to have their sins washed away and diseases cured. A guileless youth also had been selling this holy water at five rupees per bottle, which is equal to 6s. 8d.

But soon afterward it was discovered that a large consignment of essential oils, belonging to a firm of perfumers close by, had got smashed, and afterward leaked into the tank. The natives now feel rather uncomfortable at the thought of having drunk the dirty water. It is to be hoped that they will know the smell of holy water next time they meet near a perfumer's work.—Answers.

ECZEMA ON CHILD'S FACE

R. F. D. No. 5, Lexington, Tenn.—"My little boy broke out on the face with that terrible disease, eczema, when he was just one month old, and I just thought sure it would kill him, as it killed our other baby at five months old. It would break out in pimples and scab over, and he cried day and night. I thought that there was no cure for him at all. His face would itch and burn so bad that I had to tie his little hands down so he could not scratch his face.

"We began at once to have him treated until he was seven months old, and he got worse all the time. I sent and got a box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap. I had not used them a week until I could see a great change, and they cured him sound and well and never left a single scar." (Signed) Mrs. Lillie Sikes, Feb. 17, 1912.

Valuable Beetle Now.

Not long ago a Washington scientist, an enthusiastic student of natural history, captured a fine specimen of beetle. On reaching home he, in a moment of haste, pinned the beetle to a library table with his diamond scarfpin.

When he returned to the library from his dinner, he found the captive had got loose and was flying about with the diamond pin glistening from his back.

Man and bug made a rush for the window at the same instant, says Harper's Weekly. The beetle got there first and triumphantly sailed away, barely eluding the scientist's hand. Neither bug nor pin has since been seen.

Aged Survivors of Our Wars.

I am informed by the United States pension office that the last soldier of the rebellion will die in 1955. That is the estimate made by those who make a study of vital statistics. If the last veteran survives until that date he will have lived ninety years after the surrender of Lee.

Kronk, who died a couple of years ago in New York state, was the last soldier of the War of 1812, and he lived considerably more than ninety years after peace had been signed. Bakeman, the last soldier of the Revolution, lived for eighty-six years after the peace of 1783.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"LIKE MAGIC"
New Food Makes Wonderful Changes.

When a man has suffered from dyspepsia so many years that he can't remember when he had a natural appetite, and then hits on a way out of trouble he may be excused for saying "it acts like magic."

When it is a simple, wholesome food instead of any one of a large number of so called remedies in the form of drugs, he is more than ever likely to feel as though a sort of miracle has been performed.

"Like magic, fittingly describes the manner in which Grape-Nuts relieved me of poor digestion, coated tongue and loss of appetite, of many years standing.

"I tried about every medicine that was recommended to me, without relief. Then I tried Grape-Nuts on the suggestion of a friend. By the time I had finished the fourth package, my stomach was all right, and for the past two months I have been eating with a relish anything set before me. That is something I had been unable to do previously for years.

WOMAN COULD NOT WALK

She Was So Ill—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pentwater, Mich.—"A year ago I was very weak and the doctor said I had a serious displacement. I had backache aud bearing down pains so bad that I could not sit in a chair or walk across the floor and I was in severe pain all the time. I felt discouraged as I had taken everything I could think of and was no better. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am strong and healthy."—Mrs. ALICE DARLING, R.F.D. No. 2, Box 77, Pentwater, Mich.

Read What Another Woman says:

Peoria, Ill.—"I had such backaches that I could hardly stand on my feet. I would feel like crying out lots of times, and had such a heavy feeling in my right side. I had such terrible dull headaches every day and they would make me feel so drowsy and sleepy all the time, yet I could not sleep at night.

"After I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a week I began to improve. My backache was less and that heavy feeling in my side went away. I continued to take the Compound and am cured.

"You may publish this if you wish."—Miss CLARA L. GAUWITZ, R.R. No. 4, Box 62, Peoria, Ill.

Such letters prove the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for women's ills. Why don't you try it?

Easy Bargain.

Having tried unsuccessfully various highly recommended recipes for dislodging selfish passengers from coveted seats, the woman who swung from a strap in front of the sandy man tried talking at him to her husband. As a peroration to her harangue, she said impressively:

"If you, James, should ever be pigish enough to sit down while there was a woman in the car left standing, I would never speak to you again as long as I live."

The sandy man looked up then.

"Lucky devil," he said. "Not many of us could purchase peace at that price."

WASN'T GOING INTO DETAILS

Four-Year-Old Had His Own Idea of Propriety of Not Airing Strictly Personal Affairs.

One little four-year-old boy who doesn't live far from Central Park west, New York, has as his particular playmate a little girl of about the same age. The children frequently spend their evenings together, and the other morning the girl came to the fence and called him.

"Alton," she cried, "come out and play."

Alton's mother heard the call and said to him:

"Tell her you can't come over just now because you have to take a bath."

So Alton went to the front window.

"Elizabeth," he called, "I can't come over now."

Then he turned back to his mother and added:

"I don't fink the rest of it need be saided."

Ringing a Change.

"Goin' to move again this year?" asked the office pest.

"Nope. Can't afford to."

"What cha goin' to do, then?"

"Well," said O'Beetle, "we've made arrangements to have new street numbers put on the houses on our block."—Judge.

The Drawback.

"I don't like to attack a fat man."

"Why not a fat man?"

"Because he is apt to offer a stout resistance."

AT LEAST GOT RID OF IT

Defendant Had Not Strictly Obeyed Court's Order, but Neither Was He in Contempt.

Murray L. Pennell, a defendant in the Indianapolis dynamiting case, caused a little diversion in court proceedings while under cross-examination. Pennell had been vigorously chewing gum while on the stand.

"If you'll take your gum out of your mouth we'll get along faster—we wouldn't be wasting so much time," said United States Attorney Miller.

"Yes, take your chewing gum out of your mouth," commanded Judge Anderson.

Pennell sat in the witness chair apparently not making any effort to obey the order of the court.

"What, don't you hear the order?" asked Miller, after there had been silence in the courtroom for fully a minute and Pennell had made no visible movement.

"I swallowed it," mumbled Pennell.

Court proceedings were suspended, while Judge Anderson spun around twice in his swivel chair and hemmed vigorously.

Loss an Illusion.

James C. McReynolds, who investigated the tobacco trust for the government, thereby bringing on a lot of things, says that just after he started practicing law in a small town down in Tennessee, a few years ago, stout hillsman came into his office one day and announced that he desired to sue a neighbor for $10,000 damages.

"Two years ago," he stated, "he called me a hippopotamus."

"Two years ago!" echoed McReynolds. "Why didn't you sue him sooner?"

"Well, suh," said the injured party, "until that there circus come through here last week I thought all the time he was paying me a compliment."—Saturday Evening Post.

Their Message.

The evening callers were chatting with their hosts when there came a patter of little feet along the hall.

"Hush," whispered the hostess, raising her hand; "the children are coming with the good-night message. It always gives me a feeling of reverence to hear them. They are so much nearer to heaven than we, and they speak from the fullness of their little hearts never so freely as when the dark has come. Listen!"

There was a moment's pause, and then the message came in a shrill whisper: "Mamma," it ran, "Willie found a cockroach in the tub."

City Grass Is Different.

A remarkably interesting fact was brought to light by Lord Redesdale before the advisory committee of the King Edward memorial fund for London, which was discussing the laying out of Shadwell market site as a pleasure garden. It was curious, he said, that grass brought from the country withered away in London, on the other hand, grass from London grown seeds flourished. That is a striking example of what scientists call adaptation to environment.—London Globe.

Cynicism.

"Say, ma, what is a cynic?"

"A cynic, my son, is a man who doesn't believe that singers always have colds."

Kept In Suspense.

Surprised by his actions several interrogated the old tar thereon.

"Well, sur," was his reply, "it be like this. 'Tisn't as I care a hang whether they fall in or whether they don't, but it's the bloomin' uncertainty about it that I can't stand!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Whistled for a Liner.

After running the whole 900-foot length of the Kronprinz Wilhelm with a heavy suitcase in each hand just as the big liner pulled out recently, a young man sank down at the end of the pier, exhausted, and gazed a moment after the ship. Then he put his fingers to his lips and whistled long and loud. The ship did not stop.

"She don't know your voice," said a sympathetic bystander.

"How independent those big ships are," soliloquized the belated one.

He had got stuck in the tubes, he said.—New York Mail.

Womanliness.

Perhaps it would not be so easy to lose "womanliness" as some people seem afraid it would be. Perhaps all the pow-wow about becoming desexed is superfluous. Weininger calls attention to the fact that while there are people who are anatomically men and psychically women, there is no such thing as a person who is anatomically woman and psychically man. However masculine her appearance, a woman's psychic qualities remain distinctively feminine. At least, Mr. Weininger says so.

Something They Hadn't Seen.

Following a baseball game, in which the Yankees came to ignominious defeat, Irvin S. Cobb, the humorist, approached Frank Chance and said:

"Would you mind if I gave your team a little surprise—a little treat?"

"Not at all," responded Chance. "It might even cheer them up."

"Well, then," continued Cobb, "call them over here and I'll show them third base."

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

BOLL WEEVIL APPEARS IN SOUTHWESTERN ALABAMA.

Already reports of the appearance of the boll weevil in cotton fields in the western and southwestern part of the State have been received by B. L. Moss, State Agent of the Farm Demonstration Work.

"No alarm need be felt on the appearance of the weevil at this time, however," said Mr. Moss yesterday. "This is the usual time for the weevils to come out of winter quarters and attack the buds of the young cotton, and their appearance should be the signal for an immediate and vigorous attack upon them.

"Weevils will be found subsisting upon the tender buds of the young cotton, waiting for the squares to appear. No one thing is more effective at this season in holding the weevil in check and making profitable cotton crops possible than the careful, systematic picking of these early weevils. When it is remembered that the offspring of a single pair of weevils will by fall amount to over 12,000,000, the importance of destroying the first that appear is apparent.

The best time to find the weevil in the buds of the young cotton is in the early morning. A fine way to get them is to offer hoe hands and children a cent or half a cent for all they catch and bring in. It is surprising how many will be destroyed in this way. This practice is being followed with fine results in Mississippi and Louisiana, and nine farmers out of ten who are making cotton at a profit under weevil conditions believe that it is one of the very best things that can be done to hold the weevil in check.

"When the young squares begin to appear the weevils will begin to puncture them, and it is important that these punctured squares be carefully picked and destroyed.

"Picking the weevils that appear early in the season and the punctured squares until the latter part of July, and clean, careful cultivation, will go far toward making cotton crops despite the weevil.

"It must be borne in mind that meeting the weevil successfully is largely a problem of good farming, and the man who is a good farmer in every sense of the word need have no fear of the weevil putting him out of business."

GOLD PRODUCTION IN ALABAMA IN 1912

The mine production of gold in Alabama in 1912 was 809.02 fine ounces, valued at $16,724, against 915.06 fine ounces, valued at $18,916, in 1911, according to H. D. McCaskey, of the United States Geological Survey. The silver output (entirely from gold ores) was 168 fine ounces, valued at $103, in 1912, against 171 ounces, valued at $91, in 1911. No placer gold was reported from Alabama in either 1912 or 1911 and the precious metal output for the State was mainly that of the Hog Mountain or Hillabee mine, in Tallapoosa County, although the Tallapoosa mine, in the same county and the Storey mine, in Talladega County, also produced some gold. The gold and silver output was all derived from siliceous ores, chiefly by cyanidation, 5,693 short tons of these ores being treated in 1912, with an average recovery of $2.96 a ton, against 6,360 tons in 1911, with a recovery of $2,99 and 9,763 tons in 1910, with a recovery of $3.41.

PROVIDENCE

Now just a few words of news from here again this week.

We had a good Sundayschool Sunday and a large crowd was there, but very sorry indeed to say that our superintendent, Mr. J. W. Pitts, who is always prompt and on time with a splendid good lesson was unable to attend, also Mrs. Sims, one of our primary teachers, was absent. We truly hope that both will be able to fill their respective places next Sunday.

Rev. R. M. Honeycutt who was at one time pastor of this church, preached here Sunday week. A large crowd was present and in the afternoon all the old folks and some of the young engaged in singing the Christian Harmony songs and organized a society to sing twice a month, either at this place, Oak Grove or Center Hill.

Mr. G. W. Cobb, who has been in Birmingham for several months, is welcomed back by his many friends of this community.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb and children, of Birmingham are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shaw, this week.

Mr. Rob Mattheney's mother, of Anniston, who has spent several weeks with him returned home Sunday.

Our Ladies Aid Society is still booming to the highest. We met Saturday, May 24th and most all members were present. Friday night before there was a box supper given by our Society at the home of our president, Mrs. Sims, which was a complete success. Although the cold rainy weather on Thursday night caused us to continue our party till Friday night. There was a very large crowd there and all seemed to enjoy themselves, and especially enjoyed and appreciated the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Sims.

To the great surprise of many, Mr. Erb Martin was married to Miss Inzell Reynolds, of Dry Valley, on last Sunday morning at the bride's home.

Mr. E. E. Martin of Birmingham visited his parents here Sunday.

Several attended the singings Sunday; some went to Shiloh and some to the "old time" singing at Oak Grove and all report good times.

Glad to say that Mr. and Mrs. Bledsoe's baby which has been sick for several weeks is improving.

We wish to thank the boys of Providence who were so cheerful in giving to us at our box supper.

Mr. Bob Matheny will begin working on the church this week.

The Ladies Aid.

START YOUR LIVER, DON'T STOP WORK.

Dodson's Liver Tone Acts Mildly but Surely. Livens Up the Liver and You Stay On Your Feet.

It is the experience of calomel users that if they take enough of the drug to have the desired effect, it seriously interferes with their work the day after. But this is the least important item, for calomel is often a dangerous drug and acts on the system violently.

Don't take chances with calomel. Get a bottle of the pleasant, safe and perfectly harmless Dodson's Liver Tone, guaranteed to take the place of calomel. Instead of making you feel worse the next day it makes you feel better and you actually are better, for no remedy in the whole world livens up the liver, regulates the bowels and really rejuvenates the system and better than this dose.

You are the sole judge of its merits. Alred Drug Co. is fully authorized to hand you back your money without question if it fails to please you—and relieve you.

Remember, if you feel constipated and bilious, what you need is Dodson's Liver Tone. A large bottle and a good guarantee for 50 cents from Alred Drug Co.

THORSBY DEPARTMENT

H. L. FOSHEE, Manager. —o— THORSBY, ALA., May 29, 1913

Miss Ethel Johnson of Calera is visiting friends in Thorsby.

Miss Martha Parker who has been living with her grandmother, Mrs. Eastburn, and attending the Thorsby Institute the past year, has returned to her home in Lousiana.

We are glad to see Mr. J. M. Poole able to be out on the streets again.

Rev. J. M. Graham of Montgomery was in Thorsby this week.

Dr. O. E. Wilson spent Sunday in Thorsby.

Dr. F. C. Smith who has been practicing at Alpine for some time has bought the home formerly occupied by Dr. A. M. Woolley and has moved his family here with the intention of making Thorsby his future home. We are glad to welcome them in our little town and hope that the doctor may soon gain a large practice.

Mrs. W. I. Powell of Birmingham is spending the week with her sister Mrs. J. J. Stanley.

On last Sunday night the Commencement sermon of the Thorsby Institute was preached by Dr. George Eaves of Birmingham. As the churches had all dispensed with their services, there was a very large crowd present to hear the impressive sermon. Dr. Eaves talked chiefly of the Ideal Man, or the one who lets God's will be done through him.

Every one is urged to attend the Commencement address by Congressman Hobson next Friday at 2 p. m. Also the recital to be given by the music pupils Friday night.

The last number of the Entertainment Course was given at the Institute last Saturday evening. It was an illustrated lecture on Japan and was given by Dr. Eaves, who spent several years in Japan teaching the Gospel. It was a very interesting lecture as the pictures gave scenes from ancient Japan down to the present time, or to that of the modern Japan of the present day. There was a very good crowd present and all went away feeling that they were better friends to the Japs than most of the papers report since the passage of the Anti-Alien Land Bill of California.

TOYED WITH FATE TOO OFTEN

Snake Charmer Met Death From Fangs of Reptile Over Whom He Had Claimed Mastery.

Five hundred snake charmers, sounding weird notes on their pipes, formed the unusual, yet picturesque, procession that followed to his grave Katch Sarak, a man of big renown in his business, who died in terrible agony as the result of a cobra bite received while practicing his profession in the neighborhood of Garden Reach, India. "Guru," or god, he had become dubbed by the people among whom he lived, such was his influence over poisonous reptiles. His services were sought by a neighbor who had missed many fowls from his compound. Going at dusk one day, the snake charmer discovered a cobra of unusual size among the birds, so formidable, in fact, that he postponed his attempt to capture it until daylight, when he was successful in securing it. Instead of despatching the snake at once, he took it to the local bazaar for the edification of the natives. On attempting to extract its fangs, the cobra wriggled free and darted at its captor, who was bitten on three fingers. The "guru's" supposed god-like qualities proved of no avail. Consternation reigned among the crowd as he lay in awful agony; the news of his plight spread swiftly through the bazar, and more than a hundred other snake charmers scurried to the scene, but all their efforts, all their devices, their earnest prayers were of no avail against the powerful poison. Within ninety minutes Katch Sarak was dead.

PENCIL PROVIDES OWN LIGHT

Boon to Those Whose Business Makes It Necessary to Write in the Darkness of the Night.

An invention that will prove of value to doctors, detectives, reporters, policemen, or any one, in fact, who has occasion to write or to take notes in the dark, is that of a pencil that furnishes its own light as its point passes along over the surface of the paper.

The idea is simplicity itself. It consists of a pencil that has, in the tube through which the point for writing protrudes a small accumulator and an electric lamp. This little lamp throws a small disk of light, so small that it can be hidden by the hand, yet this light is quite sufficient to guide the writer in moving the point of his pencil for the proper formation of characters.

Notes could be taken at the theater when the house is in darkness, doctors would find many uses for it, detectives in hiding could make brief notes as they proceeded with their duties, and the very busy reporter would find a thousand and one uses for it almost any month in the year. Although the light is purposely very small and weak, yet one might locate a keyhole or a house number with it.

Just Suited.

An extremely mean inn-keeper was having some rooms repapered. One day he went down to his cellar and discovered a cask of beer was just beginning to turn sour.

"Ah," he thought, "I'll give it to the workmen upstairs." So he went upstairs and said:

"Here, you chaps, is a cask of beer for you."

A few hours later he went to the place where the men were working. Nobody said anything about the beer; so, finally, not being able to bear it any longer, he said:

"Here, you chaps, what did you think of that beer?"

One of the men replied:

"Oh, it suited."

"How do you mean, it suited?"

"Well," said the man, "if it had been any better we shouldn't have had it, and if it had been any worse we couldn't have drunk it; so it suited."

Safe Sentiments.

Two French orators made excellent speeches at an American Thanksgiving dinner in Paris and two Americans made dreary ones. The first American had a message to deliver, which was that Americans should be upright in business; and the second American, a college professor, went to it for the bigger part of an hour on the necessity of educating children.

When it came another American's turn he said: "Inasmuch as one of my distinguished countrymen has impressed on us here tonight the startling truth that honesty is the best policy, and as another distinguished countryman has assured us that education is a grand little thing for the young, I can find nothing more to say except 'God bless our home,'" and he sat down amid vociferous cheers.—Saturday Evening Post.

Lawyer Had No Such Scruples.

A town character who had been in trouble with the police many times was arrested recently on a minor criminal charge. The arresting officer was amazed when the fellow appeared in police court with a lawyer prepared to make a defense. Finally his case was called and the judge asked:

"Prisoner, are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Let my lawyer plead not guilty for me, judge," was the reply. "I ain't got the nerve."

Domestic Discipline.

"Can't we get Johnny to take his medicine?" asked the father.

"I think we can," replied the mother, "if we drop it into the preserves and then pretend we have forgotten to lock them up."

HATCHED ON MOTHER'S BACK

Queer Method by Which Toad Family Is Raised—Sometimes Scores at a Time.

At a recent scientific convention in London a paper was read describing the curious process by which the young of certain species of frogs and toads are developed from the egg. What is known as the Surinam toad was cited as the most remarkable of these animals. The Surinam toad gets its name from Surinam, in Dutch Guiana, in which region the species is not uncommon. The adult toad is about a foot long and is one of the largest of the toad family.

After the eggs are laid a friendly toad takes them and spreads them on the mother's back. They adhere to the skin by a peculiar sticky substance which surrounds them. Gradually the toad's skin wrinkles up and forms a series of cells and in each cell there is an egg. In a day or two more the eggs become covered over with a membrane, to protect them from the air.

The heat of the mother's body then incubates the eggs, and unlike a setting (or sitting) hen she is put to no inconvenience in the way of sticking to a nest, but may roam about at will. In due course the eggs hatch into tiny tadpoles, but they do not emerge yet. They remain in their comfortable quarters till they have passed into the second or fully developed toad stage, whereupon they break the membranous cover of their cell and come out into the world.

The number of young produced at once in this way may be as many as a hundred. In certain species of South American tree-frogs the eggs are hatched all together in a pouch in the mother's back, but in this case the little ones come forth while still tadpoles.—The Plaindealer.

MAKE A STUDY OF HUSBANDS

Most Complex Man Is More or Less an Open Book to His Observing Better Half.

That the race of husbands knows its wives may be doubted. That the race of wives knows its husbands is undoubted. The man goes flourishing forth on his path of many interests. The woman sits at home and broods over her single interest—the man. By dint of brooding she absorbs, and accepts or rejects him. No man can hope to escape from the serious study of a woman, continued for sixteen hours daily. Every piece of evidence that her senses have observed is scrutinized, analyzed, classified. Her mind soaks the man as liquor soaks a lump of sugar. The sugar is dissolved; the man is solved. Most men, it is true, are simple enough. But the most complex men become simple when subjected to the concentrated and continued scrutiny of brooding woman. They are cooked with the dinner; they are washed up with the crockery; they are stitched into the children's pinafores. From that prolonged dissection no man's anatomy can hide its secrets.—Bookfellow (N. S. W.).

"'I have made a mixture out of two packets of beetle powder, some blacking, a bottle of copying ink and four red berries. Perhaps at the end I shall add some sugar to make it taste nice.

"'I forgive father for having whacked me so often.

Cleopatra Now In Paris.

Cleopatra's last resting place is said to be the garden of the National library, Rue Vivienne, Paris. Her sarcophagus was stolen, the story runs, by a savant, and came into the library's possession, where it was preserved in the medal room until 1870. In that year of trouble it was hidden, with many other objects of value, in the library cellars. When the troublous days were over and the mummy once more brought up from the depths it was found that the sojourn had been detrimental to the once beautiful body, and that a rapid burial was absolutely necessary. Without any funeral march or oration the remains were therefore buried in the garden of the library.

Amenity of the Game.

John Reilly was a mining man in New Mexico in the days of Billy the Kid, and John was always on the job for work or play.

One night he was in a poker game, with the sky as the limit, and it came his time to deal. The black-haired, hawk-nosed man sitting opposite to him had a pat straight, and Reilly drew one card. He of the hawk nose bet a lot of money, and John raised him something like a house and lot. The fellow with the straight called, and Reilly laid down an ace-high flush.

"Mr. Reilly," said he of the hawk nose, "any man who watches you deal is attending to his own business."

COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT WINS HIS SUIT FOR LIBEL.

GIVEN 6 CENTS DAMAGES.

Marquette, Mich., May 31.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt today won his libel suit against George A. Newett, who charged the Colonel with drunkenness, and, having waived damages after the defendant had uttered a retraction the jury awarded the nominal damages of six cents, provided in such cases by the laws of Michigan. Each party to the suit will have to pay his own expenses.

Judge Flannigan instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, which they did without leaving their seats.

The defendant, Mr. Newett, in his statement said:

"It is fair to the plaintiff to state that I have been unable to find in any section of the country any individual witness who is willing to state that he has personally seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess."

At this the plaintiff smiled and relaxed. The Colonel broke into a grin again when Mr. Newett said, with reference to the mass of testimony adduced by the plaintiff, "I am forced to the conclusion that I was mistaken."

The statement admitted that a search of the country had been made to investigate stories of persons alleged to have knowledge that Mr. Roosevelt drank to excess, but in every case the stories flatten out to mere opinions or hearsay. The libel was published in good faith, Newett said, in belief that it was true and proper information. That it was true the defendant said he believed until the trial opened.

No demand for a retraction ever had been made, he stated, and when the bill was filed against him there was nothing left for him to do but make preparations to contest the suit. Forty depositions were taken in various parts of the country, but to use them, or attempt to use them would be to continue an injustice which had already become apparent to him and to his attorneys.

Leaving the stand Mr. Newett looked in the direction of Colonel Roosevelt, but the latter was whispering to his counsel. Attorney Pound then said:

"With the court's permission the plaintiff would like to make a brief announcement."

The judge nodded and Mr. Roosevelt arose. Bowing to the court, the colonel said he would waive the matter of damages save for the nominal amount provided by law. Speaking of his purpose in instituting suit he said:

"I wished once for all during my lifetime to deal with those slanders; that never again will it be possible for any man in good faith to repeat them."

Here recess was taken. Judge Flannigan delivered his charge to the jury immediately after recess. Speaking of Colonel Roosevelt as plaintiff, Judge Flannigan said:

"Certainly he has convinced the court, not only that he never was drunk, but that he is now, and always has been a temperate and abstemious man."

At the same time court held that Mr. Newett, in publishing the editorial, "was not actuated by actual ill will toward the plaintiff and that he acted in good faith."

But, the court held, the injury to the plaintiff, had he not waived his right to damages, would have sustained a verdict in any sum up to the amount claimed by the plaintiff.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

MORE ROAD TALK.

Editor Union-Banner,—After writing my last letter in your paper on the road question I expected to get ripped up the back, but so far I have seen nothing. I will say that A. P. Howison in paper of April 13, gives about as near the correct facts as possible without an itemized account, in regard to a bond issue. Rather taxes than bonds. I have a letter before me from Plantersville, Dallas County, where they have worked convicts three years, and also had a bond issue. He says convicts are the cheapest labor they have tried. He refers me to the Judge of Probate of Dallas county for facts in the case if I will not believe him, but so far I have not written to the Judge. But if it should come to an argument I can get the hard facts in the case. In Dallas county they have from 30 to 80 convicts on the roads every day. The convicts have built miles of the same grade of road (or class as I call it) at a cost of $2,000 a mile, and they have a bond issue of $75,000 which built 9 miles of road at a cost of $8,333.33 a mile. Which do you favor Mr. voter and tax payer? I do not really believe in having the convicts to work on the roads, but want them to get out material to make roads with. I would not kick against such a system being adopted by the voters of Chilton or any other county; but I will kick against a bond issue (all in my power) to fatten some rich man's valet by the sweat of our brows, and the next generation to come. And I do not believe it is right to fatteu some mine owner's valet either, or any other manufacturer's, and the small amount the state or county receives to be carried off by dishonest officials, as was the case in the state not long ago.

I was greatly surprised at the recommendation of the grand jury, which I consider the best posted and most intelligent men in Chilton County, to recommend that we voters be educated to the bond issue, or rather to get ourselves and posterity enslaved to some rich men or corporation of men for fifty years. The only reason I can see for such views by a voter and taxpayer who will have to pay part of the bill, is that he or they will get a show at a slice of the pudding. When we pay taxes that ends the outlay that year; but not so with interest on bonds; it eats every day and every three hours in a day to no earthly benefit of Chilton county or its tax payers, but benefits the other fellow who probably lives in New York or some other eastern city. I wish this question would be taken up and argued pro and con by every tax payer able to write his name and read, and add at least ten words to the cause.

Hard tabulated facts would be brought out in either my views or those believing in convict labor on roads, or the bond issue. But all views ought to ce correlated by proved figures of some kind. Pure wind don't talk, except short sentences; I believe in so and so's views to have some bearing.

We know figures will lie and misrepresent things, but that depends upon the mathematician who wants to misrepresent facts for sinister purposes, or make complexities so a common person can hardly comprehend. The latter is a great fault with many government reports. But begin to argue the point on roads and figures to show for or against from the Southern States, on the different views will come forth.

SAMARIA.

There will be an all day singing at this place on the third Sunday in June. All are invited to come and bring your books, baskets, cheerfulness and other things that go to make up a delightful day of song service.

T. E. Williams.

IN MEMORY.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. J. W. Cleckler on Tuesday morning at two o'clock, May 20, and took from him his loving wife. She was only 28 years old. She has only fallen asleep in the arms of Jesus to await the coming of her dear husband and their little boys. Perhaps if she could speak she would say weep not, only prepare to meet me in Heaven. She bore her suffering with patience until the end. All was done for her that loving hands could do and the faithful doctor. But the Lord saw fit to take her into His care and He does all things best and we must submit to His rulings.

One Who Loved Her.

CARD OF THANKS.

I extend my heartfelt thanks to my friends and neighbors for their kindness and help showed me during the sickness and death of my wife and especially to the I. O. R. M. for their kindness and assistance given in my sad bereavement. Tongue cannot express the thanks to you all for your kindness.

J. W. Cleckler.

MARS HILL.

There will be an all day singing on the fourth Sunday in June at Mars Hill church, four miles west of Jemison. Books used will be the Christian Harmony and Sacred Harp and New Lyrics of Praise, Songs and Hymns. We expect this to be a union singing as we are going to give the old and young a chance to sing in a book of his or her choice. Everybody come and bring your baskets well filled.

A Lover of Good Music.

CROSS ROADS.

There will be a debate at Cross Roads schoolhouse, ½ mile south of Thorsby on Saturday evening, June 14, beginning at 8 p.m.

Subject for debate, "Resolved, That the world is growing worse." Speakers for the affirmative: Messrs. R. A. Smith and J. L. Yates; for the negative: Messrs. W. C. Weldon and E. E. Smith.

Everybody invited to come and hear this important subject discussed.

SHILOH.

All parties interested in the Shiloh cemetery are requested to meet Friday, June 13th, at 1 p.m., to help clean it off.

There will be an all day singing at Shiloh church on the third Sunday in June, except the 11 o'clock hour. The time will be divided between the old and the new work. Everybody invited to come and bring well filled baskets.

SOCIAL GATHERING.

On last Saturday there was a happy gathering at the residence of Mr. Bud Atchison just west of Macedonia. It was in honor of Mr. Monroe Atchison of Rusk county, Texas, who, enroute from the soldiers' reunion at Chattanooga, was stopping here for a short visit with his nephews. Mr. Atchison was raised to manhood here. He is now an old man. He left here for Texas in 1866, and this was his first visit to his old home. Only a few who are lingering this side the river could remember him. He seemed glad to rehearse the scenes of the old times, the church meetings, the weddings, etc. A few of the old veterans who wore the gray were there to greet him. Their thoughts flashed back to Resacca, Lookout Mountain and other battles, as they could clearly point out where their comrades fell. We all wish those old battle scarred soldiers of Dixie all the joy they can get before they cross the great divide and answer to the roll. Mr. Atchison is a member of a family originally from South Carolina, who were among the pioneers of this section. Of that family tree was the revered deceased mother of the writer. It was once a large family, but father time has so thinned their ranks that a few of the original ones remain. It was a pleasant gathering never to be forgotten. It also had its solemn thoughts, for some clasped the hand of Mr. Atchison, probably never to meet him again. Oh! such is life; but those reunions along the way are like an oasis in a desert.

MR. WISDOM'S LECTURES.

On May 28th, as announced in the Union-Banner, Mr. Wisdom of the People's Pulpit Association of Brooklyn reached Randolph on train No 16. He came out to West Chilton in the afternoon and delivered a lecture on the fall and rise of man. He taught that while myriads were in heathenism and billions had gone down in death, that it was incorporated in the old story that all the willing ones of earth, even though dead or in heathenism, would have an opportunity to rise—to have eternal life. Also that this planet would be made glorious, the abode of perfect men and women; that the church, the holy covenant-keeping ones would be with their redeemer glorified, and that the greatest trouble ever known to earth or ever would be, is near by. Mr. Wisdom is a lovely man a forceful earnest speaker of deep thought. He left for Birmingham, Atlanta and other points. Although the lecture was on a week day afternoon, and people extremely busy, yet the attendance was good. People listened attentively, and doubtless appreciated the discourse.

FARMERS UNION MEETING

The Chilton County Farmers Union will meet with Collins Chapel local No. 223 at the schoolhouse on Thursday and Friday, June 19th and 20th, 1913. The following speakers have promised to attend: D. P. CONGRESSMAN HOBSON'S SPEECH.

Wednesday night the school children and nearly all of Clanton gathered at the courthouse to hear the address made by Congressman Richmond Pearson Hobson of the Sixth District.

Mr. Hobson has an intellectual appearance, with an excessively "high brow" and a bulge in his forehead of which he is very proud. He takes himself very seriously: his lecture was a very serious affair, unenlivened by a glint of humor, not even when he lifted Tom Heflin's joke about the cotton shirt tails of the Chinese.

His subject was "The Door of Opportunity," in which he brought out some very grand generalities with no originality about them. He pictured a great future for the American nation and Alabama in particular. In his outline of desired and possible social conditions he was a thorough socialist; in political measures he was in line with the progressive party, but he said nothing that would connect himself or the democratic party with the working out of these ideas.

In the matter of woman suffrage he upheld the contention made by this paper last fall: that the adoption of the measure at some time in the future was inevitable, that it was not a present issue, that it would be an issue for the state legislature and that the votes for negro women would be controlled by the states just as they control the male votes.

On the liquor question he emphasized all the well known facts as if he had discovered them.

He is a master hand with figures, he tosses them around in the air as a juggler does his balls and picks a conclusion out of the air just as the juggler picks a rabbit out of the pocket of an unsuspecting bystander.

Most of his contentions we heartily endorse, but we failed to see in them any reason why the speaker should be sent to the senate. The introduction of his political ambitions on an occasion like this seemed to us to be in very bad taste, to say the least; but then this lecture tour of his is but a part of the "free advertising" scheme with which he proposes to force his "vigorous campaign."

Mr. Hobson in speaking of his work against the liquor evil said he had sent out a million and a half "personal" letters to young men. A "circular" mailed by a clerk could hardly be called a "personal letter." At five hundred letters a day that would take ten years solid w Figures are dangerous thing handle lightly. That may p account for the little tim has spent in his seat in co

LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TERSELY TOLD.

SOUTH, EAST, NORTH AND WEST

Notes From Foreign Lands, Throughout the Nation and Particularly the Great South.

Southern.

Mrs. J. C. Thomas and her son, Jesse C. Thomas, Jr., were instantly killed and four other members of the family and a neighbor's child injured by astroke of lightning which struck the Thomas home, 2 miles north of Jeffersonville, Ga., 25 miles from Macon during a severe electrical storm. The injured are J. C. Thomas, Sr., Elliott Thomas, aged 12, and Merrel Kethvin, aged 14 years. The members of the family were gathered on the front porch of their home watching the antics of the storm.

Accompanied by rain and hail, a cyclonic-like wind storm passed over the section adjacent to Norfolk, Va., and a number of lives are reported lost. Twenty houses were blown down in Berkeley and South Norflok, but no lives were lost so far as known. Mrs. George Harper was seriously injured when her home was blown down and a number of others were hurt by falling timbers and flying glass.

Jacksonville, Fla., was awarded the honor of entertaining the twenty-fourth annual United Confederate reunion, and Commander-in-Chief Gen. Bennett H. Young of Louisville, Ky., with his three departmental commanders, were re-elected at the last important business session of veterans during the present reunion at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Sergeant Gill D. Cates, second officer of the Durham police force, was killed at Durham, N. C., while trying to arrest Felix Conklin, a white man, who had shot his wife. Officers Cates and Morgan responded to a call from West Durham, saying that Conklin had shot his wife, and when they started to arrest him, the drunken man opened fire. Conklin was killed.

Deputy Sheriff J. P. Gaines of Bartow county, and Frank Nation, an alleged hold-up man, were seriously wounded in a battle fought between a sheriff's posse and six men, alleged to be bandits, who, only a few minutes before, had demanded the life of Telegraph Operator Thomas Scorvells or $40. Nation and two other men were captured after 100 shots had been fired in the running battle, which took place at Hugo, Ga., a small telegraph station

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt won his libel suit against George A. Newett, at Marguette, Mich., who charged the colonel with drunkness, and, having waived damages after the defendant had uttered a retraction, the jury awarded the nominal damages of 6 cents, provided in such cases by the laws of Michigan. Each party to the laws will have to pay his own expenses. Judge Flannigan instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, which they did without leaving their seats.

Negotiation by the Mexican government of a foreign loan of approximately $100,000,000 for governmental purposes and on account of the National railways of Mexico having been completed, local bankers interested in the matter announced that the issue of $10,000,000 two-year notes of the National Railways of Mexico maturing will be paid.

The preliminary treaty of peace was signed at St. James' palace, London, by the delegates of all the Balkan allies and of Turkey. This is said to mean not only peace to the Balkans, but general peace.

The body of Barbara Fritchie, heroine of Whittier's poem, and that of her husband, John C. Frietchie, which were recently disinterred from the old Reformed Congregational cemetery at Frederick, Md., were deposited in the mausoleum in Mt. Olivet cemetery at Frederick.

Thad A. Thompson, a wealthy and prominent business men of Austin, Texas, has ben selected for United States minister to Coluombia, to succeed James T. Dubois. Mr. Thompson was a delegate to the Baltimore convention and has been an active worker in the Democratic ranks. He is a personal friend of Postmaster General Burleson.

In memory of the two hundred and sixty-seven officers and men who were lost with the battleship Maine in Havana harbor 15 years ago, the National Maine monument was dedicated in New York City. From a dozen American warships, units of the Atlantic fleet at anchor in the Hudson river, a salute of 252 guns echoed from the Palisades as the veil was swept aside that revealed the country's tribute—a pylon 40 feet high, that stands in Central park, overlooking Columbus Circle.

W. J. Miller, 60 years old, whose home is near Bedford, Va., committed suicide at six o'clock in the morning by hanging himself to a tree in his orchard. His body was found by members of his family before life was extinct, and although he lived for fifteen minutes after being cut down, he never regained consciousness.

The dream of a Danish engineer named Aesen of seeing the next war waged by automatons in place of soldiers has developed into the patenting of an invention which, it is said, will revolutionize defensive tactics. Aesen's contrivance is a cylinder which may be buried in the ground for years in the same fashion as submarine mines are placed in harbors, doing no damage until they are fired. The cylinder is operated by electricity from a station four or five miles distant.

Former State Senator Stephen K. Stillwell of New York, convicted of bribery by a jury, after he had been exonerated by the New York state senate, was sentenced to serve not less than four years nor more than eight in Sing Sing prison. Supreme Court Justice Seabury granted a stay of execution, so Stillwell's lawyers might apply for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Washington

Secretary McAdoo announced the distribution by states of the additional $10,000,000 of federal funds which the treasury department will deposit in the national banks. His statement also discussed the manner in which the banks had received the recent order that 2 per cent. interest yearly be charged on all government deposits. Of the 559 active depositary banks on May 1, when the secretary issued his interest order, Mr. McAdoo said only seven have declined to pay the interest charge and ceased to be government depositories.

Secretary Bryan signified the day commemorative of the coutnry's hero dead by announcing that eight nations have responded favorably to his peace plan, asking that suggestions be submitted in regard to details. The nations in the order in which they have accepted are Italy, Great Britain, Brazil, France, Sweden, Norway, Peru and Russia.

The following statement was issued by the state department: "The state department has authorized the American embassy at Tokio to deny a San Francisco telegram which appeared in Japanese papers that preparation were being made for war and to the effect that troops of artillery were being sent to Hawaii and that the Phillippine garrison was to be increased.

Washington's slums will be cleaned out if the influence and active work of the white house family count for anything. Mrs. Wilson has made several quiet trips of inspection through the Capital's unslightly alleys, and she has joined other prominent women in attending a meeting of the Woman's Department of the National Civic Federation. PLANS INQUIRY INTO FRISCO R. R.

COMMERCE COMMISSION WILL DETERMINE IF ROAD LOOTED.

EXORBITANT PRICES ARE PAID

Upon Result of This Investigation Will Depend Whether or Not Department of Justice Will Order Prosecutions.

Washington.—The interstate commerce commission will investigate the throwing of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad into the hands of receivers through heavy expenditures in the taking over of small feeder lines at exorbitant prices and valuations.

Judge Judson C. Clements of the commission said that the matter had not been taken up in conference by the commission, but it was one of those railroad subjects that must come to the attention of the commission.

On its own initiative and without complaint from any injured party, the commission can investigate any subject in connection with railroad transportation, Judge Clements explained. The wrecking of a railroad system through mismanagement or otherwise becomes a part of the transportation problem that confronts the commission.

The commission brought about the investigation of the Northern Securities Company, the holding company of the Hill lines, which resulted in the dissolution by order of the supreme court. It gave the department of justice the information on which was based the dissolution suit of the Southern Pacific system.

Interstate commerce commissioners say that under the recent order of congress requiring the physical valuation of railroad property it will be necessary for its investigators to go into every phase of the fiscal transaction attending the wrecking of the St. Louis & San Francisco property.

Because of public interest in the affairs of this railroad the commission will conduct a preliminary investigation into the transaction, leading up to the receivership of the road.

CHIEF SOLD LIFE DEARLY

Killed Six Federals and Was Himself Sot Seven Times.

Laredo, Tex.—The scalp of Capt. Longoria, who commanded the Constitutionalist forces of 300 men surprised and routed at Colohbia, 20 miles above this city, on the Rio Grande, was brought to Nuevo Laredo Sunday by the returning victorious federals and placed on exhibition as a gruesome trophy of their victory.

Twenty-two Constitutionalists and six federals were killed in the encounter, and Capt. Longoria is said to have kiilled the six federals before he was himself slain with 16 of his men ,on the spot from which he refused to fly when his forces were taken by surprise and a murderous machine gun fire poured upon them. Six times he took deliberate aim with his rifle, and each time a federal soldier dropped dead. He was himself shot seven times before he died.

LOW WAGES VS. MARRIAGE

Illinois Will Determine Whether Men Are Able to Marry.

Chicago.—The relation of low wages for men to the vice question is to be investigated by the Illinois senate welfare commission., The commission will seek to establish a fair minimum upon which a man in Chicago can support himself and family and will endeavor to learn how many men are being paid less than this amount. It will also seek to learn to what extent insufficiency of wages operates to weaken the home influence.

Swindled a Million.

Philadelphia.—A sensational series of smuggling plots by which 16 Philadelphia bankers and business men have swindled the government out of more than a million dollars in duties during the past eight years has been disclosed by the investigation now being made by Harry N. Arnold, special assistant to Attorney-General McReynolds. The identity of the men who have succeeded in having dutiable goods passed through this port free of duty during this period is known to the investigators and it is expected that when the federal grand jury convenes here June 10 indictments will be asked against all of these men and perhaps others who are believed to be connected with the frauds.

GRASSHOPPER INVASION.

Fish Won't Bite in California Because They Are Well Fed.

Chico, Cal.—Disgusted and disappointed anglers are returning from the trout fishing grounds on Deer Creek and the upper reaches of Big and Little Chico Creeks. Millions of young grasshoppers abound in these sections and as they are too small to fly far, they fall into the creeks in such numbers that the fish get food without exertion. Trout fishing is practically abandoned.

Curb Immigration Object of Bill.

Washington.—Senator Dillingham, the former chairman of the immigration committee, will introduce a bill which, if enacted into law, will materially reduce immigration from Southern and Eastern Europe and Western Asia. The bill is similar in many respects to the Dillingham-Burnett bill, which was vetoed by President Taft at the last session of congress on the ground that it provided for the exclusion of illiterate immigrants.

EIGHT NATIONS FAVOR PEACE PLAN

ENGLAND, FRANCE, BRAZIL, RUSSIA AND SWEDEN IN LIST.

NO NATION HAS REJECTED IT

Bryan's Plan Would Prevent Nations Going to War Until After International Commission Had Passed Upon Points at Issue.

Washington.—Secretary Bryan signalized the day commemorative of the country's hero dead by announcing that eight nations have responded favorably to his peace plan asking that suggestions be submitted in regard to details. The nations in the order in which they have accepted are Italy, Great Britain, France, Brazil, Sweden, Norway, Peru and Russia.

Secretary Bryan said that no nation to whom his peace plan was submitted had replied adversely, although some had asked more time for consideration.

To each of the governments expressing a willingness to enter into the agreement a tentative statement has been submitted embodying details suggested by the president. The secretary, pointing out that this statement was submitted for consideration, with no intention of insistence upon any particular detail, declined to make public its contents.

"First—That the United States is prepared to enter into an agreement with each and every country severally providing for the investigation of all disputes of every character and nature by an international commission, the contracting parties agreeing not to declare war or begin hostilities until such investigation is made and report submitted.

"Second—The investigation to be conducted as a matter of course upon the initiative of the commission, without the formality of a request from either party.

"Third—The report to be submitted within a given time, the time to be agreed upon.

"Fourth—The parties to reserve the right to act independently on the subject matter in dispute, after the report is submitted."

PEACE TREATY IS SIGNED

British Foreign Secretary Presides at Ceremony.

London.—The eight months between Turkey and the allied Balkan states is ended. The "peace of London" was was signed Friday in the picture gallery of St. James' Palace. Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, presided over the formalities. The following peace delegates signed the preliminary treaty:

Osan Nizami Pasha for Turkey, Dr. Daneff for Bulgaria, Stejan Novakovitch for Servia, Stephanos Skoloudis for Greece, and M. Popovitch for Montenegro.

The actual ceremony was very brief. The delegates signed the treaty without reading it, evidently in full confidence that all the seven articles were in such wording as the powers chose to have them.

Held $1,178,000 Insurance.

Jacksonville, Fla.—E. O. Painter, fertilizer manufacturer who fell from a ferry boat during a violent coughing spell and was drowned in the St. Johns river a week ago Thursday, held life insurance policies totaling $1,178,000, according to a printed list presented here at a meeting of life insurance agents. About half of the insurance was made payable to Painter's family and the other half to his firm. Most of the insurance was taken out during April this year and almost all was written within two years.

BILLINGS SUED.

Attempts to Hold Him for John R. Walsh's Failure.

Chicago.—Attempts to hold C. K. G. Billings, banker, of New York and Chicago, responsible for approximately $5,000,000 due to the failure of the John R. Walsh banks were begun in the circuit court here Wednesday. Stockholders who brought suits charged that Billings' negligence as a director permitted Walsh to operate schemes which led to the wrecking of both banks.

THREE DEPARTMENTAL OFFICERS UNANIMOUSLY CHOSEN.

TO JACKSONVILLE IN 1914

Shafts at Chickamauga Park in Honor of Veterans of Florida and Alabama. Veterans' Parade and Memorial Service Were Features.

Chattanooga.—Jacksonville, Fla., was awarded the honor of entertaining the twenty-fourth annual United Confederate Veterans' reunion, and the commander-in-chief, Gen. Bennett H. Young of Louisville, Ky., and his three departmental commanders were re-elected at the last important business session of veterans during the present reunion here.

The next reunion went to Jacksonville after over an hour's deliberation, in which the hospitality and fame of that city, Nashville, Tenn.; Houston, Texas, and Tulsa, Okla., had been proclaimed by eloquent orators. When a vote was taken Jacksonville received 1,528 votes, Nashville, the nearest opponent, receiving 405. The selection of the Florida city then was made unanimous.

Departmental officers who again will serve under the command of Gen. Young are Lieut.-Gen. Theo. S. Garnett of Norfolk, commander of the Army of Northern Virginia; Lieut.-Gen. George P. Harrison of Opelika, Ala., commander of the Army of Tennessee, and Lieut.-Gen. K. M. Vanzandt of Fort Worth, Texas, commander of the trans-Mississippi department.

Other features of the second day's reunion program were the impressive ceremonies attendant upon the dedication of handsome monuments at Chickamauga Park by delegations from Florida and Alabama and the parade of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. A joint memorial service in honor of the Confederate dead was held in the auditorium, at which representatives from the veterans and all other organizations attending the reunion took part.

A motion was made to amend the credentials committee report so as to exclude the portion of it referring to Gen. Behan. When a vote was called on the motion the presiding officer could not determine whether the ayes or the nays were the more numerous. An official vote by state divisions was then called for and the amendment was adopted.

The re-election of Gen. Young and his department officers was the occasion for the greatest ovation which has occurred at the present reunion. Rousing rebel cheers rent the air when the name of Gen. Young was mentioned. After he had been elected by acclamation Gen. Young said:

"This is worth more to me than all the gold in the treasury of the United States. I would rather have your recommendation than that of all the other men and women in the world. God bless each one of you. I thank you for this high honor which you have seen fit to bestow upon me a second time."

Three cheers for "Old Kentucky" were given as Gen. Young received the congratulations of many friends.

Test Pujo Committee.

New York.—The authority of the Pujo committee that searched for a "money trust," to compel witnesses to answer, will be questioned before the United States supreme court. George Garr Henry, New York banker, indicted in Washington for contempt after his refusal to answer questions asked by the committee, gave notice that he would appeal to the highest court from the recent decision of Federal District Judge Mayer, ordering him to stand trial on the indictment.

EIGHT PERSONS HURT.

Four Hundred Gallons of Gasoline Accidentally Exploded.

Tulsa, Okla.—Four hundred gallons of gasoline trickled down from an overturned tank down the main street of the little oil town of Keifer late Tuesday. The gasoline ran straight into the open door of a blackmith shop and connected with some red hot coals. There was a blinding flash, a sort of rumble and eight persons were left writhing in horrible pain upon the ground. Four of them may die.

VETERANS CHEER SPONSONS' PARADE

BRILLIANT ARRAY OF BEAUTY FEATURES OPENING DAY.

SONS OF VETERANS ELECT

Gov. Hooper Hissed—Cheers, However, Finally Drown Demonstration When Republican Executive Welcomes Veterans.

Chattanooga. — Eloquent addresses, spectacular parades and scores of social entertainments in honor of veterans, sponsors and maids of honor characterized the opening day of the twenty-third annual United Confederate Veterans' reunion in this city. The only discordant note was sounded at the first business session of the veterans, when hisses, finally drowned out by cheers, slightly delayed Gov. Ben W. Hooper of Tennessee in delivering his address of welcome. The Tennessee executive, who is said to have been the first Republican governor to welcome a reunion of Confederate Veterans, disregarded the disturbance, and was given an ovation at the conclusion of his remarks.

Throughout the day the influx of visitors continued. Every train added hundreds to the thousands already in the city. Although the weather was threatening, no rain fell, and the temperature remained in the sixties.

Despite the coolness, hundreds of sponsors representing almost every division in the Confederate army participated in the parade. In filmy gowns and laces they were driven in automobiles along the principal streets of the city. Thousands lined the sidewalks to witness the pageant, while the capacity of special reviewing stands was taxed to the utmost.

Gen. Bennett H. Young, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, and Gov. Hooper, with their staffs, reviewed the parade from an official stand erected at Gen. Young's headquarters.

Business sessions were held by both the United Confederate Veterans and the Sons of Veterans.

William W. Old, Jr., of Norfolk, Va., was elected commander-in-chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans' organization, now in session here.

SHIPS FOUR WIVES BACK

George Fear, With 29 Children, Free of Desertion Suspicion.

Chicago.—Petitions asking that George Fear, 65 years old, be compelled to support a total of 29 children, which were filed by four women who claimed to be his wives, were dismissed Wednesday when Fear told Mrs. Josephine Lawrence, a court investigator, that he had shipped al lthe women back to Salt Lake, "where," Fear said, "I won't be bothered."

Fear said he came from Salt Lake City to Chicago to develop a patent and brought only one of his wives, Mrs. Josephine Fear, with him, leaving her 19 children at Salt Lake. Recently the other three women arrived. All was peaceful, he declared, until he had to leave Chicago for a short business trip. Mrs. Josephine Fear then became alarmed lest he should desert her and the other women and applied to Mrs. Lawrence. The other women then filed petitions. However, the cases will not be prosecuted now since the complaining witnesses have left town.

MRS. PANKHURST RELEASED.

Weak From Loss of Blood. She Goes to Home of Friend.

London.—Emmeline Pankhurst, militant suffragette leader, was again released from Holloway jail Friday. She was removed to a friend's house. Mrs. Pankhurst started a "hunger strike" a month ago.

Crowless Rooster Perfected.

Washington. — Cock-a-doodle-do-less roosters, guaranteed absolutely soundless, and which will solve the problem of light sleeping city dwellers, are the subjects of experiments in the Department of Agriculture. A correspondent who discovered the process of eliminating the cock's crow, set the experts at work. A simple and painless operation of cutting one of the rooster's vocal cords does the trick, he says.

Praise for Joe Wheeler.

Washington.—Tribute to the memory of Fighting Joe Wheeler was paid Friday by President and Mrs. Wilson. Two wreaths, each simple but beautiful, rested on his grave in Arlington Cemetery. Attached to one was a card bearing the words: "The President," and to the other a card bearing the words, "Mrs. Woodrow Wilson."

Detroit, Mich.—The fifth annual report of the general apportionment committee which included a recommendation that the convention make the raising of $6,000,000 for missions annually the ultimate objective was presented to the Northern Baptist convention in session here, and the recommendation was approved. Several of the recommendations in the report were subjects of active debate.

CO-OPERATIVE IDEA IS GOOD

More Attention Should Be Given to "Help One Another" Phase—How Worked in Ohio.

The big idea back of co-operative enterprise is "help one another." If more were said about this and less about the difficulties of organization, there would be less trouble in getting it started.

In my home community there are some men who have never heard of the word co-operation, and they can hardly understand English, but when the time comes that the neighbors buy a load of coal they are there with their wagons and their checkbooks, writes C. A. Waugh of Wood county, Ohio, in Farm and Home.

"I have about half a load of hogs ready to go, and I don't think the buyer is paying enough. Have you got any ready to go?" is a question we frequently hear. "Yes, I've about a quarter of a deck, and John Smith as many more. I'll see him on my way home.' That night the telephone is busy for a few minutes, and as a result the three men are at the station with their hogs inside of two or three days.

One lot is not marked, the other has a circle painted on the porkers, and a third a cross. In a few days the bill of sale comes along and the results are checked up. Each man goes away with the satisfaction that he got more for his stock than otherwise, and feels that it is good to have neighbors.

Our county is extensively drained, and as as result there are hundreds of miles of open drainage ditches which must be cleaned out quite frequently. In the fall, several of us get together and plan on a day when we can all get to work, and the number of teams required of each farmer is apportioned according to his frontage of property on the ditch.

On the appointed day everyone is on hand and the work done with a rush. This saves the expense of calling a county surveyor, having the work estimated and advertised and the contractor's profits.

We have also a farmers' mutual insurance company that has been running many years. We get our insurance for about half of what the old line companies charge.

At threshing time we call our neighbors and ask how many men they can send. When they thresh they expect as much work of us as they gave. There is no friction, no jangling and no disputes. These are all co-operative enterprises that work. We do not call it co-operation, but simply "changing work."

Pays to Spray.

In the care of orchards, spraying has become the insurance of the fruit grower, and when properly carried on, has resulted in larger profits each year. It is true that the work is not easy, and some years spraying may not seem entirely successful, due to either bad season or the work having been improperly done, but taking one year with another it pays to spray.

PROFITS OF THE MIDDLEMAN

Should Be Regulated by Government Laws Same as Freight Rates Are —Is Public Servant.

The railroads are under the control of the national interstate commerce commission empowered to regulate passenger and freight rates. The Supremo court has declared that the government rightfully possesses this authority. This is, I believe, upon the theory that the roads are public servants, writes Louis C. Kill in the Denver Field and Farm. Upon the same theory why is the middleman not a public servant and why should not the distribution of our food products be placed under government regulation? The government regulates freight rates and why should the government not regulate the profits of the middleman? Why should not the government step in and help the middleman by eliminating some of the evil practices now prevailing, like unnecessary delivery costs, unsound credits and the like, which evils the retail dealer now has to put up with because it is common practice?

The retailer under existing conditions is not permitted to try to regulate under the fear that he will be construed under the law as combining to break the anti-trust laws. Why should not the government aid this poor, helpless business man when the laws of the government forbid that he should help himself? Possibly the regulation of the middleman, the middleman's profits and the middleman's methods by the government might not be permissible under our present constitution; if so, why not amend it? The national government should not, of course, do the regulating, because the retail business is not in the main interstate business, but the national government could empower the different states with the right, if the states have not already that right, and it could be done by constitutional amendment or otherwise.

The regulation should guarantee to the retail dealer a reasonable profit on everything he sells, should protect him against the unreasonable demands of consumers, and should make it imperative that he blacklist the dead beat who has stuck one of his competitors, providing credit is extended. It would be better if the whole system were placed on a cash basis, and then it would not be necessary for the retail man to put up his prices to those who pay their debts in order to recover from the losses now sustained from trusting those who do not make it a practice of paying at all. The different states could handle this given power, heavy penalties could be provided for those dealers who break the laws, and thus the dealer who now wishes to do business on a fair margin of profit could exercise the desire to his heart's content.

What a wholesome effect it would have on the trade if a dealer who charged a 100 per cent. or 200 per cent. profit now would run the chances of having his license to do business taken away from him and also run the risk of a fine and imprisonment. Why not? What a help such a regulation would be to the legitimate dealer who wants to do an honest business at only a living profit. Under proper regulations the retail dealer could make more money than he does now, and he could reduce his price to the consumer from 25 per cent. to 200 per cent. There is no justice in the retailer selling flour at cost, and it is wrong for him to have to do so in order to meet competition, since it is a foregone conclusion that he must add the profit that he should have obtained for flour to his selling price on other products, such as fruit and vegetables. If under existing conditions he is not allowed to ask a profit on everything shells, why not fix it by law so that he can? And in that way every tub will have to stand on its own bottom.

LEVEL CULTURE FOR COTTON

Practiced by Tennessee Farmer for Several Years and Found to Be Quite Profitable.

I have practiced level planting and cultivation of cotton for several years and find I am able not only to secure a larger yield but the land does not wash so badly as when planted on ridges, writes W. C. Crooks of Anderson county, Tenn., in the Farm and Home. The cotton will stand a drought much better and is much easier cultivated.

I am able to use weeder and section harrow to perfection and with them I can almost thin my cotton to a stand which enables it to grow off very rapidly. By cross harvesting with weeder and section I can almost completely clean out all grass and weeds and can at least hoe twice as much a day as where cotton is planted on ridges.

Clover for Hens.

Clover is better than other hay for fowls for the reason that it possesses egg-making nutriment, as well as fiber to separate the particles of grain. It is not bulk (mere quantity) that is needed, but coarse fiber to separate the concentrated feed in the stomach, so that the gastric juices can circulate through the mass.

Tuberculin Testing.

Compulsory tuberculin testing is not desired by farmers generally, but they should be willing to start to test gradually for themselves and with the aid of the state in time eradicate tuberculosis from their own herd and community.

SALE OF LANDS FOR TAXES IN CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA.

The State of Alabama,
Chilton County.

Under and by virtue of the several decrees rendered in and by the Probate Court of Chilton County, Alabama, on the 19th day of May, 1913, for the sale of real estate for the payment of taxes for the year 1912, I will on Monday, the 23rd day of June, 1913, sell to the highest bidder for cash, before the court house door of said county, in Clanton, Alabama, within the legal hours of sale, the following described real estate for the state and county taxes, fees, costs and charges, to-wit:

ALABAMA BREVITIES.

The handsome new home of W. M. Bass, Lee county tax collector, situated on the Beulah road, about one mile from Opelika, was burned.

Fifteen new corporations filed articles of incorporation in the probate court at Birmingham the past month, and five gave notice of an increase in capital. The total amount of new capital invested is stated at $783,000.

The new government building at Sheffield is now completed, and all the fixtures that could be utilized from the old postoffice have been installed, and the mails now pass from the new building. This building cost $130,000.

An even dozen new companies have been organized in the Gadsden district with an aggregate capital of $7,000,000 since March 1, according to a report of Secretary Roberts of the Gadsden Chamber of Commerce. The largest of these is the Alabama company, whose large furnaces are in North Gadsden.

The motion to set aside the death verdict in the case of Walter Pryor a negro, was overruled by Judge J. A. Bilbro in the city court of Gadsden, and the date of execution was fixed as July 11. Notice of an appeal was given. Judge Bilbro sentenced Enoch Kyle, another negro, to life imprisonment for the murder of his sweetheart.

That an effort will be made by the postoffice department to consolidate all of the postoffices within the city limits of Birmingham is the report that comes from Washington. It is pointed out that Birmingham is probably the only city in the United States that has four separate and independent postoffices within the city limits. These postoffices are at Birmingham, Ensley, Wylam and Thomas.

It was stated that shipment of car lots of strawberries from Cullman is about to cease for this season. The German truckers have shipped 60 cars and the German-American truckers have shipped 55 cars. There will be 10 more cars yet, making a total with the loose shipments of 135 cars. The average valuation to the car is $440, netting the farmers of this county nearly $60,000 for this season.

At a special session of the commissioners' court at Carrollton, plans for the construction of a new jail were received and adopted. The plans as adopted by the court calls for a two-story brick building, 34 by 68 feet, and will contain 10 cells, besides iron and hospital wards and jailers' office, bedroom and kitchen. It will also contain corridors where the inmates can be exercised and corridors for the guards. The building is expected to be constructed at a cost of about $13,500, and will be modern in every respect to comply with the requirements of State Jail Inspector Oates.

A matter of general interest, and which is engaging the attention of the people of Linden most right at this time is the prospect of extending the Western of Alabama railroad. The terminus of this road is at present at Sweetwater, in the southern part of Marengo county, and the logical and most reasonable route is right through the center of the county on to Demopolis and then on to northern coal fields. This route would open up one of the richest timbered and agricultural sections of Alabama, and would fill a long and much felt need for the people of this section of the state.

Perhaps the largest bond ever made in a court in Alabama was that made in Decatur by the National Park Bank of New York, for the sum of $280,000. The bond was for an appeal in a damage case against the Louisville & Nashville railroad, for a large sum, which was tried in Decatur a few weeks ago and decided in favor of the railroad company. The suit against the railroad company grew out of the $6,000,000 failure of the Knight-Yancy Cotton company in Decatur a few years ago. The bond was made by Bibb, Hoff & Co., of New Decatur, as agents for the National Security company of New York.

That Birmingham is discriminated against in the matter of express rates was the statement made by the express committee of the board of trade branch of the Chamber of Commerce. The committee reported that the question of express rates has been investigated and discriinations against Birmingham have been found. It was reported that Montgomery and Florence have also protested against the rates. Judge William J. Wood, of Evansville, Ind., has been engaged by the committee to take the matter before the interstate commerce commission.

There are more victims of hydrophobia in Alaabma at the present time than can be taken care of at the State Pasteur institute at Montgomery, according to facts brought to light in Anniston. There has been an epidemic of mad dogs in West Anniston recently, and when application was made at the Pasteur institute, it was stated that there were already thirty patients in the hospital and twelve in waiting. However, the head of a dog sent from here was examined and pronounced hydrophobic.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

A Pure, Grape Cream Tartar Baking Powder

Royal Baking Powder improves the flavor and adds to the healthfulness of the food.

A THREE-ACRE FARM.

Mr. J. A. Skaggs, of Jemison, dropped in to see us last week. Mr. Skaggs is a stalwart young man of only seventy summers. He and his good wife live on a little place of three acres which he cultivates on the entensive system. He says he will make 150 bushels of corn and about two bales of cotton, all the vegetables, etc., they can use, and hundreds of chickens and plenty of eggs. He has six pecan trees from which he last year sold $30 worth of nuts and they promise to yield $50 worth this year. He raises a pig or two which supplies their meat. He does an occasional job of carpentering out side, which supplies some ready money, but says the most of his living comes off of the three acres. He does not have to work hard and can go fishing whenever the fish are biting.

This strikes us as an ideal way of living and shows what can be done in Alabama, if you go at it right.

The suit of Col. Roosevelt against the Michigan editor for defamation of character was evidently undertaken, not so much in defense of his character, which needed no defense, but as a rebuke to that class of newspaper writers who publish slanders against public men, regardless of any foundation of truth. It is to be hoped the lesson will bear good fruit, and that one of the signs of progress in this nation will be a greater freedom from campaign lies.

No new candidates for governor have been sprung on us this week.

THE HOOK WORM.

It is almost impossible to estimate the value to the county of the work done by the hookworm commission in the last few weeks. Over 1000 persons have been relieved of an ailment that kept them weak and puny, shortened their life and in many cases made them a burden on their friends and people. The good does not end there; the disease is recognized and the treatment can be had from any of the doctors. The people have been enlighted as to many sanitary evils and in many instances will mend their ways.

Plan now what you will exhibit at the county fair next October so that you will make sure of having something worth while to show. The fair is going to be a good one. If you haven't a premium list, go to the secretary and get one.

This warm June weather is fine for the cotton.

Boys, hurry up and get that pig; it will soon be too late to join the pig club.

Judging from the number of "all day singings" and singing conventions Chilton county has a great interest in music. This is a social feature which it is well to cultivate and should be encouraged by all.

Now girls, get your tomato plants set out and let's have plenty of fine canned tomatoes next fall.

FROM DR. GROTE.

Editor Union-Banner—In just a few simple words I wish to thank you for the hearty cooperation that you have given us in our efforts to eradicate the Hookworm Disease from your County. We believe that we have had a great campaign for better health, and feel confident that much good has been done, and will get result from the work. We have examined more than 2500 patients and have treated 1059 sufferers from our dispensaries. But we expect the lasting results of our words to come from our efforts to educate the people in the laws of sanitation.

We have had the hearty support from all the doctors of your county and to them is due the credit for a large portion of our success. Chilton County is far above the average rural county in many ways, but there is room for much improvement along sanitary lines, and we hope that our work will prove a beginning of a great reformation in this respect.

With kindest personal regards I am, yours for better health,

Carl A. Grote,
Ala. State Board of Health.

DISGUSTED WITH ITSELF FLORIDA LEGISLATURE MAY ABOLISH ITSELF

Tallahassee, Fla., May 31—Disgusted with itself and the little really necessary and constructive legislation accomplished, the Florida legislature will on Monday consider a resolution by Floyd and R. R. Tomlin, to abolish both the House and Senate and establish a State commission government of sixteen commissioners, elect a governor from among themselves, and pay each three thousand dollars with the governor not less than ten thousand.

Provided sixteen good business men, governed by no ring or political clique could be secured for the purpose, that would be a very sensible thing to do. Alabama would be much better off if her affairs were administered by business men in a business-like way.

A bilious, half-sick feeling, loss of energy, and constipated bowels can be relieved with surprising, promptness by using HERBINE. The first dose brings improvement, a few doses puts the system in fine, vigorous condition. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

If any young man or young woman wishes to take a business course this summer we can let them have a scholarship in one of the best colleges at a greatly reduced rate.

THE BRILLIANT STARS OF JUNE

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will all be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any oter time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. Upchurch Drug Co.

Blackberries are ripening fast and there promises to be a good crop.

WHY NOT GET A GUARANTEE?

Every Article of Merit that is Sold these Days is Guaranteed—No Guarantee often means Poor Quality,

There is very little excuse for any person to claim that he has been "stung" on a purchase. Fifty years ago the buyer had to look out, but today it is unusual to find a merchant who will not return the money for any article that has proved unsatisfactory.

An excellent example of this kind of fair dealing is shown by the clean cut guarantee that the Alaed Drug Co. gives on Dodson's Liver Tone.

These people tell us that any person who pays 50c for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and does not find it a gentle and most pleasant liver tonic, harmless, but a sure reliever of constipation and a perfect substitute foa calomel, can get his money back just as quibk as they can get it out of the money drawer.

Dodson's Liver Tone has practically taken the place of calomel. It is absolutely harmless, sure in its action and causes no restriction of habit or diet. No wonder the drug people are glad to guarantee it, while other remedies that imitate the claims of Dodson's Livea Tone are not guaranteed at all.

NO SUBSTITUTE COULD DO THIS

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr., of his kidney trouble. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." Upchurch Drug Co.

Salves Can't Cure Eczema

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this:

Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D.D.D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 50 cent bottle will start the cure and give you instant relief.

We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommendating this D.D.D. Prescription to a skin sufferer here and there, and we want you to try it now on our positive pay guarantee. D.D.D. Soap keeps the pores clean; ask us.

Throw Away Your Calomel Here's a Better Liver Remedy

Oh! What Joh! Carswell's Liver-Aid Starts Lazy Livers Working in Fine Shape and Ends Constipation, Dizziness and Sick Headache or Money Back. Ask at Upchurch Drug Co.

You don't want calomel! you don't need it. It shocks the liver. It's like taking a heavy club to get action from a horse when a gentle tap from a small whip would do the work better.

You surely do need CARSWELL'S LIVER AID because it not only puts action into your liver, but strength, health and vigor into the whole body as well.

It drives out the poison from your system and does it quickly because it acts on liver, kidneys, bowels and stomach all at once.

It is guaranteed to be a purely vegetable liquid remedy that will forever end the misery of constipation, sour sick headache, dizziness, malaria and other common ailments without the distress of nausea or griping.

Throw away calomel and get a generous bottle of CARSWELL'S LIVER AID tnday. Its a grand remedy, harmless and pleasant to take and children take it as freely as grown ups. If it doesn't bring joyful satisfaction your money back at Upchurch Drug Co.

ROAD MEETING.

A number of citizens of Clanton met at the Court House Monday night for the purpose of taking some definite action in regard to raising funds for the road now under construction from here to Lock 12 on Coosa River.

A report from Mr. McQueen, the surveyor for the right of way, was first heard. The route has already been decided upon from Clanton to the gap of the mountain, and the work of clearing same from stumps and obstructions is being pushed forward rapidly. Beyond the gap there are two routes under consideration. Mr. McQueen estimates that the cost of constructing these two will be practically the same. Brief discussions of the two ways were made by various members of the meeting, as to which one would serve more people, and which one would receive the most enthusiastic support from patrons of the road and citizens of the communities through which it would pass. It was not definitely decided as to which route would be chosen; but a committee was appointed to make investigations and determine the strength of support and sentiment far each way. J. W. Williamson, James Baker and J. D. Smith were the committee to look after the lower route, or that which leads down Cane Creek. And the committee for the upper route was Charley Cox, Tom McKee and Will Lambert. The route will be chosen according to the interest and support given by the citizens of the two communities.

Chairman Fox urged upon the meeting the necessity of obtaining funds for building the road as far as the gap, and gave good reasons to believe that if assured that far, it would be no trouble to complete. The calculations of the engineer place the entire cost of the road to the gap of the mountain at $1,500. The meeting closed by several citizens making liberal individual donations which range anywhere from ten to five hundred dollars.

Upon some minor questions regarding the construction of the road some of the members of the meeting slightly differed, but no material dissension exists. The unanimous sentiment of the people of Clanton is in support of the road, and its construction is now a certainty.

Several citizens along the route of the road were present at the meeting, and none seemed more enthusiastic for it than they.

PARRISH-M'KEE.

On last Sunday night at nine o'clock, at the home of the bride in Clanton, was solemnized the vows of marriage between Mr. James M. Parrish and Miss Pearl McKee. Mr. Parrish is a promising young business man of Birmingham, and is well known in Clanton, this being his home before he went to Birmingham. Miss McKee was the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. McKee. The ceremony was performed by Dr. J. M. Shelbourne of East Lake in the presence of a number of invited guests. The young couple left immediately for Birmingham, amid the cheers and good wishes of their many friends.

The ice man is having his innings now.

WILLIS-FOSHEE.

Mr. Arthur Willis and Miss Mayme Foshee, both of Clanton, were married by Rev. Mr. Chappelle at the parsonage Wednesday night, June 4th, at 9 o'clock.

Miss Mayme Foshee is well known in Clanton. She was bookkeeper for L. H. Reynolds and said to be one of the best bookkeepers in town. She was organist for the Baptist church and had an interesting class in the Sundayschool. She was educated at the Central College at Tuscaloosa. She made friends of all who knew her. She is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Foshee.

Mr. Arthur Willis is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Watt Willis and is a prosperous farmer.

They left on the ten o'clock train for Nashville, Tenn., and other places where they will spend a few days and return to Clanton where they will make their home.

Not only the people of Clanton wish the young couple a prosperous and happy future, but wherever they are known they have the good will of the people.

FLORIDA CRIMINAL CAPTURED IN CLANTON.

Early last week there arrived in Clanton a white man who stated his business as an employee of the contractor for the new road to be constructed from this place to the works of the Alabama Power Company on Coosa River. Previous to this gentleman's arrival Sheriff Jones had received notice from Perry, Florida, to keep a lookout for a man named Nashburn, who was wanted at that place on a charge of bigamy. It seems that Nashburn had once been captured and lodged in prigon, but had broken jail and made his escape.

Soon after arriving in Clanton the aforesaid employee of the road contractor called his wife in Florida over telephone. As he had already become the object of suspicion on the part of Chilton county officers, they were further led to believe by this that he might be the same man who was wanted in Florida on the charge of bigamy.

Accordingly, the Sheriff kept a watch over the suspected man and located him at Mrs. Hinsdell's boarding house. In company with deputy Smitherman Sheriff Jones called on him Thursday night, and he was taken out of bed and placed under arrest. Of course he denied the charge. But despite his protests against guiltiness, the officers kept him in custody and notified Sheriff Parker of Perry, Florida, of the arrest, and he started at once on his way to Clanton. Before the Florida sheriff arrived the man under arrest, the same said-to-be employee on the new road, acknowledged that he was none other than the L. P. Nashburn who was wanted on the charge of bigamy. He was taken back to Florida Saturday evening by Sheriff Parker, where he will answer the stern demands of justice in the courts of his home town and county.

Authorities state that Nashburn is a lawless and dangerous man. Besides the ugly crime which he is now held for, he is said to be responsible for the deaths of three men.

NEGRO DROWNED.

On Monday morning Steve Looney, a negro man about 25 years old, was drowned in Mr. E. H. Mims's fish pond about two miles east of town.

The negro, who was a tenant of Mr. Mims's, had been engaged in cleaning out a well, and very naturally, on coming out, his clothing was extremely muddy. The pond being near the house, he decided to go down and swim for a few minutes, and by keeping his clothing on, would in that way get rid of the undesirable mud. While swimming he became strangled. As a result of the fright caused by his being strangled and the encumbrance caused by his wet clothing, he could no longer swim and soon drowned. As he was struggling for life Mr. Mims made every possible effort to save him. It required about half an hour to recover the body from the pond, and by this time he was far past any hope of recovery.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE SCHOOL.

I am going to commence a six weeks term of school on Monday, June 9th. The principal object is to prepare those in attendance for the State examination, but I find several pupils of the Clanton school deficient in one or more of their studies. I think it would be a good idea to have such pupils attend said school. The regular tuition rates will be $6.00 for the six weeks, but for such deficient ones it will be $5.00.

Limits of Nature Knowledge.

When Mr. Roberts is writing about otters, minks, woodchucks, geese and crows we are prepared to accept all he says as gospel truth. But when he comes to marine animals, we ask, How can he know or pretend to describe the thoughts and emotions of a squid and a swordfish, or even of a mammalian narwhal and whale? He certainly cannot have seen all that he describes; and has he ever heard a whale break "into a deep booming bellow, as of a hundred bulls?" Of course he has not. No one has. But Mr. Roberts is much too fine an artist to fall into the crude mistake of imputing purely human emotions to the lower animals. We have read a book in which rabbits had all the fine feelings of the country gentleman in whose park they lived. Mr. Roberts is never guilty of that. So we only ask, How can he know the feelings and thoughts of swordfishes? — London Spectator.

London Traffic Regulation.

The control of London traffic by the police has been a matter of slow evolution, says the London Chronicle. A century ago, when George IV. dined with the lord mayor soon after his accession, it took his escort five hours to force a way through the crowd which filled the streets from his palace to the Guildhall. And it was not until about thirty years ago that the existing system of regulating traffic at crossings was instituted. At the beginning it required four policemen at every important junction to do with difficulty what two constables and sometimes one now effect by a motion of the hand. But the men in blue stuck to their task and hung on to horses' heads and summoned rebellious drivers till the reign of law and order was established.

Fire Without Flame.

An engineer has invented a way to have fire without flame. His apparatus consists of a porous plate or mass of fire-resisting fragments, within which he mixes inflammable gas and air in the right proportions. When the gas is first turned on and lighted, it burns with a flame at the surface of the plate. When the air is turned on the flame disappears, but the heat increases. A temperature of 3,200 degrees is claimed. Just what use of this invention can be made is yet a question.

Self-Sacrificing Love.

"Yes, that is he. I could have married him if I had cared to do so."

"So that is the man! A fine looking fellow. I don't wonder that you loved him so much more than you did me."

"I don't see how you can say that! I could have married him and did not!"

"That's what I was thinking of."

F&N

HOW TO HAVE GOOD DIRT ROADS

In hope of awakening an interest in the territory served by its lines, the L. & N. Railroad published and distributed the initial article by D. Ward King, on the Split Log Drag. The result was so encouraging that a subsequent article by the same author on the same subject entitled "How To Have Good Dirt Roads" is now submitted in the hope of further stimulating the interest in the improvement of wagon roads in the rural districts, especially where it is a difficult matter to secure the construction of macadam roads.

The importance of Good Roads is so paramount as to need but little argument. The cost of transporting agricultural products to railroad lines over inferior wagon roads is proportionately much greater than the cost of the transportation by railroad to the markets. If the dirt roads are properly cared for, the macadam will come in time. It is usually the case that the community that will not attempt to keep up a poor road will never keep up a good one.

It is not pretended that in thus endeavoring to enlist interest in the "Good Roads Movement" the Railroad Company is wholly disinterested. The Railroad Company has spent very large sums of money in constructing railroads, and expects to expend more, but the management is much alive to the need of good wagon roads; first, for their direct and immediate benefit to the people; second, as being essential to the development of traffic upon which must depend the success of its railroads. Only when the one is supplemented by the other can the greatest good be obtained from either.

A copy of "How To Have Good Dirt Roads" will be cheerfully mailed free to any individual who really expects to devote thought and attention to the development of dirt roads in his community. Application should be made to Mr. G. A. Park, General Immigration and Industrial Agent, Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co., Louisville, Ky. Your name and address should be plainly written to avoid delay or mistake in mailing.

What

a great improvement would be made in the condition of horses and other animals if just the proper remedy were used when they became ill or injured. If your horse could talk he would ask you not to use any external remedy containing alcohol because it stings and tortures his flesh terribly. Some liniments have alcohol and other fiery ingredients which only inflame the skin and tissue without striking down to where the pain lies. Beware of such liniments. The great humane, quick-action remedy is MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT. Made of oils, without a drop of alcohol or other torturing element, it soaks straight to the bone and muscle. It soothes the wounded parts and is comforting while the healing work is progressing. Mexican Mustang Liniment is what you want because it your work lighter, saves your livestock from suffering and keeps them in good trim for work. For all forms of Lameness, Strains, Bruises, Cuts, Burns, Galls and Harness Sores in animals, it is safe and prompt and does not promise what it cannot perform. Mustang Liniment has been doing its wonderful healing work for 65 years. The amount of money it has saved livestock owners is incalculable. One man writes that he was about to kill his valuable horse because badly injured but Mustang Liniment made him well again. A Veterinary tells us he has used Mustang Liniment fifteen years and found it best liniment for cuts, strains, etc. And many others are enthusiastic friends of this tried and true remedy. The LADY of the MOUNT

Makes

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles.

CHAPTER IV.—(Continued.)

"Is it wise," he had asked, "to court the attention of the people?"

"Oh, I am not afraid," she had answered. "And they are going to dance, too!"

"They!" He frowned.

"Why not? It is the queen's own idea. 'Let the people dance,' she has said, 'and they will keep out of mischief.' Besides," with a prouder poise of the bright head, "why shouldn't they see, and—like me?"

"They like nothing except themselves, and," dryly, "to attempt to evade their just obligations."

"Can you blame them?" She made a light gesture. "Obligations, mon pere, are so tiresome!"

"Well, well," hastily, "have your own way." Although he spoke rather shortly, on the whole he was not displeased with his daughter; her betrothal with the Marquis de Beauvillers, a nobleman of large estates,—arranged while she was yet a child!—promised a brilliant marriage and in a measure offered to his Excellency some compensation for that old and long-cherished disappointment—the birth of a girl when his ambition had looked so strongly for an heir to his name as well as to his estate.

And so my lady and her guests danced and made merry on the sands below, and the people came out from the mainland, or down from the houses in the town at the base of the rock, to watch. A varied assemblage of gaunt-looking men and bent, low-browed women, for the most part they stood sullen and silent; though exchanging meaning glances now and then as if to say: "Do you note all this ostentation—all this glitter and display? Yes; and some day—" Upon brooding brows, in deep-set eyes, on furrowed faces a question and an answer seemed to gleam and pass. Endowed with natural optimism and a vivacity somewhat heedless, my lady appeared unconscious of all this latent enmity until an unlooked-for incident, justifying in a measure the governor's demur, broke in upon the evening's festivities and claimed her attention.

On the beach, lighted by torches, a dainty minuet was proceeding gaily, when through the throng of onlookers, a young man with dark head set on a frame tall and powerful, worked his way carefully to a point where he was afforded at least a restricted view of the animated spectacle. Absorbed each in his or her way in the scene before them, no one noticed him, and, with hat drawn over his brow, and standing in the shadow of the towering head-dresses of several peasant women, he seemed content to attract as little attention to himself as possible. His look, at first quick and alert, that of a man taking stock of his surroundings, suddenly became intent and piercing, as, passing in survey over the lowly spectators to the glittering company, it centered itself on the young mistress of festivities.

In costume white and shining, the Lady Elise moved through the graceful numbers, her slender supple figure now poised, now swaying, from head to foot responsive to the rhythm of that "pastime of little steps." Her lips, too, were busy, but such was the witchery of her motion—all fire and life!—the silk-stockinged cavaliers whom she thus regailed with wit, mockery, or jest, could, for the most part, respond only with admiring glances or weakly protesting words.

"That pretty fellow, her partner," with a contemptuous accent on the adjective, "is the Marquis de Beauvillers, a kinsman of the king!" said one of the women in the throng.

"Ma foi! They're well matched. A dancing doll for a popinjay!"

The young man behind the head-dresses, now nodding viciously, moved nearer the front. Dressed in the rough though not picturesque fashion of the northern fishermen, a touch of color in his apparel lent to his bearing a note of romance the bold expression of his swarthy face did not belie. For a few moments he watched the girl; the changing eyes and lips, shadowed by hair that shone and flashed like bright burnished gold; then catching her gaze, the black eyes gleamed. An instant their eyes lingered; hers startled, puzzled.

"Where have I seen him?" My lady, in turning, paused to swing over her shoulders a glance.

"Whom?" asked her companion in the dance—a fair, handsome nobleman of slim figure and elegant bearing.

"That's just what I can't tell you," she answered, sweeping a courtesy that fitted the rhythm of the music. "Only a face I should remember!"

"Should?" The marquis' look followed hers.

But the subject of their conversation, as if divining the trend of their talk, had drawn back.

"Oh, he is gone now," she answered.

"A malcontent, perhaps! One meets them nowadays."

"No, no! He did not look—"

"Some poor fellow, then, your beauty has entrapped?" he insinuated. "Humble admirer!"

"Then I would remember him!" she laughed as the dance came to an end.

Now in a tented pavilion, servants, richly garbed in festal costume, passed among the guests, circulating trays, bright with golden dishes and goblets, stamped with the ancient insignia of the Mount, and once the property of the affluent monks, early rulers of the place. Other attendants followed, bearing light delicacies, confections and marvelous frosted towers, and structures from the castle kitchen.

"The patron saint in sugar!" Merry exclamations greeted these examples of skill and cunning. "Are we to devour the saint?"

"Ah, no; he is only to look at!"

"But the Mount in cake—?"

"You may cut into that—though beware!—not so deep as the dungeons!"

"A piece of the cloister!"

"A bit of the abbey!"

"And you, Elise?"

The girl reached gaily. "A little of the froth of the sea!"

Meanwhile, not far distant, a barrel had been broached and wine was being circulated among the people. There, master of ceremonies, Beppo dispensed advice with the beverage, his grumbling talk heard above the light laughter and chatter of the lords and ladies.

"Drink to his Excellency!" As he spoke, the governor's man, from the elevated stand upon which he stood, gazed arrogantly around him. "Clods! Sponges that sop without a word of thanks! Who only think of your stomachs! Drink to the governor, I say!"

"To the governor!" exclaimed a few, but it might have been noticed they were men from the town, directly beneath the shadow of his Excellency's castle, and now close within reach of the fat factotum's arm.

"Once more! Had I the ordering of wine, the barrels would all be empty ones, but her ladyship would be generous, and—"

Beppo broke suddenly off, his wandering glance, on a sudden, arrested. "Hein!" he exclaimed, with eyes protruding.

"Why—a Call to Arms?"

A moment he stammered a few words of surprise and incredulity, the while he continued to search eagerly—but now in vain. The object of his startled attention, illumined, for an instant, on the outskirts of the throng, by the glare of a torch, was no more to be descried. As questioning the reality of a fleeting impression, his gaze fixed itself again near the edge of flickering lights; shifted uncertainly to the pavilion where servants from the Mount hurried to and fro; then back to the people around him. His jaw which had dropped grew suddenly firm.

"Clear a space for the dance!" he called out in tones impatient, excited. "It's her ladyship's command—so see you step blithely! And you fellows there, with the tambourin and hautbois, come forward!"

Two men, clad in sheepskin and carrying rude instruments, obediently advanced, and at once, in marked contrast to the recent tinkling measures of the orchestra, a wild, half-barbaric concord rang out.

But the governor's man, having thus far executed the orders he had received, did not linger to see whether or not his own injunction, "to step blithely," was observed; some concern, remote from gaillarde, gavotte or bourree of the people, caused him hastily to dismount from his stand and make his way from the throng. As he started at a rapid pace across the sands, his eyes, now shining with anticipation, looked back.

"What could have brought him here? Him!" he repeated. "Ah, my fine fellow, this should prove a lucky stroke for me!" And quickening his step, until he almost ran, Beppo hurried toward the tower gate of the Mount.

CHAPTER V.

An Interruption.

"They seem not to appreciate your fete champetre, my Lady!" At the verge of the group of peasant dancers, the Lady Elise and the Marquis de Beauvillers, who had left the other guests to the enjoyment of fresh culinary surprises, paused to survey a scene, intended, yet failing, to be festal. For whether these people were too sodden to avail themselves of the opportunity for merrymaking, or liked not the notion of tripping together at Beppo's command, their movements, which should have been free and untrammeled as the vigorous swing of the music, were characterized only by painful monotony and lagging. In the half-gloom they came together like shadows; separated aimlessly and cast misshapen silhouettes—caricatures of frolicking peasants—on the broad surface of the sands beyond. These bobbing, black spots my lady disapprovingly regarded.

"Here—and elsewhere!" he laughed.

But the governor's daughter made an impatient movement; memories of the dance, as she had often seen it, when she was a child at the Mount, recurred to her. "They seem to have forgotten!" Her eyes flashed. "I should like to show them."

"You? My Lady!"

She did not answer; pressing her red lips, she glanced sharply around. "Stupid people! Half of them are only looking on! When they can dance, they won't, and—" She gave a slight start, for near her, almost at her elbow, stood the young seaman she had observed only a short time before, when the minuet was in progress. His dark eyes were bent on her and she surprised on his face an expression half derisory, half quizzical. Her look changed to one of displeasure.

"You are not dancing?" severely.

"No, my Lady." Too late, perhaps, he regretted his temerity—that too unveiled and open regard.

"Why not?" more imperiously.

"I—" he began and stopped.

"You can dance?"

"A little, perhaps—"

"As well as they?" looking at the people.

"Wooden fantoccini!" said the man, a flicker of amusement returning to his face.

"Fantoccini?" spoke the girl impatiently. "What do you know of them?"

"We Breton seamen sail far, on occasion."

"Far enough to gain in assurance!" cried my lady, with golden head high, surveying him disdainfully through half-colored, sweeping lashes. "But you shall prove your right."

"Right?" asked the fellow, his eyes fixed intently upon her.

"The right of one who does not dance—to criticize those who do!" she said pointedly, and made, on the sudden, an imperious gesture.

He gave a start of surprise; audacious though he was, he looked as if he would draw back. "What? With you, my Lady?"

A gleam of satisfaction, a little cold and scornful, shone from the girl's eyes at this evidence of his discomfiture. "Unless," she added maliciously, "you fear you—can not?"

"Fear?" His look shot around; a moment he seemed to hesitate; then a more reckless expression swept suddenly over his dark features and he sprang to her side.

"At your Ladyship's command!"

My lady's white chin lifted. The presumptuous fellow knew the dance of the Mount—danced it well, no doubt!—else why such ease and assurance? Her lids veiled a look of disappointment; she was half-minded curtly to dismiss him, when a few words of low remonstrance and the sight of my lord's face decided her. She drew aside her skirts swiftly; flashed back at the nobleman a smile, capricious and wilful.

"They," indicating the peasants, "must have an example, my Lord!" she exclaimed, and stood, with eyes sparkling, waiting the instant to catch up the rhythm.

But the marquis, not finding the reason sufficient to warrant such condescension, gazed with mute protest and disapproval on the two figures, so ill-assorted: my lady, in robe of satin, fastened with tassels of silver—the sleeves, wide and short, trimmed at the elbow with fine lace of Brussels and drawn up at the shoulder with glistening knots of diamonds; the other, clad in the rough raiment of a seaman! The nice, critical sense of the marquis suffered from this spectacle of the incongruous; his eyes, seeking in vain those of the governor's daughter, turned and rested querulously on the heavy-browed peasants, most of whom, drawing nearer, viewed the scene with stolid indifference. In the gaze of only a few did that first stupid impression suffer any change; then it varied to one of vague wonder, half-apathetic inquiry!

"Then I Would Remember Him," She Laughed.

"Is he mad?" whispered a clod of this class to a neighbor.

"Not so loud!" breathed the other in a low tone.

"But he," regarding with dull awe the young fisherman, "doesn't care! Look! What foolhardiness! He's going to dance with her!"

"Witchcraft! That's what I call it!"

"Hush!"

My lady extended the tips of her fingers. "Attack well!" runs the old Gallic injunction to dancers; the partner she had chosen apparently understood its significance. A lithe muscular hand closed on the small one; whirled my lady swiftly; half back again. It took away her breath a little, so forcible and unceremonious that beginning! Then, obeying the mad rhythm of the movement, she yielded to the infectious measure. An arm quickly encircled her waist; swept the slender form here,—there. Never had she had partner so vigorous, yet graceful. One who understood so well this song of the soil; its wild symbolism; the ancient music of the hardy Scandinavians who first brought the dance to these shores.

More stirring, the melodies resounded—faster—faster. In a rapid turn, the golden hair just brushed the dark, glowing face. He bent lower; as if she had been but a peasant maid, the bold eyes looked now down into hers; nay, more—in their depths she might fancy almost a warmer sparkle—of mute admiration! And her face, on a sudden, grew cold.

"Certes, your Ladyship sets them an example!" murmured the audacious fellow. "Though, pardi!—one not easy to imitate!"

She threw back her head, proudly, imperiously; the brown eyes gleamed, and certain sharp words of reproof were about to spring from her lips, when abruptly, above the sound of the music, a trumpet call, afar, rang out. My lady—not sorry perhaps of the pretext—at once stopped.

"I thank your Ladyship," said the man and bowed low.

But the governor's daughter seemed, or affected, not to hear, regarding the other dancers, who likewise had come to a standstill—the two musicians looking up from instruments now silent. A moment yet the young fisherman lingered; seemed about once more to voice his acknowledgments, but, catching the dull eye of a peasant, stepped back instead.

"Sapristi! They might, at least, have waited until the end of the dance!" he muttered, and with a final look over his shoulder and a low laugh, disappeared in the crowd.

"Where are the enemy?" It was the marquis who spoke—in accents he strove to make light and thereby conceal, perhaps, possible annoyance. Coming forward, he looked around toward the point whence the sound had proceeded. "If I mistake not," a note of inquiry in his tone, "it means—a call to arms!"

My lady bit her lips; her eyes still gleamed with the bright cold light of a topaz. "Why—a call to arms?" she asked somewhat petulantly, raising her hand to her hair, a little disarranged in the dance.

Goethals Told Them How.

The following story is told of Col. George W. Goethals, who at the time it took place was an instructor in engineering at Wast Point.

One day, in a recitation, he gave out this question to a class of cadets:

"The post flagpole, 60 feet high, has fallen down. You are ordered by your commanding officers to put it up again. You have under your command a sergeant and 10 privates of the engineer corps. How would you get the pole back into place?"

Each cadet, after long consideration and much figuring over derricks, blocks, tackle and so on, evolved a different method.

"No," said Goethals, "you are all wrong. You would simply say: 'Sergeant, put up that flagpole!'"—Saturday Evening Post.

Start the Day Right.

A woman's taste is very perceptible at the breakfast table. She should never allow a soiled tablecloth to appear on it. The linen should be fresh and snowy white, the coffee well made and, if possible fresh flowers and fruits should adorn the table. A nicely appointed, appetizing breakfast is a promoter of good temper and harmony through the ensuing day. A soiled tablecloth tough cold toast, bitter coffee, etc. are enough to derange both the temper and digestion of those who have to submit to such domestic inflictions

HOW THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

Would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for All Rest of Medicine in the World.

Utica, Ohio.—"I suffered everything from a female weakness after baby came. I had numb spells and was dizzy, had black spots before my eyes, my back ached and I was so weak I could hardly stand up. My face was yellow, even my fingernails were colorless and I had displacement. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am stout, well and healthy. I can do all my own work and can walk to town and back and not get tired. I would not give your Vegetable Compound for all the rest of the medicines in the world. I tried doctor's medicines and they did me no good."—Mrs. MARY EARLEWINE, R.F.D. No.3, Utica, Ohio.

Another Case.

Nebo, Ill.—"I was bothered for ten years with female troubles and the doctors did not help me. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work and every month I had to spend a few days in bed. I read so many letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound curing female troubles that I got a bottle of it. It did me more good than anything else I ever took and now it has cured me. I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be living to-day but for that."—Mrs. HETTIE GREENSTREET, Nebo, Illinois.

MANY PERSONS COLOR BLIND

Tests Used by Railroads Show That Almost Everybody Is Slightly Color Blind.

The various tests for color blindness have come into practical use in the examination of railroad engineers and the like, where the ability to distinguish colors is necessary, so that these tests are no longer peculiar to the laboratory. But it is not generally known outside the laboratory that everybody is partially color blind—that is, in certain parts of the field of vision. The most normal individual can see all the colors only when he looks directly at them. If looked at from an angle of about fifteen degrees red and green can no longer be seen, but in their places will appear shades of yellow or blue. This region of the eyes is known as the yellow-blue zone. If the color be moved still farther to the side the yellow and blue will disappear and only gray can be seen. This region is known as the zone of complete color blindness. An interesting theory in regard to these zones is that every normal eye represents three stages of evolution. The zone of complete color blindness is the lowest stage, and appears in such animals as the frog, whose vision is known as shadow vision. The blue-yellow zone is one step higher in the scale, although not clearly marked off in the animal kingdom. And the appearance of the red-green zone marks the highest stage of evolution. Cases of color blindness are, according to this theory, a lack of development beyond the early stage of individual life.—Strand Magazine.

A Common Crop.

"Are you raising anything in your suburban garden this spring?"

"Oh, yes; a lot of criticism."

MEMORY IMPROVED.
Since Leaving Off Coffee.

Many persons suffer from poor memory who never suspect coffee has anything to do with it.

The drug—caffeine—in coffee, acts injuriously on the nerves and heart, causing imperfect circulation, too much blood in the brain at one time, too little in another part. This often causes a dullness which makes a good memory nearly impossible.

"I am nearly seventy years old and did not know that coffee was the cause of the stomach and heart trouble I suffered from for many years, until about four years ago," writes a Kansas woman.

"A kind neighbor induced me to quit coffee and try Postum. I had been suffering severely and was greatly reduced in flesh. After using Postum a little while I found myself improving. My heart beats became regular and now I seldom ever notice any symptoms of my old stomach trouble at all. My nerves are steady and my memory decidedly better than while I was using coffee.

"I like the taste of Postum fully as well as coffee."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

QUALITIES OF THE KARAKUL

Belongs to Long-Wool Family From Which All Broadtail Varieties Descend—Is Hardy.

(By C. C. YOUNG.)

The Arabi or Karakul sheep has its origin in the Khanate of Bokhara, central Asia, and belongs to the long-wool family from which all broadtail varieties descend. For centuries Arabi bucks have been smuggled into Afghanistan, Persia, Turkestan, China, Palestine, Syria, Asia Minor and Egypt and because of the ignorance of the native who seem to have no conception of proper breeding, have been crossed with native sheep of the long-wool, short-wool and hairy classes, which in all of those countries belong to the most inferior type of domestic sheep imaginable. Were it not for the fact that the Arabi strain was from time to time injected into the native sheep of the above-named countries, their sheep industry today would amount to absolutely nothing. As the Arabi is essentially a desert animal, and able to withstand any amount of hardship, evidently not minding the intense heat in the summer nor the severe cold in the winter, often going days without food and water, it can readily be seen why the people living in the arid countries of central Asia found it advantageous to cross their native sheep with the Arabi, which is the heaviest sheep known. The barren, semi-mountainous country of Bokhara in which the Arabi thrives certainly does not show much evidence of grass, except here and there in the small valleys, and nature has made it possible for this animal to store in a short time large quanities of fat in its immense tail, weighing from 25 to 50 pounds, upon which it draws for sustenance when necessity demands it, and these properties are in a large measure transmitted to the offspring resulting from crossing the Arabi with the native sheep. One has to eat the mutton of the Arabi but once to realize that is has absolutely no "sheepy" taste, but possesses a delicious and very appetizing flavor.

DANGEROUS FEED FOR SWINE

Whenever Man Begins to Give Hogs Garbage From Hotels He Must Expect Cholera Outbreak.

I know of one case where a man who had been feeding hotel refuse held a public sale and disposed of a number of hogs, says a writer in the Swine Herd. Soon after that I was asked to determine the cause of death in three different hog lots on as many widely separated farms. In each case there was no history of their having been fed on garbage, but each owner had purchased hogs at the above sale, which to me, was significant.

Just why hotel and restaurant refuse should contain the cholera germ I do not wish to risk a statement, although there are several apparently reasonable explanations, but this I do know, that practically all the hog cholera that has come under my observation is easily traceable to garbage feeding. In this respect, for the sake of fairness, let me say that the garbage-fed hogs near large cities usually do not spread the disease, since practically all of them go for immediate slaughter, but around the smaller towns these swill-fed hogs frequently serve as centers of infection for a considerable area.

In conclusion, then, whenever a man commences to feed garbage to hogs he must expect, sooner or later, to have an outbreak of cholera, and, secondly, he should never, under any circumstances, dispose of any hogs except for immediate slaughter.

Feed for Sow and Pigs.

A good feed for both sow and pigs is a mixture of corn, shorts, oil meal and tankage. Keep them on a good pasture of leguminous crop, such as alfalfa or clover. If the pasture is not available, alfalfa hay may be fed, for the hogs will relish it in summer as well as in winter.

Best Market for Corn.

High-priced corn adds considerably to the cost of pork; but at the prices that have been prevailing the hog pen is the best market there is for corn.

Persistent Nuisance.

The cow that is a persistent fence breaker is a nuisance, and ought to be extraordinarily good to induce her owner to put up with her pranks.

Practical Fashions

MISSES' DRESS.

In this model we have a dainty dress for the young girl and one especially attractive if carried out in any of the new and beautiful silks now in vogue. The dress is to be worn with a guimpe. The two-piece skirt can be finished with Empire or regulation waist line, and with or without peplum.

The pattern (6080) is cut in sizes 14, 16 and 18 years. Age 15 requires 3½ yards of 44-inch material and 5¼ yards of braid.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Where He Might Have Been.

One of the incidents of Father Bernard Vaughan's tour in the States was an encounter with a suffragette. The haughty lady approached the English visitor and said: "And where would you be, pray, but for a woman?" "Madam," came the reply, "on a sultry evening like this I should be eating ice cream under an apple-tree in the Garden of Eden."

The Lesser of Two Evils.

A gentleman from the north was enjoying the excitement of a bear hunt down in Mississippi. The bear was surrounded in a small cane thicket. The dogs could not get the bear out and the planter who was at the head of the hunt called to one of the negroes:

"Sam, go in there and get the bear out."

The negro hesitated for a moment and then plunged into the cane. A few moments after the negro, the bear and the dogs were rolling upon the ground outside.

After the hunt was over the visitor said to the negro:

"Were you not afraid to go into that thicket with that bear?"

"Cap'n," replied the negro. "It wus jest dis way. I nebber had met dat bar, but I wus pussonally 'quainted wid old boss, and I jes' naturally tuck dat b'ar."

THE BEST TREATMENT FOR ITCHING SCALPS, DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring, comb the hair out straight all around, then begin at the side and make a parting, gently rubbing Cuticura Ointment into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart until the whole scalp has been treated, the purpose being to get the Cuticura Ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. It is well to place a light covering over the hair to protect the pillow from possible stain. The next morning, shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Shampoos alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair.

Infant Hygiene at School.

Ont in Cleveland 17 trained nurses are now giving lessons in infant hygiene to the girl pupils attending 15 public schools. It is reported that the girls have shown an intense and delighted interest in the lessons, absorbing eagerly all that relates to the proper care of babies. This kind of instruction in the public schools represents something more and better than the activity of faddists. America, like other countries, has a very large infant death rate. Thousands of infants die annually because they have not received proper care. It is easily conceivable that the proper training of girls might save the lives of many babies.

DIDN'T KNOW THE SENATOR

Thomas of Colorado Was Barred at Senate Door After His Hair Was Cut.

As Sampson found his strength vanished after Delilah snipped his locks, so Senator Thomas of Colorado found his official identity lost after paying a visit to a barber shop in the capitol. He even was spurned by the senate doorkeepers.

Senator Thomas long has gloried in a waving mane. But when the sizzling heat of an unusually hot spring day settled on Washington it ceased to be a source of gratification or glory.

The senator stood the discomfort as long as he could and then decided to be shorn. An overzealous barber snipped the statesman's locks down to the scalp.

"Back," said a portly doortender when Senator Thomas sought to enter to the floor of the senate. "You can't get in here."

"But I'm Senator Thomas," protested the applicant.

"Nothing doing," retorted the doorkeeper, looking at the supposed intruder's apparently bald head. "You'll find the elevators to the public galleries down the corridor to your right."

The senator was rescued by a colleague, who disclosed his identity to the embarrassed keeper of the door. The barber, at last reports, was said to be in hiding.

Vacillating.

At a dinner not long ago Thomas W. Lawson was talking on the subject of success.

"Success in finance," said Lawson, "is due in a great measure to prompt action. The doubting, hesitating, Hamlet type of men had best keep out of finance. He is quite sure to be swamped. The street hasn't much use for him. I had a boyhood friend of this type named Grimes. He was a falterer, a doubter, a Hamlet of the most exaggerated type.

"One evening I stopped to call on him and found him in a deep study, bent over a white waistcoat, lying on a table.

"'Hello, Grimes,' I said. 'What's the matter?'

"'This waistcoat,' he replied, holding the garment up to my view, is too dirty to wear, and not dirty enough to send to the laundry. I don't know what to do about it.'"—Everybody's.

THORSBY DEPARTMENT

H. L. FOSHEE, Manager. —o— THORSBY, ALA., June 5, 1913

Miss Charlotte Mastin is on the sick list.

Miss Grace Michelson is recovering from her long illness.

Mrs. Olsen, the aged mother of Mrs. T. O. Swan, died Sunday night about ten o'clock, and was laid away in the Swedish cemetery Monday afternoon. Mrs. Olsen was a lovable old lady, but owing to her feebleness she had been confined to her home for some years. She had been longing to go for some time. We shall all miss her and it will be a lonely home for those that are left. We all sympathize with the children and grandchildren.

Mayor Bice went to Lomax Saturday night and spent Sunday at the singing and Sunday school at Jackson's Chapel.

Charlie Howard has the pillars laid for his new house.

It seems lonely to the neighbors around the Institute since school has closed and the bells no longer ring.

A small party of young people drove out to the dam Sunday and report a nice time.

Mr. Fred Krahmann is still shipping strawberries and dewberries; later will have blackberries to ship.

Mrs. Spratt and daughters, Margaret and Mary, left Monday for their home in South Carolina. Mrs. Spratt has been Matron of Thorsby Institute for the past year and her daughters attended school here. We are sorry to lose Mrs. Spratt for she was a good matron and won many friends while here.

Miss Finch who has been teaching here for the past year left for her home to spend the vacation.

Messrs. James Hudman, Harvey Maddox, Hardy Sandlin, Thomas Uhrig, Clarence Graham, and Miss Bessie Hall left for their homes Saturday, after spending the past year in school here.

Miss Bessie Nix attended the commencement exercises last week.

Mr. Guy H. Gerald of Maplesville spent Sunday and Monday in Thorsby.

Rev. W. M. Olive and famiiy returned from Texas last Monday, where they have been for several months past. Mr. Olive has returned to aid in the work of establishing the Baptist High School which has been located at Thorsby.

Miss Martha Binkley of Beverly, Tenn., and Miss Christena McIntyree of Chicago, Ill., left for their homes Saturday to spend the vacation after teaching in the Thorsby Institute for the past year.

Mr. S. G. Norton is attending the Chatauqua in Birmingham this week.

Mr. Lawrence Gerald has returned home from the University of Alabama, where he has been taking a law course. He finished this time and is now ready to begin his practice.

Mrs. J. J. Stanley is visiting her sister in Montgomery this week.

In every home where there is a baby there should also be a bottle of McGee's Baby Elixir. It may be needed at any time to correct sour stomach, wind colic, diarrhoea or summer complaint. It is a wholesome remedy, contains no opium, morphine or injurious drug of any kind. Price 25c and 50c per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

THORSBY INSTITUTE HAS CLOSING EXERCISES.

Representative Richmond P. Hobson was introduced to a large congregation at Bates Hall last Friday at 2 p.m., by Mr. J. J. Stanley, as speaker of the day. Mr. Hobson gave a very interesting talk on the advantages of an education and urged the parents to make a sacrifice if need be to send their children to school, and gave several statistics to show that the boy with a high school education earns at least twice as much during life as those who have only a common school education. He talked at length on the mineral resources of Alabama and the slow progress we are making toward using our raw materials. He told of the growth to the south that would be caused by the opening of the Panama Canal. He outlined several of his policies in repect to Federal aid for schools and highways, the establishment of an International court and woman suffrage.

He closed his remarks by telling some of the evils of alcohol and of the work he has done and is doing to educate the youth of America against its use.

The Thorsby Orchestra furnished music for the occasion and after this the prizes were given to the pupil having the best average attendance, doing the best work, and conducting themselves the best; the first prize was awarded to Thora Gerald and the second prize to Alma Dippery.

The commencement exercises were brought to a close on Friday night with Miss Finch's music recital. There were more than twenty numbers and each one did their part well.

AN APPRECIATION

Of Mrs. Anna Olson of Tharsby, who entered into the rest prepared for the children of God at 9:30 Sunday aged 79 years and three months.

Mrs. Olson has been a resident of Thorsby for about 16 years, coming to this place with her husband among the early members of the colony that organized and built Thorsby. She was a devoted christian woman. Her husband died about ten years ago and her home has been with her daughter, Mrs. T. O. Swan.

To few women is it given to be the mother of three missionaries. Mrs. John Funk, whom early settlers in Thorsby will remember as Miss Anna Olson, has been for several years engaged in missionary work at Guayaquil, Ecuador, but is now visiting with her husband at the old homestead here.

Mr. Charles Olson, who also was once a resident of Thorsby, is now located as a missionary at Macas, Ecuador. Mrs, F. C. Enyart, another daughter, is in Missionary work at Mequinez, Morocco, North Africa.

Who will undertake to compute the wealth of good works in years past and years to come, that emanates from this one humble christian home? How material wealth pales into insignificance when one stops to consider the value of one human soul! Surely such a life cannot fail to be an inspiration to many and the force of it will go on and on ever accumulating without end.

A TEXAS WONDER.

The Texas Wonder cures kidney and bladder troubles, dissolves gravel, cures diabetes, weak and lame backs, rheumatism, and all irregularities of the kidneys and bladder in both men and women. Regulates bladder troubles in children. If not sold by your druggist will be sent by mail on receipt of $1.00. One small bottle is two months' treatment, and seldom fails to perfect a cure. Send for testimonials from Alabama and other states. Dr. E. W. Hall, 2926 Olive Street, St. Louis, Mo. Sold by druggists.

WANTED! You to try a bottle of Carswell's Liver Aid. It takes the place of calomel in its action upon the liver and does the work far better, without the danger of salivation, nausea, gripeing or any of the bad after effects of calomel. Liver Aid is pleasant to the taste, therefore it is the ideal tonic for children as well as grown folks. Liver Aid is the most effective tonic that builds up the whole system, strengthens and tones the liver and kidneys, banishes malaria, aids in perfect digestion, and makes rich blood. Liver Aid is not only the best cathartic, but a sure natural tonic, laxative that can always be depended upon, without making you sick. Cures Constipation. Price 50 cents. STOCK TALK.

FROM FARMERS HOME JOURNAL LOUISVILLE, KY.

Early and thorough training makes gentle, safe, and tractable horse.

To have horses of endurance give the colts a chance to develop their muscles.

The walk is the foundation of all other gaits and without begining at the foundation all future developments will be unsa tisfactory.

One of the most important things is to teach the colt to walk fast from the very start. Never hitch him up with a slow, unresponsive horse, even if it is "so gentle."

Good farming is impossible without good teams.

Get the suckling pigs to eat whole oats on a clean platform as soon as possible.

The meat from quickly grown pigs or hogs is far more palatable and nutritious than when they are fattened otherwise.

An ungovernable boar is most dangerous.

Always use a thoroughbred boar.

Quickly grown pigs are the most profitable ones.

Give the oats to the young pigs in an enclosure away from the older hogs.

A number of sales of hogs have been made around Paris and Lancaster, Ky., at $8.00 per hundred.

W. H. Lee bought at Lancaster, Ky., last week a bunch of 15 shoats aggregating 1,430 lbs. at $8.25.

INSECT PESTS.

Because of the mild winter, Commissioner of Agriculture of Alabama, R. F. Kolb predicts that the boll weevil, the caterpillar, the boll worm and all other insects antagonistic to plant life, will be out in full force early this summer. He warns farmers to watch out for the pests as tney are bound to appear several weeks earlier and extreme precautions must be taken to keep the cotton from being irreparably damaged. He declares that the winter was not sufficiently cold to kill insect life.

THE ADVERTISER'S QUESTION.

The Prattville Progress publishes a brief statement from the Montgomery Advertiser in which that paper insists that it wants a great business man, etc., for the next governor. Then the Progress reminds that paper that for the past quarter of a century the Montgomery Advertiser has urged the people to elect its kind of a governor, and that last year the people elected just the governor the Advertiser asked for. And it suggests that The Advertiser is again at its old trick of asking the people to let it name their next governor for them. The Progress might have gone further and asked if the Advertiser wanted the same sort of a man and the same sort of an administration as the State is now blessed with?—Tuskegee News.

It appears that some of the Alabama newspapers that are always ready to fight for the open saloon and the manufacture and sale of liquors, are unable to get it in their heads that there is an organization in this state, non-political, that has declared war to the death of the liquor traffic. That organization is the anti-saloon league. The anti-saloon league is defined as the churches united and at work. Alabama is but a branch of the organization which covers the entire United States. That is the organization that is now engaged in a campaign to swing Alabama back into the statewide column. That fight is going to be waged to the bitter end no matter who does, or who does not run for governor.—Opelika Daily News.

SOME THOUGHTS ON CO-OPERATION.

Editor Union-Banner:—Another point that ought to be argued pro and con in every town and hamlet of the United States is co-operation on a national scale; that is for the United States government to handle and distribute everything raised by a trucker or farmer and deliver it to the consumer at cost to produce, plus transportation and handling and collection fees.

I can see no just reason why a producer should receive 50c for an article which cost him $1.00 to get to the station, becaase the markets are glutted: that is a law of management the burgeoise have not learned yet, and I think never will learn as long as bourgeoise principles are the dominant factors in the case.

Associations of farmers, truckraisers and cattlemen pass great and good resolutions, and the next hour they practice bourgeoise principles in their fullest sense, namely, to get rent, interest and profit, without regard to the cost of production, the same as is done by the consumers.

They would hardly lay two straws across if it was not for their light pocket books, as they are imbued with the same principles: cheap, regardless of cost to produce.

Worst of all, some resolutions and also some writers in farm journals refer to Denmark as an example. Which is the most socialistic-democratic government in the world, inculcated in their religion by Rev. Gundthrig about 1850 and after. They are working co-operatively; all articles to be shipped are inspected by government inspectors, but for that surveilance the Danish people are paid the highest market price in the world for their produce. And I expect to see some further strides taken towards people's betterment, as the next Riksdag or Congress, will be socialist and radicals.

My views on this question are: That if the U. S. and the States in combination can lawfully spend large sums of money for agricultural schools, experiment stations and farmers institutes to instruct the producer to get good yields and to avoid mistakes, which is good for the producer, at least, most of it is good teaching,' then why cannot the U. S. and States pass laws for funds to erect warehouses and cold storage buildings to handle the products of their state. The U. S. to handle interstate traffic and collections, say at 4 or 5 per cent. plus cost of transportation, icing refrigerator cars and feed and water for stock?

The U. S. officials to receive reports from the markets of the different states so as to know where the stuff is needed and to give state officials notice accordingly. State officials to inspect all shipments of any kind and handle local shipments within state and bill all inter state to the place directed by the U. S. officer of the state. Warehousing and cold storage to be controlled by the states at 1 per cent. per month; pay the state officials 1 1-2 per cent. for inspecting, billing and handling, said officials to be paid by state treasurer and all fees turned in to state treasurer by the U. NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

FARMERS UNION MEETING

The Chilton county division of the F. E. & C. U. of A. will meet with Collins Chapel Local on June 19 and 20. We hope and expect that all the officers will be present and that every local will send delegates. All non-union people, especially the corn club boys and the tomato club girls, are invited to be present. We have the promise of some of the best talent the state can afford. Don't think you are too busy to go. If you are a farmer you should take time to attend this meeting. It is our purpose to educate and instruct the farmer, and by doing so we will gradually obtain better towns, better roads, better schools, etc. Will you come and hear something that will do you good in all your future life?

Yours for the work,
W. P. LOWERY.

FARMERS UNION MEETING

The Chilton County Farmers Union will meet with Collins Chapel local No. 223 at the schoolhouse on Thursday and Friday, June 19th and 20th, 1913. The following speakers have promised to attend: D. P. Ford, Birmingham; C. L. Gay, Montgomery; L. N. Duncan, Auburn; G. T. McEldery, Talladega. Those coming by rail will stop at Thorsby where you will be met by conveyances if you will write A. Z. Bean, Clanton, Rt. 8. Forenoon of first day will be public. Also public lecture second day at 11 o'clock.

Everybody invited who are interested in better farming.

Yours for Education,
J. M. SMITH,
County Secretary.

MAPLE SPRINGS.

There will be an all day singing at this place on the third Sunday. All lovers of music and especially singers are invited. Bring your books of the latest music and a well filled basket.

J. Z. Mims.

NOTICE.

There will be a box supper at Mt. Pleasant School house on Saturday night, June 14th. The proceeds will go towards buying an organ for the Sunday school at this place. Everybody is invited to come. We urge every girl to bring a box and as many of the married ladies as can.

G. W. Melton.

The so common argument used by agricultural journals and intelligent speakers who know better, as to overproduction, supply and demand, etc., are foolish and very misleading to the majority of the common people. We know there is a surplus at certain times of the year, as for instance eggs in the spring months, but we import millions of eggs every year. Cotton generally gets a glut at gathering time; and so it is with different products. The state cold storage and warehouses would eleminate these gluts. As for overproduction of anything during any year at any place on the globe, it has never been and I doubt if it ever will be. The direct opposite is true, every year many have to go without enough to eat or wear. And as long as there is one man or animal who has not all they can eat or wear, there is in fact no overproduction.

Bourgoise mismanagement in handling and looking for profit, or the mighty dollar regardless of who is starving or being killed is the cause of this.

And I doubt if there ever will be unity brought about by any producers' Associations, let alone the opposite, the consumers, or any co-operative scheme, until the U. S. and the States take charge along the lines I have suggested. Such are my views.

J. A. LINDQUIST,
Rt. 1, Thorsby, Ala.

[Note. By "bourgoise" we understand our correspondent to mean the "middlemen" made up from the "middle classes" who live off of the labors of the producers. His views are sound, but the end is so far off that in the mean time we think it well to encourage the co-operative Associations. Editor U-B.]

MT. PLEASANT.

CLANTON DRUGGIST DESERVES PRAISE.

The Upchurch Drug Co. deserves praise from Clanton people for introducing here the simple buckthorn bark and glycerine mixture, known as Adler-i-ka. This simple German remedy first became famous by curing appendicitis and it has now been discovered that JUST A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY. It's quick action is a big surprise to people.

IN MEMORIAM.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. George Allen June 2 and took from him his dear wife. We extend our sympathy to the husband and children. She leaves a husband and six children to mourn her death. Mrs. Elizabeth Allen was 51 years old. She has only fallen asleep in the arms of Jesus to await the coming of her dear husband and children. If she could speak she would say weep not. She bore her sufferings with patience unto the end. All things were done for her that loving hands could do, but the Lord doeth all things for the best.

Written by her nephew,
M. D. DENNIS.

A WORKER APPRECIATES THIS

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Upchurch Drug Co.

A MILLION ADDITIONAL BUSHELS OF OATS.

Auburn. Ala., June 9.

I shall mention only one of the many improvements that might be made in the culture and fertilization of oats, and which altogether could easily effect a three fold increase in Alabama's yield of oats. I write now only to call attention to the immense and inexcusable loss due to the presence of the disease, oat smut. In nearly every field where oats are now being cut or have been harvested during the past week, one may find a large proportion of branches or heads that have blackened and produced not a single kernel of grain.

Careful tests made at Auburn and at numerous other stations show the usual loss from oat smut to range from 6 per cent to 25 per cent or more of the crop actually harvested. It is not uncommon for this disease to decrease the yield from four to eight bushels per acre. Yet this is the most easily prevented plant disease which attacks any of the widely grown crop plants of this region. A small amount of information and the expenditure of about 4 cents per acre for formalin with which to treat the seed oats at the time of sowing would completely eliminate this disease from any field, no matter how badly smutted the crop in which such seed was produced.

The treatment is simple. Pour one ounce of liquid formalin into one gallon of water. With this, thoroughly dampen the seed oats just before planting, which may be done either by dipping or by sprinkling and stirring.

Keep the pile of oats covered with some coarse cloth for a few hours, so that the fumes of the formalin may kill the disease germs. Sow the grain when thoroughly dry.

The cost of treating two bushels of seed would only be about 4 cents and this treatment should add to the yield four to eight bushels to the acre.

The evidence of damage done from oat smut is now fresh in mind, so this is a good time for farmers to resolve to avoid this loss another year.

TEACHERS INSTITUTES.

Superintendent Willingham has announced the dates for the County Teachers Institutes. That for Chilton county will be held the week beginning August 11th. Teachers will remember that a number of teachers have been dropped this year for not attending the institutes.

STORE ROBBED AT MOUNTAIN CREEK.

On last Monday night thieves entered the store of A. A. Culver at Mountain Creek and carried off a quantity of merchandise. It is not known just yet how much the loss amounts to. There is some clue as to the thieves, but, as yet, no arrests have been made.

REPORT OF CHILTON COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER FOR MAY.

During the month of May there were reported the following births:

White males	21
White females	24
Total	45
Colored males	2
Colored females	3
Total	5
Grand total of births	50

Deaths were as follows:

White males	10
White females	8
Total	18
Colored males	4
Colored females	1
Grand total of deaths	23

It is inteersting to note that, as reported, the white births more than double the white deaths, while the colored births and deaths are juft equal.

There should be an average in Chilton county of 26 deaths and 48 births per month. The death report for the past month has been more nearly correct, we are sure, than at some previous reports.

We desire here to call attention of coffin dealers to their duty in reporting. By giving prompt and correct reports, they open the way clear for the health officer to find what doctors and midwifes are not reporting deaths that are occuring in their practice and thereby give him a better chance to perform his duty.

Respectfully,
V. J. Gragg,
County Health Officer.

WALNUT CREEK

There will be an all day singing at Walnut Creek Church the fifth Sunday in June. All are invited. Books to be used "New Lyrics of Praise" and "Songs and Hymns." J. A. W. Mims.

TAXES FOR HOME SCHOOLS.

The Rockford Chronicle is afraid the people's tax money will be withdrawn from the schools if a law permitting local taxation at the will of the voters should be passed by our legislature. Here is what the Chronicle says of it:

"Nearly all the newspapers that are dominated by predatory or unearned wealth will support an amendment to the constitution whereby the state appropriation for the support of public schools may be withdrawn and the schools left dependent on the three mill tax, the little interest on the Sixteenth section fund and whatever little local tax the district is able to pay."

As The Birmingham Ledger is free from such control and yet favors allowing people to give more to their own schools if they want to, it begs to assure the Chronicle that the people of Alabama do not intend to do anything of the kind. In order to withdraw the present school share of the state taxes, the constitution would have to be amended. That could only be done by a vote of the people of the state and those people would not consent to give up one dollar of their share of their money in their own treasury As The Ledger understands it, the persons who proposed taking away the school fund have abandoned the idea and repented.

To make the common schools more efficient it is proposed to allow school districts to tax themselves if they wish to do so. That is all. That can only be done by consent of the voters of that district. What we wish to impress is the fact that the present school fund must be held as it is and that districts can have longer terms and better teachers for a small tax, if they want it. A small tax is very much cheaper than even one dollar a month tuition.

The Rockford Chronicle is right in its position on the school fund and no doubt it will favor a small tax to get a longer term for the children.—Birmingham Ledger.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Ocampo June 7.--John A. Hill an employee of the Alabama Power Co., was run over and killed Friday night by an L. & N. train. It is supposed he tried to swing himself aboard a train, but slipped and fell under the cars. He was from Powder Springs, Ga.

UNFAIR TO THE DRUGGIST.

The Old Joke about "Something Just as Good," Doesn't Apply to This Drug Store.

You have probably heard dozens of times the old story that a drug store was a place to "get something just as good." There is at least one druggist in the world that you can't say this about.

It is certain that an inferior article will never be substituted for a guaranteed one by Alred Drug Co. Take for instance a safe, reliable remedy for constipation and liver trouble like Dodson's Liver Tone. This harmless vegetable liquid has proved so satisfactory a liver stimulant and reliever of biliousness, and to entirely take the place of calomel without any danger or restriction of habits or diet, that there are dozens of preparations springing up with imitations of its claims.

But Dodson's Liver Tone is guaranteed to do all that is claimed for it, and if you are not satisfied with it, Alred Drug Co. will hand your money back with a smile. Any person going to this store for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will be sure of getting a large bottle of this genuine remedy in exchange for his half dollar.

GOOD SERVICE.

Mr. Roosevelt showed magnanimity when he asked for mere nominal damages against the editor who had published untrue and hurtful statements regarding him. The first impression that Mr. Roosevelt needed no vindication from the charge of drunkenness remains unaltered; but there is another point of view, namely, that of the need of protection for all men in public life from irresponsible and untrue accusations. Mr. Roosevelt has done a good service by showing to all persons that the widely acted upon idea that a candidate for office has no private rights is erroneous. If this suit and its verdict should have the effect of making writers more careful to get their facts straight and more thoughtful of the interest of others, it will be proved to be a good useful thing.

Mobile Register.

Almost with one accord, the American newspapers are making this point on the Colonel: "If he doesn't drink, what in the world is it that makes him talk and act that way?"—Montgomery Advertiser.

There's less truth in that assertion than in the charge of the Marquette editor.

AN EXPERT POULTRY BREEDER'S OPINION.

LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TERSELY TOLD.

SOUTH, EAST, NORTH AND WEST

Notes From Foreign Lands, Throughout the Nation and Particularly the Great South.

Southern.

The postoffice safe at Kernersville, a small town, eighteen miles from Greensboro, N. C., was blown open and $1,263 in stamps in $50 in money taken. The postoffice inspector believes the robbery was the work of professional yeggmen.

The streets of Jesup, Ga., were the scene of a wild west hold-up when two local men with bad reputations ran amuck with a revolver and a walking stick. The men, Sol Williams of Appling county and Jake Williams of near Jesup, who are cousins, started down West Broad street, declaring, it is said, their intention of shooting up the town. After breaking the stick over the heads of passersby, and holding up a boy, they were arrested and lodged in the city jail.

George B. Wells, a young man of Perry, Ga., took up a "dare" that he wouldn't roll a wheelbarrow to Macon for a purse of $10, made by his friends. A subscription was started and a pure of $40 was raised. On Monday morning at 3:18 o'clock Mr. Wells started between the handles of a wheelbarrow from the courthouse on his journey to roll the wheelbarrow to the courthouse in Macon, thirty miles away. At 2:40 o'clock he completed the journey.

A monument to the memory of the late Governor Allan D. Candler was unveiled at Gainesville, Ga., the monument being accepted on behalf of the family by Judge John S. Candler of Atlanta. Hon Lucien L. Knight on behalf of the state and Mayor Robinson on behalf of the city of Gainesville.

General reports from over Kansas and Missouri indicate the early rumors of a grasshopper "plague," and worms were exaggerated. Reports from the western Kansas wheat counties say practically no damage has been done by the insects. Pawnee county report "millions of small grasshoppers," but adds that the number is scarcely greater than in other years, and that the damage done is negligible.

A woman and her daughter and two trainmen were killed in a spectacular wreck of a fast Norfolk and Western railroad freight train at Cleveland, Va. Several trainmen were injured. The train, drawn by two engines, left the rails and rolled down an embankment, crushing the home of Mrs. Sarah Owens. Mrs. Owens and her 17-year-old daughter, who were still asleep in their beds, were killed. Engineer Gillespie and Fireman Stewart were caught under one of the engines and crushed to death.

Emily Davison, the first martyr to the military efforts of women to obtain the suffrage, died at the Epsom hospital as the result of a fracture of the skull sustained in an attempt to stop king's horse Anmer, during the running of the derby in London recently.

Three hundred Americans, located in southern Tamaulipas, Mexico, representing sixty-eight families, have demanded in a long message to President Wilson sent through Consul Millet there, to know, "once for all," whether then can expect protection from their home government since they "do not desire to take measures for our own safety which would embarrass our government without giving due notice beforehand."

A sensation was caused by the seizure by the customs authorities of Dublin, Ireland, of a consignment of 500 rifles and bayonets on board a steamer from Liverpool. The arms were addressed to Baron Farnham, an Irish peer, at his country seat, Farnham, County Cavan. Baron Farnham, 53 years old and the eleventh baron of the line, was formerly an officer in the regular army. He is one of the leading Unionists

Enthusiastic crowds thronged the streets to cheer the overthrow in the election of the good government organization at Los Angeles, Cal., which has been in the ascendant in city politics since the recall of Mayor Harper five years ago. The announcement of the election to the mayoralty of Police Judge H. H. Rose, an independent candidate, who ran without the support of one of the six newspapers of the city, caused the demonstrations.

Before Thomas F. Ryan sailed for Europe, a reporter discovered thirty-five cases of buttermilk in his stateroom. When asked for an explanation, he said: "Colonel Roosevelt prescribed the buttermilk diet for me. I expect to dring it during the trip."

Hundreds of Findlay (Ohio) citizens gathered to gaze at the bathtub of Admiral Sigsbee, which was recovered from the wreck of the battleship Main, which was placed on the steps of the court house.

Eight out of the seventeen homes at Paris, Ohio, were visited by the stork in one night.

"War is almost inevitable between the Balkan allies," according to a Sofia dispatch to the Neue Freie Presse, which declares that the solution of the cabinet crisis must not be looked for soon. The Danff cabinet, according to London reports, is expected to effect a rapprochement with the triple alliance and in the meanwhile a meeting of the premiers is extremely doubtful.

The Shenandoah valley, where Phil Sheridan made his famous ride of 50 years ago, is to hear again the song of the bugle, the galloping of horses, the crack of carbines and the boom of cannon, for the war department is trying out the cavalry and has chosen the Shenandoah as the bloodless battleground. For two months this summer a full brigade of cavalry and a battery of horse artillery will maneuver and "fight" over the red roads, the green hills and fields near Winchester that figured in great cavalry battles in the Civil war.

Mrs. George W. Lewis of Kansas City, Mo., was killed and forty-eight persons were injured, only one seriously, when southbound passenger train No. 9, of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, ran into a horse and was derailed near McAlester. Of the injured, Henry Walker, negro porter, is the most seriously hurt. Injuries of the others consist principally of bruises and cuts.

Walter Hines Page, the new American ambassador to the court of St. James, received his baptism of fire as an after-dinner speaker in London at a welcoming banquet given in his honor by the Pilgrims Society. Field Marshal Earl Roberts presided.

The Pemiscot County bank of Caruthersville, Mo., has closed its doors, and is in the hands of the state bank commissioner, as the result of the discovery of a shortage. The shortage is two hundred thousand dollars at least and may reach two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The greater amount of the alleged shortage is in county funds, and to make good the loss the bank has turned over to the bank commissioner $12,000 worth of property belonging to the cashier, who has flown.

Application to be appointed administrator of the estate of Luther McCarty, heavyweight fighter, killed in a bout with Arthur Pelkey, was filed in the probate court there by Otta Lippman at Springfield, Mo. The McCarty estate consists of $8,200 on deposit in a Los Angles bank, four lots on a beach near Boston, and other possessions, totalling $11,000.

The world's altitude record for an aeroplane carrying a pilot and a passenger was broken by Edmund Perreyon, who rose 16,368 feet at Bue,

Washington

Confederate Memorial Day exercises were held at Arlington National cemetery, Washington, D. C., under the auspices of Southern organizations in Washington. The ceremonies took place in the Confederate section of the cemetery and were featured by an address by Senator Swanson of Virginia, who dwelt upon the achievements of the Army of Virginia and the greatness of Gen. Robert E. Lee. Following the program of speeches and music, flowers were placed on the graves of the known and unknown dead.

The principle of compulsory arbitration written into the code that has bound the United States with twenty-four nations of the world for the last five years, is in serious danger and unless there is a decided change in sentiment in the senate the renewal of twenty-three of the treaties which gave concrete evidence of this nations' belief in such a policy may be impossible. In executive session the senate again failed to ratify renewals of the arbitration agreements with Great Britain, Italy and Spain, which recently expired.

Representative Graham of Pennsylvania introduced a bill to immediately appropriate fifteen million dollars to increase the navy by authorizing the construction of three first class battleships to be as heavily armed, as powerfully armored and as speedy as any battleship afloat. They would have the greatest practicable radius of action and cost not exceeding $6,000,000.

Japan's rejoinder to the United States' reply to her protest aaginst the California anti-alien land law, delivered personally by Ambassador Chinda to Secretary Bryan, sets out why the Tokio government continues to regard the Webb law as discriminatory against Japanese in derogation of the qualities of treatment prescribed by international law, and a violation of the treaty of 1911.

Twenty-four governments thus far have accepted the invitation extended through the state department at Washington to participate in the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco in 1915, while fifteen others have failed to make any conclusive response. The countries which have accepted are Argentine, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, France, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Japan, Mexico, Netherlands, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, Portugal, Salvador and Uruguay.

Reversing its former action in voting to place wheat, flour, oatmeal and fresh meats on the dutiable list, the senate finance subcommittee in charge of the agricultural schedule, voted to place live stock, wheat and meats on the free list. This action, it was authoritatively stated, was taken to meet the views of President Wilson, Senator Simmons, and other administration leaders who disapproved the decision announced to tax meats 10 per cent. compensatory to a duty on cattle in the Underwood bill, and to assess a compensatory duty on both flour and oatmeal.

BIG STRIDES MADE BY COTTON CROP

WEATHER PAST TWO WEEKS HAS BEEN PRACTICALLY PERFECT.

STANDS ARE MUCH IMPROVED

Plant Is Strong and Healthy, With Size About Normal—Boll Weevil Reported in Sections of Mississippi and Louisiana.

Memphis, Tenn.—Seldom has the cotton belt been favored with such universally favorable conditions for the advancement of the cotton crop as those which have prevailed during the past two weeks. With the single exception of a very small area in Southern Texas, weather has been practically perfect over the belt, and as a result the crop has made great strides. In Southern Texas rain is needed, but no damage has been done so far that rain during this week will not repair.

Warm weather for the past week followed general rains over the belt. The rains found clean fields and well-tilled soil, so that there was nothing to hinder the growth of the plant, which has been remarkable for the past fortnight. The plant is generally strong and healthy, and stands are good over the entire belt, great improvement in this regard having been made in the eastern belt since date of last report, stands there now being almost perfect. Lateness in some States is made up for by forwardness in others, so that the crop is about normal in this regard.

Some sections of the belt are reaching a period where rain will be needed in a few days, but precipitation any time this week will prevent damage in any section of the belt.

Aside from the dry weather in Southern Texas, the only complaint registered was of the appearance of the boll weevil in infested sections of Mississippi and Louisiana. These pests have made their appearance early, but farmers are working harder against them than usual. There is no complaint of grassy fields, cloddy ground or lack of labor, there being a good supply of the last named, which is working well.

WILL TRY MIMERS AT ONCE

Senate Will Begin Inquiry Into West Virginia Strike.

Charleston, W. Va.—John P. White, president of the international organization of the United Mine Workers of America; Vice-President Frank J. Hayes and 17 officials and subordinate officers of District No. 17, the local miners' union, indicted by the federal grand jury charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, will be summoned to appear before Judge Benjamin F. Keller. The government, it is said, will ask that the trial proceed at once.

The indictments and allegations that there is conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce between the United Mine Workers of America and coal operators of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois against the West Virginia coal operators, have caused a profound sensation. While the names of the witnesses, who appeared before the federal grand jury in the case, have not been made public, it is known that coal operators of Paint and Cabin Creeks, where labor troubles have been abundant, and former officials of the miners' organization assisted in gathering information for the indictment.

The defendants are charged with attempting to create a monopoly of the labor market by fixing prices and refusing to allow members of the organization to work at lower wages.

WAR SEEMS TO BE INEVITABLE

Servia Expects Rapprochement With Triple Alliance.

London.—A Vienna dispatch says: "War is almost inevitable between the Balkan allies, according to a Sofia dispatch to the Neue Freie Presse, which declares that the solution of the cabinet crisis must not be looked for before June 12. The Daneff cabinet is expected to effect a rapprochement with the triple alliance and in the meanwhile a meeting of the premiers is extremely doubtful.

"Enormous excitement prevails. Servia is allowing the passage of no Bulgarian messages."

$300,000 FOR CARRANZA.

Federals Place This Price on Him—Trevino Condemned.

Eagle Pass, Tex.—Gov. Carranza has received official notice from Gen. Blanco at Matamoras, declaring he had been approached by Bruno Trevino with authority from Gov. Gonzales, of Nuevo Leon, offering $300,000 if he would betray Carranza and join Huerta's forces. The message from Gen. Blanco says Trevino was arrested, tried by court martial and sentenced to immediate death.

Stop Moving From Farm.

Brussels.—The former French premier, M. Meline, president of the Tenth International Congress of Agriculture, in his anaugural address, emphasized the vital importance of preventing the people of the country from migrating into the cities. He showed by statistics that while the population of the world was increasing, the production of cereals and meat was decreasing, even in the United States and Canada, on which Europe was accustomed to rely to make up deficiencies.

CAB, SIR?

SAYS PRESIDENT IS CHIEF LOBBYIST

TOWNSEND ACCUSED WILSON OF UNDUE INFLUENCE ON TARIFF.

BLAMES THE SECRET CAUCUS

Senators Will Be Asked if President Influenced Them—Democrats Deny Charge—Senator Weeks Supports Townsend in Charge.

Washington.—An unexpected turn was given the senatorial lobby investigation late Friday when Senator Townsend of Michigan, Republican, declared on the stand that the influence wielded by President Wilson and by the Democratic secret caucus upon the making of the tariff bill constituted the "nearest approach to undue influence upon members of congress that the investigating committee would be able to find."

Senator Townsend criticised the committee for not having asked members of the senate whether the president had sought to influence them and declared that even though the president had not intended it, his denunciation of the "lobby" working in support of changes in the tariff, would influence senators to vote against the amendments they knew to be just.

"Who are those senators?" demanded Senator Reed.

"I don't care to name any one," retorted Senator Townsend.

The two Democratic members of the committee present, Reed and Walsh, resented any intimation that President Wilson had used patronage or threats to force any one to suport free sugar or free wool, or to support the bill as a whole.

Senator Townsend insisted the committee had not asked any senator thus far whether the president had tried to influence him.

"I move," interrupted Senator Walsh, "that in view of the serious statements made touching the executive, that any senator who has already testified may be recalled and interrogated in reference thereto."

"I am for that," said Senator Nelson, and every member of the committee agreed.

Dragging President Wilson's tariff activities into the investigation somewhat intensified feeling in the committee and it is expected it will make more searching the investigation to be carried on. Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, following Senator Townsend on the stand, expressed the opinion that "executives had more influence on bills than all the persons who have come to Washington put together."

$1,000,000 FIRE.

New York.—Fire Sunday in Long Island City, L. I., did damage approximating $1,000,000. Starting in the plant of the Columbia Paper Box Company, it quickly spread to the American Drug Syndicate plant, and Pratt & Lambert Varnish Works and the Blanchard Building, in the latter of which were stored many fine rugs and carpets belonging to New York families.

TURTLE SERUM TOO LATE.

Denver, Colo.—The fight of Mrs. Joseph Byrne, wife of a wealthy St. Louis farmer, to conquer tuberculosis is over. She died at the Oakes home. A few weeks ago Byrne offered Dr. F. F. Friedmann, Berlin specialist, $50,000 to treat her with the celebrated turtle serum. The physician refused. Hope was then directed to the Pierowski vaccine, Byrne bringing Dr. M. Landismann of the People's Hospital, New York, to Denver to make the inoculations.

WANTS THREE BATTLESHIPS.

Representative Graham Wants $15,000,000 Appropriation.

Washington.—Representative Graham, of Pennsylvania, has introduced a bill to immediately appropriate $15,000,000 to increase the navy by authorizing the construction of three first-class battleships to be as heavily armed, as powerfully armored and as speedy as any battleship afloat. They would have the greatest practicable radius of action and cost not exceeding $6,000,000 each.

JAPAN'S REJOINDER SURPRISINGLY MILD

NOTE IS DELIVERED TO BRYAN THROUGH AMBASSADOR CHINDA.

CONTENTS ARE WITHHELD

Tone of Reply, However, Is Known to Be Argumentative — Says 1911 Treaty Broken—Further Discussion Involved.

Washington.—Japan's rejoinder to the United States' reply to the protest against the California anti-alien land law, delivered personally by Ambassador Chinda to Secretary Bryan late Wednesday, sets out why the Tokio government continues to regard the Webb law as discriminatory against Japan in derogation of the qualities of treatment prescribed by international law and a violation of the treaty of 1911.

Nothing in the nature of an ultimatum is contained in the note. Its general tone is to invite further discussion of the controverted points, and it contains nothing tending to make up a final issue. Secretary Bryan and the ambassador agreed that no details should be made public.

The Japanese note was very long and of its nature entirely argumentative. Secretary Bryan and Ambassador Chinda were in accord that no good purpose could be served at this time by a public discussion of the delicate question, and there fore both officials gave notice that any attempt to publish what might purport to be even the substance of the three communications which have now passed between the two governments must be based entirely upon speculation. It is known, however, that the tone of the rejoinder is that of a dignified and orderly presentation of Japan's view on the case, concluding with an invitation to further negotiations.

OIL CO. DID LITTLE BUSINESS

Could Not Have Had Monopoly, Declares Defense.

Corsicana, Tex.—Business relations of the Standard Oil Company's officials and the Magnolia Petroleum Company of Corsicana, Tex., was investigated by the State Friday in its $99,000,000 penalty oil suit. The defense introduced evidence for the first time at this hearing to show that the Corsicana Petroleum Company, co-defendant in Texas was the Magnolia, has done a comparatively small business during much of the period in which penalties are sought, this business not being sufficient to constitute apparent monopoly. The defense introduced evidence that the Magnolia, which buys practically all the Corsicana Petroleum Company's oil, cannot get sufficient oil from all other companies.

Wilson Wedded 28 Years.

Washington.—President and Mrs Wilson will celebrate their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary in the White House on June 24. No special plans have been made for the day, but it is possible that a family dinner party will ge given that night. The president won his bride in Savannah, Ga.

LIVED TOGETHER SIX YEARS

Former Preacher and 17-Year-Old Girl Now Will Wed.

New York.—Jere Knode Cook, the former pastor of St. George's Church, Hempstead, L. I., and Floretta Whaley, the 17-year-old girl with whom he eloped six years ago, announced Friday that they will be married as soon as they can make arrangements, as Mrs. Miranda Clarke Cook, the wife of Cook, was granted a divorce in the superior court at Hartford, Conn.

H. G. DAVIS INJURED.

West Virginia Democratic Leader Is Thrown from Horse.

Elkins, Va.—Henry Gassaway Davis, Democratic vice-presidential candidate in 1904, was painfully but not seriously injured Wednesday when he was thrown from his horse after the animal had been bitten by a dog. Mr. Davis was taken to Graceland, his summer home, and his physician announced that he would be confined to his room for several days.

SENATE BROWS TO PRESIDENT'S WISHES

LIVE STOCK, WHEAT AND OATS GO ON THE FREE LIST.

FIRST DECISION REVERSED

Simmons Gives Reasons Inquisitorial Clause of Underwood Bill, Designed to Prevent Undervaluation, the Trouble.

Washington.—Reversing its former action in voting to place wheat flour, oatmeal and fresh meats on the dutiable list, the senate finance sub-committee in charge of the agricultural schedule voted late Tuesday to place live stock, wheat and oats on the free list.

This action, it was authoritatively stated, was taken to meet the views of President Wilson, Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, and other administration leaders, who disapproved the decision announced to tax meats ten per cent, compensatory to a duty on cattle in the Underwood bill, and to assess a compensatory duty on both flour and oatmeal. The vote to reconsider was taken in the sub-committee on a motion made by Senator Simmons, ex-officio member of all the sub-committees handling the various tariff schedules, when he returned to the capitol from a conference with the president.

In this enlargement of the free list President Wilson is known to have taken a leading part, as he did in the matter of raw wool and sugar. As he still is standing uncompromisingly for the wool and sugar schedules, so, it is declared, he will stand firmly for free cattle, sheep and hogs and free wheat and oats, now that this has been determiend upon as the party policy.

When the sub-committee's tentative action was announced the senator went immediately to the White House.

"I told the president," he said later, "that members of the finance committee, in informal conference had agreed that there should not be a tax on meats and flour. It was true that the sub-committee had taken different action, but I informed the president that the majority of the finance committee felt and said we would vote instead to place cattle and other live stock and wheat and oats on the free list. This President Wilson agreed to, and said it would be all right."

"The matter is settled now," said Senator Simmons, "and that is the way the schedule will go to the senate."

The inquisitorial clause of the Underwood bill, which aroused foreign protest, has been giving the Williams sub-committee considerable trouble, and in trying to work out a modification of its provisions they have had the aid of Secretary McAdoo, Secretary Bryan and John Bassett Moore, counsellor of the state department.

AUTOPSY WORTH A MILLION

Did E. O. Painter Kill Self or Meet Death Accidentally?

Baltimore, Md.—To determine the cause of his death, the vital organs of T. O. Painter, millionaire fertilizer manufacturer of Florida, are being examined by a chemist connected with Johns Hopkins Hospital. On the result of the investigation, it is said, will depend the payment of about $1,178,000 in life insurance.

Painter met his death when he fell overboard from a ferry boat on the St. Johns river about two weeks ago. Whether Painter was drowned or died from poison is the question at issue.

DEMAND THE UNION LABEL

Miss Wilson Wants Purchasers of Women's Clothes to Ask for It.

St. Louis.—Miss Agnes Hart Wilson, daughter of the secretary of labor, addressed the National Woman's Trade Union League convention here Wednesday.

Miss Wilson urged that the women purchasers of clothing be educated to demand the union label.

"I do not favor the boycott," she said. "But I do urge that we start a movement to bring out the garment makers' label on women's clothing."

Miss Wilson told of her personal investigations of social conditions in Washington, where she found women with children working long hours under unsanitary conditions and for poor pay.

May Revoke Free Entry.

Washington.—The treasury department may revoke its action in admitting free of duty wood pulp and paper from British Columbia, which is the only Canadian province enjoying the free entry privilege for these products made from the woods of crown lands.

Gompers Operated Upon.

Washington.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was operated upon Friday for a mastoid abscess.

ALTITUDE RECORD BROKEN.

Perreyon, Carrying Passenger, Goes to 16,368 Feet.

Bue, France.—The world's altitude record for an aeroplane carrying a pilot and a passenger was broken Tuesday by Edmon Perreyon, who rose 16,368 feet. Perryon also holds the world's altitude record for an aeroplane carrying only a pilot, having risen to a height of 19,650 feet at Bue on March 12, this year.

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles. Her Ladyship dances with strange fisherman, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious Le Seigneur Noir.

CHAPTER V.—(Continued.)

"Perhaps, as a part of the military discipline?" murmured the marquis dubiously. "See!" With sudden interest, he indicated a part of the Mount that had been black against the star-spangled sky, now showing sickly points of light. "It does mean something! They are coming down!"

And even as the marquis spoke, a clatter of hoofs on the stone pavement leading from the Mount to the sand ushered a horseman into view. He was followed by another and yet another, until in somewhat desultory fashion, owing to the tortuous difficulties of the narrow way that had separated them above, an array of mounted men was gathered at the base of the rock. But only for a moment; a few words from one of their number, evidently in command, and they dispersed; some to ride around the Mount to the left, others to the right.

"Perhaps Elise will enlighten us?" Of one accord her guests now crowded around the girl.

"Does the governor intend to take us prisoners?"

"You imply it is necessary to do that—to keep you?" answered my lady.

"Then why—"

Her expression, as perplexed as theirs, answered.

"Beppo!" She waved her hand.

The governor's servitor, who was passing, with an anxious, inquiring look upon his face, glanced around.

"Beppo!" she repeated, and beckoned again.

The man approached. "Your Ladyship wishes to speak with me?" he asked in a voice he endeavored to make unconcerned.

"I do." In her manner the old antipathy she had felt toward him as a child again became manifest. "What do the soldiers want? Why have they come down?"

His eyes shifted. "I—my Lady—" he stammered.

The little foot struck the strand. "Why don't you answer? You heard my question?"

"I am sorry, my Lady—" Again he hesitated: "Le Seigneur Noir has been seen on the beach!"

"Le Seigneur Noir?" she repeated.

"Yes, my Lady. He was caught sight of among the peasants, at the time the barrels were opened, in accordance with your Ladyship's command. I assure your Ladyship," with growing eagerness, "there can be no mistake, as—"

"Who," interrupted my lady sharply, "is this Black Seigneur?"

Beppo's manner changed. "A man," he said solemnly, "his Excellency, the governor, has long been most anxious to capture."

The girl's eyes flashed with impatience, and then she began to laugh. "Saw you ever, my lords and ladies, his equal for equivocation? You put to him the question direct, and he answers—"

The loud report of a carbine from the other side of the Mount, followed by a desultory volley, interrupted her. The laughter died on her lips; the color left her cheek.

"What—" The startled look in her eyes completed the sentence.

Beppo rubbed his hands softly. "His Excellency takes no chances!" he murmured.

CHAPTER VI.

A Messenger for My Lady.

"So you failed to capture him, Monsieur le Commandant?"

The speaker, the Marquis de Beauvillers, leaned more comfortably back in his chair in the small, rather barely furnished barracks' sitting-room in which he found himself later that night and languidly surveyed the florid, irate countenance of the man in uniform before him.

"No, Monsieur le Marquis," said the latter, endeavoring to conceal any evidence of mortification or ill humor in the presence of a visitor so distinguished; "we didn't. But," as if to turn the conversation, with a gesture toward a well-laden table, "I should feel honored if—"

"Thank you, no! After our repast on the beach—however, stand on no ceremony yourself. Nay, I insist—"

"If Monsieur le Marquis insists!—" The commandant drew up his chair; then, reaching for a bottle, poured out a glass of wine, which he offered his guest.

"No, no!" said the marquis. "But as I remarked before, stand on no ceremony!" And daintily opening a snuff-box, he watched his host with an expression half-amused, half-ironical.

That person ate and drank with little relish; the wine—so he said—had spoiled; and the dishes were without flavor; it was fortunate Monsieur le Marquis had no appetite—

Whereupon the marquis smiled; but, considering the circumstances, in his own mind excused the commandant, who had only just come from the governor's palace, and who, after the interview that undoubtedly had ensued, could hardly be expected to find the pate palatable, or the wine to his liking. This, despite the complaisance of the young nobleman whom the commandant had encountered, while descending from the governor's abode, and who, adapting his step to the other's had accompanied the officer back to his quarters, and graciously accepted an invitation to enter.

"Well, you know the old saying," the marquis closed the box with a snap, "'There's many a slip'—but how," airily brushing with his handkerchief imaginary particles from a long lace cuff, "did he get away?"

"He had got away before we were down on the beach. It was a wild-goose chase, at best. And so I told his Excellency, the governor—"

"A thankless task, no doubt! But the shots we heard—"

"An imbecile soldier saw a shadow; fired at it, and—"

"The others followed suit," laughed the visitor.

"Exactly!" The commandant's face grew red; fiercely he pulled his mustache. "What can one expect, when they make soldiers out of every dunderpate that comes along?"

"True!" assented the marquis. "But this fellow, this Black Seigneur—why is the governor so anxious to lay hands on him? Who is he, and what has he done? I confess," languidly, "to a mild curiosity."

"He's a privateersman and an outlaw, and has done enough to hang himself a dozen times—"

"When you capture him!" interposed the visitor lightly. A moment he studied the massive oak beams of the ceiling. "Why do they call him the Black Seigneur? An odd sobriquet!"

"His father was a Seigneur—the last of the fief of Desaurac. The Seigneurs have all been fair men for generations, while this fellow—"

"Then he has noble blood in him?" The marquis showed surprise. "Where is the fief?"

"The woods on the shore mark the beginning of it."

"But—I don't understand. The father was a Seigneur; the son—"

Bluntly the commandant explained; the son was a natural child; the mother a common peasant woman whom the former Seigneur had taken to his house—

"I see!" The young nobleman tapped his knee. "And that being the case—"

"Under the terms of the ancient grant, there being no legal heir, the lands were confiscated to the crown. His Excellency, however, had already bought many of the incumbrances against this property, and, in view of this, and his services to the king, the fief, declared forfeited by the courts, was subsequently granted and deeded, without condition, to the governor."

"To the governor," repeated the marquis.

"Who at once began a rare clearing-out; forcing the peasants who for years had not been paying metayage, to meet this just requirement, or—move away!"

"And did some of them object?"

"They did; but his Excellency found means. The most troublesome were arrested and taken to the Mount, where they have had time to reflect—his Excellency believes in no half-way measures with peasants."

"A rich principality, no doubt!" half to himself spoke the marquis.

"I have heard," blurted the commandant, "he's going to give it to the Lady Elise; restore the old castle and turn the grounds surrounding it into a noble park."

The visitor frowned, as if little liking the introduction of the lady's name into the conversation. "And what did the Black Seigneur do then," he asked coldly, "when he found his lands gone?"

"Claimed it was a plot!—that his mother was an honest woman, though neither the priest who performed the ceremony nor the marriage records could be found. He even resisted at first—refused to be turned out—and, skulking about the forest with his gun, kept the deputies at bay. But they surrounded him at last; drove him to his castle, and would have captured him, only he escaped that night, and took to the high seas, where he has been making trouble ever since!"

"Trouble?"

"He has seriously hampered his Excellency's commerce; interfered with his ships, and crippled his trade with the Orient."

"But—the governor has many boats, many men. Why have they failed to capture him?"

"For a number of reasons. In the first place he is one of the most skilful pilots on the coast; when hard pressed, he does not hesitate to use even the Isles des Rochers as a place of refuge."

"The Isles des Rochers?" queried the nobleman.

"A chevaux-de-frise of the sea, my lord!" continued the commandant; "where fifty barren isles are fortified by a thousand rocks; frothing fangs when the tide is low; sharp teeth that lie in wait to bite when the smiling lips of the treacherous waters have closed above! There, the governor's ships have followed him on several occasions, and—few of them have come back!"

"But surely there must be times when he can not depend on that retreat?"

"There are, my lord. His principal harbor and resort is a little isle farther north—English, they call it—that offers refuge at any time to miscreants from France. There may they lie peacefully, as in a cradle; or go ashore with impunity, and the like. Oh, he is safe enough there. Home for French exiles, they designate the place. Exiles! Bah! It was there he first found means to get his ship—sharing his profits, no doubt, with the islander who built her. There, too, he mustered his crew—savage peasants who had been turned off the lands of the old Seigneur; fisher-folk who had become outlaws rather than pay to the governor just dues from the sea; men fled from the banalite of the mill, of the oven, of the wine-press—"

"Still must he be a redoubtable fellow, to have done what he did tonight; to have dared mingle with the people, under the governor's very guns!"

"The people! He has nothing to fear from them. An ignorant, low, disloyal lot! They look upon this fellow as a hero. He has played his cards well, sends money to the lazy, worthless ones, under pretext that they are poor, over-taxed, over-burdened. In his company is one Gabriel Gabarie, a poet of the people, as he is styled, who keeps in touch with those stirring trouble in Paris. Perhaps they hope for an insurrection there, and then—"

"An insurrection?" The marquis' delicate features expressed ironical protest; he dismissed the possibility with an airy wave of the hand. "One should never anticipate trouble, Monsieur le Commandant," he said lightly and rose. "Good night."

"Good night, Monsieur le Marquis," returned the officer with due deference, and accompanied his noble visitor to the door.

At first, without the barracks, the marquis walked easily on, but soon the steepness of the narrow road, becoming more marked as it approached the commanding structures at the top of the Mount, caused his gait gradually to slacken; then he paused altogether, at an upper platform.

From where he stood, by day could be seen, almost directly beneath, the tiny habitations of men clinging like limpets to the precipitous sides of the rocks at the base; now was visible only a void, an abyss, out of which swam the sea; so far below, a boat looked no larger than a gull on its silver surface; so immense, the dancing waves seemed receding to a limit beyond the reach of the heavens.

"You found him?" A girl's clear voice broke suddenly upon him. He wheeled.

"Elise! You!"

"Yes! why not? You found him? The commandant?"

"At your command, but—"

"And learned all?"

"All he could tell."

"It is reported at the castle that the man escaped!" quickly.

"It is true. But," in a voice of languid surprise, "I believe you are glad—"

"No, no!" She shook her head "Only," a smile curved her lips, "Beppo will be so disappointed! Now," seating herself lightly on the low wall of the giant rampart, "tell me all you have learned about this Black Seigneur."

The marquis considered; with certain reservations obeyed. At the conclusion of his narrative, she spoke no word and he turned to her inquiringly. Her brows were knit; her eyes down-bent. A moment he regarded her in silence; then she looked up at him suddenly.

"I wonder," she said, her face bathed in the moonlight, "if—if it was this Black Seigneur I danced with?"

"The Black Seigneur?" My lord started; frowned. "Nonsense! What an absurd fancy! He would not have dared!"

"True," said the girl quickly. "You are right, my lord. It is absurd. He would not have dared."

CHAPTER VII.

A Distant Menace.

But guests come and guests go; pastimes draw to a close, and the hour arrives when the curtain falls on the masque. The friends of my lady, however reluctantly, were obliged at last to forgo further holiday-making, depart from the Mount, and return to the court. An imposing cavalcade, gleaming in crimson and gold, they wended down the dark rock; laughing ladies, pranked-out cavaliers who waved their perfumed hands with farewell kisses to the grim stronghold in the desert, late their palace of pleasure, and to the young mistress thereof.

"Good-by, Elise!" The marquis was last to go.

"Good-by."

He took her hand; held it to his lips. On the whole, he was not ill-pleased. His wooing had apparently prospered, and, although the marriage had been long arranged, my lady's beauty and capriciousness had fanned in him the desire to appear a successful suitor for her heart as well as her hand. If sometimes she laughed and thus failed to receive his delicate gallantries in the mood in which they were tendered, the marquis' vanity only allowed him to conclude that a woman does not laugh if she is displeased. It was enough that she found him diverting; he served her; they were friends and had danced and ridden through the spring days in amicable fashion.

"Good-by," he repeated. "When are you coming to court again? The queen is sure to ask. I understand her majesty is planning all manner of brilliant entertainments, yet Versailles—without you, Elise!"

"Me?" arching her finely pencilled brows. "Oh, I'm thinking of staying here, becoming a nun, and restoring the Mount to its old religious prestige."

"Then I'll come back a monk," he returned in the same tone.

"If you come back at all!" provokingly. "There, go! The others will soon be out of sight!"

"I, too—alas, Elise!"

He touched his horse; rode on, but soon looked back to where, against a great, grim wall, stood a figure all in white, gleaming in the sunshine. The marquis stopped; drew from his breast a deep red rose, and, gazing upward, gracefully kissed the glowing token. Beneath the aureole of golden hair my lady's proud face rewarded him with a faint smile, and something—a tiny handkerchief—fluttered like a dove above the frowning, time-worn rock. At that, with the eloquent gesture of a troubadour, he threw his arm backward, as if to launch the impress on the rose to the crimson lips of the girl, and then, plying his spurs, galloped off.

And as he went at a pace, headlong if not dangerous and fitting the exigencies of the moment, my lord smiled. Truly had he presented a perfect, dainty and gallant figure for any woman's eyes, and the Lady Elise, he fancied, was not the least discerning of her sex. And had he seen the girl, when an unkind angle of the wall hid him from sight, his own nice estimate of the situation would have suffered no change. The Mount, which formerly had resounded to the life and merriment of the people from the court, on a sudden to her looked cold, barren, empty.

"Heigh-ho!" she murmured, stretching her arms toward that point where he—they—had vanished. "I shall die of ennui, I am sure!" And thoughtfully retraced her steps to her own room.

But she did not long stay there; by way of makeshift for gaiety, substituted activity. The Mount, full of early recollections and treasure-house mystery, furnished an incentive for exploration, and for several days she devoted herself to its study; now pausing for an instant's contemplation of a sculptured thing of beauty, then before some closed door that held her, as at the threshold of a Bluebeard's forbidden chamber.

One day, such a door stood open and her curiosity became cured. She had passed beneath a machicolated gateway, and climbing a stairway that began in a watch-tower, found herself unexpectedly on a great platform. Here several men, unkempt, pale, like creatures from another world, were walking to and fro; but at sight of her, an order was issued and they vanished through a trap—all save one, a misshapen dwarf who remained to shut the iron door, adjust the fastening and turn a ponderous key. For a moment she stood staring.

Degrees in Horse Trading.

Judge A. A. Adams, of the Indiana appellate court, says the Indianapolis Star, tells a story of a man who was a good horse trader, but through lack of mathematical education was unable to determine his per cent. of profits.

"This man," relates Judge Adams, "made a good trade, and he was anxious to know his real per cent. of profit, so he consulted a school teacher.

"'I bought a horse the other day for $25 and sold him for $175; now, what was my per cent. profit?' he asked the teacher.

"'That,' replied the teacher, 'was not profit; it was larceny.'"

Toll of the Icebergs.

The list of vessels battered or sunk by icebergs is a long one, and it is well to recall it at a time when all the world is thinking of the Titanic. Thus, to take an example or so at haphazard, in the spring of 1890 four steamers of the England-America route utterly vanished, and in 1899 ten steamers disappeared.

In 1908 the Mongolian was imprisoned for two days in the ice; but escaped; in 1909 the Lake Champlain, the Regulus, the Bonavista, and the Montrose were so battered by the floating ice, that each escaped calamity by a very narrow margin, while none can tell how many fishing smacks are yearly dashed to pieces by these towering, glassy crags.

Copied From Indian Moccasin.

The first type of baby shoe made in America, and also, by the way, in Rochester, N. Y., was a moccasin. This was copied from the Indian moccasin and was almost identical in character with the footwear of the aborigines. The moccasin is less costly, and is carried in most stores, its popularity not having diminished since it appeared on the market in 1890.

Various attempts have been made to popularize beaded moccasins, made to more closely resemble the modern shoes of southwestern Indians, but probably because of their expense they have not gained widespread popularity.—Shoe Retailer.

"Then, in the hush of the great blank hall,
God wrought a wondrous miracle.
For a voice like a glorious trumpet call
Arose as a soul from the deeps of hell,
And our souls rose with it on wondrous wings,
Rose from their prison of iron and clay,
Forgot the grime and the shame of things!
We were men once again in a sunlit day,
Sin and grief and punishment—all
Were lost in that human trumpet call."

What to Do With Convicts

A committee in Birmingham has issued a call for a meeting in that city on June 14th to protest against the convict system of the State and to discuss means and methods for taking convicts out of the mines. It is well that they should consider well the "means and methods" before urging action on the matter. It is a pretty generally accepted fact that the present method of dealing with convicts is a relic of barbarism and for the honor of the State should be changed. But before the change can be made some other method must be provided, and it will require careful consideration so that an assurance of its practicability can be reached. Convicts there will be, they must be cared for, and, if possible, in such a way that they will not be a burden on the State. It does not seem right, however, that the State should make a profit out of them, much less is it right that the owners of mines and mills should make a profit out of their misfortunes, as is evidently done, judging from the scramble to get them.

Seemingly, the best solution is the road working scheme, but that presents many difficulties. It is to be hoped that the meeting in Birmingham will throw some light on the subject. A good plan, possibly, would be to appoint a commission to study the methods used by other states and report on the results attained by them.

In a report of a speech by Mr. Hobson in Birmingham, he is credited with saying, in referring to the evils which beset Alabama: "For all the evils which exist he held the 'old time politician' responsible. For the sake of paradise to come he gave credit to the progressive in case the progressive was elected to high office." Very good. But Mr. Hobson is in with the "old time politicians" chargeable with Alabama's troubles, he is seeking "high office" at the hands of the party they control and will be one with them if nominated. The old time politician and the old time party are inseparable, and if you look for real progress and betterment of conditions you must look to the Progressive party, freed from the old time politician.

The "powers" in Europe declare that another war in the Balkans would be a "crime against humanity." The same may be said of war in general, although some of the interests of humanity, as now constituted, are best served by a war. Driving the Turk out of Europe was in the interest of the progress of civilization; a squabble among the nations over the spoils of war would be the worst form of murder.

THE SUPERFLUITIES.

Beware of the superfluities! They crowd out the necessities. The more things you have that you don't want the less you have that you do want. The reason why prosperity so often degrades life is that there can be no noble life without simplicity.

If you want to write, for instance it is better to use a plain deal table than a mahogany carved table studded with diamonds, because the cheap article does not detract your attention, require your care, nor in any wise get in your way.

To own a real pearl necklace and a quart of diamond rings is to clog your life. They do nothing to you but tickle your vanity, which is contemptible; while in others they provoke jealousy, envy, perhaps robbery and murder. Why bother with them?

The best kind of life, it is universally acknowledged, is that kind that has the most worthy enthusiasm. To get pleasure out of music, literature, the arts, travel and the intercourse with superior minds, deepens and enriches your personality. An over-big house, a retinue of servants, several automobiles, horses, dogs, expensive clothes, and a hundred wagon loads of bric-a-brac render this best kind of life impossible.

It is a common complaint that there are so many things going on and so many demands made upon us in our modern life that we have no time for self culture. If we would unload our superfluities we would find time.

Cut out the superflous "friends" of your social world. Resign from your strife for precedence. Get your living down to the bare comforts and necessities and you will feel as gay and free as a boy when he first takes off his shoes and runs barefoot over the grass in spring,

You need leisure. You need hours in which to grow and ripen. You cannot have this unless you reduce your program of life to simple terms.

Luxury, extravagence, great possessions, intense activity in society, are utterly incompatible with genuine refinement and richness of character. They spell Philistinism.

Nobility is impossible in any other than the "simple life." And to long for the superfluities is as bad as to have them.—Dr. Frank Crane.

THE BRILLIANT STARS OF JUNE

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will all be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any oter time, but not if Foley's Honey aud Tar Compound is taken. Upchurch Drug Co.

The Cherokee Harmonizer has the face to bring up the old cry of "paid agitators." It applied that term to Dr. Brooks Lawrence and ex-Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, simply because they are speaking to the people of the horrors of the liquor traffic. Does the Harmonizer know anything of Charles M. Lewis and hundreds of other "paid" lawyers and agents all over the state of Alabama who are seeking in various ways to see to it that no man except an out and out whiskey man shall be nominated for the legislature and the senate? Doesn't The Harmonizer know that those men are paid agents working for a most dirty cause?—Tuskegee News.

CARSWELL'S LIVER AID

NEW REMEDY THAT'S BETTER THAN DANGEROUS CALOMEL.

Better than Salts, Oils or Pills, and Money Back from Upchurch Drug Co., if it Does'nt Banish Constipation.

Oh! What bliss! People in Clanton have no further use for calomel or other slam bang cathartics that act harshly ou sick livers. CARSWELL'S LIVER AID has the call these days, every hour in the day; its going faster than the proverbial hot cakes.

It's changing hundreds of weak, sickly, lazy and overworked livers into healthy, strong vigorous ones. It is driving poisonous waste from the body; putting an end to indigestion and all stomach misery and causing constipation sufferers to rejoice.

CARSWELL'S LIVER-AID is pleasant and harmless; it takes the place of calomel. Children can take it freely; its gentle action cleans out their little bowels in fine shape. It's a splendid remedy for sick headache, malaria and kidney troubles. Get it from Upchurch Drug Co. for only 50c a bottle. They guarantee CARSWELL'S LIVER-AID. 3

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr., of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of my head, and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." Upchurch Drug Co.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR THE CLANTON TEAM.

On last Friday afternoon the Clanton Base Ball Team added another link to its chain of victories for this season. They defeated the Jemison team on the local diamond by a score of 10 to 8. Though the victory was an easy one for the local team, yet they did not seem to play altogether as good as they have been this season. The Clanton team this year has been playing splendid ball, defeating every opponent they have contended with for several weeks past; but the triumph of victory will not alone maintain a high record on the field. If too much time be given to this the players will soon lose their practice, and it will not be such an easy matter to win. We hope the boys will keep watch at their posts, and continue throughout the year the brilliant record they have begun.

ANOTHER CANAL.

Dr. Gastrillo, the retiring Nicaraguan minister, says he believes a canal treaty will soon be negotiated between his country and this.

This canal treaty is an inheritance of the Taft administration and is one of the few things of value President Taft left behind. It provides that for $3,000,000.00 Nicaragua would give the United States the exclusive right to construct a canal across Nicaragua by way of San Juan river and lake Nicuaraga.

It is said that Secretary of State Bryan believes the canal to be a commercial necessity. The Nicaraguan canal would shorten the route from the Atlantic to the Pacific 2,000 miles. Of course it will be built and the United States simply cannot afford to let another nation own and control the canal.

When the first transcontinental railroad was built, scoffers believed it was doubtful if it would pay. It was not thought there would be enough traffic to keep it running. Now a dozen such lines are required to carry the business.

The same, in a measure, is true of the interoceanic canal. The Panama canal cannot meet all the demands and other canals must soon be constructed. This country should be sure of the route across Nicaragua.—Pensacola Journal.

TEACHERS ELECTED.

On last Friday night the Board of Trustees of the Clanton High School met and elected teachers for the next school term, which will begin about the first of September. Prof. J. J. Pickens was re-elected as Principal. In regard to Prof. Pickens' ability as head of the school nothing could speak stronger than the record he has made during the past session, and every one believes that by his ingenuity as a teacher, he will make the next year even surpass the past one.

Miss Annie M. Williams and Miss Lucile Gross, were also re-elected as assistants. Miss Williams has already taught two sessions in the school here, and Miss Gross has taught one. Both young ladies have remarkable abilities in their special lines, and the patrons are glad to see them return next year.

Miss Elna Sartor and Mrs. J. H. Middleton were re-elected as teachers of the music department. Everyone is thoroughly acquainted with Miss Sartor and Mrs. Middleton, both being popular ladies of Clanton, and possess unsurpassed musical ability.

There remain two vacancies in the faculty, but it may be depended upon that the Board will place in them, teachers of thorough capability.

The summer school which is being conducted by Professors Pickens and Foshee at the High School building, opened last Monday morning with an enrollment of about thirty. The attendance is made up largely of those who are preparing for the examination for teachers' certificates. But there are among the number a few of those poor unfortunates who failed to make their "pass" in the High School last term, and are attending this school in order to make up the deficiency and be able to pursue the course with their classes at the opening of school next fall.

It is customary for students to complain against attending school in hot summer weather. And no longer than last Monday we heard some of those who are attending the summer school making this same complaint. It seems now that the weather man has taken pity on them and sent them some nice cool days and nights in which to revel in the mysteries of Geometry, Physics and Latin.

President Milton H. Smith Gives Reasons Why L. & N. Cannot Accept Rate Reductions

Editor The Birmingham News:

I have read with interest editorial in your issue of the eighth instant entitled, "Judge Grubb's Decision Should Stand Uncontested," and while appreciating some of the commendatory expressions regarding the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company, I disagree with the averments upon which I assume you base your conclusions and advice.

You say: "The amount of money involved in the half-cent lower rate is a trifle comparatively. That great system can readily afford the loss." Had you been advised of the facts you would not, I am sure, have reached such conclusion. The loss actually sustained by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company in the State of Alabama from June 1, 1909, to January 31, 1912—32 months, during which period it was compelled by the order of the Federal Court to put the reduced rates for passenger traffic on trial while the merits of the case were being adjudicated—amounted to $640,128.15, or an average of over $240,000 per year reduction in net revenues, the cost of conducting the traffic at the rate of 2 1-2 cents maximum being the same as at the rate of 3 cents per mile maximum. Capitalizing this on a 4 per cent basis, you will find that the loss of net earnings was equal to the interest on $6,000,000. This is but a small part of the loss in revenue that must result from reduction of the rates in Alabama. If the rates in Alabama are reduced, corresponding reductions must be made in the other States in which the company operates south of the Ohio River, in all of which it is receiving maximum of 3 cents per mile, including Tennessee, Kentucky and Georgia. We estimate the loss that would result from such reduction to be not less than $1,000,000 per year, net, which capitalized at 4 per cent is equal to $25,000,000. The capacity or ability of the company to earn interest on money to be borrowed would be reduced fully $25,000,000, and its credit impaired to that extent. And, unfortunately, this is not all. The adoption of the maximum of 2½ cents per mile for the transportation of intrastate passengers will necessarily enforce a reduction in the interstate rates. As an illustration: The Louisville & Nashville now receives for the transportation of passengers between Louisville and Nashville $5.50 per single trip. At 2½ cents it would receive $4.60, a reduction of 90 cents per passenger, or 17 per cent in net earnings. Assuming the net earnings to be 40 per cent, or $2.20—the average for the system during the last fiscal year was 30 per cent—the reduction is equal to 41 per cent of net earnings.

Should Not Impair Road's Credit.

It is of great importance to the communities served by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company that its credit be not impaired, but strengthened as far as possible. This is of special importance to the people of Alabama. If the traffic continues to grow (which necessarily means if the country served by it increases in wealth and population), enormous expenditures must be made in the near future. The line from Louisville to New Orleans must be reconstructed, and a second track created. This necessitates practically building a new line; and from investigations made, it will result in the building of a double-track line from some point near Birmingham to the Tensas River at Hurricane Station, shortening the line nearly 40 miles, also, incidentally, shortening the line to Pensacola. Other similar additions must be made in Eastern Kentucky, East Tennessee and Georgia, including an extension of the present line of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad to Atlanta. The line in Illinois and Indiana must also be reconstructed. Large expenditures are now being made, and the capital to pay for them has been provided, but a considerable part of it has been secured upon what are deemed onerous terms, indicating that the credit of the company is somewhat impaired; and the future outlook is such that the management will not enter upon any additional extensions—the board will not authorize further expenditures on capital account, awaiting the result of the present threatening financial conditions.

It is not improbable that all extensions and additions to property, not only of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, but of the railroads of the country, may be suspended for an indefinite period. When this is done—that is, when the very large expenditures being made for additions and extensions of railways, including the construction of electric railways, is checked or stopped altogether because of the difficulty in raising additional capital—the general business of the country must necessarily be greatly depressed, and there may possibly be a repetition of the conditions that prevailed in 1907.

Attacks Cause Anxiety and Uncertainty.

Capital invested in railways, and in many other public utilities and industrials, is being attacked from so many directions that it causes anxiety and uncertainty. Persistent and determined efforts are being made to reduce the revenues of the railways, as well as other forms of industry. Taxes are being increased annually, and determined efforts are being made in some States to quadruple them. Cities, States and the United States are vying with each other in enacting laws and enforcing regulations increasing the cost of operation and reducing the net revenues of the railways. Notice has been served by the highest officials of the United States that an attempt to reduce costs by reducing wages must not be made. Such notice is intended especially to apply to industrial organizations.

If the net revenues of the railways be reduced by reduction of rates, increasing taxation, and increase in labor costs (which seems to be proceeding without restriction), how long will it be before the two converging lines meet, so that the most prosperous companies may be unable to earn dividends, thus destroying their credit, and many become unable to pay the interest on their indebtedness?

It must be plain to all that if the present tendency is not checked, the interests of the country at large must be disastrously affected, resulting in great losses and suffering, especially to those dependent upon regular employment at remunerative rates.

It is argued in some of the press that the Louisville & Nashville Railroad management deserves condemnation because it resists the reduction in rates that has been accepted by other roads. It is asserted that the other lines are transporting passengers at the reduced rates without incurring losses. It must be remembered that the other railroads referred to are mainly the Southern Railway and those controlled by it, namely, the Alabama Great Southern and Mobile & Ohio. Surely the people of Alabama have not forgotten that this reduction was forced upon them; that they did not, and have not, willingly accepted such enforced reduction; that in 1907 the license of the Southern Railway Company to transact business in Alabama was canceled, the nominal reason being the transfer of a suit from the State court to the United States court, but the real reason being the alleged violation of the satutory act fixing the maximum rate for the transportation of passengers at 2½ cents per mile; that the Southern Railway had previously encountered somewhat similar conditions in North Carolina, and perhaps in Georgia or other States; that in October, 1907, the representatives of the Southern Railway, Alabama Great Southern and Mobile & Ohio entered into a contract with the then Governor of Alabama to reduce passenger rates under certain conditions, one of which was the dismissing of the litigation or withdrawing cancellation of its license to transact business, another was the guarantee by the then Governor that the Railroad Commission of Alabama should permit the raising of certain rates on commodities if, after trial, they were found to be too low, also guaranteeing that no right or interests of the said railroads should be affected by legislation to be enacted at any extra session of the Legislature held preceding the next regular session, and relieving the companies from any penalties theretofore incurred by alleged violation of the laws.

Forced Reductions are Hurtful.

We are told that in olden times governing officials having despotic power, needing money, forced contributions from wealthy victims by pulling their teeth until they complied; but we are not advised that the victims enjoyed it and I think we may conclude that notwithstanding the apparent cheerful acquiescence in the enforced reduction in the rates of transportation of passengers, from maximum of 3 cents to maximum of 2½ cents, of the roads in Alabama, it is not conclusive evidence that they believe the interests they represent have been promoted by such enforced action.

However, be that as it may, the conditions under which the Louisville & Nashville operates in Alabama vary greatly from those of other railroads. The Louisville & Nashville is the only company in Alabama that has recklessly invested capital in the building of branch roads—roads over which only local or intrastate traffic is moved. Nearly 70 per cent of the mileage operated by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company is branch or intrastate lines. All other railroads in Alabama handle their intrastate traffic over lines mainly devoted to interstate or through traffic, and in one sense it may be said that their intrastate or local traffic is incidental to their other business; but the Louisville & Nashville is operating nearly one million passenger train miles per annum on branch lines wholly dependent for revenue upon the local travel. It will readily be seen that the losses that may be incurred by other roads may be materially less than of the Louisville & Nashville, and the reduction may, therefore, to them, not be so serious a matter; but it is, as shown, vital to the Louisville & Nashville.

Much Business Done at a Loss.

It is judicially established that the intrastate passenger traffic of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in Alabama is done at a heavy loss; that is, that the revenue derived is not sufficient to pay the cost of movement expenses and very little, if any, return upon the capital invested. But the plea is made that as the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company's entire traffic has, during the past few years, been profitable, it should, and may, be compelled to transport business in Alabama at a loss. The State of Alabama can not justly require that the earnings of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in other States, or earnings derived from interstate traffic—that is, traffic passing between points in two or more States—be appropriated to pay losses resulting from moving traffic between points within the State at unremunerative rates. The laws of the country prohibit such action by any State, and the law is so construed and will be so enforced by the courts. Such is the law, and it ought to be the law. If the State of Alabama can require the carriers to transport persons and property between points within the State at a loss, Tennessee, Kentucky and other States may do so, resulting in general and sweeping reductions of all the intrastate rates, which in turn will force the reduction of interstate rates, and bankruptcy will result.

I am well aware that it is exceedingly embarrassing for an editor to acknowledge that he has erred, and that very few will do so; but I hope I have made it clear that your statement that "the amount involved in the half-cent lower rate is a trifle comparatively. That great system can readily afford the loss," is erroneous.

May 23, 1913. MILTON H. SMITH.

HOW WEEDS ARE REPRODUCED

In Quackgrass, One Means of Multiplication Is by Stems, Commonly Called "Roots."

(By L. H. PAMMEL.)

Weeds are spread by means of seeds, by vegetable reproduction, or by both seeds and vegetative reproduction. Most weeds multiply by means of roots, stems, or both. In quack grass, one means of multiplication is by stems commonly called "roots," which are divided into a series of joints at which new shoots are produced. In another type, like the Canada thistle, morning glory, and horsenettle, a small part of the underground portion is stem, the rest being true root. On these roots buds are produced which send up new shoots each year.

Some plants, like wild onion, produce bulblets. In others, as crabgrass, the stem above ground may strike root at the nodes, or roots may me produced at the points as in purslane. These roots and stems capable of producing new plants are widely scattered in fields by means of the cultivator and plow. They may be dispersed with undecomposed manure, packing materials, or imported fruit trees. Mice and gophers may scatter roots to different parts of the field.

The root systems of weeds vary greatly. The term root as ordinarily used by the farmer, may mean a root stock, as in the case of quack grass. A great many weeds, especially perennials, have not only perennial roots but root stocks also. A root stock is simply a stem growing beneath the surface of the ground.

Many weeds have strong tap roots, this being especially true of weeds like mullein, hemp, cockle-burr, wild-carrot and lamb's quarter, or quack grass, wood sage, and peppermint, produce numerous horizontal rootstocks that are found close to the surface of the ground, 75 per cent. of the rootstocks being found within four inches of the surface. From the nodes there arise numerous small fibrous roots.

The roots of many perennial plants, like Canada thistle, morning glory, horsenettle and milkweed spread very extensively through the ground. The root of a common milkweed has been traced for a distance of fourteen feet through the soil.

VALUABLE AS WINTER APPLES

Baldwin and Rome Beauty Excellent for Home Use and Market Under Favorable Conditions.

Two very valuable winter apples, either for home use or for market, are Baldwin and Rome Beauty, when conditions are favorable. In the north Baldwin is very profitable. It has vigor productiveness, good size, good appearance, quality and keeping. Grown south it is far from satisfactory. Below 40 degrees it is usually on the ground at picking time and beginning to decay.

Rome Beauty, on the other hand, suits the south, if soil, cultivation, etc., are right. If originated in the old Putman Nursery, near Marietta, Ohio. It was a sprout coming out below the graft, and by a kind of accident was not cut off until the purchaser of the tree, and intelligent farmer named Gillett, was attracted by its beautiful appearance. Finding on examination that there were roots enough for both graft and sprout, he cut them apart, and handing the sprout to his son, directed him to plant it and see what it would come to.

When it came into bearing and its value was seen, some thought of calling it Gillett's Seedling, the addition of the term, seedling to new varieties, being customary then. But as Mr. Gillett had not raised it from seed, Rome Beauty was finally agreed on; from Rome township in Lawrence county, Ohio, in which the original tree was growing.

In growth it does not start off as vigorously as Baldwin, but it does finely afterward, bearing early and well if it has the right care. In quality is not quite up to the Baldwin and not near up with the Grimes Golden, Evening Party, Stuart Golden and one or two others; but its fine size and appearance render it very popular in market. Nor must it be forgotten that its early and profuse bearing render good soil indispensable. And spraying at the proper time must not be overlooked.

FEED NEW CORN GRADUALLY

If Given in Moderation at the Start Hogs Will by Degrees Get Accustomed to It.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.)

Danger lurks in feeding an abundance of new corn. Feeders should introduce new corn gradually by cutting it up and feeding it with other feeds and with the pasture crops.

If fed moderately at the start hogs will consume both ears and stalks and by degrees get accustomed to the new feed.

By the time the stalks are hardened they will be in condition to consume larger quantities of the grain with safety and profit. Unless hogs have plenty of grass and forage crops the change of feed must be gradual if they are to escape derangement of digestion and disordered stomachs.

It means a little more work to feed supplemental feeds and old corn with the new, but the advantages are so great that the careful and intelligent feeder will not neglect that which is safest and promises the best results. Hogs relish new corn and we are many times tempted to feed them too much at the start. At least one month's time should be taken to bring hogs from pasture to a full feed of new corn.

It requires more bushels of new corn to make the same gain that sound corn will produce, hence it is advantageous from both the standpoint of health and profit to feed some old corn while bringing the hogs to a full feed of the new corn. Some severe losses can be avoided by the exercise of care and judgment in feeding new corn to hogs.

COMPEL HORSE TO EAT SLOW

Feed Manger Arranged So That Animal Must Chew Its Food Properly—How It Is Made.

I have a horse which when fed in an open manger, eats his feed so rapidly that it is not properly chewed and therefore does him little good. The accompanying cut shows a device which I employ to make him eat slowly, writes Monroe Conklin, Jr., of Alleghany county, N. Y., in the Farm and Home. The box B is made of four boards 16 inches long and eight inches wide, nailed together so as to form a chute having no top or bottom. The chute is 16 inches high and 6x8 inches inside.

It is set upright in the corner of the manger farthest from the horse, and nailed securely in place after being lifted one to three inches from the bottom. The feed is poured into it and works down into the manger as the horse eats it away from below. What feed the horse cannot reach should be scraped out before the next feed is poured in, otherwise it would become sour and moldy.

RIDDING THE HOGS OF LICE

First Thing Is to Disinfect Pens, Bedding and Wallow—Then Use Powdered Staphisagria.

(By E. T. BAKER, Veterinarian, Idaho Experiment Station.)

A pig weighing 150 pounds will have approximately 12 pints of blood, each pint containing 7,680 drops, or a little over 92,000 drops of blood. If a louse abstracts a drop a day, and the pig is boarding several thousand lice, it is easy to see where the profit goes when "hogs don't pay."

It is worse than useless to "dope" the pig with "lice killer" without disinfecting pens, bedding and, in the spring, the wallow.

First, burn all the loose, dry straw, clean out manure; spray the pen floors, walls, beams, troughs and every crevice with a ten per cent. solution of formalin or a half-gallon of formalin to five gallons of water. Creolin may be added to wallow in warm weather, say half a pint to a large wallow.

Then dust on each pig powdered staphisagria. This will cause the average louse to homestead elsewhere.

Feed Clean Grain.

Put the grain through the fanning mill before feeding it to the horses. It will not only mean a cleaner, healthier ration for the teams, but the grain that passes through them will not be full of noxious weed seeds to be carried to the field with the manure, where they propagate countless numbers of weed pests next season.

Warming the Calf.

If the calf comes on a cold day and you did not give the cow liberty to lick the baby, the calf may be chilled through. Get busy. Rub it dry with hay or cloths and blanket the little fellow until it quits shivering.

SAW HOPE FOR THE [illegible]

Birthday Gift Had Every Possibility of Being Received as One of the Family.

Page, a true little southerner, is lavishly endowed with the traditional "family spirit." His sense of family, indeed, is so strong that he regards any one or anything belonging to his own household as in some mysterious but very real way superior to all the of the world.

Page has a dog whom he loves very dearly, and it grieved him much when, not long since, Jickey declined to have anything to do with the stuffed bear that came as a birthday gift. Presently, however, he became normally cheerful and began to play happily. A visitor sympathetically inquired if Jickey has decided to adopt the new bear as his friend.

"Not yet," Page made smiling answer, "but he will soon, Aunt Annie. You see, Jickey's only a dog and he doesn't think as quick as we do. He thinks the bear is only paying a call here. But just as soon as he knows that the bear is one of the family he'll take to him all right."

ECZEMA SPREAD OVER BODY

R. F. D. No. 1, Lewisburg, Ky.—"Fifteen years ago I was badly affected with eczema upon my scalp first, then it spread all over my body and continued to grow worse for four years. It began with a dry rash. After forming thick scales or scabs the irritation forced me to scratch the scabs off and the hair would come out with them. Upon my face and body the sores would get inflamed and they disfigured my face. It was worse where my clothes irritated them. The eruption was a yellowish watery kind, sometimes bloody. In warm weather it was so bad I was not able to work on account of the raw irritating sores on my head and body.

STATE CAN FIX INTRASTATE RATES

SUPREME COURT LAYS DOWN PRINCIPLES IN THE MINNESOTA RATE CASE.

DECISION IMPORTANT ONE

Considers Attack Upon Rates in Two Phases Unlawful Burden on Commerce.

McREYNOLDS' STATEMENT

Washington.—Summarizing the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota state rate case, Attorney General McReynolds said:

"The court holds that congress, in the interstate commerce act, has not deprived the states of the right of fixing maximum intrastate rates. They still have that power. In contesting a rate fixed by the state on the ground that the rate is confiscatory the decision says that the burden of proof of confiscation falls upon the railroad. The court found that the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad had established that the rates affecting them were confiscatory, but that the Northern Pacific and Great Northern had failed in such proof."

Washington.—The power of the states to fix reasonable intrastate rates on interstate railroads, until such time as congress shall choose to regulate rates, was upheld by the supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota freight and passenger rate cases.

At the same time the court laid down far-reaching principles governing the valuation of railroad property for rate making purposes and according to these held that the state of Minnesota would confiscate the property of the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad company by its maximum freight and 2-cent passenger fare law. It enjoined the state from enforcing these laws, as to this road, for the present. In the cases of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, however, the court held that these roads had failed to show that the rates were "unreasonable" or confiscatory, and consequently reversed the United States district court for Minnesota, which had enjoined their enforcement as both confiscatory and a burden on interstate commerce.

The decision, regarded as one of the most important ever announced by the court, had been under consideration for 14 months. Railroad commissions from eight states and the governors of all the states filed briefs in support of the states in the cases.

Rate cases from Missouri, Arkansas, Oregon, Kentucky and West Virginia were not decided, but the points announced in the Minnesota cases are regarded as governing them generally.

The decision was announced by Justice Hughes, and consisted of some 35,000 words. The court was unanimous, with the possible exception of Justice McKenna, who merely "concurred in the results."

PLEASES ALABAMIANS.

Minnesota Rate Case Decision Meets With Favor at Alabama State Capital.

BRICKELL'S STATEMENT.

"This decision necessarily increases the efficiency of the state railroad commissions, and if the decision is as indicated, it will forever set at rest the right of the state to control intrastate business."—Robert C. Brickell, attorney general.

Montgomery.—Increase in the efficienc, of the state railroad commissions and the setting at rests of the question as to the right of states to regulate intrastate business are anticipated as the result of the decision of the United States supreme court in the Minnesota railroad rate case.

The news that the United States supreme court had decided the Minnesota case in favor of the state was received with much gratification by state officials.

Governor O'Neal was one of the first to hear that the case had been decided in favor of the state of Minnesota, and he expressed himself as much pleased with the court's decision.

Sherman Law Held Constitutional.

Washington.—The constitutionality of the Sherman anti-trust law, as a criminal statute, was upheld by the United States supreme court. The court set aside the sentences in the criminal suit against the "turpentine trust" on the ground that the trial judge had delivered an erroneous instruction to the jury, but rejected the contention of the defendants that the "rule of reason" announced in the Standard Oil decision made the forbidden acts so indefinite as to make the Sherman law unconstitutional.

ALABAMA BREVITIES.

J. E. Reese is the legally elected alderman of Ward 1, New Decatur, and the Morgan circuit court erred when it ruled that he usurped the powers of the office. This rule was made by the supreme court in the appeal case of Reese against the State of Alabama, ex rel F. L. Carswell, et al.

That Alabama law-makers and the state as a whole are derelict in their duty of failing to establish a training teaching the finishing of cotton and secure the maximum wealth from the fleecy staple in the South is a statement that Major W. L. Martin, of Oxark, one of the Auburn trustees, made to that body. That the South should get $350 per bale for her cotton rather than $50 as is now the case was what he said among other very interesting features of the cotton business. Major Martin is known all over this state as one of its most successful men and he said that only through fear did the law-makers of Alabama refrain from initiating some plan whereby the South could sell her cotton for $350 rather than $50, as at the present time.

EXPERIENCE OF MOTHERHOOD

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

FUTILE HINT TO THE BORE

Social Caller Could Not Understand Gentle Intimation Conveyed by His Host.

President Wilson, thanks in part to his splendid training at Princeton, but thanks in greater part to his tact, is said to receive and dismiss visitors more adroitly than any former occupant of the White House.

Sometimes, however, a stupid visitor turns up, and then President Wilson's tact is unappreciated, and the visitor overstays his time. Apropos of such visitors the president at a luncheon in Washington told a story.

"There was an old follow," he said, "who was praising the rising young lawyer of his town.

"'George, for a busy man,' said the old fellow, 'is one of the pleasantest chaps I ever met. Why, I dropped in on him for a social call this morning and I hadn't been chattin' with him more than fifteen minutes before he'd told me three times to come and see him again.'"

Showing Him the Road.

Villager—A pleasure, sir, 'deed 'tis; that there road'll take 'e to Bill Watson's, an' this 'ere turn to 'Arry Thompson's—Bill keeps th' best ale, but if you want 'bacca as well, take this 'ere turn—Bill don't keep no shag—only twist.—London Bystander.

Talking Shop.

Enthusiastic interest in one's occupation is always an advantage, but, on the other hand, it is not well for a woman in business to talk of her work at all times and places. Naturally, the thing that we do constantly is our most absorbing interest, but we must remember that other people have other things to talk about.

MADE RETURN A QUICK ONE

Bill's Absence Cut Decidedly Short When Visitor's Object Was Made Known.

The Harduppe brothers, Sam and Bill, were frankly "up against it." They owed the tailor, the landlady, the tobacconist and sundry others, and they spent most of their time dodging their creditors' emissaries.

Came a ring at the front doorbell, and Sam answered.

"I must see your brother," an agitated man insisted. "I must see him today without fail."

Thinking it one of his brother's creditors, Sam replied:

"Why, I'm sorry, but Bill left town yesterday."

The man's face fell. "That's too bad," he said, "for I wanted to pay him $50 that I owe him, and I'm going west tonight."

"Oh," said Sam, his face lighting, "that's easy; Bill came back this morning."

Reason Why.

She was a dear, old fasioned, modest simple, maiden lady. So that when she announced the fact that she thought of paying a chiropodist a visit her great friend was duly astonished.

"I didn't know you suffered from corns," remarked the latter, when the news was first broken to her.

"I don't," replied the old lady mildly, albeit firmly; "neither am I afflicted with bunions, chilblains, nor any other pains in the feet."

Her friend gazed at her with growing consternation.

"Then, my dear," she remonstrated gently, "what on earth do you want to visit a chiropodist for?"

The little old lady's cheeks blushed a delicate pink as she leaned forward, laid one mittened hand on her interrogator's arm and whispered:

"It's this way, my dear. I do so want to be able to boast that at least once in my life I had a man at my feet!"

Solving a Problem in Arithmetic.

Little Marion was busy with her "home work." After a great many perplexed frowns and much nibbling at her pencil she looked up and said: "The only answer that I can get to this example is five and three-fourths horses. Do you 'spose that is right, mamma?"

"Well, I don't know," answered her mother, cautiously. "It sounds rather queer."

A long pause; then the small arithmetician's face lit up with a smile. "Oh, I know," she cried. "I'll reduce the three-fourths horses to colts."

Juvenile Altruism.

Little Paul came in to ask his mother if Alfred and he might each have a cooky. His mother purposely gave him two of different sizes. Interested as to which Paul would give his guest, she stepped to the door just in time to see Paul give the smaller cake to his playmate.

"Why, Paul," she called, "don't you know that you should have kept that one yourself?"

"Yes, I know," was the nonchalant reply. "But, you see, I was afraid that if I gave Alfred the biggest one he might get sick!"

How They Measured.

"From the meadow the road began to ascend, and about noon we started to climb Greeley Hill—a thirteen mile road leading to its summit. As the afternoon began to wane, and we had zigzagged our way over what seemed to us thirteen miles of road, we met a resident of the region and ventured to ask him how they measured miles in that country.

"'Oh, we just let a greyhound loose, and when he drops dead, that's a mile,' was the reply."—Suburban Life Magazine.

Still One Ahead.

Donald was only 4, and the height of his ambition was to own a red wagon. One day he came in from play and burst into a storm of tears.

"Mamma, mamma, Johnnie Baker's dot a red wagon—a dreat bid one."

Mamma comforted him as best she could, and Donald soon went off to play again. The next day Johnnie passed the house with his red wagon, and Donald, looking up, said vindictively:

"I dess Johnnie Baker hasn't dot a gran'ma up in heaven, anyway."

Carefully Selected.

Many Plants "Left-Handed."

Habits of plants analogous to the right-handedness and left-handedness of man have been reported to the Cambridge, England, Philosophical society by R. H. Compton.

In an examination of eight varieties of two-rowed barley the first leaf was found to twist to the left in 58 per cent. of more than 12,000 seedlings, and an excess of left-handed growth was found also in millet and in oats.

In corn there seemed to be no marked tendency either way. No evidence of hereditary peculiarity appears to have been obtained and no special significance of the results is pointed out.

"Secluded Saint."

The Australian government officials are wrestling in these days with the millions of cards issued and returned in connection with the 1911 census. One woman wrote that she was "an unclaimed treasure." Another of thirty-seven replied, "Not married; have not given up hope yet." In reply to a query as to religion, a man in prison described himself as a "secluded saint." Another said he was a "blue light;" a third was a "simple lifer." One woman referred to herself as a "Roaming Catholic," and another claimed to belong to the "Shirts of England."

She Understood.

A charming French woman was the guest of a New York family at a popular roof garden.

As the orchestra was finishing a number she asked one of the gentlemen in the party who had been one of her most devoted admirers:

"What is zat ze musicians are playing?"

"Love Me and the World Is Mine," replied the man.

"Yes, I understand zat is how you feel," said the young woman, with a glance of coquetry, "but ze tune zat zey play, M'sieu, vat ees eet, please?"

Just a Bit Mixed.

London is laughing over a story which has recently come out concerning Lloyd George. It appears that shortly after the death of King Edward an Englishman traveling in Wales got into talk with an elderly Welshman and happened to be the first to tell him of the king's demise.

"And who might be king now?" asked the Welshman.

"Why, George is king now."

"George!" he exclaimed in surprise. "Well, how he has got on, to be sure—and me to remember him as a little lawyer in Criccieth!"

Visited the Sultan.

The Empress Eugene, on her way to the opening of the Suez canal in 1860, had been the first Christian sovereign or woman to lodge in one of the Sultan's palaces, but after that the princess of Wales was 'entertained at Dolma Bagtche on the occasion of her trip to the east with her husband, while in 1889 Abdul Hamid seated himself in the same carriage with the German empress, and thus conducted her to Yildiz Kiosk. More than that, the empress spent an evening with the ladies of the harem.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Economy.

"Economy," Mr. Fletcher said, "is a way of spending money without getting any fun out of it."

THORSBY DEPARTMENT

H. L. FOSHEE, Manager. —o— THORSBY, ALA., June 12, 1913

Deputy Sheriff Fallon came up to Thorsby last Saturday morning and had only been here a few minutes before he asked a man who was planning to go out to the dam, claiming that he had a responsible position out there, to submit to an arrest. He did so and when arrested Mr. Fallon searched him and found a large gun on his person. He next searched his trunk and suit case and found something near two hundred pints of whiskey in them. He remained in Thorsby with his prisoner until the evening train and carried him to the Clanton jail. We are glad to have such deputies in our county for by the work which Mr. Fallon has been doing the blind tiger business will soon go to the bad. Come again when you can make such a haul as you did last week.

BAPTIST HIGH SCHOOL.

The Committee appointed by the Unity and Chilton County Baptist Associations to investigate the advisability of building a Baptist High School somewhere in this section of the country composed of W. M. Olive, T. E. Williams, Judge E. B. Deason, W. H. Conway, W. J. Billingsley, J. J. Stanley and P. G. Maness, having located the school at Thorsby, Alabama, met at the Courthouse on Friday night, June 6th, for the purpose of making definite plans for opening the school. The following Committees were appointed: Building Committee, Committee on Faculty; and Rev. W. M. Olive was selected as Field Secretary and J. J. Stanley, Treasurer of the school. The first session will begin on September 9th, 1913.

Messrs. Alonzo and Ernest Williams of Clanton spent Sunday in Thorsby.

Rev. Mr. Funk preached at the Baptist Church Sunday.

Rev. W. M. Olive preached at the Baptist Church Sunday and Sunday night.

Miss Ethel Johnson of Calera is in Thorsby now to attend the review term at Clanton this summer.

Peculiar Will Declared Legal.

A will written by a seventeen-year-old girl on a piece of brown wrapping paper, the signature almost illegible, two of the five witnesses included among the beneficiaries, and the will executed within 24 hours of death of the testator, was admitted to probate the other day by a surrogate in Brooklyn. The judge said the will was as valid as any that had ever come before him. The will was that of aged Michael Morrissey, who died in Brooklyn on November 14 last. He had been ill for more than a year. On the evening before his death he called on several of his friends and said he wanted to make his will at once, and asked that Rose Enright, seventeen years old, a parochial school graduate who lived in the house, be called. She came to the old man's bedside and wrote on the piece of wrapping paper what he dictated.

Boxing Day.

Boxing day occurs on the 26th of December, the day after Christmas, unless Christmas day falls on a Saturday, in which case Boxing day is on the Monday following. Boxing day is purely English, and is so called because on that day, throughout Great Britain, almost every person of any position is applied to by postman, newspaper boys, errand boys, tradesmen and others with whom he may have had dealings throughout the year, for "Christmas Boxes," and is small Christmas gratuities in acknowledgment of services rendered beyond those which they were entitled to claim, or any care they may have shown in doing their ordinary duty. The custom is spreading to the great cities of the United States and Canada.

End of Famous Messina Church.

The walls of the Church of San Michael at Messina, Italy, which was destroyed in the great earthquake of 1908 and has since been known as the charnel house, collapsed a few days ago. An immense quantity of bones of the corpses which had been buried there for many generations was scattered over the debris and gave it the appearance of being covered by snow. The mayor summoned the firemen, but their efforts to remove the bones of the dead were for a long time made impossible by the fact that the remaining walls threatened to collapse, and the work was continued with the greatest difficulty. The firemen eventually pulled down the charnel house entirely and finally collected the bones.

Ocean Wireless Letter.

The Telefunken Wireless Telegraph company has inaugurated what is termed "the ocean letter," a new delayed wireless telegraph service. The method is this: An outward-bound traveler on a German vessel, wishing to communicate with friends on business connections at home, writes a letter of thirty words or more, which is transmitted by wireless from the vessel on which the traveler is, to the nearest homeward-bound German vessel, where it is reduced to writing, placed in an envelope and mailed when the vessel first reaches port. The charge is $1.19 for the first thirty words and 24 cents for each additional word.

Reminder of Old Times.

A curious link with the past is to be seen in St. Bartholomew's church, Great Gransden, Hants, England. It takes the form of a huge grappling hook, which, in the days of primitive fire appliances, was used for pulling the entire thatch off the roof of a cottage in the event of fire. The shape is that of a long bar with a turned-down fork at the end, the length being sufficient for men on the ground to reach the top of the roof, and the weight so great that the strength of several men was necessary in using it.

Cake Disappeared in Mail.

With half of what had once been a fine sponge cake in her hands, an indignant woman called at the Flushing, N. Y., postoffice and demanded from Postmaster Thomas B. Lowerre the name of the letter carrier who, she said, had eaten half of the cake which was sent to her through the parcel post by a friend. What was left of the cake looked as if it had been through the Boxer rebellion. The postmaster assured the woman that her complaint would be investigated.

Time for Canning.

Mrs. Shimmerpate was surprised when she visited her husband's office with a friend, to find that the force included half a dozen girls, all in the "squab" class and all very pretty. In the course of the conversation the friend inquired: "Did you put up much fruit this season?" With a glance about the room, Mrs. Shimmerpate replied: "Not yet, but I have made up my mind to can a few peaches."—Youngstown Telegram.

Up Speaks a Gallant Turk.

Zia Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador, was dining at the Ritz the other day when the lady he had taken in to dinner, an American, interrogated him about the custom in Turkey of maintaining a harem. "Ah, madame," replied the Turk, "if all women in Turkey were like you, I am sure they would be satisfied with monogamy."—New York American.

Chicken Raising for Insane.

A special committee of the Essex County, N. J., Freeholders is considering the establishment of a poultry farm at the Overbrook Insane Asylum next spring. Director Evans of the asylum believes raising chickens will be advantageous to the patients.

Buller Won the V .C.

There is not in the whole history of British battles any more glorious or thrilling page than that which records the deeds for which Buller won the Victoria Cross. It was won at the Inhlobauc mountains in North Zululand, during the Zulu war of 1879. Buller was the first to ascend these mountains in the gray dawn of the morning, and when he and his forces had to retreat before a body of 28,000 Zulus, and down mountains that would test the skill of a monkey or a goat, he was the last to descend. Again and again he remained behind everybody else, covering the retreat of those he had sent down, and when with seven men trying to keep at bay a whole army of triumphant foes, and in that retreat he saved the lives of no fewer than four men, thus practically earning the V. C. four times.

Meerschaum.

Meerschaum is a German word designating a soft white mineral found floating on the surface of the Black sea. In appearance it is rather suggestive of seafoam, whence arose the French name for the same substance ecume de mer, and the popular supposition that it is sea foam. Most meerschaum is obtained from Asia Minor, chiefly from the plains of Eski-Shakr where it occurs in irregular nodular masses in alluvial deposits. It occurs also less plentifully in Greece, Euboea and Samoa, and also exists in chemical combination as serpentine in Utah, South Carolina, Pennsylvania in the United States. The principal use to which it is applied is the manufacture of a rare kind of pipe.

Artist in Haste.

M. Helleu, the French portrait painter, who is in New York, delights to tell of an incident that occurred a few years ago in Paris. "A certain artist," M. Helleu says, "advertised he would draw a perfect likeness of any one in 15 minutes. I went to see him, and agreed to have my picture drawn. He did not know me. He set to work and after ten minutes showed me the completed work. 'It was not bad, but in fun I said, 'Huh, I think I can do that just as well, and in less time.' The man becoming angry, challenged me. We exchanged places, and in about five minutes the sketch was finished. The man looked at it, looked at me and exclaimed, 'You must be either the devil or Helleu!'"

Ingenious Opium Smugglers.

The ingenuity of the Chinese opium smuggler is astonishing and as is well-known this ingenuity manages to baffle the scent of even the most sleuth-like detectives and searchers, as it is common knowledge that opium is exported from Hong Kong in fairly large quantities despite all the precautions to prevent it. An example of the cleverness exercised in defeating the detectives is furnished by a revenue officer's recent discovery on the steamer Persia. He found that a steel mast of the ship had had a piece cut out, a cavity made, and the cover screwed on. In the cavity were found 542 tins of prepared opium.

Poisoning by Wholesale.

Microbe poisoning has always been a fascinating pursuit in the east, and its introduction to America illustrates the old saying "Ex Oriente Lux." But they do it on a large scale in these older and greater civilizations. You take a cholera or plague victim and just throw him into the village well. If he is not already dead he soon will be. So will every one who drinks the water. We may eventually reach the larger vision here, but in the meantime it is almost as hard to get a complete cholera or plague patient as it is to get a cobra.

Buried Village Uncovered.

In the year 1605 the sea rolled up to the village of Eccles, on the Norfolk coast of England, engulfed it and drowned every inhabitant, covering the whole with tons and tons of sand. Only a tower of the parish church remained above to mark the place where a whole community had lived for centuries. In 1893 the tower collapsed. Recently, after a terrific gale, the covering sand was found to have been swept right away from the Eccles beach, leaving the church and village exposed.

Could Not Tell Speed of Car.

Several motorists were lined up on an unfrequented road in England the other day and required to estimate the speed of a car driven at a predetermined rate with the aid of a speedometer. Out of four trial runs at various speeds only two speeds were guessed by one person correctly. The test emphasized that it is practically impossible, without extensive practice, to judge of the speed of a car by merely watching it pass.

Advance in Photography.

There is soon to be placed on exhibition in the Smithsonian institution an interesting and valuable array of 5,000 photographs demonstrating the progress and history of photography from the time of the earliest discoveries of Niepce in 1824. This collection has been made by Thomas W. Smillie, who is the official photographer of the Smithsonian, and who has been at work many years in getting the data together.

Wills Her Ashes to Flower Bed.

That her body be cremated and her ashes scattered into the central flower bed in front of the crematory at Fresh Pond, Queens, N. Y., was the wish expressed in the will of Mrs. Margaret Carmichael Webster, who was burned to death in her home in Washington street, Flushing.

Connoisseur's Cup of Tea.

Leigh Hunt, in one of his "Indicator" essays, gives a minute account of the preparation of "a cup of tea after mine own fashion. An ounce rubbed to powder and deposited in its silver receiver, with just cold water enough to saturate it. After standing twenty minutes, hot water off the boil was poured on it, and the lid was closely shut down, while the cup was placed on the stout to catch the aroma thence issuing. At the expiration of a minute it was poured out. A small portion of cream was instantly added, to prevent the escape of the essential oil floating on the surface, and just sufficient sugar to neutralize the slight bitter. Oh, heavens! to sip that most exquisite cup of delight was bliss almost too great for earth; a thousand years of raptures all concentrated into the space of a minute, as if the joys of all the world had been skimmed for my peculiar drinking."

Curious Fish Washed Ashore.

A curious fish, which at first sight looked like a whale, was recently washed up on the beach at Fortrose, Ross, Scotland. Its mouth was situated on the under side of a large rounded nose, and contained only six teeth, and these on the under jaw. Side fins were entirely wanting. Its eyes—very small—were situated in a line continuous with the mouth. In length the animal measured ten feet, its tail resembling that of a whale. The diameter of the body—measured at almost any part—was three feet. A fin, shaped not unlike a rudder, was situated on the back about midway between head and tail, and measured 18 inches in length, while two narrow fins two feet long were situated under the head. The color over the whole body consisted of yellowish white.

Crab That Had Wandered Far.

A crab about the size of an orange and almost of the same form has been brought into Lowestoft, Suffold, England, by the smack Giralda, which trawled it up near the Galloper lightship. The whole of its body and its thick, stunted legs were covered with brown hairs, which were so close as to give it the appearance of being clad in velvet. Its large pincer claws had toothed points very similar to double teeth, but of a rich carmine color. A naturalist identified it as Dromia vulgaris, a denizen of the Mediterranean, which has never previously been taken off the east coast, though specimens have appeared occasionally on the south coast. The recent gales are supposed to have accounted for its presence in the North sea.

Eiffel Now Studies Air.

M. Eiffel, the builder of the famous tower, is carrying out elaborate experiments in wind pressure by means of which he hopes to solve theoretically the problems of aviation. At Auteuil he has established an enormous aerodynamic laboratory which contains among other elaborate apparatus a system of fans capable of producing wind currents of all speeds up to forty-five yards a second. By an ingenious contrivance of balances he is able to test the pressure on a plane surface at different angles and in different positions, thus obtaining statistics most useful to French airmen. He is also giving attention to the question of wind pressure on the walls of airship shelter; also the force of different kinds of propellers used on air craft.

Authorized by Webster.

A young man was taken to police headquarters on complaint of a young woman who alleged he had called her a "chicken," the St. Paul Pioneer Press states. He later was released after explaining his position and after recourse to Webster's dictionary by the police officials. The young man, it is said, maintained he had not insulted the young woman, as she charged. He finally convinced the officers he was right. He referred them to the work of Webster for corroboration. The dictionary said: "Chicken—A young person; a child; especially a young woman; a maiden."

Mere Mediocrity.

"I used to think I possessed the artistic temperament—the sacred fire; but I was mistaken. I'm just one among the millions of common people." "You have no right to say that! You have done some splendid things—things that you could not possibly have done if you had merely been one among the millions of common people." "No, you're mistaken. I'm just an ordinary, everyday man. Why, my wife has lived with me for 11 years without ever once thinking of getting a divorce!"—Judge's Library.

All Gas.

"Laura," said that young lady's mother, "it seems to me that you had the gas turned rather low while young Smartly was here last evening. "It was solely for economy, mamma," answered the maiden. "There is no use trying to beat the gas company, my daughter. I have noticed that the shutting off of the gas is always followed by a corresponding increase of pressure." "Well, that lessens the waist, doesn't it, mamma, dear?" replied the artless girl. And her fond parent could find no answer.

Joke Cost Miner His Life.

Alejandro Ramierez, a Tucson, Ariz., miner with a penchant for "physical wit," lost his life through amusing himself by trying to step on the fingers of a fellow miner who was preceding him on a ladder down the shaft of the Twin mine, near this city. Ramierez lost his footing and fell 300 feet. The other miner dodged the falling body.

Commissioners Court—Chilton County

1st District—W. H. Shaw, Jemison.
2nd District—Vacant.

4th District—Moses Robinson, Verbena.

The regular terms of the Court are held on the 2nd Mondays in February and August and the 1st Mondays in April and November.

PLANNING ROUTES FOR STATE HIGHWAY.

Whether or not the state of Alabama will at any time in the near future construct a system of trunk highways, extending from one end of the state to the other, north and south and east and west, is a question that none can answer, but it is practically certain that a fine boulevard will connect Birmingham and Montgomery long before the people of the state have ceased to discuss the issues of the recent national campaign or have forgotten the last amendment fight.

A highway between Birmingham and Montgomery is practically assured. This fact was demonstrated yesterday afternoon when the state highway commission party came in an automobile over the roads from Montgomery to Birmingham in less time, probably, than any other automobile has been able to make the trip. Altogether, not more thon six hours were consumed in running the 100 miles between this city and the capital.

The highway commission party is touring the state for the purpose of making a preliminary survey for a system of trunk highways. The party is under the leadership of State Engineer W. S. Keller, who is making the survey, and who will make a full report of his trip, together with his recommendations, to the members of the commission. Capt. John Craft of Mobile, a member of the commission, and one of the most enthusiastic exponents of good roads in the state, is accompanying Engineer Keller upon the trip.

Engineer Keller and his party left Montgomery at 6:20 o'clock yesterday morning and arrived in Birmingham at exactly 3:20 o'clock in the afternoon. Approximately three hours were taken up on the way by various stops, the first having been at Clanton, where the highway scouts were met by a number of residents of that place. Thirty minutes were taken up at Clanton, and the next delay was at Calera, where the party stopped an hour for lunch.

The party stopped several times between Calera and Birmingham, the last wait being at the Jefferson county convict camp about eight miles from Birmingham. There Mr. Keller and his party were met by the members of the Jefferson county board of revenue, County Engineer Jerry Gewin and others. An hour and fifteen minutes were spent at the convict camp, from which place the party came into Birmingham.—Age-Herald.

CLANTON DRUGGIST DESERVES PRAISE.

The Upchurch Drug Co. deserves praise from Clanton people for introducing here the simple buckthorn bark and glycerine mixture, known as Adler-i-ka. This simple German remedy first became famous by curing appendicitis and it has now been discovered that JUST A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY. It's quick action is a big surprise to people.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

Our Sunday school is doing well as could be expected at present.

There is a good deal of sickness in our community at present, but none dangerously ill.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Lee Duncan is doing fairly well. He has been in a critical condition, and we hope he will soon be able to be brought home.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Hawkins were recent visitors at Mr. J. A. Lewis'.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Littlejohn spent Sunday at Mr. Walter Foshee's.

Mrs. Jack Jones was a recent visitor to relatives in Birmingham.

CLANTON DRUGGIST MAKES A STATEMENT

We always advise geople who have stomach or bowel trouble to see a doctor. But to those who do not wish to do this we will say: try the mixture of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka. This simple new remedy is so powerful that JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY. People who try Adler-i-ka are surprised at its QUICK action. PROVIDENCE.

Editor Union-Banner:—Allow us a small space in your paper to mention the interesting ball game that was played Saturday between Jemison and Providence on Jemison's grounds. The game began about 2:30 o'clock with Messrs. Cofer and Reynolds to umpire. Everything seemed lovely at first until Jemison saw the tall noted pitcher and catcher that were presented, then of course they at once began to see that they had bitten off more than they could swallow and began to get very nervous. The extra batting of Cleve Sims was noted in the game. It was no trouble for the boys to bat "Dickey," tho' it wasn't so easy for the Jemison lads to bat the balls given them by Mr. Jack Nabors.

No doubt the Jemison players are some down-hearted, as they had themselves so boosted and challenged any team, so guess you see boys, there is such a thing as being beat and we think by the score's being 5 and 3 you were squarely beat. Don't expect to see your boosting piece in the paper this week so decided we would write. Come along boys, there's improvements you may make yet; especially in trying to steal bases. Its true Jemison was turned out at the park to see the game, but I think that Providence was somewhat resented and got what they went for. Now boys, don't give up—if at first you don't succeed, try, try, try us again.

Providence Guy.

NOTICE.

To whom it may concern:

You are hereby warned not to hire Phil Parker, a minor who left home on June 9th.

PROVIDENCE.

Editor Union:—It seems that the writer from this place has been silent for some time so I will proceed to say just a few words.

The farmers are very busy finishing up their crops.

Health of the community is very good at this time.

Our Sunday school was just a little bit dull Sunday as some of our folks attended Children's Day at Mt. Pleasant and some went to other places.

Mr. Arch Glass sang at Mt. Moriah Sunday afternoon and we had splendid singing at Mrs. N. A. Sims Sunday night. There was a large crowd there of both young and old; the singing was fine and all seemed to enjoy it very much.

Now just a few words about our cream supper given by our Ladies Aid Friday night at Mr. Pitts'. Everything was in order for a grand time, the crowd gathered and cream was served until 10:30; all seemed to have a very pleasant time and the music which was furnished by Messrs. Wilson and Glass was grand.

We feel that our Ladies' Aid is accomplishing much good in our community, but still there are others who need to join us.

We wish to express our thanks to Mr. Matheny for the nice, complete job which he has made in painting and repairing our church. He has changed the looks of it so that people would hardly recognize it as the same old Providence church. Mr. Matheny is a man to be appreciated in any community.

Mr. Croel Kicker, of Birmingham, spent Thursday with Miss Esther Shaw.

Mr. Zack Cooper, accompanied by two of his cousins, Misses Prentiss and Baker, all of Birmingham, visited relatives here last week.

Mrs. Maude Gilmer, who has been visiting her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Pitts, returned to her home in Anniston Sunday.

One at Providence.

ALL-DAY SINGING AT DARGIN JULY 4.

There will be an all day singing at Dargin, three miles north of Calera, Shelby county, Ala., on July the 4th. We are expecting Profs. J. D. Patton, H. M. Eagle, J. M. Dye, L. T. Grant, H. C. Collins, James Franklin, C. N. Oden, T. T. Taylor, P. B. Shaw, and W. H. Wood, and many others. The largest crowd that ever met at a song service in Shelby county is expected at Dargin on that day. Refreshments will be served. The profits of which will go for the benefit of the new church building. Trains No. 9, 10, 11 and 12 will stop at Dargin to accommodate those who might come by rail. All lovers of music are cordially invited to come and bring well filled baskets. Everybody come.

County meeting at Collins Chapel, June 19-20 1913.

JEMISON.

There will be an entertainment at the Odd Fellows Hall Saturday night, June 21, 1913, by the Rebekah branch of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Ice cream and cake, lemonade and other refreshments will be served. We will also have speaking, and music by the string band. Everybody is invited.

Respectfully,
Mrs. C. D. Collum,
Mrs. T.C.Campbell,
Committee.

MAPLE SPRINGS.

The singing at Maple Springs Sunday, June 15, was called to order by R. A. Smith singing the song, "Leaning on the everlasting arm," and prayer by S. M. Yates. W. H. Wilson was then elected chairman for the day, and J. Lee Yates, Secretary. A program committee consisting of S. M. Yates, O. L. DeVaughn and R. T. Grant were appointed.

The program for the day was as follows: R. A. Smith, J. L. Gore, and O. L. DeVaughn 20 minutes each; recess 25 minutes. S. M. Yates, L. T. Grant and C. N. Oden 20 minutes each; recess for dinner one hour and thirty minutes.

Called to order at 1:30. R. T. Grant, J. A. W. Mims and R. A. Smith 20 minutes each; recess 15 minutes. J. L. Gore, L. T. Grant and C. N. Oden 20 minutes each. The organists for the day were Messrs C. N. Oden and L. J. Grant and Mrs. J. L. Gore.

There was a large crowd present and the singing was good. There seemed to be plenty of dinner for all and every body who came for any good purpose seemed to enjoy the day very much

J. LEE YATES, Secretary.

ROCKY MOUNT.

Rev. A. T. Vandiver will conduct the memorial service of Uncle Billie Northcutt at Rockymount cemetery Sunday, July 27th, at 11 o'clock. He will preach the funeral of Mr. G. S. Northcutt's little girl at 3 o'clock p.m.

There will be a public working at Rockymount cemetery June 24th. Bring dinner and tools to work with and let us clean up the grave yard.

J. B. NORTHCUTT.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TERSELY TOLD.

SOUTH, EAST, NORTH AND WEST

Notes From Foreign Lands, Throughout the Nation and Particularly the Great South.

Southern.

When a Southern railway passenger train struck an automobile near Ooltewah, sixteen miles from Chattanooga, Tenn., Tinnis Plumlee was killed. His wife received serious cuts and bruises about the face and head. Miss Willie Newton and Leo Chamberlain, the chauffeur, also were badly hurt. The dead and wounded were taken to Chattanooga. The automobile in which the party was riding was thrown fifty feet and crushed to splinters.

John Ross of Nova Scotia, Can., aged 63 years, a lifer at the United States penitentiary at Atlanta, is dead. He had served thirty-three years in prison.

William E. Gonzales, editor and proprietor of The Columbia State, has been nominated as minister to Cuba. Edward J. Hale, a North Carolinian, has been nominated as minister to Costa Rica. Major Hale was formerly Democratic state chairman in North Carolina and was once consul at Manchester, England.

A special from Bakersville, N. C., says that three inches of snow fell in Mitchell county. The weather in the entire mountain section has been the coldest three days that has ever been known in June. Cattle owners in western North Carolina report that they will be compelled to pen their cattle and feed them, owing to the grass all being covered with snow.

Thomas Kirby, alias Brother James, who is charged in Atlanta, Ga., with asking charitably-inclined people for funds with which to build churches to advance the Catholic faith, was sentenced by Judge Newman of the United States court, to serve three years in the federal prison near Atlanta and to pay a fine of $1,000 for misuse of the mails. There were two similar indictments against Kirby and in each he entered ap lea of guilty when arraigned. In passing sentence Judge Newman gave the prisoner 18 months' imprisonment and $500 fine in each case.

General

Andrew Koehn, honorably discharged quartermaster of the United States navy, who intends to row the entire length of the Mississippi river, left Lake Itaska, Minn., on his long journey. He will re-enter the navy when he finishes his trip, which he expects will consume about ninety days. The trip is being made in a galvanized steel boat. Koehn expects to cover the distance beteween St. Paul and Lake Itaska (about 500 miles) in 20 days. The undertaking has been approved by the navy department.

"Probably no fiercer battle since American occupation," is the resription by Brigadier General Pershing of the battle with the Moros in his report by cable to the war department.

With the "little white father of all the slavs" warning the Balkan states of wrath to come and beseeching them to avoid a fratricidal war, and France keeping the war chest closed tight, the chances of preserving peace among the allies is improving. But the situation is still critical.

Falling from the fifth floor to the basement at Battle Creek, Mich., G. C. Arnold was instantly killed. The body, badly mangled, was picked up by employees in the domestic science department and placed in a chair until surgeons could be summoned, but Arnold evidently was dead from the moment he hit the floor. The space through which the body shot is but three feet wide and it is hard to see how it dropped so far without striking one side or the other.

A Chicago and Northwestern train crashed into an automobile near Carroll, Iowa, killing Louise and Rebecca Dudley, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Dudley of Nashville, Tenn. The parents and a negro chauffeur were injured, but will recover. Dudley, who is a hardware merchant, was on an automobile tour with his family.

Cornelius J. Ford of New Jersey, a labor leader, was nominated by President Wilson to be public printer. Ford has been at the head of organized labor of New Jersey as president of the New Jersey Federation of Labor. Among other nominations was that of Charles M. Galloway of South Carolina as civil service commissioner and H. J. Geary as postmaster at Lake Charles, La.

Bees which infest the First Congregational church at Montclair, N. J., are so numerous that an acid will be poured into the interstices of the wall to drive them away. Their buzzing is annoying and persons have been stung during service.

While plucking flowers for a bouquet to be sent to Secretary of State Bryan, Mrs. Emilee Neilson, a cousin of the secretary, was stricken with anoplexy and died at her home in Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

The American Cotton association held a three day session in Washington, and visited the white house.

Six hundred federals were killed or wounded in a battle at Sansillo, according to reports reaching El Paso, Texas, from south Chihuahua, Mexico. After this victory over more than 1,200 federals, the insurgents, under Generals Villa, Chae and Hernandez, marched north toward the state capital, whence the Parral garrison had retreated. They are reported as having taken Cusihuirachio, a mining town, west of Chihuahua City.

For the first time in the history of the famous Newport Beach, two women policemen were placed on duty. They wore as uniforms blue blouses with brass buttons, blue skirts and sailor straw hats. They are appointed at the request of the Newport Civic League, and will be on duty all summer.

Twenty-four persons—mostly women and children—were injured in a rear-end trolley car collision on the Grove Couer Lake line in St. Louis county. Two of them, Mrs. Dora Bingham and Mrs. Regina A. Carouthers, will probably die. A score of others were bruised and cut by falling glass, but refused to go to the hospital in St. Louis. The cars were interlocked, and both telescoped. A passenger ran a mile to telephone for a wrecker. Nineteen of the injured were taken to the Missouri Baptist sanitarium and five were treated by physicians at Overland. The others helped each other bandage up their wounds and were brought into town on the wrecker. The crash knocked women and children out from either side of the cars into a gulley beside the tracks.

Two aviators of the naval wing of the English royal flying corps were killed in the fall of a monoplane near the Brookland's aerodrome in London.

The estate of Col John Jacob Astor, who perished in the Titanic disaster, was officially appraised at close to $88,000,000, of which Vincent Astor receives over 70 per cent. The estate was appraised in New York City.

Brig. Gen. John Pershing, commander of the department of Mindanao, P. I., has made arrangements to engage in a decisive fight against the rebellious Moros who are entrenched at Bagsag, under the sultan of Jolo. A stubborn resistance to the advance of the American troops was expected, and a strong force had therefore been assembled.

The Illinois woman's suffrage bill, granting women the right to vote for all statutory offices in the state of Illinois, was passed by the house by a vote of 83 ayes to 58 nays. Pending notice of a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, it will remain in possession of the house. It is stated that the governor will sign the bill if it ever reaches him.

Mahmoud Schefket Pasha, the Turkish minister of war and grand vizier, was shot and killed in Constantinople. His aide-de-camp was also killed. Prince Said Halim, foreign minister and ex-president of the council of state, has been appointed grand vizier ad interim. All the other ministers retain their portfolios. The grand vizier entered a motor car with the intention of proceeding to the sublime porte. Some persons in another car, whose identity has not yet been established, fired ten shots at the car. The grand vizier, who was severely wounded, was taken back to the ministry of war, where he died half an hour later.

Washington

Warning every community in the nation that the great death rate of babies is due to diseases which to a large extent are preventable, the children's bureau of the department of labor has prepared a compilation of the steps which various up-to-date cities are taking to protect child life, and will circulate it in a national campaign of diffusing child welfare ideas. This bulletin, which will be a feature of the children's bureau, exhorts every community to wage summer campaigns to save the babies' lives.

An undercurrent of opposition among a considerable number of house Democrats to this session of congress took definite shape when Representative Henry of Texas, chairman of the powerful rules committee, openly charged that Wall street was back of the propaganda for currency legislation.

Rental charges of approximately $5,500,000 should be made against the postal service for the use of space in federal buildings throughout the country, according to former Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., chairman of the congressional commission investigating matters of railway mail service and second class postage.

The power and authority of the government of the United States came to West Virginia to determine who is responsible for the conditions that have kept the state in virtual civil war for more than a year. Opening the investigation of the coal mine strike which has dealt death and destruction in the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek mining sections, the senate mine strike investigating committee called upon the military authorities for the records of the proceedings proir to and under the declaration of martial law in the strike territory.

The power of the states to fix reasonable intrastate rates on interstate railroads until such time as congress shall choose to regulate rates was upheld by the Supreme court of the United States in the Minnesota freight and passenger rate case. At the same time the court laid down far-reaching principles governing the valuation of railroad property for rate-making purposes, and, according to these, held that the state of Minnesota would confiscate the property of the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad company by its maximum freight and 2-cent passenger law.

COOL WEATHER OFFSET BY RAINS

CROP IN WEST AND CENTRAL VALLEY MADE GOOD PROGRESS.

EAST HAD TOO MUCH RAIN

Warm Weather Is Needed—General Rains Over Western Belt Supplied Just the Thing Desired, and Excellent Growth Made.

Memphis.—Good progress was made by the cotton crop west of the Mississippi river and in Tennessee and Mississippi during the past week. The rains that visited practically all of this area proved of much benefit, coming, as they did, at a time when moisture was needed and when fields were clean and soil in excellent tilth. Cool weather retarded the best growth in the central valley, but no actual damage was done—even some progress was made—while in the west the plant made wonderful progress. Fields are in fine shape, both as to cleanliness and state of cultivation of the soil.

The week was about a stand-off in Alabama, while in Georgia and the Carolinas low temperatures and too much rain retarded both growth and cultivation. However, little actual damage was done the plant, and as fields were clean to begin with, grass has gained no great headway. The evil is rather threatened than actual, and whether the crop is permanently damaged depends largely upon the weather of this week. If it is favorable fields will soon be cleaned and the check to growth will soon be overcome; if unfavorable much permanent damage will be done the crop.

As a whole the benefit from general rains over the belt will far outweigh the check put upon the plant by the cool weather, while the excessive moisture has done little actual damage to date. The developments of the week have done much to place the plant where it will be in position to take advantage of good weather. Great strides should be made with warm, open weather, while on the other hand, as stated above, much permanent damage would result from continued unfavorable weather. Weather at the close of the week was much improved.

There is little complaint of insect damage. Mississippi notes a large quantity of boll weevil, and a few scattered grasshoppers are reported from Texas and Oklahoma, but no damage of consequence has been done by either. Demonstration agents are organizing farmers for th extinction of boll weevil, and grasshoppers were said to have been leaving the fields.

MINERS WILL RENEW STRIKE

Vote to Extend Time for Another Year. Situation Is Complicated.

Charleston, W. Va.—Word came to Charleston from various sources that the miners at work in the operations on Paint and Cabin Creeks had voted at mass meeting to renew the strike which for a year has convulsed the coal fields. According to reports reaching Gov. Hatfield, meetings at Eskdale and in the mountains above Kayford voted not to return to work.

The miners were at work under an agreement framed by Gov. Hatfield, and agreed to by miners and operators. Mutterings of discontent had been heard among the miners for several days.

Representatives of the miners appearing before the senate committee investigating the strike received confirmation of the report that the strike would be renewed.

"Information that has just come to me from Paint and Cabin Creeks," said S. R. Montgomery, of counsel for the miners, "makes it practically certain that the strike will be renewed. The suspension will be generally on Cabin Creek, but I can't say how far Paint Creek will be affected. Feeling ran high at the meetings, I understood. Four miners were beaten up by guards on Cabin Creek, and the men are very indignant.

"The operators have failed to live up to the agreement of Gov. Hatfield's, which provided that the strikers were to be taken back to work without discrimination."

THROATS OF TWO CUT.

Sagging Wire Cause of Tragedy at a Picnic.

New York.—A sagging wire cut the throats of two members of a picnic party riding on top of a double-decked automobile 'bus near Long Beach, Long Island, and swept another man to the ground. One of the men, Wm. Pleng, is suffering from a partly severed windpipe and probably will die. It is expected that the other men, although their injuries are serious, will recover.

THREE ARE DROWNED.

Boat Capsizes in Cedar Lake, Near Hammond, Ind.

Hammond, Ind.—While changing places in a boat which they were using across Cedar Lake at midnight Sunday, five men were thrown into the water when the boat capsized. Three were drowned. None of the men could swim. Their screams brought guests of Clark's Hotel in a boat, and two of the five were rescued.

WILSON AGAIN BEFORE PROBERS

GALLINGER SAYS PRESIDENT CAME VERY CLOSE TO LOBBYING.

WILL BROADEN THE INQUIRY

Truman Palmer Says President Conducted "Plate Matter" Campaign Similar of Sugar Interests Before Baltimore Convention.

Washington.—Lobbying as a fine art, how it is done and who is responsible, what ends are sought and what results are accomplished, probably will be investigated by the special senate lobby committee before it concludes its work and submits a report to the senate. For nearly two weeks the five senators on the committee have listened to testimony that has dealt almost exclusively with the inufluence exerted on the tariff bill, but it has uncovered enough trials to lead members to believe that campaigns of every sort, political, industrial and economic, have been conducted much along the same lines, through paid agents and efforts to create public sentiment favorable to the causes concerned.

In executive session Friday the subcommittee decided to submit to the senate another broadening of the scope of its inquiry. The investigation has taken so much time that some senators on the committee thought that it might be well to limit its activities to a complete inquiry into lobbying for and against sugar and wool, but after a half hour's session, Chairman Overman was instructed to lay the whole matter before the senate.

It was believed that the time limit of 20 days placed upon the committee would be extended, and that the investigation would go into every possible phase of what the committee suspects is lobbyiny. Any skeletons that have dangled in the closets of congress and any soiled linen that may have hung there will be exhibited to the public eye, and legislation to impose drastic restrictions upon lobbying and the "acceleration" of public opinion may result.

Chairman Overman said at the conclusion of the executive session that none could see how long the inquiry might take if an extension of time is granted and the committee takes up the broad subject of general lobbying.

The committee's decision came at the end of a day filled with sensations. On two occasions President Wilson figured in the testimony. Senator Gallinger told the committee that, in his opinion, the president once at least came "dangerously near lobbying," and Truman G. Palmer, Washington representative of the United States sugar beet industry, declare that "a plate matter" ampaign much similar to the one conducted in newspapers by him had aided the campaigns of the president and Representative Underwod before the Baltimore convention.

Servian Cabinet Quits.

Belgrade.—The Survian cabinet, of which M. Pasitch was premier and minister of foreign affairs, resigned.

QUAKE COSTS MANY LIVES.

Bulgarian District of Tirova Sustains a Shock.

Vienna.—Great loss of life and damage by an earthquake is reported in dispatches received here from the Bulgarian district of Tirova. The disturbance occurred Saturday. Tirenova, a city situated on top of a hill, suffered most, according to the dispatches. The entire city is said to have been reduced to heaps of ruins, many persons being killed in their homes.

THREE CHILDREN POISONED.

One Is Dead and Texas Father Held in Connection with Crime.

Ballinger, Tex.—William Cromains, farmer, was arrested at his home near Ballinger Friday, and is being held without benefit of bail pending an investigation of the death of his 18-yearold son and the serious illness of two others of his five children. It is alleged that bread, which was part of the morning meal at the Cromains home, had been poisoned

GARY ADMITS EARLY METHODS WERE LAX

EVIDENCE THAT COMPETITION IS SUPPRESSED SHOWN.

HIS MEMORY GROWS BAD

Steel Head Does Not Believe He Made Remark That He Would Rather Keep Shelby Tube Co. Under Corporation Than Buy It.

New York.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, was called upon Wednesday by government counsel, in the suit to dissolve the corporation, to explain certain alleged contracts entered into by the corporation with competitors, under which they agreed to stay out of the steel business. The witness was asked to reconcile them with the policy of "fostering competition," which he had testified had been the aim of the corporation since its organization. He also was asked to explain remarks attributed to him to the effect that he would rather keep the Shelby Tube Company, formerly a competitor, under the control of the corporation than buy it out.

Judge Gary answered many of the questions by saying "I do not remember," but explained that on general business principles he did not approve of the contracts referred to.

"I don't think that as a director I was as careful in those days as I am now," he volunteered.

Under one contract the owners of the United Steel Company, acquired by the corporation, agreed to stay out of the steel business for ten years. Another pact imposed similar conditions upon the owners of the Oliver iron ore properties and a third required William Reis, president of the National Steel Company, before it was taken over, to stay out of the steel business for three years.

Judge Gary was sure he had not uttered the words attributed to him in regard to the Shelby company, which the corporation subsequently took over.

The Carnegie Steel Company, a subsidiary, had a contract to supply steel to the Shelby company under which, according to the minutes of the finance company, the Carnegie company "could arrange its prices so as to keep the Shelby company from doing business."

"I was foolishly lax in allowing such statements to be made and such action taken," said Judge Gary.

OKLAHOMA NEGRO LYNCHED

Slayer of Girl Is Hanged—Riddled With Bullets.

Anakarko, Okla.—Bennie Simmons, a negro, 18 years old, was taken from jail at Anadarko Friday by a mob, in which there were nearly a thousand people, and hanged to a tree near the railroad bridge. The body was then riddled with bullets.

Simmons was charged with the murder of Susie Church, 16 years old. She was returning on horseback from Coger to her home in the country, when she was pulled from the horse and assaulted. Two hours later her parents found her dead body in a clump of bushes near the road, the throat cut from ear to ear.

ASTOR ESTATE WORTH $88,000,000.

Vincent Will Receive $68,964,499 or Whole Estate.

New York.—The estate of John Jacob Astor, who perished in the Titanic disaster, was officially appraised Friday at close to $88,000,000, of which Vincent Astor receives $68,964,499; Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, $7,678,896; Muriel Astor, $4,856,758, and John Jacob Astor, son by his second marriage, $2,922,672. The estate is declared to be the largest ever appraised in this country.

BANDIT BEATS UP GIRL.

Secured $1,200 and Then Made Good His Escape.

New York.—Miss Dorothy Daniels, a frail little woman of 22, was beaten, choked and robbed in the streets Friday by a bandit who had followed here from a bank to her place of employment on Varick street.

The highwayman escaped with $1,128 in currency and certified checks. Hundreds pursued him for several blocks, but he eluded them.

VIEWS OF NATIONAL LEADERS

On Account of Absence of Justice Hughes, Decisions in Arkansas, Shreveport, Texas and Other Rate Cases Postponed.

Washington.—That the decision of the United States supreme court in the Minnesota rate case furnishes the strongest impulse toward government ownership of railroads and other public utilities yet recorded, is the keynote of opinions expressed by influential and acutely discerning members of congress. They are also of the opinion that the trend toward government ownership which has been noticeable for some years will receive a significant impetus from its decision.

A leading member of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, said Tuesday that the decision would have a strong tendency to accelerate the development of popular agitation for government ownership, which movement, he added, "I have been convinced for some years was inevitable."

The congressmen in question did not indulge in hostile criticism of the supreme court's decision. In fact, both anticipated the decision, as both have believed for years that government ownership would be the inevitable result of the destruction of competition among the railway systems and the subsequent legislative acts of the national congress to regulate the resultant powerful common carrier interests of the United States.

Absence from the session of the supreme cout of Justice Hughes, who is understood to be preparing decisions in most of the Missouri, Arkansas, Oregon, Kentucky and West Virginia railroad rate cases, caused final action in these cases to go over until the last decision day, June 16.

DEFENDS MILITARY COURT

Governor Says He Acted as Commander in State of War.

Charleston, W. Va.—After hearing former Gov. Glasscock's explanation of the conditions under which the Paint Creek and Cabin Creek mining districts were placed under the domination of military rule, the senate mine strike investigating committee Friday hurried its hearing along with but a single branch of its inquiry here to be concluded. The testimony of Gov. Glasscock and the civil officials of Kanawha county, in power during the strike, concluded the record under the head of the "arrest and conviction of citizens contrary to the laws and constitution."

Senator Kenyon's branch of the inquiry as to general conditions and causes leading up to the strike was all that remained to be disposed of in Charleston. The committee decided to leave the matter of alleged violations of immigration laws to be taken up in Washington. The questions of agreements and combinations "contrary to the laws of the United States," for the purpose of controlling the production of West Virginia coal, will not be taken up by the committee at this time, it was decided, owing to the fact that officials of the United Mine Workers have been indicted on this charge under the Sherman anti-trust law in the federal courts.

In no uncertain terms, Gov. Glasscock and the civil authorities of Kanawha county defended the declaration of martial law in the strike zone.

MANY HURT IN STRIKE RIOT

14 Injured in Fight of Police and New Orleans Dockmen.

New Orleans.—Two men were seriously injured and a dozen others sustained minor injuries in a fight between striking seamen of the United Fruit Company and strike-breakers, at the Julia River dock here Wednesday. Police quelled the riot, making 115 arrests.

The trouble is said to have originated when a number of strikers attempted to prevent the men who had taken their places from boarding the steamship Heredia. A score of shots and several volleys of brick bats had been exchanged before police were able to stop the fight. The two men seriously hurt received bullet wounds in the abdomen. None of the police who interfered in the fight was injured.

STRIKERS WIN VICTORY.

Are Granted Right of Trial by a Foreign Jury.

Trenton, N. J.—Supreme Court Justice Minturn Friday granted to the Paterson silk mill strikers the right of trial by a foreign jury. The jurymen will be drawn from Hudson county, which adjoins Passaic ounty, in which Paterson is located. The trial, however, will be held in Passaic county.

THREW FLOUR AT ASQUITH.

Bag Burst at Premier's Feet While He Addressed Commons.

London.—While Premier Asquith was speaking in the house of commons Wednesday a bag thrown from the strangers' gallery near the speaker's chair and burst, covering the surrounding seats with flour. At the same time a batch of leaflets fluttered down, thrown by a young man, who shouted something about Miss Emily Wilding Davison, the suffragette "martyr."

24 HURT IN STREET CAR COLLISION

ST. LOUIS TROLLEY CARS CRASH TOGETHER WITH SERIOUS RESULTS.

TWO ARE SERIOUSLY INJURED

Trolley Slips From Front Car and Second Car Crashes Into Rear. Both Were Crowded.

St. Louis.—Twenty-four persons, mostly women and children, were injured in a rear end trolley car collision on the Creve Couer Lake line in St. Louis county.

Two of them, Mrs. Dora Bingham, and Mrs. Regina A. Carouthers, will die. A score of others were bruised and cut by flying glass, but refused to go to the hospital.

The accident occurred near Overland park. Both were open air cars, crowded with picnickers. The trolley of the first car was off as it rounded a curve, leaving the car in darkness, and the second car, running 40 miles an hour, crashed into it.

The cars were interlocked and both telescoped. A passenger ran a mile to telephone for a wrecker. Nineteen of the injured were taken to the Missouri Baptist sanitarium and five were treated by physicians at Overland. The others helped each other bandage up their wounds and were brought into town on the wrecker.

The crash knocked women and children out from either side of the cars into the gulley between the tracks.

The shrieks of the children, frantic mothers and injured passengers brought farmers and suburbanites to the scene from a radius of half a mile.

The open air cars were twice the length of the city street cars and had only awnings for roofs.

The forward end of one car and the rear half of the other were reduced to splinters. A similar accident occurred on the same curve two years ago.

FEDERALS LOST 600 MEN.

Engagement Between Mexican Federals and State Troops at Sausillo, Says Report.

El Paso, Tex.—Six hundred federals were killed or wounded in a battle May 29 at Sausillo, according to reports reaching here from Southern Chihuahua state.

After this victory over more than 1,200 federals, the insurgents under Generals Villa, Chao and Hernandez, marched north toward the state capital, when the Parral garrison had retreated. They are reported as having taken Cusihuirachic, a mining town west of Chihuahua city.

LETTER AFTER 52 YEARS

Pennsylvania Widow Receives Letter Written to Her on May 30, 1861.

Pottsville, Pa.—A letter written at Fort Washington, Md., May 30, 1861, by Henry Russell, of Pottsville, a civil war soldier, now 65 years old, reached his widow in Pottsville through the regular channels of the mail of the United States. The letter had been entrusted to E. M. Richards, a comrade, of Pottstown, Pa., to mail, and he never sent it.

Recently Mr. Richards died and the letter, sealed and stamped, was found among some ancient papers. It was posted and arrived.

TO ROW LENGTH OF MISSISSIPPI

Andrew Koehn Leaves St. Paul on Long Journey — Navy Department Approves Action.

St. Paul, Minn.—Andrew Koehn, honorably discharged quartermaster of the United States navy, who intends to row the entire length of the Mississippi river, left Lake Itasca on his long journey. He will re-enter the navy when he finishes his trip, which he expects will consume about 90 days.

The trip is being made in a galvanized steel boat. Koehn expects to cover the distance between here and Lake Itasca (about 500 miles) in 20 days. The undertaking has been approved by the navy department.

$20,000 Spent by Sugar Co. Yearly

Washington.—Henry T. Oxnard, the millionaire vice-president of the American Beet Sugar company, testified before the senate lobby committee that he estimated that he had spent on an average of $20,000 a year in Washington for the last 23 years in behalf of the beet sugar industry. He declared not a cent had been spent illegally. Each year when he was at his home in Washington he declared he came to the capital to watch legislation and see his friends among the senators at the capitol.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF HORSE

Men of Science Have Recently Taken Up Study of Origin and to Differentiate Characteristics.

Horse breeding has been followed as a trade ever since animals were first domesticated, but the study of types has only quite recently been taken up by men of science with a view of ascertaining the origin of the species and to differentiate their characteristics. As a result of this study, based upon these anatomical differences and variations which have resulted from wide geographical distribution, and which probably originated in early geographical times, it may be accepted that there are four families or species of horses.

The first type in this classification is the Celtic horse, found on the west coast of Norway, known as the Fjord horse in Iceland, Faeroe, Barra, and other small islands of the outer Hebrides in northern Scotland, on the Shetland Isles, and in Connemara or northern Ireland. There has also been found a close kinship between the Celtic horse and the true Tarpan horse of Russia.

The second type of horses is the Prejevalsky, found in a wild state on the steppes of central Asia. There are a few of these in England on the estate of the duke of Bedford, and several specimens are being bred in the New York zoological gardens. The Prejevalsky horse is of a red brown color with a light "mealy" nose, has a large head in proportion to his body, and is "cat hamed," and less powerful than the Celtic horse. Some writers have assumed that the Tarpan and the Prejevalsky horses belong to the same family, but this is not now accepted, on account of their marked differences, the most conspicuous of which is that the Prejevalsky has the callosities on his hind legs. In this family it usually takes the form of a narrow strip and not drop-shaped as is common with other horses. There has been a suggestion that this little horse only 12 hands high, is the living example of the original ancestor of the draft horses of Europe, but it seems highly improbable, inasmuch as fossils of the draft type have been found showing its great antiquity, and I am more inclined to believe that these big types are a species by themselves and shall call this family the third type. This horse is known to science as the Forest horse, because he originally obtained his food by browsing on shrubs and low trees.

The Arab or African horse forms the fourth type in our classification. His food is the grasses that grow on the ground, and his home has always been the open plains and hillsides remote from forests. Therefore his head is articulated on his cervical vertebra at an obtuse angle, thus forming "Hogarth's line of beauty." This set of the head has long been recognized by breeders as a constituent element of beauty.—H. K. Bush-Brown, in American Breeder's Magazine.

Raise More Live Stock.

An exchange points out that our farmers should raise more live stock if they expect to keep up the fertility of their soils. In Germany there is one head of live stock for each 3.6 acres of land; in Denmark one for 4 acres; in France one for 4.3 acres; in England one for 5.3 acres, but in the United States it takes 12.1 acres to support one head of live stock. If we are to keep down the cost of living we must keep more live stock per acre and farm our lands better.

Her Birthday Anniversary.

"I hear you had a blowout at your house last night," said Ricks.

"Yes; a little birthday party," replied Hicks. "It was the eleventh anniversary of my wife's twenty-fifth birthday."

A Relic of History.

A newly rich woman, who was anxious to make a favorable impression in her neighborhood, decided to show her collection of antiques to the bishop when he called. The time came, and one by one she displayed the whole collection, giving him the history of each piece. "There," she said, pointing impressively to an old yellow teapot, "that teapot was used in the Boston tea party."

Regulating Weight.

There is only one way to regulate body weight ,and that is by the natural method—by diet, exercise, bathing, etc.—by alimentation and elimination. The nostrums advertised to take off flesh without change of diet are all dangerous. Be sure of that, and avoid them. The same diet that will put flesh on a thin man will take flesh off a fat one. In other words, a natural diet produces a natural condition of the body.

BEGAN YOUNG.
Had "Coffee Nerves" From Youth.

"When very young I began using coffee and continued up to the last six months," writes a Texas girl.

"I had been exceedingly nervous, thin and very sallow. After quitting coffee and drinking Postum about a month my nervousness disappeared and has never returned. This is the more remarkable as I am a primary teacher and have kept right on with my work.

"My complexion now is clear and rosy, my skin soft and smooth. As a good complexion was something I had greatly desired, I feel amply repaid even though this were the only benefit derived from drinking Postum.

"Before beginning its use I had suffered greatly from indigestion and headache; these troubles are now unknown.

"I changed from coffee to Postum without the slightest inconvenience, did not even have a headache. Have known coffee drinkers, who were visiting me, to use Postum a week without being aware that they were not drinking coffee."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future

"The slit skirt is proving very unsatisfactory."—Gadsden Journal. Would a bathing suit satisfy you?

The weather has got twisted around somehow. Last week while we were hustling for overcoats, up in Manitoba they were burning up with the temperature at 103.

The fortune left by John Jacob Astor amounted close to $88,000,000, most of it the "unearned increment" from the rises in real estate made by the labors of other people.

The crop reports for last week show that cotton was not hurt by the recent cold snap. The stand generally is said to be excellent. Boll weevil is reported at many places in South Alabama.

The Birmingham Ledger says that all the cotton counties have reported cotton blooms. We would like to know who sent in the bloom from Chilton. So far we have failed to hear of any.

Quite a number of people from Clanton attended the singing at Samaria Sunday. It was a pleasant and enjoyable occasion, and the music rendered was extremely delightful. And for fear some one would think we might have gone out there and come back hungry, we will say that the delicious dinner prepared by the good ladies of the community was almost as delightful as the singing.

Because some counties with big cities have issued bonds to build a few miles of good roads, which are a delight to those who use them, is no reason why a county like Chilton, largely agricultural, with no large towns and several small ones, should be burdened with the interest on bonds for a road which would serve only a few of the tax payers and people of the county. A more equitable system can be devised, and will eventually be carried out in the county.

The Centerville Press suggests that the educational branch of the state government right at present is a pretty live political wire, and the politicians are not slow about pulling it.

When the time comes when politicians pull such "wires" as better educational advantages and other things which vitally concern the welfare of the common people, instead of keeping their eyes on their own private interests, then politics will have reached a standard more worthy of the support of a loyal, pure and patriotic citizenship.

We wonder if there has been recently any one complaining about having no place to go on Sundays. It seems that from the number of "all-day singings" around over the county, no one should have to spend a dull Sunday at home. It is true that these singings, like everything else, have their faults as well as merits; but it is a fact that they greatly alleviate that monotonous practice some of us have to endure in the unpleasant winter season—spending Sunday alone at home.

GOOD ROAD BUILDING

While many counties in Alabama are still very backward in the matter of good road building, in not a few there has been a decided awakening. In different parts of the state a good deal of road building is in progress now and here in Jefferson county the new board of revenue has set out to make a high record. It is employing the county convicts on the roads and these, with other laber, will bring large results before the summer is ended.

The county convict system was started in Jefferson only a few weeks ago, but it has been tried long enough for it to be proclaimed a success. The regret is that Jefferson county had not made road builders of its convicts several years ago. If it had done so this county would today be pointed to as the model county of the south in the matter of highways. But now that the board of revenue is determined to make this distinctly a good roads county it will not be long before property values will be materially enhanced hereabouts.

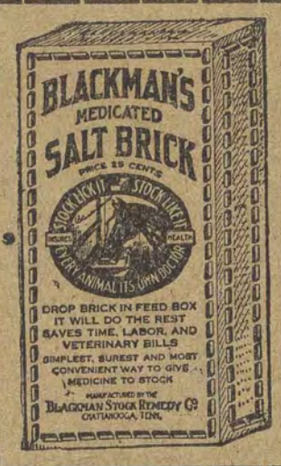
It is only a question of time when Alabama will be employing state convicts on the public highways. The meeting to be held in Birmingham tomorrow for the purpose of organizing for a vigorous campaign against the use of convicts in mines and lumber camps will mark a large advance in the entire convict system. Public sentiment is unquestionably opposed to convicts being leased to coal operators and when they are all ultilized for improving the roads of the state such a thing as a mud road or a rough road will be unknown.

In the meantime, let every county do its part in improving its roads this summer. The prospects for a large cotton crop and a large corn crop are excellent. This will probably be a banner year in Alabama from an agricultural point of view. Big crops mean more prosperity for the farmers and in view of the buoyant situation this should be a great year among the road builders.—Age-Herald.

A MONEY-MAKING PROPOSITION

Satisfactory profits are insured for years to come to every farmer who will breed and feed good stock. With milch cows now in great demand at $50 to $100 each for the purpose of dairying for profit, and with prices all the way from $250 to $1000 or more for bulls and cows, of choice lines for breeding purposes, the future of the live stock cattle breeding industry and dairying would seem to be absolutely insured. The consuming demand is increasing all the time for milk, butter, cheese and meats in all forms. Of course a great development is coming in the production of live stock and its products in South America and Australasia, but population in other parts of the world is also increasing rapidly.

The interesting point of the largest importance is this: That dairying is going to be a profitable business for every intelligent farmer who goes into it. In order to supply the demand for these products it is necessary that farmers carefully raise every good heifer calf that comes from milch or butter stock. Unless we raise our calves, the price of cows will go to a well nigh prohibitory point.



It Gets the Worms

Your medicated Salt Brick is the best remedy I ever saw for worms in all kinds of stock, especially where they look bad and long haired in the Spring. BUILT FOR DISPLAY.

There are five of them, all well acquainted in the ring, being either present or ex-office holders. All have evidently sat in the gallery and listened to the murmuring of the masses and to appease that murmur have come out with such slogans as railroad regulation, help the old soldiers, reduce expenses, yet build more and better roads and more and better schools; while Seed and Henderson consider a business administration as a popular cry, the others probably intended it but failed to put it in just those words. About the only tangible difference in any of the platforms being on the liquor question, which shows Kolb, Wallace and Henderson for local option, Seed for statewide prohibition and Comer on the fence, but the lamentable fact remains that all the platforms listen like they had been built for display purposes.

We would like to have the gentlemen explain how they expect to build more and better roads, more and better schools etc., and maintain an efficient government and at the same time reduce the amount of the revenue and keep within it. It looks palpably like a case of "I'll promise anything just so I get the job," and that is just what the state does not want in the next administration.

How refreshing it would be were some real good executive business man to come out and say. "boys I do not need or particularly want the job of executive of this state, but if you see fit to elect me I will do my best to see that things are run in a straightforward and economical way and to interest all the people as near as is possible under existing circumstances.—Foley Onlooker.

A PROPHETIC SHADOW.

"Votes for women" has crossed the Mississippi River in its victorious march eastward. That is the significance of the action of the Illinois legislature in passing a bill extending limited suffrage to women. Electoral qualifications are as yet restricted, but the chief point is that an opening wedge has been effected. In course of a short time the women of Illinois hope to brush aside all conditions that prevent them from standing upon an elective equality with men. Governor Dunne has signified his intention to sign the bill, and it is hardly probable that the legislative movement to reconsider will succeed.

The people of the United States may as well make up their minds that universal suffrage is soon to be an established fact. How long it will be before the reform is effective in every state of the Union, or whether through state or federal action, are questions that it is impossible to answer. Many decades of quiet but persistent propaganda have been required to bring the crusade to its present proportions. Even after the first state or two extended the ballot to women the cause advanced slowly. Now that it has attained momentum it may be expected to grow forward with speed that far outstrides its records of the past.

Some students have been of the opinion that the south would be the last section of the country to capitulate to the woman's suffrage movement, the argument being based on the assumption that the south is inherently conservative and slow moving in thought and action. The claim is open to dispute. There can be no question that there is already present in this section a well organized and intelligent tendency toward woman suffrage. Fortunately it is being conducted with the discretion and restraint that are among the most powerful weapons of the southern woman. With regard to Georgia it is not more difficult to set a time and conditions for the materialization of woman suffrage. We have here, for instance, the contradiction in laws which permits women to equip themselves as lawyers, but denies them the right to practice. That ban is, of course, archaic and unjustified, and it not removed by the forthcoming legislature will yield to one of its early successors. We permit women to practice medicine, a profession even more responsible than that of law. There is no reason why, all things being equal, women should not only practice law in Georgia, but compete with men in every other field from which they are not barred by physiological or other reasons.

We cite these facts as showing that in Georgia, as in every other state the woman suffrage cause cannot expect unhampered progress toward its goal. But that man who denies that universal suffrage is ultimately inevitable must indeed be deaf and blind to the signs of his time. The impulse is sweeping over the country like fire through prairie grass. No "back fire" on earth can stop it. What strange and radical changes its fruition may portend in our government and our customs is a matter that challenges prophecy. But for better or worse a new dynamic element will soon be injected into the electorate. The people and the politicians of the western states are already making their calculations with an eye on the feminine equation. And the people and the politicians of the eastern states, if they were well advised, had best follow that example.—Atlanta Constitution.

TWO BLIND TIGERS CAPTURED BY SHERIFF.

One of the most important and recent tasks that has developed in connection with the administration of law and order in this county is the guarding of the blind tiger business at Lock 12 on Coosa River. It seems that among the large number of laborers employed by the company in charge of the construction, there must be some who are strongly addicted to the use of those articles of trade which are usually included in the stock of the blind tiger merchant. And it is becoming very frequent that those illegal dispensers of "fire water" are seen making their way to the camps with a full cargo of their peculiar kind of goods.

But Sheriff Jones and his deputies are wise enough for them in most cases. Last Friday Mr. Jones captured a negro named Jerry Johnson, at Minooka, who with a supply of whiskey and beer, was on his way to the dam. And on Saturday evening Deputy Crowe, whose station is at the dam, arrested T. D. Little, a white man, at Jemison. Little had in his possession a suit case containing 48 pints of whisky and a small quantity of beer, and he also was making his way to the camps at Lock 12. Both prisoners were brought to Clanton and placed in jail immediately after their arrests, where they will await their trials.

L. & N. RAILROAD CO. IMPROVING DEPOT.

Owing to the increased amount of business for Clanton, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company is making extensive improvements and additions to its freight depot at this place. When completed it will be capable of accommodating nearly double the amount of business it was formerly designed for. This speaks an encouraging word for the growth and prosperity of Clanton and her trade.

It is reported that the Western Uuion Co. will re-open a telegraph office in Clanton, July 1st.

THE BRILLIANT STARS OF JUNE

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will all be morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pheumonia as at any oter time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. Upchurch Drug Co.

MERRITT WILL PROBATED

The will of the late Mrs. Mary A. Merritt was probated yesterday by Judge J. P. Stiles of the probate court. The estate, valued at $90,000, was left equally to the eight children, the estate to be left in trust until the youngest child comes of age. The Birmingham Trust and Savings bank was made trustees without bond. The estate consists of realty to the value of $50,000 and personal property worth $40,000. Mrs. Merritt was the widow of the late W. H. Merritt, the well known bolt manufacturer.—Birmingham Ledger.

NO SUBSTITUTE COULD DO THIS

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr., of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would run up to the back of my head, and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble." Upchurch Drug Co.

A bilious, half-sick feeling, loss of energy, and constipated bowels can be relieved with surprising, promptness by using HERBINE. The first dose brings improvement, a few doses puts the system in fine, vigorous condition. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

WHERE CAN WE GO THURSDAY NIGHT?

To the home of Mrs. E. A. Matthews, to a "Box Party." This entertainment will be under the management of the Methodist Ladies Aid Society. You may be sure you will have a good time. The girls will bring the boxes, and the young men will bring the girls. Everybody invited. Young men! Make your own engagements, and please see that all the girls with all the boxes are provided with an escort.

Mr. F. B. Ticknor will spend the summer with his son in Florida.

Mr. Joe Robinson, of Birmingham, came down Sunday to visit his parents.

Mr. J. M. Morgan, once sheriff of the county and for many years town marshall, has been very low for some time. As we go to press Wednesday afternoon it is thought that every hour will be his last.

They always pick the hottest days to get out of ice.

Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford Mass., says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For backache, rheumatism, lumbago, and all kidney and bladder ailments, use Foley Kidney Pills. Upchurch Drug Co.

FIGHT BOLL WEEVIL IN SOUTH ALABAMA

Montgomery, June 12.—Personal supervision of the fight to eradicate the boll weevil from south Alabama will be taken by Capt. Reuben F. Kolb, commissioner of agriculture and industries, next week when he begins an automobile tour through Mobile, Washington, Clarke, Wilcox and Monroe counties to determine the extent of damages.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST ABOUT IT

There is a New Remedy That Takes the Place of Calomel. Recommended and Guaranteed by the Druggists.

Alred Drug Co. never sold a remedy that gave more complete satisfaction than Dodson's Liver Tone—a mild vegetable remedy for constipation, sour stomach and lazy liver.

Folks who have suffered for years rather than resort to dangerous calomel have found after one trial that this pleasant-fasting vegetable liquid gives them long sought relief without bad after effects.

Dodson's Liver Tone is guaranteed by Alred Drug Co. to be a safe liver stimulant and to be absolutely harmless — without bad after effects. You will find many persons in this locality who have tried it and every user will speak a good word for Dodson's Liver Tone. It livens up a torpid liver and makes you feel fresh, healthy and clean.

The price of a large bottle is 50 cents—money back if not pleased. The success of Dodson's Liver Tone has brought many medicines into the field that imitate its claims, and some have name very similar and package same color, but remember Dodson's Liver Tone is guaranteed by Alred Drug Co., who will give you back your money if you want it.

FARMER DEFIES THE KAISER

Lessee of One of War Lord's Farms Won't Be Evicted, and Prepares to Fight.

The kaiser is being defied by a farmer who refuses to be evicted from one of his majesty's numerous properties. At the annual meeting of the German agricultural council the emperor, amid much laughter, told of his experiences as a landowner. He showed how he had introduced new grains, improved the breed of his cattle, increased the output of his meadows and the milk output of his cows. He also said that he had thrown one of the tenants off his farm near Cadinen because he was no good and intended himself to take over the supervision of the place.

Herr Sohst was the lessee in question and he got his notice to quit. He refused to do so. He says his lease has five more years to run and that it does not have any clause which provides for its cancellation. It is alleged that Sohst, who is a prominent farmer and influential in the Conservative party, which is part of the government bloc, feels that he has been insulted and materially damaged by the kaiser's charge that he is "no good." The kaiser's administrative agents have now brought suit to dispossess Sohst.

"PROVERB" THAT MADE A HIT

Peck Smith's Gem of Wisdom a Source of Pure Delight to His Relatives.

A New England schoolma'am obtained a situation out in Arkansas, and became so successful that she determined to give an exhibition of her pupils' progress, and invited all their parents to be present on Friday evening. The entertainment moved satisfactorily to all concerned.

"Now," said the teacher, toward the close, "I want every boy to repeat some proverb that he has heard. This is entirely impromptu," the teacher explained to the parents, "but I feel sure that the boys will do themselves credit, although they did not know in advance that they were to be called upon. Now, Johnnie, can you give an example of some old saying that you have found helped you?"

"'All is not gold that glitters,'" replied Johnnie.

"Very good. Very good indeed."

"'Be virtuous and you'll be happy,'" said Jimmie.

"That's splendid. Why, you boys remind me so much of a school I once taught in Boston," responded the fair teacher.

"'The germ of ambition is the chrysalis of wisdom,'" said Willie.

And so on down the class she went, until she got to Peck Smith. He wasn't very bright, and she intended to skip him, but he seemed anxious to say something, and she asked him if he knew any old proverb. He did.

"'A stump-tailed yaller dog is the best for coons,'" announced Peck; and the joy of his relatives reached such a pitch that his father paid a year's tuition in advance before he left the schoolhouse.—Philadelphia Ledger.

AFTER LINCOLN'S OWN HEART

Man Who Could Beat War President at Telling Stories Got Appointment He Was Seeking.

At least one man got ahead of Lincoln in a story-telling contest. That was Anthony J. Bleecker, who went to Washington to apply for a position. He was asked to read his vouchers. Soon the president stopped him, saying he was like the man who killed the dog. He had kept on with the killing after the animal was good and dead.

The applicant agreed that it was possible at times to do too much, and told the story of the converted Indian who found it hard to learn to pray for his enemies. The Bible was quoted to him: "If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink. For in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire in his head."

The convert thereupon began to pray most earnestly and at great length. He asked that his foe should have pleasant hunting grounds, many squaws, lots of papooses, and so on. The priest stopped him. He had done enough. Said the Indian: "Let me pray. I want to burn him down to the stump."

It is said that Mr. Bleecker got the job.

Machine Catches Burglar.

A French inventor has recently designed a burglar alarm which is a very close mechanical substitute for a human watchman. The device is arranged to operate before the slightest injury has been inflicted upon a safe by a burglar. In fact, it has no material contact with its surroundings, for it includes the mechanical equivalent of an eye which will detect the faint light from a dark lantern or even a match, hence making it a good fire alarm as well as a burglar alarm.

The "mechanical eye" is a selenium cell, such as used in picture telegraphing apparatus, for the reason that the electrical conductivity of selenium varies approximately with the amount of ligh that falls on it. The mechanical eye consists of a cylindrical box four inches in diameter and amout an inch thick, containing a band of selenium wound up in a coil. There is one of these boxes for each room that is to be protected, but they all communicate their sensations of light by electricity to a common receiver.

Quickly Answered.

Pat and Mike, who were neighbors in the "Ould Country," happened to retire from public gaze about the same time. Pat had stolen a watch from a blind man, while Mike mistook a friend's cow for his own and sold it. As luck would have it, they were drafted to the same prison, and at church parade on Sunday morning they had a chance for a moment's forbidden conversation.

"Said Mike: "Top av the mornin' to you, Pat, an' phwat might the time be? Sure an' t'is you that knows all about watches."

But Pat was not to be done. "Mike, my lad," he replied, "begorrah, an' 'tis about milkin' time."

Only Abraham She Knew.

A small girl whose education in American history far surpassed her Biblical knowledge went to Sunday school for the first time not long ago and was much surprised to hear the teacher refer familiarly to Abraham and his nephew, Lot. The clergyman, noticing she was a new pupil, inquired:

"Alda, what was your Sunday school lesson about this morning?" Her reply surprised him:

"Well, really, Mr. Wilson, we didn't have any Bible lesson this morning. The teacher took up all the time talking about Mr. Lincoln and his nephew, Mr. Lot."

The LADY of the MOUNT

by FREDERIC S. ISHAM

AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS," "UNDER THE ROSE," ETC.

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT 1908 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI. was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles. Her Ladyship dances with strange fisherman, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious Le Seigneur Noir. He escapes.

CHAPTER VII.—(Continued.)

"Why did you do that?" she asked angrily.

"The governor's orders," said the man, bowing hideously. "They are to see no one."

"Then let them up at once! Do you hear? At once!"

And as he began to unlock the door, walked off. After that, her interest in the rock waned; the Mount seemed but a prison; she, herself, desired only to escape from it.

"Have my saddle put on Saladin," she said to Beppo the next day, toward the end of a long afternoon.

"Very well, my lady. Who accompanies your ladyship?"

"No one!" With slight emphasis. "I ride alone."

Beppo discreetly suppressed his surprise. "Is your ladyship going far? If so, I beg to remind that tonight is the change of the moon, and the 'grand,' not the 'little' tide may be coming in."

"I was already aware of it, and shall keep between the Mount and the shore. Have my horse sent to the upper gate," she added, and soon afterward rode down.

The town was astir, and many looked after her as she passed; not kindly, but with the varying expressions she had of late begun to notice. Again was she cognizant of that feeling of secret antagonism, even from these people whose houses clung to the very foundations of her own abode, and her lips set tightly. Why did they hate her? What right had they to hate her? A sensation, almost of relief, came over her, when passing through the massive, feudal gate, she found herself on the beach.

Still and languorous was the day; not a breath stirred above the tiny ripples of the sand; a calm, almost unnatural, seemed to wrap the world in its embrace. The girl breathed deeper, feeling the closeness of the air; her impatient eyes looked around; scanned the shore; to the left, low and flat—to the right, marked by the dark fringe of a forest. Which way should she go? Irresolutely she turned in the direction of the wood.

Saladin, her horse, seemed in unusually fine fettle, and the distance separating her from the land was soon covered; but still she continued to follow the shore, swinging around and out toward a point some distance seaward. Not until she had reached that extreme projection of land, where the wooing green crept out from the forest as far as it might, did she draw rein. Saladin stopped, albeit with protest, tossing his great head.

"You might as well make an end of that, sir!" said the girl, and, springing from the saddle, deftly secured him. Then turning her back toward the Mount, a shadowy pyramid in the distance, she seated herself in the grass with her eyes to the woods.

Not long, however, did my lady remain thus; soon rising, she walked toward the shadowy depths. At the verge she paused; her brows grew thoughtful; what was it the woods recalled? Suddenly, she remembered—a boy she had met the night she left for school so long ago, had told her he lived in them. She recalled, too, as a child, how the woman, Marie, who had been maid to her mother, had tried to frighten her about that sequestered domain, with tales of fierce wild animals and unearthly creatures, visible and invisible, that roamed within.

She had no fear now, though faint rustlings and a pulsation of sound held her listening. Then, through the leafy interstice, a gleaming and flashing, as if some one were throwing jewels to the earth, lured her on to the cause of the seeming enchantment—a tiny waterwall!

The moment passed; still she lingered. Around the Mount's high top, her own home, only transcendent silence reigned; here was she surrounded by babbling voices and all manner of merry creatures—lively little squirrels; winged insects, romping in the twilight shade; a portly and well-satisfied appearing green monster who regarded her amicably from a niche of green. A butterfly, poised and waving its wings, held her a long time—until she was suddenly aroused by the wood growing darker. Raising her eyes, she saw through the green foliage overhead that the bright sky had become sunless. At the same time a rumbling detonation, faint, far-off, broke in upon the whisperings and tinklings of that wood nook. Getting up, she stood for a moment listening; then walked away.

Near the verge of the sand, Saladin greeted her with impatience, tossing his head toward the darkening heavens. Nor did he wait until she was fairly seated before starting back at a rapid gate along the shore. But the girl offered no protest; her face showed only enjoyment. A little wild he might be at times, as became one of rugged ancestry, but never vicious, only headstrong! And she didn't mind that—

Already had he begun to slack that first thundering pace when something

white—a veil, perhaps, dropped from the cavalcade of lords and ladies some days before on the land and wafted to the beach—fluttered like a live thing suddenly before him. In his tense mood, Saladin, affrighted, sprang to one side; then wheeling outright, madly took the bit in his teeth. Perforce his mistress resigned herself, sitting straight and sure, with little hands hard and firm at the reins. Saladin was behaving very badly, but—at least he was superb, worth conquering, if—

A brief thrill of apprehension seized her as, again drawing near the point of land, he showed no signs of yielding; resisted all her attempts to turn, to direct him to it. With nostrils thrust forward and breathing strong, he continued to choose his own course; to whirl her on; past the promontory; around into the great bay beyond—now a vast expanse, or desert of sand, broken only, about halfway across, by the small isle of Casque. Toward this rocky formation, a pygmy to the great Mount from which it lay concealed by the intervening projection of land, the horse rushed.

On, on! In vain she still endeavored to stop him; thinking uneasily of stories the fishermen told of this neighboring coast; of the sands that often shifted here, setting pitfalls for the unwary. She saw the sky grow yet darker, noted the nearer flashings of light, and heard the louder rumblings that followed. Then presently another danger she had long been conscious of, on a sudden became real.

She saw, or thought she saw, a faint streak, like a silver line drawn across the sky where the yellow sands touched the sombrous horizon. And Saladin seemed to observe it, too; to detect in it cause for wonder; reason for hesitation. At any rate, that headlong speed now showed signs of diminishing; he clipped and tossed the sand less vigorously, and looked around at his mistress with wild, uneasy eyes. Again she spoke to him; pulled with all her strength at the reins, and, at once, he stopped.

None too soon! Great drops of rain had begun to fall, but the girl did not notice them. The white line alone riveted her attention! It seemed to grow broader; to acquire an intangible movement of its own; at the same time to give out a sound—a strange, low droning that filled the air. Heard for the first time, a stranger at the Mount would have found it inexplicable; to the Governor's daughter, the menacing cadence left no room for doubt as to its origin.

The girl's cheek paled; her gaze swung in the opposite direction, toward the point of land, now so distant. Could they reach it? She did not believe they could; indeed, the "grand" tide coming up behind on the verge of the storm, faster than any horse could gallop, would overtake them midway. And Saladin seemed to know it also; beneath her, he trembled. Yet must they try, she thought, and had tightened the reins to turn, when looking ahead once more, she discerned a break in the forbidding cliffs of the little island of Casque, and, back of the fissure, a shining spot which marked a tiny cove.

A moment she hesitated; what should she do? Ride toward the isle and the white danger, or toward the point of mainland and from it? Either alternative was a desperate one, but the isle lay much nearer; and quickly, the brown eyes gleaming with sudden courage, she decided; touched her horse and pressed him forward.

But fast as she went the "grand" tide came faster; struck with a loud, menacing sound the seaward side of the isle and swung hungrily around. My lady cast over her shoulder a quick glance; the cove, however, was near; only a line of small rocks, jutting from the sand, separated her from it. If they could but pass, she thought; they had passed, she told herself joyfully, when of a sudden the horse stumbled; fell. Thrown violently from his back, a moment was she cognizant of a deafening roar; a riotous advance of foam; above, a hundred birds that screamed distractedly; then all these sounds mingled; darkness succeeded, and she remembered no more.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Old Watch-Tower.

A wall! A window—a prison-like interior! As her eyes opened, the Governor's daughter strove confusedly to decipher her surroundings. The wall seemed real; the narrow window, too, high above, framing, against a darkening background, a slant of fine rain! Again she closed her eyes, only to be conscious of a gentle languor; a heaviness like that of half-sleep; of bodily heat, and also a little bodily pain. For an indefinite period, really a moment or two, she resigned herself to that dreamy torpor; then, with an effort, lifted her lashes once more.

As she gazed before her, something bright seemed leaping back and forth; a flame—that played on the wall; revealing the joints between the stones of massive masonry; casting shadows, but to wipe them out; paling near a small window, the only aperture apparent in the cell-like place. Turning from the flickerings, her glance quickly sought their source—a fire in a hearth, before which she lay—or half-sat, propped against a stone.

But why? The spot was strange; in her ears sounded a buzzing, like the murmur of a waterfall. She remembered now; she had lingered before one—in the woods; and Saladin had run away, madly, across the sands, until—my lady raised her hand to her brow; abruptly let it fall. In the shadow on the other side of the hearth some one moved; some one who had been watching her and who now stepped out into the light.

"Are you better?" said a voice.

She stared. On the bold, swarthy features of a young man now standing and looking down at her, the light flared and gleamed; the open shirt revealed a muscular throat; the down-turned black eyes were steady, solicitous. His appearance was unexpected, yet not quite strange; she had seen him before, but, in the general surprise and perplexity of the moment, did not ask herself where. The interval between what she last remembered on the beach—the rush and swirl of water—and what she woke to, absorbed the hazy workings of her mind.

The young man stopped; stirred the fire, and after a pause, apparently to give her time to collect her thoughts, repeated his question: "Are you better, now?"

"Oh, yes," she said, with an effort, half sitting up. And then irrelevantly, with rather a wild glance about her: "Isn't—isn't it storming outside?"

"A little—not much—" A smile crossed the dark features.

"I remember," she added, as if forcing herself to speak, "it had just begun to on the beach, when it—the 'grand' tide—" The words died away; mechanically she lifted her hand, brushed back the shining waves of hair.

"Why think of it now?" he interposed gently.

"But," uncertainly she smoothed her skirt; it was damp and warm; "I suppose this is the island of Casque?"

"Yes.

"And this place?"

"The old watch-tower."

"But how—" Then she noticed that his hands, long, brown and well-formed, were cut and bruised; bore many jagged marks as from a fierce struggle. "How did you hurt your hands?"

He thrust them into his pockets.

"Was it from the rocks—and the waves? How did I get here?"

"Oh, I was standing on the cliff," he answered carelessly, "and—saw your horse running away!"

"You did? And then—came down?"

"At Times—a Hunter."

"What else was there to do?" he said simply.

Her gaze returned to the fire. "But the tide was rushing in—rushing! it was right upon me!"

She looked again toward the pockets into which his hands were thrust; observed his shirt, torn at the shoulder; then arose unsteadily. "I know—it was not so easy!" she said. "It was brave of you—"

"Your Ladyship is no coward!" he interrupted, a sparkle in his eyes. "When you turned the horse toward the tide, I was watching; hoping you would dare, and you did!"

About to reply, she became once more aware she was still very dizzy from the fall on the sand; the shapely figure swayed and she put out her hand with a gesture of helplessness. At the same time, the man reached forward quickly and caught her. A moment was she conscious of a firm grasp; a dark, anxious gaze bent upon her; then, slid gently back to the stone seat.

A brief interval, and gradually she began to see again more distinctly—a man's face, not far from hers; a face that drew back as her own look cleared. At a respectful distance he now stood, his bearing at once erect and buoyant, and more curiously she regarded him. A distinct type, here pride and intelligence stamped themselves strongly on the dark, handsome features; courage and daring were written on the bold, self-reliant brow. And with this realization of something distinctive, compelling, in his personality, came another.

"I have seen you—spoken with you before! On the beach—the night of the dance!"

The young man turned. "Your Ladyship so far honored me—as to dance with me!" he said, in his eyes a touch of that brightness that had caused her to regard him imperiously, as he had swung her to the measure of the music, on the occasion in question.

"Started to!" She corrected him, straightening suddenly at the recollection of that evening, when humility and modesty were virtues conspicuously wanting in his demeanor.

"Your Ladyship is right," he said quietly. "An alarm from the Mount interrupted."

She glanced at him quickly. His eyes met hers with a look of unconcern.

"Are you—a fisherman?" she asked abruptly.

"On occasions."

"And when you are not one—what are you then?"

"At times—a hunter."

"Ah!" Her eye lingered on something bright on the ledge beneath the window. "And that is the reason you have—pistols?"

"Exactly, my Lady!"

She continued to regard the weapons, of finest workmanship, inlaid with a metal that gleamed dully, like gold, in the light from the fire. His glance followed hers; she was about to speak, when quickly he interrupted.

"Has your Ladyship thought how she is going to get back to the Mount?"

My lady's questioning, along the line of personal inquiry, ceased; the Governor's daughter looked a little blank. "No—that is, haven't you a boat?"

"Not here."

"Then you walked over?"

He neither affirmed, nor denied.

"And the tide will not be out for hours!" Her look showed consternation; she glanced toward the opening in the wall. "Isn't it becoming dark now?"

"Yes, my Lady."

"Of course, it was almost sundown when— But I must return at once! Don't you understand?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

What They Did to Webster.

In the course of a speech on American heroes and institutions, Chauncey Depew stated that even the greatest Americans were almost entirely unknown abroad.

While in a distinguished gathering in England, he remarked, he commented on the fact that in Washington he lived in the very house where Daniel Webster had resided for six years while serving as secretary of state and later as a member of the senate.

A member of the English nobility replied:

"Ah, indeed, most interesting! Your Webster was a most extraordinary man. In England we have nothing to compare with your Webster, who, as I learn, was your greatest statesman and orator, wrote a dictionary and was hanged for killing a client."

When Clay Pipes Were Popular.

Justin McCarthy went to London in 1852 and found clay pipes in fashion. "It was thought quite the right thing for a man of fashion to appear in the broad day with a clay pipe in his mouth," he wrote. "Many a young man stuck a clay pipe in his mouth and pretended to be a real gentleman."

Value of Time.

"Did your father punish you for not chopping the wood?" asked one small boy.

"Yes," replied the other. "But I don't know that it wasn't all for the best. Father and I passed less than twenty minutes in the woodshed and I am sure it would have taken at least three hours to chop the wood."

FAITHFUL DOG IS PUNISHED

Lashed for Barking While Burglars Were Robbing His Master's Cafe In New York.

Aaron Silverman's brindle bulldog Spot is the only living creature around Silverman cafe at 141 West Twenty-seventh street that is in any condition to smile, but Spot is physically too sore to smile.

Some time after midnight the barking of Spot awakened the Silverman family in their rooms above the saloon. Silverman thereupon arose, got a trunk strap and walloped poor old Spot into silence and went back to bed.

When Silverman went behind the bar about 6:30 he found that burglars who doubtless had started Spot's unprecedented barking had ripped open the cash register and taken $30 and a ring from it, and then had attacked the safe and got away with one diamond ring worth $125, two more worth $100 each, a $75-dollar watch, a lavalliere worth $75, a $45 locket and chain and four Russian gold pieces worth about $10.—New York Sun.

Unique Suicide.

A safe was used by a man named Jacob Rabinowitz, fifty-four years old, of Philadelphia, Penn., to commit suicide, a few days ago. Frst he jacked up an 800 pound safe with a block of wood. Placing his head beneath it he drew a strap as tightly as he could around his neck. Then he knocked the block from under the safe and the heavy weight fell upon his head. He was found by his wife, but died before a physician arrived. He had been despondent for several weeks because he lost a lawsuit.

For the Ironing Board.

Pad the ironing board with a thick quilt or old blanket, then lay the board on the table and cut a piece of heavy muslin so it will fit the board loosely. Seam it up, leaving the slip open at each end. Make two of these slips and change them frequently, says Mother's Magazine. Thus the ironing board is always clean, and the padding will not have to be changed for months.

A Close Call.

A train hit a truckload of dynamite at Dallas, Ore., the other day but did not cause the stuff to explode. When the passenger train collided with the truck, the latter was carried more than 100 feet on the pilot of the engine, and the driver saved his life by jumping before the engine struck.

Closely Occupied.

"That man is always kicking."

"What about?"

"He doesn't know. He kicks so much he doesn't leave himself time to find out what his real grievances are."

The Logical Situation.

"Here, some fellow says that the suffragists are women who haven't got husbands."

"Then I suppose he holds it is the antis who get the uncles."

Wears Little There.

"Miss Slasher is a stunning girl when she is dressed up."

"I can't say anything about that. I've only seen her on the street."

The Kind.

"That gambler's son is a chip of the old block."

"A poker chip?"

Its Species.

"That petition is certainly a bird."

"Of course. Isn't it a round robin?"

The man who depends entirely on the push of those who are back of him will seldom get to the front.

Post Toasties

They are among the good things to eat, but not in the cook book, because they require no cooking.

Toasties are always crisp and appetizing—ready to eat direct from the package. You save heaps of time and avoid hot work in the kitchen.

Some rich cream—sugar if you want it—or cool fruit juice, with these fluffy bits of corn and you have a dish that is fascinating for any meal of the day.

Toasties are sold by grocers everywhere.

Regretted Losing Good Thing.

Ella—"Mrs. Gayboy looks very sad since she divorced her husband." Bella—"Yes, she didn't know what a good husband she had until she saw how generous he behaved about the alimony."—Club-Fellow.

Make Him Content.

One of the principal duties entailed upon the housewife is insuring the comfort of the husband. Every man is contented so long as the solid comforts of life are his—so long as his meals are to his liking and his home always ready for his occupancy.

His Advantage.

"There is one thing about a fake palmist which makes it hard to lay traps to catch him."

"What is that?"

"He makes you show your hand."

BOILED EGGS BETRAY THEM

Nationality of Diners Is Shown in Their Various Method of Eating.

Sherlock Holmes might have figured this out, but he did not!

The average Englishman will always demand his egg boiled just three minutes, then he places it in an egg cup, just large enough to have the egg fit it, taps the top of the shell, and removes the broken shell with his fingers. The egg is eaten a spoonful at a time.

A Frenchman, much like the Englishman, likes his eggs of three minutes, exactly. He then "peels" them, places them in a glass, stirs and mixes well together with salt, pepper and butter. He makes a practice of dipping bread into the mixture, and eating it along with the eggs.

A Spaniard wouldn't think of letting his egg boil more than one minute. He then breaks it, and lets the contents run into a glass, and consumes it as if he were drinking a glass of wine.

An egg is only fit in an Italian's estimation when it has been placed in cold water, and removed just as the water beings to boil. He then breaks it, pours it on a plate, and proceeds to sop it up with bread.

The German, like the Italian, demands his eggs as near the liquid state as possible. He breaks his eggs in an unsightly cup, and scoops the liquid out as if it were soup.

The American is about the only one who prefers his eggs boiled hard. When they are served up to him, he knifes them in half, removes the contents into a glass, after which he adds a plentiful supply of pepper, butter and salt. He then minces the eggs fine, mixing them well with the spices, and eats them with his toast.

Catching Flies Pays Well.

Catching flies is affording a Shreveport (La.) man a profitable and independent living. He sells them to the city board of health. His name is Bartsch, and his net revenue from the fly industry for the first two days of a recent week was $24.20. When the health board began offering premiums for the flies, dead or alive, Bartsch purchased about 100 traps and placed them in fly-ridden sections of the city. Then he began making inroads on the health board's exchequer, and so well did he operate that he bore the market price down from 50 cents to 20 cents a quart, for it is by that measure that the board purchases. Bartsch is still working, and he will work as long as the treasury holds out. He finds fly catching pays.

New York's New Postoffice.

New York's new $6,000,000 postoffice building, a massive pile of pink granite five stories in height and two blocks long, facing the rear of the Pennsylvania station, is the greatest building of its kind in the world. From the curb to the topmost piece of granite is 101 feet. There are 165,000 cubic feet of granite, 18,000 tons of steel, 7,000,000 bricks and 200,000 square feet of glass in the building. The main corridor, corresponding in length to the outside colonnade, is a combination of buff marble, white plaster and glass, two stories high, 29 feet wide and 280 feet long. There are 400,000 square feet of working space within the building.—Popular Mechanics.

Meteorite Falls Near Woman.

A meteorite weighing 37 pounds was recently the subject of discussion in chemical circles in Johannesburg, South Africa. The stone fell in Zululand a few months ago, and was not only noticed by an eye witness some 15 miles away, but fell within a few feet of a native woman, who gave information which led to its discovery. The meteorite cannot so far be broken. It is known, however, to contain platinum.

Broken Heart Caused Death.

A broken heart, caused by violent beating due to sudden emotion, was said by a doctor to be responsible for the death of Alexander Burness, sixty-four, a master tailor, at a London inquest. Burness fell and died during an altercation with a foreman cutter as to the ownership of certain articles which he was about to remove from his former premises to new ones.

England's Oldest Bowling Green.

Which is our oldest recreation? There are not wanting archeoligists who profess to be able to trace references to football and baseball on Egyptain moral tablets. However, when it comes to actual records, the fine old English game of bowls would appear to be as old as any.

Southampton, Eng., has records showing that one of the local bowling greens was in existence in 1299.

Many interesting customs are associated with the game on this historic green. Every summer a "fire jack" competition is held, and an order of knighthood is conferred on the winner, who kneels in the center of the green while the other players gather round him and the master touches him with a sword and dubs him "sir."

London and Its Lumber.

London is the most conservative city in Europe, if not in the world. It loves its lumber. You may still see those notices attached to lamp posts which announces "Standing for Four Hackney Carriages," or whatever the number may be, though for ten years (in one case, to my own knowledge for twenty-five) no vehicles of any kind have stood there. Perhaps it is as well that these relics should remain; they are a tiny part of our social history. They will probably remain when we are flying to dinner or the theater in omni-aeros. By that time people won't know what "hackney carriage" meant, and there will be discussions in the "Notes and Queries" of the period. For each generation hands down to the next certain nuts to crack.

NO NEED TO "HOLD PHONE"

Sound Magnifying Trumpet which Will Tell You When It Is Time to Talk.

There is a sound magnifying trumpet of flat shape, behind which is a small attachment intended to support the telephone receiver. When it becomes necessary to hold the line, when calling up or replying, instead of the person standing with the receiver glued to his ear he places the receiver upon the time saver, bringing the earpiece into position with the sound magnifier. He is then at liberty to resume his duties until such time as the person required at the opposite end attends his instrument.

This is notified by the speech transmitter being magnified by the time saving device so as to be perfectly audible at a distance. The receiver may then either be withdrawn and held to the ear in the usual way, or left in connection with the magnifier, hearing being quite as simple and easy as under normal conditions. Another advantage of the invention is that the user's two hands are left free to carry out any other requiste task, such as the turning up of documents, making references, writing down messages or instructions from dictation, and so on.

HEAD A MASS OF PIMPLES

Hyattsville, Md.—"My little boy was taken with an itching on the scalp. There was an ashy place on his head about the size of a ten-cent piece, and the hair was falling from this place by the roots. In about ten days all over his head were these ashy spots which looked like ringworm, but were porous-like. The itching and burning made him scratch a great deal. His head had gotten so that it was just a mass of mattery little pimples all heaped on each other, and when I took off his night-cap, the hair and flesh came off at the same time. I really thought he would lose his whole scalp. He couldn't sleep for five weeks, it would itch and burn until I thought he would go into convulsions.

"I used different soaps and salves to no satisfaction. Then I decided to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Finally I noticed he began to sleep all night. I used one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and he was entirely cured. He has a better growth of hair now than he had at first." (Signed) Mrs. Ida S. Johnson, Mar. 26, 1912.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE A STATE MATTER.

Captain Hobson gets on the right platform when he says that woman suffrage is a matter for the states, and tnat he would vote against the proposition to give women the ballot by amendment to the national constitution. This is the plain democratic proposition.

Woman suffrage is not yet before Alabama, but an effort has been made to put it before the nation by having Congress propose an amendment to the national constitution. The nation is not ready for that because suffrage is not a national matter, but a matter belonging to the states.

The national congress worked some amendments through forbidding the states to deny suffrage to negroes, but those amendments were not legally passed and have not been enforced for that and other reasons. The women of the United States do not want suffrage by a constitutional amendment forbidding the states to refuse it to them. They want a voluntary law in each state giving them the right, or rather the privilege of voting, for to them it would be a privilege. This plan requires a little more patience, but it will win definitely when it does win, and win it will, unless all signs fail.

Captain Hobson may not want to debate the question with Congressman Heflin, but he has put himself on the safe and sane platform, on which woman suffrage must win.—Birmingham Ledger.

GREER ON THE CONVICT SYSTEM.

Anniston, June 13.—Denying that such a thing as a lease system exists in Alabama, L. F. Greer, associate state convict inspecter, of this city declares that if the present system of dealing with the convict problem is changed and the convicts put to work on the public roads. the state will be confronted with the problem of raising additional revenue from some other source.

Mr. Greer says that inasmuch as he will retire from office as soon as his term expires he has no personal interest to be conserved, but that he speaks from a standpoint of the welfare of the state.

"The convict department is a revenue raised for the state," said Mr. Greer, "bringing in more than $1,000,000 gross every year of which something like $400,000 is net profit. Suppose you take the convicts out of the mines and put them on the roads, the state loses $1,000,000 revenue. Convicts will cost at least $600,000 for maintenance, which makes $1,600,000. Prisons to hold the convicts securely in the various counties will cost $400,000 additional, which makes the total cost to the people of the state at least $2,000,000. Of course, from this sum must be taken the worth of the convicts' work, but additional revenue must be raised for the state.

Mr. Greer denies that there has been any cruelty to the state convicts and continues: "There is no such thing as a lease system in Alabama. Every state convict is under the direct control of the state. We feed them, clothe them, appoint their tasks, and inflict such punishment as is deemed necessary. The men who guard them, the men who oversee their work, are employees of the state, some of them being from the best families of Alabama. We feed every convict in the state with the exception of two small camps, but even here the state warden is in charge, and the treatment is regulated by the convict department. Not a single felon is leased to any contractor."

Mr. Business Man:

If you are loyal and true to your position, you are trying to make YOUR business surpass that of your competitor. In every possible way, and at all times you are making this effort. But in no way can you help your business toward the highest possible standard and reputation more than by the use of the latest and most artistic productions in the way of stationery. The big business man in the large city, from whom you order your stock of goods, measures the standard of your business by the stationery you use. Then why not get the BEST? Thus you will cause your business to be recognized as the best.

At no place can you secure neater and more impressive stationery than at The Union-Banner Office. We have the highest grade of stock and the best equipment for printing it. Our Job department is fitted with power attachment, which enables us to execute your orders quicker than you can get them done at other places.

Give us a trial and let us convince you that for the same money we can do your printing BETTER and quicker than any you have ever had done. We also make a specialty of Book and Catalogue printing.

When you have ANYTHING to be printed, let us figure with you. Our prices are right, and we guarantee satisfaction.

ROOSEVELT STRENGTH IN ALABAMA.

Birmingham Age-Herald.

To the Editor Age-Herald:

In your issue of the 20th you say, "There is no large element in Alabama which believes in a political sense as Mr. Roosevelt believes. You are mistaken I think. With a fair and non-partisan election system Roosevelt would have carried this state last fall. As it was Wilson did not get more than about one-third of the white vote of the state. We had at that time in round numbers 1,250,000 white people, and at the rate of one voter to five persons by the census, we must have had about 250,000 men elegible to vote. And deducting democratic negro votes you cast less than 40 per cent of Alabama's white voting strength. Here in Clay county we have just 4,000 white men eligible to vote. But Wilson got only 1,200 of them. Roosevelt got a good vote, but nothing to compare with what he would have received had we a non-partisan election system. I know many populous neighborhoods overwhelmingly in favor of Roosevelt that 'cast almost no vote at all.' And if you mixed with the country people you would find that a very large element in Alabama believes in Roosevelt. In fact, he is the man after their own hearts. The dwindling bunch of voters which constitutes the Alabama electorate now forms no fair criterion by which to judge the sentiment of the whole population of the state.

Furthermore, to my knowledge, a great many men voted for Wilson who would have voted for Roosevelt if there had been any hope of his election. Indeed many thought Taft would have taken more votes from Roosevelt than he did.

The whole voting strength of Alabama is not 50 per cent of the possible white vote now, and before we are much older that is going to make bad trouble for someone. Respectfully,

JOSHUA FRANKLIN.

Pyriton, Clay Co., Ala., June 21.

GAMBLING ON BASEBALL.

At least half a million dollars have been wagered in New York on the results of the pennant races in the two baseball leagues. In other years there has been much betting, but nothing to compare to the size of the amounts staked on the games thus far, and only two months of the season gone.

Betting has ruined horse racing and it will ruin baseball. Square dealing is impossible to be long maintained when much money is wagered on a result; and there will be jockeying on the diamond just as has been on the turf. The joy of clean baseball will thus become a thing of the past.—Exchange.

In every home where there is a baby there should also be a bottle of McGee's Baby Elixir. It may be needed at any time to correct sour stomach, wind colic, diarrhoea or summer complaint. AND LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

ROCKYMOUNT.

This leaves us all about up with our work until it rains.

The health of the community is good in general.

We are all looking forward to Fourth of July now. We are going to have a picnic at Rocky Mount school house. Everybody is invited to come and bring well-filled baskets and help us enjoy the day. We haven't secured any speakers for the day yet but we will have some good speeches.

Monday after the Fourth of July our summer school will begin under the leadership of Prof. F. B. Williams.

There will also be a singing school this summer at Mount Pleasant under the direction of Prof. Taylor. This school will run forty days.

Our weekly spelling matches are growing more and more interesting. About forty of our boys and girls met at Mr. Dave Williams' Friday night and spelled. Master Mason Matthews and Master Vernon Northcutt being the last on the floor. There are several interesting features about the spelling match; the first is that the last one on the floor receives a general collection amounting to over a dollar every time; second, we all have a good social time, and enjoy free lemonade at the close of the spelling.

We will meet at Mr. Will Lowery's next Friday night.

One of the Boys.

CHILDRENS DAY.

Editor Union-Banner: Please announce through your paper that our childrens day service will be held at Mt. Nebo Sunday June 29th. Everybody invited except drunkards. Noted speakers, Hon. J. O. Middleton, Prof. W. T. Bean, will address the people on Christian education. Everybody interested in good schools are requested to be present. Committee.

A WORKER APPRECIATES THIS

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am feeling fine. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Upchurch Drug Co.

JEMISON

The Rebekahs of Jemison met last Saturday evening, hung out a sign and began selling ice cream and cake. At night they went up to the public school building where some very fine music was furnished by the string band. Two fine recitations, one by Mrs. Lula Roper and one by Miss Naomi Carrol, were highly enjoyable. Miss Payne received the prize as being the prettiest girl; she received 485 votes and Miss Carrol next best with 470.

Our distinguished D. S. Deputy and State Grand Warden, Mrs. Lucile Horn, having pledged ten dollars for the orphan's home, more than double the amount was raised.

A CORRECTION.

Editor Union-Banner:—In last week's issue in announcement of working at Rockymount cemetery your printer made me say June 24th when it should have been July 24th. Please correct this week.

CLANTON DRUGGIST DESERVES PRAISE.

The Upchurch Drug Co. deserves praise from Clanton people for introducing here the simple buckthorn bark and glycerine mixture, known as Adler-i-ka. This simple German remedy first became famous by curing appendicitis and it has now been discovered that JUST A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY. It's quick action is a big surprise to people.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolution was passed by the last session of the Chilton County Farmers Union, and ordered published in the county papers:

In view of the fact that the question of good roads is being discussed and agitated in our county, and we, realizing the necessity of good roads for the progress and development of our county, do hereby recommend that all male citizens, regardless of age or occupation, able to do work. set apart the last week in August to work on the public roads, using every effort to get the best teams and tools for this work.

W. P. Lowery, Pres.
J. M. Smith, Sec,y.

IRVING SCHOOL HOUSE.

Health in our community is fairly good at present.

Crops looking well considering backward spring; needing rain at present.

The singing at Mars Hill proved a great success, with a large attendance.

There will be preaching at the Irving School House seven and one-half miles west of Jemison, on the second Sunday in July, by Rev. J. E. Hodgens and others who will assist him.

The protracted meetings of the free will Baptists will begin in a few days. We hope and expect a good meeting, as Rev. Hodgens is a good Christian gentleman and a loyal worker in the ministry.

CLANTON DRUGGIST MAKES A STATEMENT

We always advise people who have stomach or bowel trouble to see a doctor. But to those who do not wish to do this we will say: try the mixture of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka. This simple new remedy is so powerful that JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY. People who try Adler-i-ka are surprised at its QUICK action. Upchurch Drug Co. 4

FALAKTO

The health of the community is fairly good. Miss Bessie Harris is still on the sick list.

Farmers are getting along nicely with their worrk, and crops are looking fine but are needing rain.

Prof. J. L. Gore and his wife attended the singing at Maple Springs the third Sunday. The professor's old students and friends appreciated their visit very much. Hope they will come again.

Mr. Reuben Culver came down from the magic city to visit his friends and take in the singing.

Miss Lula Sims of Mountain Creek was at the singing.

Mr. Jadie King of Montgomery was also among the visitors at the singing.

Mrs. G. W. Wilson visited her daughter Mrs. Patton, at Montgomery last week.

Mr. C. B. Norrel of Montgomery came up last week to visit relatives in this vicinity.

Prof. C. E. Harris returned Wednesday from Jacksonville where he has been attending school.

DISTRICT SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The First District Sunday School Convention will be held with Providence Baptist Church, 1 1-2 mile west of Wessington, on Sunday, June 29th, to convene at 2 p.m. We expect some good speakers to be with us on that day, and we request all Sunday schools in the district to be represented as this is our last convention before the County Convention.

W. E. Thomas, Dist. Pres.
Miss Addie Horsley, Secy.

ROCKY MOUNT.

Rev. A. T. Vandiver will conduct the memorial service of Uncle Billie Northcutt at Rockymount cemetery Sunday, July 27th, at 11 o'clock. He will preach the funeral of Mr. G. S. Northcutt's little girl at 3 o'clock p.m.

There will be a public working at Rockymount cemetery on July 24th. Bring dinner and tools to work with and let us clean up the grave yard.

J. B. NORTHCUTT.

MARS HILL SINGING.

The first lesson of one hour in Songs and Hymns led by Messrs. Scott Collins and Scott. Second in Christian Harmony by Messrs. Gothard, Glass, Jones and Armstrong. Dinner. In the afternoon Messrs. Scott of Montevallo, Glass of Jemison, Franklin Headley and Hodgens were added to the number of leaders. The crowd was large, dinner good, and the people seemed to enjoy the singing. We noted the young people of that section seemed in earnest, which is much better than so much light hearted giggling seen in some places. At the conclusion Prof. Franklin and daughter, assisted by others, rendered some pieces nicely. Mr. Franklin s daughter bids fair to make her mark in sacred music; indeed now she seems to appreciate its true value.

Visitor.

ALL-DAY SINGING AT DARGIN JULY 4.

There will be an all day singing at Dargin, three miles north of Calera, Shelby county, Ala., on July the 4th. We are expecting Profs. J. D. Patton, H. M. Eagle, J. M. Dye, L. T. Grant, H. C. Collins, James Franklin, C. N. Oden, T. T. Taylor, P. B. Shaw, and W. H. Wood, and many others The largest crowd that ever met at a song service in Shelby county is expected at Dargin on that day. Refreshments will be served. The profits of which will go for the benefit of the new church building. Trains No. 9, 10, 11 and 12 will stop at Dargin to accommodate those who might come by rail. All lovers of music are cordially invited to come and bring well filled baskets. Everybody come.

Max C. Nabors,
G. D. Baldwin,
W. E. Finley.

IN MEMORIAM

Died at his home near Pleasant Grove in May, Mr. Asa Franklin. He lived to see his children grown to man and womanhood. When the fatal cancer fastened its fangs upon him and he passed away and slept with his Fathers. He was a good quiet, honest, neighborly kind hearted man. He spent nearly all his life where he died, within a stones cast of his happy childhood home, where he had so long enjoyed the friendship of neighbors, breathed the fragrance of the pine, enjoyed the pleasures of youth, where he obtained salvation, there surrounded by kind friends he breathed his last, though now sleeping in death, yet in the resurrection day he will be awakened.

The human race is being gradually prepared for that stupendous event. People are not surprised at the wonders of electricity, avaition, etc., so they will be ready for the long deceased loved ones to come bounding into the home in the judgment day. We sympatize with the companion and children of Mr. Franklin. No one can fill his vacant place, while the years may come and go, yet a pang of regret will often steal upon them along the way. This is a dark picture, but the time is coming when there will be no more death, then sorrow and sighing will flee away. Then with all the loved ones who will yield to the Heavenly Kingdom restored to life, people will not care for the trials of the way.

REPORT OF STATE PRISON INSPECTOR ON CHILTON COUNTY JAIL.

May 28th, 1913.

Hon. Emmet O'Neal,
Governor of Alabama.

Sir:—On May 21st the jail of Chilton County was inspected by a member of this department and I submit herewith the following report:

At the time of this inspection there were fourteen white males sixteen negro males, and one negro female confined in this jail; all apparently in good health, with the exception of one negro man who was in a serious condition from being beaten up by other negroes and who was not a prisoner, but was being taken care of by the county in the jail, on account of lack of hospital facilities.

With the above number of prisoners confined in this jail it was badly crowded, and but for the fact that court was in session and making disposition of their cases as rapidly as possible some would have been removed. It was assured by the Sheriff and by the Probate Judge that within a week or ten days most of their cases would have been disposed of and the jail would practicably be empty.

A contract has been let for a complete renovation and remodeling of this jail, and work is to begin immediately upon adjournment of this term of court.

Respectfully submitted,
W. H. OATES,
State Prison Inspector.

POPLAR SPRINGS CHURCH

The all day singing at this place Sunday, June 22 was a grand success. The singing was opened with prayer by Mr. L. N. Henderson. Mr. S. M. Yates, Jr. was elected chairman. Messrs. H. M. Devaughn, L. N. Henderson and R. T. Grant, the arranging committee for the day. The morning lessons were led by Messrs. J. A. W. Mims, R. M. Brigance, R. T. Grant, Riley Robinson, L. T. Grant and W. G. Culp; each leading 20 minutes. Then we had and intermission of an hour and a half for dinner, which was a most enjoyable one. We were again called to order at 1:30 and the class was entertained by Messrs. Jesse Jones, S. M. Yates, Jr., and L. N. Henderson; each leading 20 minutes. And Messrs. O. L. Devaughn, L. T. Grant and J. A. W. Mims, each leading 15 minutes. The organists for the day were, Miss Lillian Robinson and Messrs. L. J. Grant and W. G. Culp. I am sure there was no one present who did not enjoy the day in a most pleasant manner. Thanking the singers for their good singing, and the community for their hospitality.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TERSELY TOLD.

SOUTH, EAST, NORTH AND WEST

Notes From Foreign Lands, Throughout the Nation and Particularly the Great South.

Southern.

Allen Fleming is suffering from a most unusual accident which happened to him. Passing a corner of a vacant lot, in Athens, Ga., there was a sudden, blinding flash and explosion on the ground at his side and within a few feet from him. He threw out a hand and saved his face and eyes, but the arm was burned to a blister from the hand nearly to the shoulder. It was learned that two hours before school boys had placed a large charge of powder in a paper sack and had set fire to the paper to see the charge flash.

Looking to a reconciliation of differences now pertaining to the handling and shipping of the cotton crop of the near future, interests involved—bankers, cotton exporters, compress owners and rail and water transportation, company representatives—were in executive conference in Birmingham, Ala., with J. P. Doughty of Augusta, Ga., chairman of the general conference of cotton exporting interests, presiding.

The words, "guaranteed under the food and drugs act," on a label are no assurance that contents of a package are pure, according to Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, chief of the bureau of chemistry, who spoke before the Association of American Food Dairy and Drug Officials. Doctor Alsberg was speaking of the limitations of the federal bureau at Mobile, Ala., under the federal pure food law, appealing for closer co-operation between federal and state authorities, and for uniformity of laws of states based on the national laws.

When bystanders, their attention attracted by a stream of blood flowing from the conveyance, halted a patrol wagon in Dallas, Texas, it was found that the prisoner, a man believed to be M. Peyton of Muskogee, Okla., had slashed his throat with a razor. He died before reaching a hospital. The man had been arrested in response to a telegram from the prosecuting attorney at Muskogee, who alleged that he was wanted in that city charged with the embezzlement of $1,000.

Donald Roscoe, 10 years old, and Hubert Moore, 9 years old, both of Niagara Falls, went to their death in a small boat in the whirlpool rapids, while hundreds of men watched, helpless, from the shore at Niagara Falls. The boys were playing in a flat bottom scow half a mile above the rapids when the rope holding the boat broke and they were carried out into the stream and down the river.

When Mrs. Dave Grant, residing fourteen miles southwest of Beach, N. D., went to call two sons, aged 5 and 7, she found them dead in bed, with a rattlesnake lying between them. It is believed that the reptile crawled into the bed clothes during the day while they were being aired out of doors. During the previous evening, just after the youths had retired, each had complained that the other was pinching him.

Advices from Barcelona say the renewal of fighting in Morocco, which resulted in violent rioting at Barcelona in 1909 is again arousing the Socialistic and Anarchistic elements, and the situation is beginning to be disquieting. A stormy anti-war meeting at Barcelona was followed by a collision between police and the agitators. Firearms were used on both sides, and several persons were shot. Again there were several violent clashes, the police on two occasions firing at the mob.

The grand American gun tournament at Dayton, Ohio, was won by M. S. Hootman of Hicksville, Ohio.

The Australian federal premier, Rt. Hon. Andrew Fisher, and the cabinet have resigned as a result of the recent elections, in which the Liberals obtained a majority of one over the Labor party in the house.

It was semi-officially announced that former President Taft would preside over the great gathering of Confederate and Union veterans at the Gettysburg celebration. He is expected to deliver the principal oration on July 4. It was planned to have President Wilson preside, but it was announced a few days ago that he probably would not attend.

Bartow Cantrell, in jail at Gainesville, Ga., has confessed to the murder of Arthur Hawkins, near Bellton, Hall county. He claimed that his brother, James Cantrell, offered him $6 and a half interest in his still to slay Hawkins

The money stringency is having its effect upon the stores of butter and eggs. Holdings of eggs in New York City now are short 350,000 cases, of 30 dozen to the case, of what they were a year ago.

Of the 700 members of the San Francisco Dish Washers' Union, 100 are college graduates.

Mrs. Irene Brunner, 25 years old, was arrested as the latest auto bandit, charged with holding up a woman's furnishing store. According to Miss Elizabeth Foley, owner of the store in Chicago, the woman bought a handkerchief and while she was being waited on, drew a revolver from a handbag, held up the owner and two women clerks and made away with $100. Mrs. Brunners is the wife of Joseph J. Brunner, owner of an automobile garage.

The hills of Gettysburg, Pa., where the armies of Meade and Lee pitched their tents fifty years ago, are flecked with canvas, harbingers of the tented city which will arise on the battlefield. The army of Civil war veterans from the North and South—40,000 in number—are coming, some few in threadworn uniforms and all without their muskets, to hold a jubilee reunion on the fiftieth anniversary of the battle. Some of the scouts are here; the advance guard will bivouac on the field; the rank and file will follow them.

Fifty persons were injured, some of them seriously, when a Pennsylvania railroad excursion train was derailed near Sterling station. The train was filled with excursionists bound for Olean, Rock City and Bradford, Pa. While the train was running at about forty miles an hour, three of the five coaches left the track, rolling down an embankment. As it rounded a curve, the smoking car left the track, followed by all but two rear coaches. The locomotive also remained on the track, breaking away from the train after dragging the coaches about 200 feet.

The tragic story of how Ensign William D. Billingsley was hurled from a disabled biplane, 1,600 feet in the air, and fell, straight as a plummet, to his death in the depths of Chesapeake bay, was related by Lieut. John A. Towers of Rome, Ga., chief of the navy aviators, who clung to the hurling wreck that followed his comrade's course from sky to water, and escaped death, almost miraculously.

Fourteen American soldiers were killed in the recent four days' fighting on Jolo Island, the Philippines, when General Pershing's command finally subdued and disarmed the rebellious Moros, according to a report to the war department. On the list of dead were Capt. Taylor A. Nichols of the Philppine scouts, eleven scouts and two privates of the regular army.

An unexpected sequel to the recent burglary in the Berkeley hotel in Piccadilly is the arrest of the night porter, Arthur James, charged with being concerned in stealing from the hotel safe $35,000 and attempting to murder Gowers, the other night porter, in London, England. Movements of a big rat in the hotel dining room led to James' arrest. Employees of the hotel in hunting down the rat found its hole under the radiator and through it saw a gleam of gold.

For the first time in many years British cabinet ministers were compelled to defend their personal honesty before parliament. The attorney general, Sir Rufus Isaacs, and the chancellor of the exchequer, David Lloyd-George, excused their dealings in American Marconi shares on the floor of the house and the scene in the Marconi affair, which their enemies had attempted to magnify into a scandal rivaling the Panama debacle, was tense and dramatic.

An infernal machine sent by mail, when opened at Sherbrooke, Quebec, killed one woman and mortally wounded another. The woman killed was Mrs. Theodore Bilodeau. Miss Bilodeau, her sister-in-law, was hurt. The force of the explosion hurled the latter across the room and severed one arm. The house was wrecked. The package arrived about noon, and the two women were bending over it, untying the strings when it exploded. The police have no clew to the sender.

An epidemic of bubonic plague has broken out at the seaport of Jacmel, thirty miles from Port-au-Prince,

Washington

President Wilson secured from a majority of the Democratic members of the house banking and currency committee expressions of harmony and acquiescence in the administration program of enacting a currency bill during the present session of congress.

Vigorous opposition from the new department of labor to the proposed arbitration and mediation act, prepared by the railroads and railroad brotherhoods for enactment by congress, was voiced when the measure was presented to a joint session of the house and senate interstate commerce committees. Secretary Wilson criticised the new measure as going beyond the necessities of the hour.

An additional exemption of $500 for each child of a family in the income tax section of the tariff revision bill was determined upon by the senate finance subcommittee, of which Senator Williams is chairman, and the change will be recommended to the majority members of the committee. Having determined upon this important amendment, the subcommittee also is seriously considering recommending changing the $4,000 exemption in the Underwood bill to $3,000.

Without varying a dot from the principles laid down in the Minnesota rate cases, the Supreme court of the United States upheld state railroad rate legislation in Missouri, Arkansas, Oregon and West Virginia. This legislation included 2-cent passenger laws in Missouri, Arkansas and West Virginia; maximum freight rate laws in Missouri and Arkansas; and freight rates out of Portland in the Oregon cases. The only exception to the sweeping approval of state statutes was in the case of several weaker roads in Missouri. The Kentucky case was not decided.

I. C. TRAIN HELD UP NEAR GLENARM, ILL.

SHERIFF CAME UPON SCENE AT PSYCHOLOGICAL MOMENT.

SEARCH IS BEING INSTITUTED

As Posse Arrived Robbers Cut Engine Loose and Drive Down Track Several Miles—Escape With Perhaps $25,000.

Springfield, Ill.—The midnight Diamond Special on the Illinois Central railroad, due through here at midnight, was held up by two masked robbers, near Glenarm, ten miles south of here, on Tuesday night. Deputy sheriffs, city police and newspaper representatives, summoned by telephone from Springfield, came upon the bandits while they were dynamiting the express car. The passengers on the train were lined up beside it and their guns taken from them.

Sheriff Mester of Sangamon county and Policeman Adams fought a duel with one of the robbers.

When the fusillade became too heavy for the bandits they boarded the engine, commanding Engineer Shell to follow them. They left the fireman behind the express car with the messengers and curious passengers, who had left the them a mile away and followed down the track to where the robbers stopped the express car, after cutting it loose from the remainder of the train.

When the robbers jumped aboard the engine to escape Sheriff Mester and the posse, they ordered Engineer Shell to "pull out fast." Probably a few miles further on the holdup men stopped the engine again and made further efforts to blow the safe in the express car.

Again the robbers jumped upon the engine and gave another order to pull out. This time they did not stop until nearing the city limits of Springfield. The robbers jumped off the engine, ordering the engineer to go on and disappeared.

CARNEGIE IS DENOUNCED

Bishop Candler Says Million Dollar Vanderbilt Gift a Sinister Move.

Atlanta, Ga.—Charges that the recently announced gift by Andrew Carnegie to the Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn., "is not a donation, but a shrewd attempt to get control of part of the university property," and that the retired ironmaster is "dangling money before the public with the purpose of inducing litigation pending over the university," are made in a statement given out here by Bishop W. A. Candler of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Bishop Candler characterizes Mr. Carnegie's offer of a donation to the university as an "important proposal of an agnostic steel monger."

"This loud heralded gift,' Bishop Candler's statement recites, "on close inspection of its terms, appears to be no gift at all, but a shrewd atempt to get control of a part of the property of Vanderbilt University in order to set up a medical school fashioned according to the peculiar ideas of Mr. Carnegie.

"Vanderbilt University belongs to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The church's ownership having been denied, suit was brought some time ago to settle the question, and the chancery court decided every point in the church's favor. From that decision appeal was taken and is now pending in the supreme court of Tennessee.

"To this Mr. Carnegie makes allusion in his letter, putting his offer in such relation to this suit as to make it tantamount to dangling money before the public with the purpose of influencing this case."

GIRL'S KIDNAPERS GUILTY

Salem, Ill.—Frank Sullens and Ernest Harrison were found guilty here Friday of kidnaping Dorothy Holt last March. The jury fixed the penalty of each at 25 years in the penitentiary. The state had asked the death penalty.

Important evidence in the case was a confession by Sullens that he had kidnaped the girl and taken her to an abandoned mine, where he was to turn her over to Harrison. For this, he said, Harrison was to give him $5.

Henwood Gets Death Penalty.

Denver.—The jury in the second trial of Harold F. Henwood for the killing of George E. Copeland returned a verdict of first degree murder late Wednesday afternoon and prescribed the death penalty. Henwood shot Copeland, Sylvester von Phul, an aviator of St. Louis, and James W. Atkinson in the barroom of a local hotel on the night of May 24, 1911. Copeland and Atkinson were bystanders and were hit by stray bullets. Copeland and Von Phul died.

IN NO HASTE OVER CURRENCY BILL

PRESIDENT IS SATISFIED WITH FIRST CONFERENCE.

OPPOSITION IS SPRINGING UP

President Announces He Will Confer With Republicans and Get Their Views—Bill Expected to Be Subject of Liberal Amendment.

Washington.—President Wilson Friday secured from a majority of the Democratic members of the house banking and currency committee expressions of harmony and acquiescence in the administration programme of enacting a currency bill during the present session of congress.

At a two-hour conference held around the cabinet table in the White House offices, the congressmen were asked their views on the administration currency bill. Some of them had not yet thoroughly examined the measure, but those who expressed opinions were favorably inclined toward it. When the 14 committeemen filed out of the office and a group of correspondents met them, Representative Glass smilingly referred them to the president. Just then Mr. Wilson himself walked to the door of the office and talked with the newspaper men.

The president explained that the meeting was chiefly a get-together affair, that naturally some of the details in the bill had brought out considerable discussion, but that so far as he had observed there was a friendly feeling toward the fundamentals of the administration measure.

Mr. Wilson said, moreover, that the members of the committee seemed all to desire action at the present session, but that they had asked him not to hurry consideration of the bill, so that it might be deliberated upon carefully. The president remarked that he had had no intention of taking hasty action and hoped that by common counsel and conferences a measure satisfactory to the party would be obtained.

The publication of the bill by Chairman Glass was with President Wilson's full approval and to give members the opportunity to know the details of the plan of monetary reforms. The president talked at length with members of the house committee. He is to confer with members of the senate committee, and later he will talk over the bill with Republican senators who have been closely identified with previous efforts at currency reform.

SEVEN KILLED IN WRECK.

Freight Train on C., M. & St. P. Crashes Into Gravel Train.

Clinton, Iowa.—Seven men were killed and another probably was fatally injured in the wreck of a freight train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad near here Sunday. The freight train, speeding down a four-mile hill, crashed into a gravel train. Both engines were wrecked and 28 cars were piled on the demolished gravel train.

Regrets That Inscription Was Written Upon American Embasy.

Tokio.—A further apology was offered Friday to Arthur Bailey-Blanchard, United States charge d'affaires, by Keishiro Matsui, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, for the action of the persons who on June 18 wrote on the embassy an inscription calling Americans the enemies of liberty and justice.

AUTO KILLER TO PRISON.

Jersey May Who Ran Down Boy Must Serve Five Years.

Trenton, N. J.—The supreme court affirmed the conviction of Daniel A. Dugan, Jr., of manslaughter. While driving his automobile on Christmas day, 1911, Dugan ran down and killed Leo McDermott, a boy. Dugan's sentence of imprisonment at hard labor for not more than ten nor less than five years stands unless there is an appeal to the court of errors and appeals.

15 RESERVE BANKS WILL BE PROVIDED

PROVISIONS OF ADMINISTRATION CURRENCY BILL MADE KNOWN.

CONTROL BOARD POWERRUL

$500,000,000 New Notes—This Will Be Loaned to Reserve Banks Whenever Deemed Necessary.

Washington.—The draft of the new currency bill to be known as the "federal reserve act," which was completed at a conference at the White House between President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo and Chairmen Owen and Glass of the senate banking committee and the house banking committee, respectively, was given out Wednesday.

All previous publications concerning the contents of the revised currency bill were based upon tentative drafts which were discarded weeks ago, and the actual contents of the bill were learned for the first time.

The revised currency bill provides for the establishment of 15 reserve districts, the association of national banks in these districts to be known as the federal reerve bank. The minimum capital stock of any reserve bank cannot be less than $5,000,000.

The central control of the reserve banks will be vested in a board of directors, consisting of three cabinet officers, three men elected by the reserve banks and three men appointed by the president.

This central control extends even to the requiring of one reserve association to lend money to another.

National bank depositories are to be superceded by the reserve banks.

The headquarters of the federal reserve board will be located in Washington.

The introduction to the bill reads:

"A bill to provide for the establishment of federal reserve banks for furnishing elastic currency, affording a means of rediscounting commercial paper and to establish a more effective supervision of banking in the United States and for other purposes."

DISCUSS SHIPPING PROBLEMS

Cotton Man Would Settle Differences Existing Among Interests.

Birmingham.—Looking to a reconciliation of differences now existing pertaining to the handling and shipping of the cotton crop of the near future, interests involved, bankers, cotton exporters, compress owners and rail and water transportation company representatives were in executive conference in Birmingham Wednesday with J. P. Doughty of Augusta, Ga., chairman of the general conference of cotton exporting interests, presiding.

The uniformity of the baling of cotton, the size, marking of same, financing on through billing, and the stringent rates of steamship companies are questions under consideration. The marking of cotton bales will play an important part in the handling of the crop, it being contended that these markings must say whether the cotton was baled wet or dry, loose or compactly, and other information must be stated.

CARUSO IS IN BAD AGAIN

Supreme Court Holds Girl Can Recover for Wounded Feelings.

Rome.—The marital troubles of Enrique Caruso, the famous tenor, seem anything but over, for according to a decision the Milan court of appeals has just handed down, he will not be allowed to spend the summer in peace at his beautiful villa near Florence. The decision reverses the verdict of the lower court, which last year denied Eliza Ganelli damages in a breach of promise suit against the tenor.

30 FEDERALS EXECUTED.

Villa's Insurgents Slay Captives, Declare Americans.

El Paso, Tex.—Thirty federal soldiers were executed by the insurgents under Gen. Francisco Villa, according to American refugees arriving here Wednesday by hand car from the interior of Chihuahua State. They related that this was done as revenge of a ruse of the federals, which proved unsucessful when Villa's men attacked two troop trains at Bustillos, Chihuahua.

COTTON HAD VERY FAVORABLE WEEK

HIGH TEMPERATURES PREVAILED, DRY IN EAST, SHOWERS WEST.

PLANT OVERCAME SETBACK

Farmers in Mississippi and Louisiana Fighting the Pest and Believe They Now Have it Whipped.

Memphis.—The weather of the past week was very favorable for the growth of the cotton plant all over the entire belt. Temperatures were high, with good showers in the west and clear skies in the remainder of belt, just the kind of weather needed.

The excellent cultivation that has been a pronounced characteristic of the crop all season was maintained throughout the week, and soil is perhaps better worked than ever before at this season. The rains and the fact that farmers were in the wheat harvest allowed some grass to gain headway in portions of Texas, but the situation is one that a faw days' work will soon cure. The other western states, the central valley, Alabama and nearly all of Georgia, are nearly 100 per cent clean, with soil in excellent tilth. In the Carolinas and a small portion of Georgia a few days more of warm, open weather are needed to further cultivation and the growth of the plant.

Arkansas and the central valley are beginning to need rain, but no material damage will result should dry weather continue for another week.

The one complaint reported was of boll weevil in Mississippi and Louisiana and isolated sections of the Texas and Arkansas. There is a big crop of the pest in Mississippi and Louisiana, but farmers are fighting them under the direction of government experts and are confident that in most localities they have them whipped.

SHADOWED BY DETECTIVES

Senator Martine Will Make Report of Matter to Senate.

Washington.—Senator Martine of New Jersey intends to report to the senate that he was constantly shadowed by Baldwin detectives during his stay in West Virginia in connection with the investigation among the coal mines.

Senator Martine said that he does not expect the senate to take any action against the Baldwin guards because of their shadowing him, but he said that the public ought to know about the methods of this detective group which has been employed by the West Virginia coal operators in connection with the strikes of recent months.

"LUNCHEON LURCH" LATEST

Every Step Brings Dancers Little Closer to Food.

Washington.—"The luncheon lurch" is quite the newest dance in Washington. Leaders of society have caught on to the new steps, which, to be properly danced, should be indulged in just before luncheon.

Probably the lurch part would fit better after luncheon. It is a variation of the tango and the turkey trot, and the craze has hit Washington so hard that it is frequently danced in the hotel corridors. The idea is that every step should bring one nearer the luncheon table, and thus answers two purposes—the desire to dance and locomotion towards food.

WAGE WAR ON PROFANITY

Ministers of Kansas City Would Prevent It On Cars.

Kansas City, Mo.—A vigorous campaign against profanity on street cars will be started by the Kansas City Ministers' Alliance. Officials of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company and the police department have promised to do all in their power to assist in the work.

"We hear profane expressions in street cars(in parks and in every public place," one minister said, "and innocent women and children are forced to listen to vile language. It is partly carelessness, of course, and partly a habit."

Besides sermons on the subject, the aid of thousands of laymen will be sought to put down the practice.

RATTLESNAKE IN BED.

Mother Finds It Lying Between Two Dead Children.

Beach, N. D.—When Mrs. Dave Gran residing 14 miles southwest of Beach, went to call her two sons, aged 5 and 7, she found them dead in bed, with a rattlesnake lying between them. It is believed that the reptile crawled into the bed clothes during the day while they were being aired out of doors. During the previous evening, just after the youths had retired, each had complained that the other was pinching him.

STRIKE IS LIKELY.

8,000 Garment Workers at Cincinnati May Go Out.

Cincinnati.—Unless unforeseen concessions are made by either side, 8,000 garment workers of this city will begin a strike for a 48-hour week for the same wages now being paid for a 54-hour week. The Manufacturers' Association has offered to compromise with a 50-hour week for union workers and 52 hours for non-union labor. The local organizers of the union claim that this compromise will be accepted.

ORIGIN OF CO-OPERATIVE IDEA

Surplus Steam and Hot Water Necessary to Running Laundry Used in Operating Creamery.

Co-operation among farmers, especially along practical lines, is more of a western than an eastern idea. Iowa is not only a pioneer but a leader in co-operative undertakings. Perhaps the more rapid growth of progressive ideas in the west is due to the type of people who go there. It is also due in no small degree to the fact that a change to new conditions and new habits always results in the dropping off of some bad habits at the same time. The folks who have always lived in the same county, the same town or the same house cannot realize unless they are compelled to change, how "sot" they have become in their habits both of thinking and doing. I am a firm believer in the advantage of learning how to live under new conditions, for notihng is such a hindrance to that progress which means real gain as the people who meet all new ideas with, "We have done this way for twenty-five years and it is good enough for us," says a writer in the National Stockman and Farmer. To be consistent they should use the the sickle and the single plow and above all things refuse to use the telephone.

As many readers know, the co-operative creamery has long proven its success in many communities, but it has remained for a western man to evolve a laundry, a co-operative laundry that cost its 200 patrons something like ten dollars apiece to install, and which uses the surplus steam and hot water necessary to the running of a creamery. That such an arrangement would be a boon to every rural community every woman knows. Often the housework could be carried reasonably well if it were not for the washing. Even though only the heavier pieces were sent to the laundry and all work needing careful handling kept at home it would still be a great help.

Ground Feeds Best.

Poultry will fatten faster on ground and cooked feeds. Ground corn and oats soaked in milk for twelve hours makes an excellent ration. Other things, such as unused, cooked vegetables, may be given, but they are not necessary. Good grit should be given once or twice a week.

Any grains raised on the farm may be used, so long as the corn makes up at least half of the ration; but they should be ground to get the quickest results. As a rule, it doesn't pay to feed matured poultry longer than three weeks to fatten.

Tobacco for Stomach Worms.

For worms or other parasites living free in the stomach or intestines, apparently careful experimental work has shown good results by the use of low-grade tobacco leaves, sometimes called "tobacco trash," writes Dr. Reynolds. This should be chopped up fine; mixed with an equal amount of salt and kept constantly before the sheep.

HISTORY OF FARMERS' UNION

Originated at Point, Tex., in 1902—Order Spread Rapidly, Reaching Illinois in 1907.

The many inquiries coming to this office as to the history and purposes of this Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, leads one to believe that a few words in this respect might not be amiss. It originated at Point, Tex., in 1902, by one Newton Gresham, who, noticing the poverty-stricken, mortgage ridden, credit bondagism of his neighbors, gathered a few of them together one night in a schoolhouse and resolved to make another effort for freedom of economic conditions. As may be surmised, their initial purposes were "To control the marketing of their products; to abolish the credit and mortgage system; to teach diversification of crops; and for better homes through 'Equity, Justice and the Golden Rule.'" The order spread rapidly and reached southern Illinois in 1907, and we now have just reached the 500 mark in lodges.

The cheapness with which the fees and dues were originally established, has been a great drawback to us; as they do not give us sufficient funds to push the work aggressively. However, a "Hallelujah time" in any social or spiritual work is rarely as permanent as the silent growth of intelligent conviction, and so we are making a steady and gratifying gain. In coming into the work your correspondent early realized the fact that to have any power over the marketing and the price of a product presupposes a quantity of that product sufficient to attract quotations. As we say in circular letter No. 8, just sent out from this office, "An occasional bunch of lettuce, head of cabbage, bushel of potatoes, lone hog, will never do it." Only by community of interest have the strawberry growers of Judsonia, Ark., the truckers of Texas, potato men of Maryland, Hood river apple people of Oregon, Holstein breeders of Lake Mills, Wis., cotton planters of the south, wheat raisers of the northwest, creamery patrons of Iowa and Wisconsin succeeded by carload lots in having any say-so in the selling end of their farming. And so this writer is putting in all his power in urging these scattered, diversified efforts into a community of interests, into a specialization on something for the money crop, largely he hopes, too, along the lines of livestock farming; poultry for the small holdings; sheep for the rougher lands; feeder cattle for the hillsides; dairying where help is plentiful; mules for the men of larger means.

While working for this remoter effort, we have felt that for immediate gains the buying side through the co-operative store is the best plan; and we have been putting forth all our energy toward the establishment of these, and so far with gratifying results. Possibly the stor yof these may occupy a future article. Recently a copy of the Tice-Landee road bill has been sent to every lodge requesting its thorough discussion, and opinions mailed to our representatives at Springfield.

SOILS FOR SWEET POTATOES

Medium Fertile, Sandy Loam Containing Moderate Amount of Organic Matter Is Most Suitable.

The sweet potato is a rather particular crop and demands certain soil conditions in order to have a fair chance of success. The soil need not necessarily be very fertile; in fact, says an Indiana man in Farmers' Review, a medium fertile, sandy loam which contains a moderate amount of organic matter is most suitable for sweet potatoes. They are often grown in almost pure sand. Heavy retentive soil will seldom grow good potatoes, either in quantity or quality.

As to fertilizer, when any is needed, well rotted stable manure is perhaps the best. This should, preferably, be put under the hills rather than applied broadcast. There is a good reason for this in the fact that sweet potatoe vines have a tendency to strike root along the joints of the vine, and this tendency is greater when the soil is very rich, also during wet weather.

The ground requires thorough fitting before the plants are set. By most growers it is laid off in ridges from four to ten inches high and about three feet apart from center to center. High ridges are most common on land that lacks good drainage. Of late years it has been a question with many growers of sweet potatoes whether ridges are really essential when well-drained ground is plowed fairly deep and fitted thoroughly for the crop. Nearly every season we try an experiment in the way of setting rows of sweet potatoes side by side, one row ridged and the other not ridged, and the results have always been that the unridged row produced just as many and just as good quality potatoes as the ridged row. When this is the case, the extra work of making the ridges is wasted.

The cultivation of sweet potatoes ought to be thorough and frequent, but shallow. When the vines begin to run they will have to be turned over and removed out of the way of the cultivator. Hoeings are generally necessary, especially in wet seasons, in order to keep the rows free from weeds and the soil loose around the plants. When the vines begin to interfere seriously with further cultivation the crop may be laid by.

WHAT TO PLANT AND WHEN

Advice by an Expert on Agricultural Matters—Vines and Climbers—When to Plant Shrubs—Raspberries.

By PROF. JOHN WILLARD BOLTE.

The function of vines and climbing plants in landscape art is to screen and soften mechanical features, to hide unsightly objects, to blend together into a harmonious whole, various discordant elements.

Varieties are a matter of taste, and if you will leave to your wife the question of proper location for vines, you will not go far wrong, from an artistic standpoint. The truth is that good vines are almost always in harmony, no matter where they are placed. Use them freely where you have a bare place.

Many an untidy fence can be made into a bower of delight by properly placed vines. The honeysuckles, woodbine from the deep woods, Kudzu vine, wild grape, clematis paniculata, and many others, can be secured at a trifling expense, grow quickly, and are hardy.

In the more southern states, Smith's hybrid moon-vine is particularly delightful.

The jewel of porch climbers is the Jackmanii type of clematis. White, lavander and pink, the blossoms come in reckless profusion, and if you are careful to get strong pot-grown plants, plant them in a rich, deep earth, without disturbing the roots, and do your transplanting about June 1, you will almost certainly succeed.

Be sure to plant in a sunny spot, where water from the eaves will not compact the earth. Water well until the plant gets a good start.

A fast growing, pleasant vine for the new porch is the Japanese Ivy. A few plants put in the soil alongside the porch in the sun will rapidly spread by way of the roots, and will form a thick, fragrant curtain of light green, clear to the top of the porch by the middle of summer. This plant increases so rapidly that one must be careful to prevent its crowding out other less aggressive neighbors.

Scarlet runner beans are a great favorite in northern climes for yearly planting, as are the wild cucumbers with their tracery leaves and tendrils and their cool prickly fruit pods.

Of course where climbing roses can be successfully grown, there is absolutely nothing to compare with them in their gorgeous magnificence. They call for the same soil conditions and care as bush roses, but they are less hardy as a rule in the inland and northern states.

In the eastern states and anywhere that cool, moist summer and even winter temperature prevails, the English Ivy grows in profusion. Nothing can be more satisfactory, particularly in connection with stone or brick structures of massive appearance. It seems to live forever in hospitable environments, and it will frequently cover an entire house, even to the chimney top. It is well to prevent it from covering wooden surfaces, however, as its thick foliage holds moisture and hastens the decay of the wood, the rusting of nails, etc.

Many ways of supporting vines are used, from strings to graceful wooden trellises. Chicken wire may be used to advantage, and will last a number of years.

Planting Shrubs.

Spring is the favorite season for shrub planting. Not that most shrubs cannot be transplanted at almost any season of the year, but we all feel more interested in outdoor things when the robins first come back.

Shrubbery about the house is a constant joy to all who behold it. Breaking up harsh lines and joining together the more antagonistic features, it gives a finish and an air of permanency to any place.

In choosing varieties for special uses, particular attention should be given to the form, color and character of blossoms, and foliage, together with blooming period and general appearance of the shrub. Tall, straggling shrubs, like some of the lilacs and azaleas, give better effects when placed at a distance, and either massed or planted against buildings, fences, etc. More symmetrical shrubs and the smaller varieties can be planted singly or grouped in beds in the foreground.

For planting about porches, nothing is more handsome or more graceful than bridal wreath. It can well be supplanted with several other shrubs which bloom at different times, however.

The hardy snowball is more satisfactory planted alone in an expanse of green lawn. This is also the case with any of the larger symmetrical shrubs.

For hedges, probably nothing will give better results than California Privet or Arbor Vitae. Barberry, Japanese Quinces, Sweet Briar and many others are frequently used for lower and less compact hedges, road borders, etc.

Where it is desired to conceal buildings, nothing is better than lilacs, sumach, and some of the dwarf evergreens.

In preparing to plant shrubs, dig the holes or trenches a foot deeper than necessary, and fill in that foot with rich earth over six inches of stable manure, leaving the earth rather loose.

Trim off all broken, rotten, or diseased roots, spread the roots well and set the plant in the hole so that it will be an inch or two deeper than it was before. Fill the hole half-way with fine rich earth, mix in a quarter of a pound of some complete fertilizer, soak the earth with water and then fill up the rest of the hole. Tramp the earth down firmly and heap it up to take care of settling later on.

The branches should be trimmed in proportion to the root trimming, or the plant will die through lack of food. Keep unplanted shrubs moist and cool. If necessary to delay planting, lay them slantingly in a trench, cover the roots with moist earth and keep them watered.

Raising Raspberries.

There is no fruit more desirable or more easily grown than the red or black raspberries. The plants cost little and one can get them for nothing by making cuttings from wild bushes.

They are much more easily grown than strawberries, and are much less trouble. The strawberry bed must be hoed, trimmed and weeded regularly or it will be completely covered up, but the raspberry will produce luxuriantly under adverse conditions and even downright neglect.

Two thirty-foot rows, one of a good red and one a black variety, will furnish abundant fruit for the average family and the entire cost of having all the raspberries you want for a month's time every year need not exceed the cost of a little fertilizer and a little Bordeaux mixture.

A raspberry patch will bear some fruit the second year and it will carry a heavy crop thereafter, for as much as ten years.

They will grow well in any well-drained, fertile soil and the black varieties require a little richer soil than the reds. Neither will do as well as the blackberry on sandy or poor soils.

Buy your plants from a nursery man and put them into a well prepared seed bed in the spring. Plant in rows, having the plants about two and one-half feet apart. Set the plants a little deeper than they were at the nursery, firm the soil well and water occasionally for a week or two.

The ground should have a liberal covering of stable manure before turning over, and it will be well to work into the soil around each plant about one-fourth of a pound of a mixture of bone meal, three parts and muriate of potash one part. Fertilize in this proportion each year, keep the ground cultivated and you should have heavy crops of large, juicy berries every year.

Beds located in exposed positions in very cold climates will need to have the canes laid down and covered with earth and straw during the winter.

When the bushes are properly pruned and fertilized, it will not be necessary to support them, but there are many advantages in tying the canes up to wire supports.

Be careful in the pruning. After the first year cut all of the old canes out as soon as they have fruited. At the same time cut out surplus and feeble canes. In the early spring cut out all canes which have been winter killed and trim all remaining stalks about a third.

Rust and anthracnose are the most common diseases. Spray with Bordeaux for the first one and cut out and burn the diseased canes if rust appears. Slugs or worms can be killed by spraying with hellebore or arsenate of lead.

Raspberries frequently produce 2,500 quarts of fruit per acre in a single year.

Planting Apples.

I would plant Baldwins the same as other standard kinds, 40 by 40 feet, and between them I would set Duchess and Wealthy, which bear early and can be removed when they begin to be crowded, says a writer in an exchange. For an orchard to receive good average care, I would prefer the standard varieties, including Baldwins, Greenings, Spies, Stark, Hubbardston.

Cause of Bumble Foot.

While bumble foot is generally caused by fowls jumping from some high point to the ground and striking a stone or some other obstacle, it can also come from a fowl treading heavily on such an object.

Improvement of Horse.

The improvement of the quality of the grade horse in the country has been made by farmers who are willing to pay a reasonable price for the services of a high class stallion.

Yard for Colts.

During the first winter provide some sort of sheltered yard for the colts so that they may run about and exercise for a few hours every day when the weather is not too stormy.

Planting a Tree.

Planting a tree does not consist simply in digging a hole and placing the tree in it and filling up the hole. Many trees are planted that way, though.

Cinders for Hens.

Hens will eat a great quantity of coal cinders and they are very good for them. Try putting a load in the chicken yard and watch the result.

Horse Raising.

The farmer who goes into the business of rearing draft horses should stick by the business through thick and thin, through good times and bad.

The FLAG

Your flag and my flag! We view it with tear-dimmed eyes;
Your land and my land, the fairest beneath the skies!
What does it matter if ages ago
Your forefather looked upon mine as a foe?
'Tis your flag and my flag, wherever it proudly flies.

Your flag and my flag, and brotherhood's sacred ties;
Your land and my land—one purpose within us lies.
We are brothers in deed, we are brothers in name,
And as brothers one glorious banner we claim:
'Tis your flag and my flag, wherever it proudly flies.

Your flag and my flag, wherever a foe may rise;
Your love and my love—together its stars we prize;
We are brothers in blood and in sinew and bone,
And our dearest affection shall ever be shown
For your flag and my flag, wherever it proudly flies.

IN GOOD OLD DAYS

Noisemaking Devices Weren't Used a Century Ago.

How the Fourth of July, 1812, Was Celebrated, According to the Newspapers of the Period.

ONE of the most interesting features in connection with the safe and sane method of celebrating the Fourth of July now becoming so popular is the fact that it denotes a return to the good old days of our ancestors when the anniversary of Independence was honored with apparently little noise, but with a great deal of parading, considerable oratory, the reading of the Declaration of Independence, closing with numerous dinners and the drinking of as many toasts as there were states in the Union.

Fire crackers, cap pistols and other ear-splitting devices which have caused so many of the injuries following in the wake of the national holiday, were unknown a century ago. There was sufficient incentive then to make the biggest kind of a racket. The country was engaged in a second war with England, and the younger generation, with the example of the Revolutionary veterans before them, might have been excused had they given vent to noisy demonstrations.

According to the newspapers of the time, however, the celebration of July 4, 1812, was conducted in a very orderly way. The phrase "safe and sane" was not used in describing the events of the day. Their substitutes a century ago were "genteel" or "respectable." One of the early celebrations at Princeton was thus described:

The flag belonging to the town was displayed opposite the front of the college. At 11 o'clock a genteel company of ladies and gentlemen assembled in the college hall, where they were agreeably entertained by two excellent orations suitable to the occasion.

How safe the Fourth was in New York 100 years ago may be judged from one of the newspaper accounts, which says:

We are happy to state that no evil accident happened, and that the greatest order and tranquillity were maintained through the day and evening.

The Fourth of July, 1812, was opened with the raising of the Stars and Stripes over all the public buildings and on the shipping in the harbor. At ten o'clock the militia with the members of the Tammany society, the Tailors, Hibernian, Provident, Columbian and Manhattan societies with the cordwainers, shipwrights and other trades, met in the park in front of the city hall, which had lately been finished. There they drew up in order of parade, and after a national salute had been fired by the veterans of the Revolution, they marched down Broadway to Beaver street to Broad, up Pearl to Beekman, where, at the corner of Gold street, the assemblage entered St. George's church. The services consisted of a prayer, reading of the Declaration of Independence, never omitted in the old-time celebrations, and an oration by Samuel B. Romaine, one of the Tammany Sachems.

Earlier in the day the military organizations of the city were reviewed on the Battery park by Generals Stevens, Bloomfield and Morton, and they marched up Broadway to Chambers street, down Chambers to Greenwich street, and back to the Battery, where, it is stated, "after going through several military maneuvers, they were dismissed."

SYMBOLISM IN OUR FLAG

Union, Liberty, Bravery and Peaceful Possession All Indicated in the National Emblem.

When George Washington, Robert Morris and John Ross prepared and presented to congress a standard for the Continental troops and the new Union of States, every detail in our flag was made symbolic of truth in its breadth and beauty and as the proud herald of those fundamental principles our national banner has been displayed for 132 years.

In the first place, it is the banner of the union, the union of states into a solid national compact; the union of effort to free these states and defend them; the union of hearts loyal and true; and this idea of national union emblazoned on our banner is expressed in the field of blue on which shine the stars of the several states. To destroy this union would be to reverse the progress of our history and make void the struggle and sacrifice of our fathers.

In the second place, it is the banner of liberty. These states were united in the cause of freedom. The struggle of their common enemy forced them to unite their efforts in the struggle for common liberty. The recognized liberty as one of the inalienable rights to be bestowed by the creator and in the cause of their liberty and the liberty of their children they have pledged their lives, their liberties and their sacred honor. Yes, it is the flag of the free!

In the third place, it is also the banner of bravery. Never in the history of the world did more heroic men place themselves upon the altar of patriotism because they feared God and recognized the justice of their principles, they were willing to sacrifice life itself. As we look upon the banner today and remember that it was made expressive of brave and patriotic men, it recalls the heroic struggles of the Revolution. The red signifies it is the banner of the brave.

In the last place, it is the banner of peaceful possession. Wherever it floats, our flag is the symbol of sovereign rule. It stands for national ownership—not of any party, large or small, but the ownership of all the people; and as such it is the pledge of peace, and back of the flag stand the people and back of the people is God, whose truth is displayed in its signs and symbols.

REV. S. T. WILLIS.

Remember

Get the glowing punk and the cracker out,
Let the loud torpedo bustly boom;
Flutter the banner and bravely shout,
Give to the screeching old eagle room.
Tell the wondering, listening world once more
Of the glory we claim and our strength and pride;
Let the shout be echoed from shore to shore
And wafted o'er prairie and mountain side;
Let the folds of our glorious flag be tossed
High o'er the heads of unshackled men—
But don't forget that the hand that is lost
Will never grow on your wrist again.

Shout of the glory our ancestors won,
Let the Declaration be proudly read;
Tear a hole through the roof with the rusty gun,
Cause the dogs to hide or to flee in dread.
Let the czars and the kings of the world be told
Of the pride and the strength of a free-born race,
Let the welkin ring as it rang of old,
Make the land we claim an uproarious place!
Shout and shout all the glorious day,
Whoop of the greatness of free-born men—
But remember the nose that is shot away
Will never grow on your face again.

FOUNDED BY RELIGIOUS MEN

Our Nation Owes Its Origin to Those Who Stood in Fear of the Lord.

No student of the philosophy of history will for a moment deny that the discovery and colonization of North America was directed by the guiding hand of Providence, neither will anyone dispute that the Declaration of Independence and the formation of our government were the actions of men who stood in conscious fear of the Lord. Each of the original 13 colonies was established on distinctive and dominant religious principles. Each of them sought to know the will of God, and to do it. In all their discussion of the problems of freedom and in their reasons for independence our fathers made their appeal to God and his truth was written in their hearts. They looked to him as their leader and defender. When liberty came they recognized God as its author-giver, so that the emblem of our freedom was a God-given banner to those who feared him and did all in their power to make his will supreme in the earth.

Have you harvested your summer crop of oats and planted the land in peas?

The first cotton bloom of the season has been brought us. We are left wondering who will be the one to bring us the first home grown watermelon. See?

Monday was a somewhat busier day in Clanton than usual. The meeting of the Commissioners' Court and the sale of delinquent tax lands attracted quite a crowd to town.

Commissioners' Court was in session the first of this week. Judge Deason could not be present at the meeting, on account of the death of his mother, and for that reason no business of importance was disposed of.

We learn that officials of the Western Union Telegraph Company are in Clanton looking after the re-establishment of an office here, which will be put into operation some time soon. This is good news to Clanton as telegraph service has been somewhat unhandy since their office has been out of commission.

Cotton blooms seem to have suddenly become quite numerous. Since we received the first one from Mr. W. A. Martin of Route No. 6, last Saturday, there have been blooms brought to our office by Mr. E. L. Bryant and Mr. Tommy Mims. Mr. Bryant stated that his bloom was taken from a field containing twelve acres, and the cotton all over it would average waist-high. Another bloom was sent in by Mr. M. C. Williams of Billingsley on Wednesday morning. Mr. Billingsley says his bloom opened last Friday. All reports are to the effect that cotton would be much improved by a good rain. Corn seems to be pretty fair this year also, as we have heard no complaint at all.

THE NEW ROAD.

Work on the new improved road from Clanton to Lock 12 on Coosa River is moving along rapidly. The right of way from Clanton to the gap of the mountain has been cleared of all trees stumps and other obstructions, and is ready for the big grading machines which will be put to work on it some time this week.

It was mentioned in the Union and Banner some time ago that from the gap of the mountain to the dam two routes were under consideration; one known as the lower route, which led practically down Cane Creek, and an upper route which pursued a course farther to the northward. Committees were appointed to investigate the two routes and report on them, which being done, it was decided to build the road along the upper route.

At first considerable doubt was attached to the possibility of constructing such a road, but now no one denies its certainty. The people in Clanton, at the dam and all along the route realize the advantages it will afford them, and they are uniting their efforts in pushing its construction to a hasty conclusion.

Miss Winnie Kelley of Sylacauga is spending several days in Clanton as the guest of Miss Bertha Smith.

FARMERS UNION AND THE COUNTY ROADS.

In this issue we are publishing a resolution passed by the recent session of the Chilton County Farmers Union, in which they set apart the last week in August for work on the public roads of the county. This matter should be treated with more than passing notice by the citizens of the county. We have heard of bond propositions for roads, and other ways of working them, but this plan instituted by the Farmers' Union seems to be about the only one that is not mere theory; this is a really possible way in which the roads can be improved and that at once. Of course it is hardly possible that it would produce wide graveled turnpikes, but it is very certain that one week devoted to road work by every able-bodied male citizen of the county using the best teams and tools he could secure, would be a great improvement to our present highways. The last week of August will be a practically idle one for the farmers, and business would be so dull that it would pay the sawmill and lumber man to put his teams on the roads and help prepare them for handling the heavy traffic of the fall and winter. It would be a week's work of the most possibe value to the roads, and the farmers would never miss the time. Let everyone get interested in this move, as it means immediate relief to many of the bad road conditions of the county. The Farmer's Union deserves great credit for instituting movements of such importance to the county and the citizens; they should receive the hearty co-operation of all who are not members, and it would be a good policy for all farmers to join them.

THE QUESTION OF CONVICTS.

"Another thing that is badly needed in this State as well as some of the other states of the Union is reform in the legal procedure We ought to have a system by which after we have convicted a criminal we can keep him convicted. Too many men with money or influence escape punishment for crime on technicalities."

The above is a quotation from a statement made by W. C. Davis of Jasper, in connection with the movement now being agitated in regard to taking convicts from the mines and placing them on the public roads of of the state. We clip it from the Birmingham News of last Friday.

Mr. Davis sounded a note which we consider as important as the question of where the convicts should be worked. There certainly should be a universal demand for "reform in legal procedure," as regards the keeping of a man as a convict as long as the sentence says he shall be a convict. We have never seen the consistency in courts taking up valuable time and great amounts of money in seeing that justice is measured out to the man who has violated the law, and then when he has served only a very small part of his sentence, have him pardoned. The sentence is placed upon him by the decision of twelve of his fellow citizens, and it certainly seems that the state should be willing to take their decision as just and final, and keep the sentence on him as they placed it.

It is true, as Mr. Davis says, that a great number of men with money or influence escape punishment on mere technicalities. Here a reform should be demanded, for everyone knows that Justice has the same regard for the poof as for the rich.

We agree that the question of how and where the convicts should be worked is of vital importance, because in the majority of cases it directly affects the life and health of the convict. Let us give the man in stripes the most humane treatment that is possibly consistent with his unfortunate position. But when the twelve just and honorable men spend days and nights weighing testimony, and conclude that the violation warrants a sentence of life imprisonment, or any length of time as the case may be, we say let the State see to it that both parties and all concerned abide strictly by their decision.

BE WHAT YOU ARE

(By Laura Robinson)

It is a fact, and a sad one too, that a great many people around us are not in reality what they seem to be or pretend to be. The world is crying for honest men; men who are always the same, men who are always conscientious in their dealings, men who are always to be depended upon. How often men who are honest, almost, cry out in despair, "Whom shall I trust?" "Whom may I put confidence in.?"

Young people should appreciate the value of good character, and see to it that they never do a single act which may cause them to lose their good name. "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." A good character will assume a good reputation, but one may posess a good reputation and yet have a bad character. Character is what one is; reputation is what others think one to be.

When you make a mistake don't look back at it long—take the reason of the thing into your mind, and then look forward. Mistakes are lessons of wisdom. The past cannot be changed—the future is yet in your power.

One who is concerned about what he may do today and be tomorrow will do something after today that will surprise himself and give a shock to his friends. Each one of our todays is the greatest moments, because in each we do constructure work upon our character and character determines our standing, worth and power in this world and our destiny in the next.

You are what you are today by reason of what you were yesterday. Something can never come from nothing, but must come from something identical in nature or similar in quality. Personality is a result, an effect, and some human is the responsible cause and causer; no man can break the connection between himself and his yesterdays; every man's tomorrow is in his today and all of his days are inside of him. Time never changes the nature of plant, animal or man; it only intensifies, strengthens what already exists.

We do not realize the importance of the unconscious part of our life ministry: it goes on continually. In every greeting we give to another on the street, in every moments conversation, in every letter we write, in every contact with other lives, there is a subtile influence that goes from us that often reaches further and leaves a deeper impression than the things themselves that we are doing at the time. It is not so much what we do in this world as what we are that tells in spiritual results and impressions.

Our lives are the strongest part of us, or else the weakest. A man knows the least of the influence of his own life. Life is not mere length of time, but the daily web of character we unconsciously mean. Our thoughts imaginations, purposes, motives, love, will, are the under threads; our words, tone of voice, looks acts, habits, are the upper threads; and the passing moments is the shuttle swiftly, ceaselessly, relentlessly, wearing those threads into a web, and that web is life. It is woven not by our wishing or willing, but irresistibly, unavoidable woven by what we are, moment by moment, hour after hour.

We can only pass this way once. Have you ever thought how that note of onceness strikes through everybody's life in this world? In a moment once a babe, once a child; once a youth; once becoming a young man or woman; once in vigor of maturity; once in old age should we live so long; once dying; all these stages we pass through once only—Really, when we come to think of it, our chance in this world is pretty narrow. If twiceness or thriceness were the note of our life here a failure once or twice would not be so great a matter, but that grim fact of onceness makes living a mighty serious matter, doesn't it? So the question—how to make this one life of ours in this world nobly effective is a very particular thing for each one of us, is it not?

Did you ever think that the life of every one of us must be surrendered to something; and that the life must be according to that to which it is surrendered.

If we are going to have the development of mind and character, the strength of will, the muscled faith, the spiritual vigor, the very qualities necessary to a commanding Christian personality, to an impressive religious life, we must wrestle with temptations today bear todays burdens do todays hard tasks and pressing duties with singing hearts the while letting God bless and help us, and contribute no little of the best in us to those who have need of our best.

You can do and be anything provided you don't compromise with honor. Real confidence is certain of itself. It is clear as well as clean—too fine and true a thing to stop.

Ambition flies high and beyond the range of sneer and ridicule.

It isn't the type of the task, but the type of the work that establishes character. If you'er bound for the top, you'll show it all the way from the bottom up. The man who goes through life picking out the flowers and avoiding the thorns in his occupation always doing the easy thing first and delaying or putting off altogether, if possible, the hardest thing, does not develop the strength that would enable him to do hard things when necessity forces them upon him.

If you lack the courage to stand for what you are, you haven't enough endurance to withstand the buffets and blooms and the disappointments that line the long road.

You may not be responsible for your origin, but you are accountable for your actions.

You can't pursue a crooked path without leaving foot prints, and sometime in your life some one is going to trace your course. Go straight and do right and you want have to turn back or be ashamed of what you are.

Mr. R. M. Thomas of Clanton Route 2 was a caller at the Union-Banner office Wednesday. Mr. Thomas is among the number who have reported cotton blooms.

Rev. S. H. Herbert, Principal of Thorsby Institute was in Clanton a short while Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Parrish of Birmingham came down Saturday night to spend Sunday with their parents. Jim says that somehow, life for the past few weeks has been really worth the living. (Permit us to add by way of explanation that Jim was married on May 31.)

FOR SALE—On account of leaving town I wish to sell my cleaning and pressing business, tools, etc. M. F. Peter.
6-19-3t.

Miss Emmette Matthews has returned home after a lengthy visit to friends in Ozark. Miss Matthews finished the course at Judson College this year, graduating with an A. B. degree from that celebrated institution last month.

Hon. D. K. Middleton of Lynn Haven, Fla., son of the late Capt. W. A. Middleton, was last Saturday elected County Judge of Bay County in that State. Mr. Middleton is well known in Clanton, and has many friends here, who wi'l be pleased to hear of the honor that has been conferred on him.

Mr. Courtney Harper has returned from Texas, where he has been with his brother the past year. It seems that while away Courtney "stole a march" on Burton and Hoke. He comes back a great big fellow sporting himself a "swell" pair of long trousers.

The Box Supper which was to have been given last Thursday night by the Methodist L. A. S., at the home of Mrs. E. A. Matthews, has been postponed until Friday evening, June 27th. Everybody is cordially invited to come and have a jolly good time. Don't forget to bring a nice box of lunch that will tempt your best suitor's appetite.

If you have the itch, don't scratch. It does not cure the trouble and makes the skin bleed. Apply BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT. Rub it in gently on the affected parts. it relieves itching instantly and a few applications removes the cause thus performing a permanent cure. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Mr. G. W. Martin of Providence community near Jemison was in town Monday. He made a short call at the Union-Banner office, and talked interestingly of matters regarding his community. His report of crop conditions in his section does not give quite as favorable impression as some we have received; however, he says crops are on a fair average.

A regular morning operation of the bowels puts you in fine shape for the day's work. If you miss it you feel uncomfortable and cannot put vim into your movements. For all bowel irregularities HERBINE is the remedy. It purifies, staengthens and regulates. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Last week we stated that Mrs. J. E. Littlejohn returned from Selma last Wednesday, which was a mistake. She was not sufficiently recovered from the operation she had recently undergone to return with Mr. Littlejohn, as was intended.

Mrs. Littlejohn returned to Clanton Sunday, greatly improved in health. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Sims, who will spend the summer with her.

DEATH OF MR. MORGAN.

Mr. J. M. Morgan, one of Clanton's most prominent citizens, and at one time Sheriff of Chilton county, died at his home here Wednesday night, June 18, about 1 o'clock. Though deeply regretted by his many friends, his death was not a surprise, as he had been seriously ill for several weeks. The funeral services were held at the family residence Thursday afternoon, after which interment took place in the Clanton cemetery.

Mr. Morgan's family are greatly bereaved at the death of such a kind and loving husband and father, and they have the deepest sympathy of Clanton's entire citizenship. The town and community will feel keenly the loss ef such a worthy gentleman and loyal citizen.

Children that are affected by worms are pale and sickly and liable to contract some fatal disease. WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE expels worms promptly and puts the child on the road to health. Price 25c per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

FIRST COTTON BLOOM

Last Saturday, June 21st, The Union - Banner received from Mr. W. A. Martin, of Clanton, Route 6, the first cotton bloom of this season. Mr. Martin stated that the bloom opened on Friday, the 20th. Blooms were also reported last Saturday from Mountain Creek. It is said by some that these blooms are somewhat earlier than the first blooms of last season. Cotton generally over the county, presents a brighter prospect than it has for several seasons, and unless something interferes with its growth the farmers may be sure of a bumper crop.

DEATH OF MRS. DEASON.

On last Monday occured the death of Mrs. Deason, the mother of Judge E. B. Deason. Her death will be learned with the deepest regret by the many friends of the family. The funeral services were conducted Wednesday by Rev. A. C. Swindall, and she was buried at Shiloh cemetery.

"THE DEACON"

Last Friday night as had been announced, the Clanton High School troupe of theatrical performers presented "The Deacon" to quite a large audience at Bates Hall, Thorsby. The actors performed well and the evening was one of extreme delight to all present. Nor should you get the idea that the fun was only on the part of those in the audience. The players themselves were very much delighted; not so much by the play, however, but by their ride home through the country in a wagon. Quite a number of people from Clanton drove up to Thorsby in automobiles to enjoy the performance. Others went in wagons, and even some, we hear, before they reached Thorsby, abandoned the idea of seeing the play, and turned the adventure into a moonlight picnic. It is sufficient to say that all who were in any way connected with the affair received his or her full share of the fun and merriment.

The Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn will give summer courses from July 25th to September 5th. In offering the summer courses the college is expanding work which it has done for several years. The purpose is to utilize the plant in vacation for giving the regular instruction offered during the session. The entire emphasis is laid on vocational education, and the training of students in agriculture, mechanics and related subjects. Opportunity is also offered students to prepare to enter college, and to make up deficiencies in their course of study. The dates have been fixed at the end of summer in order to avoid conflict with other institutions giving summer work.

FIRE DESTROYS TOM McKEE'S HOUSE.

On last Monday about noon the house of Mr. Tom McKee, who lived near Lock 12 on Coosa River, was completely destroyed by fire. Quite a number of articles of furniture and household goods were saved, but the larger part of the furnishings perished in the flames with the building. His smoke house, together with its contents, was also destroyed.

The fire originated from the cook stove in some way, the flue of which was supposed to be defective. When first discovered by Mrs. McKee, the flames had secured a sure hold on the roof of the house. Mr. McKee was not at home at the time; Mr. Mahan and his sons responded to Mrs. McKee's call for help, and succeeded in saving a few of the contents of the house.

NO SUBSTITUTE COULD DO THIS

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr., of his kidney trouble. RESOLUTIONS of RESPECT

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to remove from this life the spirit of Mrs. Deason, the venerable mother of Judge E. B. Daason, the chairman of the Board of Commissioners of this county; and,

Whereas, it is becoming and proper that we give expression to our deep sorrow because of the affliction which has been visited upon our associate,

Therefore, Be it resolved by the Commissioners Court of Chilton county in session this day assembled that we extend to our fellow associate and to his bereaved relatives our deepest sympathy in this, their hour of sorrow.

Resolved second, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Commissioners court, that a copy hereof be sent to Judge E. B. Deason, and that a copy be furnished to each of the county papers for publication.

Passed this the 23rd day of June, 1913.

DANGEROUS CALOMEL GOING OUT OF USE.

A safer, more Reliable Remedy Has Taken its Place in the Drug Store and in the Home.

A few years ago men, women and children took calomel for a sluggish liver and for constipation. They took risks when they did so, for calomel is a dangerous drug, Your family doctor will be the first to tell you this if he discovers you dosing yourself with Calomel.

But the drug trade has found a safer, more pleasant remedy than calomel in Dodson's Liver Tone. Alred Drug Co. tell us that their drug store sells Dodson's Liver Tone in practically every case of biliousness, and liver trouble where calomel used to be taken.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a vegetable liver tonic that is absolutely harmless for children and grown people. It sells for 50c a bottle and is guaranteed to be entirely satisfactory by Alred Drug Co., who will refund your money with a smile if it does not give quick, gentle relief without any of calomel's unpleasant aftereffects.

CHAMPION CABBAGE.

Last Saturday probably the largest cabbage ever raised in Chilton County was brought to town by Mr. Joe Logan. It weighed fifteen and one-half pounds. We are afraid to say just how big the thing did look, for someone would sure accuse us of trying to write a fairy tale like the one which relates the incident where the little toad just getting acquainted with the things of this world one day saw an ox, and went back to tell his mother what a frightfully big thing he had seen--and so the familiar old story goes. Anyway, one man who saw it, and whose truthfulness and judgment are unquestionable, declared it would afford a bountiful dinner for at least twenty-five of the most cabbage-hungry men in the country, and enough over for the whole family at supper.

Katherine L. Norton, New Bedford, Mass, says: "I had a terrible pain across my back, with a burning and scalding feeling. I took Foley Kidney Pills as advised, with results certain and sure. The pain and burning feeling left me, I felt toned up and invigorated. I recommend Foley Kidney Pills." For backache, rheumatism, lumbago, and all kidney and bladder ailments, use Foley Kidney Pills. CALOMEL OUT OF A JOB

People Coming for Miles Around For Wonderful Carswell's Liver-Aid. Better, Safer and Surer than Calomel.

Upchurch Drug Co. sell this New Discovery on Money Back if Dissatisfied Plan.

Fix up your liver; cleanse your bowels of foul waste; drive poisonous gases from your stomach, end constipation and feel fine and dandy in 24 hours. Throw away calomel; its dangerous, you know it; everybody knows it. CARSWELL'S LIVER-AID is different. Its a pleasant, harmless vegetable remedy that acts gently yet surely and does not cause a particle of after misery. It's a joyful laxative and more. It's fine for kidney disease and malaria and is as safe and splendid for children as for grown ups. Fifty cents secures a generous bottle at Upchurch Drug Co. 5

THE DAY OF FAKE POULTRY REMEDIES IS ALMOST PAST.

A new era is dawning in the poultry world. Users are no longer forced to buy inferior material so highly profitable to the manufacturers and so unprofitable to poultry owners. The old plan of packing an ounce or two of medicine in a quart of cotton seed hulls and calling it poultry powders or medicine is out of date. People are getting wiser. They read and investigate more. They are not satisfied with a big bulky package of no medicinal value and almost no feeding value even, but want a real remedy like that used by experienced poultry breeders. They can get it too, for such a meritorious remedy is being placed on the market called Owen's Ideal Poultry Remedy and Egg Producer. The formula was gotten up by D. M. Owen of Athens, Tenn., a breeder and poultry judge of thirty years experience. He gives it to his Prize--winning poultry. Other breeders of national reputation, like Loring Brown of Smyrna, Ga., and J. A. Thornhill of Alabama use and recommend it. For sale by Alred Drug Co.

The Question of Rates

It is inconceivable that certain individuals should seek to create prejudice against the L. & N. simply because the L. & N. exercises its right as a citizen to appeal to a duly constituted court of justice to adjust the question of rates.

The courts of justice were created by the people and are maintained by the people for such purposes. Where a question of property rights is involved, and a satisfactory agreement can not be arrived at, there is no other alternative than to invoke the majesty of the law; to seek a judicial opinion after a careful, non-partisan review of the facts.

Any other course is in violation of the letter and spirit of the law, and borders on anarchy.

When the L. & N., in spite of its best efforts, is so unfortunate to do injury to life or property, it makes every effort to arrive at a satisfactory adjustment. Failing in this effort the injured party makes appeal to a court of law to recover fair and reasonable damages. The L. & N. realizes the right of appeal to law, and has never failed to abide final decision of the law.

The officials of the L. & N. do not therefore concede that any large percentage of the thoughtful people of Alabama condemn the L. & N. for exercising its right to appeal to a duly constituted court of law.

The L. & N. is engaged in the operation of a railroad in which a large number of stockholders are interested. It is a public service corporation, and as such the general public is interested. The officials of the L. & N. realize that the stockholders are entitled to a fair and just return on the money invested. The officials realize that the people who supply revenue producing traffic to the L. & N. are entitled to good service at reasonable rates.

On the one hand the stockholder has invested his money in stock; on the other hand the shipper or passenger has invested his money in transportation.

Between these two stand the officials of the L. & N., exerting every effort to safeguard and promote the interests of each, for each is dependent upon the welfare of the other.

The stockholder does not desire and shall not demand more than a fair return on his investment. The law provides for that.

The investor in transportation service should not demand more than that to which his investment entitles him. The law provides for that.

In all fairness, is it right that certain influences should seek to create prejudice against the L. & N.?

The LADY of the MOUNT

by FREDERIC S. ISHAM

AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS," "UNDER THE ROSE," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1908 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI. was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles. Her Ladyship dances with strange fisherman, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious Le Seigneur Noir. He escapes. Lady Elise is caught in the "Grand" tide. The Black Seigneur rescues and takes her to his retreat.

CHAPTER VIII.—(Continued.)

He regarded her silently; the beautiful, impatient eyes; the slim, white fingers that tapped restlessly, one against another. "I will do what I can!" he said at last slowly.

"But what?" she demanded. "What can you do?"

He did not answer; my lady made a gesture. "How ridiculous! A prisoner on an island!"

"There may be a way," he began.

"My horse?" she said quickly. "What became of him?"

"He was swept away by the tide!"

Into the proud eyes came a softer light—of regret, pain.

"Your Ladyship should remember it might have been worse," he added, in tones intended to reassure her. "After all, it was only a horse—"

"Only a horse!" she exclaimed indignantly. "But, I suppose you can't understand—caring for a horse!"

"I can understand caring for a ship!" he answered quickly, a flash of amusement, hardly concealed, in his bold, dark eyes.

"A ship!" scornfully; "dead wood and iron."

"Live wood and iron! Beautiful as—" The simile failed him; he looked at my lady. "Something to be depended on, with a hand to the wheel, and an eye keen for mad dancings and curvetings."

"I might appreciate them better," she interrupted dryly, with delicate brows uplifted, "if they brought me nearer to the Mount. That, and not idle opinions," in accents that conveyed surprise at the temerity of one in his position to express them, "is of most moment!"

He accepted the reproof with a readiness that further surprised her. "Your Ladyship is right," he said. "I will see what may be done. The storm has passed. There is yet daylight, and—" an expression, almost preoccupied, came to his features—"a boat may be sighted."

"To be sure!" At the prospect, all other considerations passed from my lady's mind. "A boat may be sighted! Why did you not think of it before? Come! Too much time has already been lost." And she rose.

"One moment!" His voice was quiet; respectful; although, she fancied, constrained. "I had better go alone. The way to the cliff is rough, and—"

"I shall not mind that!"

"Besides, your clothes—"

"Are dry!"

"No!" She flushed at the abrupt contradiction. "I mean, I don't see how they could be!" he went on hurriedly, "and," his tone assumed a certain obduracy, "I assure your Ladyship, it will be best."

"Best?" She looked at him more sharply. "Is that your only reason?"

"Why?" A trace of embarrassment, for an instant, crossed his dark features. "What other reason, my Lady?"

"That I know not!" quickly, assured her words had struck home. "Only I am certain there is one!"

"Then, if your Ladyship must know," he spoke slowly. "I did not wish to alarm you. But this is a rough coast, with—many rough people about—smugglers, privateersmen—"

"Whom you, perhaps, are expecting?" she cried suddenly.

"I!" with a careless laugh. "A fisherman! Your Ladyship is imaginative—" he began, when a sudden, hasty footstep clinked on the stones without; a hand caught at the fastenings of the door; flung it open.

"I thought I should find you here, Seigneur!" exclaimed a voice. "Since—"

The young man made a movement and the speaker stopped; caught sight of my lady, just beyond, in the fading light. And at the picture—her figure behind that other one—the fine, patrician features, framed by the disordered golden hair, the widely opened eyes, bright, expectant, the intruder started back.

"The Governor's daughter! You, Seigneur!" he stammered, and, raising his hand, involuntarily crossed himself.

CHAPTER IX.

A Discovery.

"Why did you do that?" It was Lady Elsie who now spoke, lifting her head haughtily to regard the newcomer, as she stepped toward him. "Cross yourself, I mean?"

"This good fellow, my Lady, is surprised to see you here, and small wonder he forgets his manners!" said the young man coolly, speaking for the other. "But he is honest enough—and—intends no disrespect!"

"None whatever!" muttered the intruder, a thin, wizened, yet still active-looking person.

My lady did not reply; her gaze, in which suspicion had become conviction, again met the young man's, whose black eyes now gleamed with a sudden, challenging light.

"With your permission, my Lady, I will speak with this fellow," he said, and abruptly strode from the tower; walked a short distance away, followed by the man, when he stopped.

"Certes, your tongue betrayed you that time, Sanchez!" he said confronting the other.

The man made a rough gesture. "C'est vrai!" regretfully. "But when I saw you two together I thought I had seen a—" He stopped. "She is so like—"

"Nay; I don't blame you; the sight was certainly unexpected! I had thought to come down and prepare you, but—'tis done!"

"And I knew what it meant." The old servant looked over his shoulder toward the tower.

"Call it magic!" with a short laugh.

"Diablerie!" muttered the other.

"Well, have your way! Why," abruptly, "did you not meet me here last night at high tide, as we had planned?"

"The priest came not in time; fearing he was watched, waited until night to leave his hiding-place at Verranch."

"And after missing me last night, you thought to find me here today?"

"I knew you were most anxious to see him; that upon him depended your chance to undo some of his Excellency, the Governor's, knavery! And, then, to find you here with the daughter of the man who has wrought you so much wrong; robbed you of your lands—your right to your name!" A cloud shadowed the listener's bold brow. "I know not how it came about, Seigneur, but be assured, no good can come of it!"

From where she stood, at the distance to the tower, the Governor's daughter saw now the two men descend; she perceived, also, at a turn in the path, coming up slowly, as one whose years had begun to tell upon him, another figure, clad in black; a priest. This last person and the Black Seigneur accosted each other; stopped, while the other man, who had crossed himself at sight of her, drew aside. At length, somewhat abruptly, they separated, the priest and Sanchez going down the hill and the young man starting to walk up. Then quickly leaving the ancient, circular structure for observation, she stepped toward the cliff, not far to the right; and in an attitude of as great unconcern as she could summon, waited.

Below the ocean beat around the rock, and her eyes seemed to have rested an interminable period on the dark surface of the water, when at length she heard him; near at hand; directly behind. Still she did not stir; he, too, by the silence, stood motionless. How long? The little foot moved restlessly; why did he not speak? She knew he was looking at her—the Governor's daughter who had inadvertently looked into a forbidden chamber; was possessed of dangerous knowledge.

Again she made a movement. When was he going to speak? It was intolerable that he should stand there, studying, deducing! That she, accustomed to command; to be served; to have her way at court and Mount, should now be judged, passed upon, disposed of, by—whom? Quickly she looked around; the flashing brown eyes met the steady black ones.

"Well?"

"The man will take you back." His manner was quiet; composed; implied a full cognizance of what she knew, and an absence of any further desire to attempt to disguise the truth.

"Back! Where?" She could not conceal her surprise.

"To the Mount."

For the moment she did not speak; she had not known what to expect—certainly not that.

"Why not?" A smile, slightly forced, crossed his face. "Does your Ladyship think I make war on women? Only, before your Ladyship departs, it will be necessary for you to agree to a little condition."

"Condition?" She drew her breath quickly.

"That you will say nothing to incriminate him. He is an old servant of mine; has broken none of the laws of the land," with a somewhat contemptuous accent, "works his bit of ground; pays metayage, and a tax on all the fish he brings in. Only in a certain matter today has he served me."

"You mean I must say nothing about meeting him? You?"

"For his sake!"

"And your own!"

"Mine?" He made a careless gesture. "I should not presume! For myself I should exact or expect, from your Ladyship no promise. Tonight I shall be far away. But this good fellow remains behind; should be allowed to continue his peaceful, lowly occupation. I would not have anything happen to him on my account."

"And if I refuse to promise?" she asked haughtily. "To enter into any covenant with—you!"

"But you will not!" he said steadily. "Your Ladyship, for her own sake, should not force the alternative."

"Alternative?"

"Why speak of it?"

"What is the alternative?" she demanded.

"If your Ladyship refuses to promise, it will be necessary for the man to return alone."

"You mean," in spite of herself, she gave a start, "you would make me—a prisoner?"

"It should not be necessary."

"But you would not dare!" indignantly.

"Not dare! Your Ladyship forgets—"

"True!" with a scornful glance. After a pause: "But suppose I did promise? Are you not reposing a good deal of confidence in me?"

"Not too much!"

"I presume," disdainfully, "I should feel flattered in being trusted by—" She did not finish the sentence.

But the young man apparently had not heard. "I'll take the chance on your own words," he added unexpectedly.

"My words?"

"That you are no telltale."

The girl started. "Telltale?" she repeated.

"You once told me you were not!"

"But Suppose I Did Promise?"

"I—told you!" She stared at him.

"Told me you were no telltale," he repeated. "And—when Beppo lied, you told the truth—about a ragged vagabond of a boy."

"Beppo!" The look in her eyes deepened; cleared. "I remember now," she said slowly. "You were the boy with the fish, who said he lived in the woods. I met you while riding, and again that night, as a child, leaving for Paris; but I did not know, then, you would become—"

The young man's face changed. "An outlaw!" he said coolly.

"Yes; an outlaw," she repeated firmly. Angered by his unflinching gaze, she went on: "Who dares not fly the flag of his king! Who dares not come openly into any honest port!"

She ended, her brown eyes flashing. His own darkened; but he only remarked coldly: "My Lady, at any rate, dares much!"

"Oh, I've no doubt you don't care to hear—"

"From you!" He looked at her oddly, from the golden hair to the small, dainty foot. "From your Ladyship!" he repeated, as if amused. An instant he regarded her silently, intently; but his voice when at length he again spoke was cool and slightly mocking: "My Lady speaks, of course, from the standpoint of her own world—a very pretty world! A park of plaisance, wherein, I can vouch for it, my Lady dances very prettily."

She started; a flush of resentment glowed and faded on her cheek; a question his words suggested trembled on her lips.

"Why did you come to the beach that night of the dance? How dared you, knowing that if—"

"Why?" His eyes lost their ironical light. "Why?" he repeated; then laughed with sudden recklessness. "I wished to see your Ladyship."

"Me?" She shrank back.

"You!" he repeated, his gaze fastened on the startled, proud face. "Though I looked not forward to a dance—with your Ladyship!" The black eyes glowed. "Pardi! It was worth the risk." A moment he waited; then his manner changed. "I will leave your Ladyship now," he said quietly. "You will have opportunity to consider"—she did not answer—"whether you will give me your promise, or not," he added, and, wheeling abruptly, walked away.

Some time later, in the fast-gathering darkness, from the cove a small boat put out, with Sanchez, gloomy and sullen, in the stern; at the bow, the Governor's daughter. As the isle receded and the point of land loomed bigger before them, the girl gazed straight ahead; but the man looked back; to the sands of the little cove, a pale simitar in the dragon-like mouth of the rock; toward the tower, near which he fancied he could see a figure, turned from them—seaward—where, far out, a ship might just be discerned, a dim outline on the horizon.

CHAPTER X.

The Cloister in the Air.

Irrespective of environment, the cloister of the Mount would have been a delight to the eye, but, upheld in mid air, with the sky so near and the sands so far below, it seemed more an inspiration of fancy than a work of hand. Dainty, delicate, its rose-colored columns of granite appeared too thin for tangible weight; the tympan's sculptured designs, fanciful as the carvings in some palace of a poet's dream. Despite, however, this first impression of evanescence, it carried a charm against the ravages of time, and ethereal though it was, had rested like a crown on the grim head of the rock through the ages.

Once a place for quiet meditation, the cloister had, through a whirligig of change, become the favorite resort of the Governor, for dejeuner, or after-dinner dram, and, on occasions, for the transaction of much profane though necessary labor pertaining to his office and private concerns. He busied himself there now; or had been busying himself, but paused to look up from the large book before him, whose pages were inscribed with items and figures. His finger, following the mental computation, remained stationary. Fouage—tax upon fires; banvin—duties on wine; vingtain—the lord's right to his share of the produce; minage—his due from each mine or half setier of coin—consideration of these usually all-important matters seemed for the moment to have been forgotten.

He leaned back, and as he sat thus, the light and shadow playing on him, the dark, steely eyes looked the more sunken, the hard, cynical lips beneath the white mustache the more cruel, the spare figure the more alert and ready, as if to grapple with some hidden danger.

"J'arrive en ce pays De Basse Normandie—"

At one of the apertures looking out to the barren waste of sand stood the Lady Elise; the words of the old Norman chant she was singing in desultory fashion rang softly, oddly, in that spot, where black-clad brethren for centuries had been wont to tread. Mechanically the Governor listened, but the voice soon ceased abruptly and again, after the manner of one of orderly habits, he bent over the big book; once more the curving finger slid up and down, and parsimony, the vice of the aged, had begun to shine from his pinched features, when a footstep rang on the marble pavement.

"Your Excellency sent for me?" The commandant stood respectfully near.

The Governor closed the book with deliberation; lifted his eyes. "The prisoners that were taken last night are safely housed?"

"Housed? Yes, your Excellency! But we have little room. The upper cells are all occupied; the dungeons, fairly full! Even the In-pace and Les Deux Jumeaux have been pressed into service."

"Hum!" The long hand tapped restlessly a moment; the cold eyes gleamed, then shot an inquiring look. "There are no new particulars about last night's encounter with this—Black Seigneur?"

"None, your Excellency, except," the commandant drew a paper from his breast pocket, "I have here in writing the detailed account of the officer in charge of your Excellency's boat, who was wounded himself in the encounter."

"Read it."

The commandant obeyed. "'Our schooner, belonging to his Excellency, the Governor, was returning last night to the Mount with troops—reinforcements for the garrison from St. Dalard—when it happened quite by accident near a ship, maneuvering at a respectful distance from the island of Casque. The night was dark and cloudy, but our men got a look at her and suspecting who she was and knowing her armament, against our will, we felt obliged to bear away. She, having no reason to think us other than a fishing schooner, or that we were freighted with troops instead of cod, did not follow and we had passed out of sight, and were rounding the island when we ran into two small sail-boats that had just set out from there.'"

"To join the ship of this outlaw!" interposed the Governor. "Go on!" shortly.

"'We hailed; their answer was unsatisfactory; we ordered them to halt, whereupon they tried to sail away. We followed and overtaking them, commanded them to surrender. Their leader, who was the Black Seigneur himself, refused, and we attacked—'"

"Bien! 'We attacked!' But what then? Eh, what then?"

"'With fury they responded; in spite of their inferiority of numbers tried to board us. Bravely our men repulsed them; yet still they persisted; led by their captain, the Black Seigneur, had gained the deck when a chance shot struck him. As he fell back, the others tried to escape; one boat was sunk—'"

"And the other, bearing their leader, got away!" interrupted the Governor harshly.

"In the confusion—yes, your Excellency."

The Governor waved his hand impatiently.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Delicate Point.

"They are a happy Sewickley couple. They haven't been married very long. In fact, the honeymoon has barely waned. An elderly friend met the bridegroom down town yesterday and slapped him on the back.

"Well, happy as a lark, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes."

"How's the cooking?"

"I have one trouble there. It's just this, my wife has been preparing angel food every day for dinner."

"You must be getting tired of it."

"I am. Yet I feel a hesitancy about saying anything. How soon after the honeymoon would it be proper to ask for beefsteak and onions?"

Peril of Sleep Walkers.

The reason many persons walk in their sleep is because one part of the mind is wide awake when the other is asleep. But the curious thing about sleep walking is just because the walker is asleep and not conscious, he can walk over dangerous spots which would probably cause him to fall through nervousness, if he were wide awake. But as he is not awake, and not conscious, he generally walks safely and remembers nothing about it.

So it is easy to see why it is dangerous to awaken a sleep walker while he is walking along a precipice or in some other dangerous position.

The Key.

"And where," my fellow citizens," appealed the political speaker, "can we find an instrument so fit, so delicate, so adjustable, and at the same time so unassuming and popular that it will unlock every department of state for the benefit of the people?"

"The hairpin!" shrieked an enthusiastiv suffragette in the audience.—Judge.

QUICKSILVER BAD ON TEETH

Fumes of Mercury Produce Salivation and Miners Seldom Live More Than Two Years.

Quicksilver miners follow the most unhealthy trade in the world. The fumes of the mercury produce constant salivation, and the system becomes permeated with the metal; the teeth of the unfortunate men drop out, they lose their appetite, become emaciated and, as a rule, seldom live longer than two years.

Chloride of lime, employed by bleachers, frequently destroys the enamel and dentine of the teeth. But phosphorus, used so largely in the manufacture of lucifer matches, affects a very large number of persons, women, girls and children greatly preponderating.

People who work in soda factories are affected by the teeth becoming soft and translucent; they break off close to the gums.

Dr. Hesse of Leipsic states that bakers are likely to suffer from decayed teeth on account of the flour entering the mouth during work collecting on and around the teeth, where it decomposes and generates an acid destructive to dentine.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Hilbert Tells of Her Distressing Symptoms During Change of Life and How She Found Relief.

Fleetwood, Pa.—"During the Change of Life I was hardly able to be around at all. I always had a headache and I was so dizzy and nervous that I had no rest at night. The flashes of heat were so bad sometimes that I did not know what to do.

"One day a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me a strong well woman. I am very thankful that I followed my friend's advice and I shall recommend it as long as I live. Before I took the Compound I was always sickly and now I have not had medicine from a doctor for years. You may publish my letter."—Mrs. EDWARD B. HILBERT, Fleetwood, Pa.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

WILSON OVERCOMES THE OPPOSITION

FIXED DETERMINATION TO PASS BID FOLLOWS PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

URGES CURRENCY REFORM

President Wilson Again Appears Before Congress and Urges Party to Uphold Pledges.

Washington.—A fixed determination to have currency legislation passed at this session of congress was accepted by members of the house and senate as President Wilson's text for the currency message, which he personally presented to congress, assembled in joint session in the house chamber. Both democrats and republicans saw in the carefully worded appeal of the president an earnest conviction that the money situation must be dealt with before congress adjourns and preparations were made to begin committee work on the administration bill which will soon be introduced in the house by Representative Glass, in the senate by Senator Owen.

From the rostrum of the house chamber, the president in carefully modulated tones that carried his words to every corner of the chamber, read a brief message he had prepared. Crowded galleries, cabinet officials, senators and representatives, democrats and republicans sat in a tense silence as the president, with forceful earnestness, told them:

"It is plainly clear that it is our duty to supply the new banking and currency system the country needs, and that it will immediately need it more than ever.

"We must act now whatever the sacrifice to ourselves. I should be recreant to my deepest convictions of public obligations did I not impress it upon you with solemn and urgent insistence."

The occasion was the president's second defiance of the custom of 100 years which sent presidents' messages long, dull documents, to be droned to weary congressmen by a hoarse voice, and the affair moved smoothly. The senate and house gathered in the house chamber where the galleries already had been crowded and the members chatted while they awaited the president's coming. The cabinet officers, except Secretary of State Bryan and Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who, with their wives occupied gallery seats, had places on the floor of the house.

A joint committee led by Majority Leader Underwood and Senator Kern met the president and escorted him to the clerk's desk on the rostrum. Mr. Wilson apparently was less nervous than when he first faced the big assemblage of legislators to deliver his tariff address.

ATTEMPTS TO SHOOT UP COURT

Washington Court Officials Scurry When Defendant Resorts to Gun Tactics.

Washington.—Judge, lawyers, policemen and spectators were sent scurrying to cover in the criminal court here when Ray M. Stewart, aged 18, fired three wild shots in an attempt to "shoot up" the court. At the first crack Justice Wendall P. Stafford disappeared beneath his desk and out in the court room there was a wild scramble for places of safety. Some sought refuge under tables or behind heavy chairs and others, frenzied by fear, leaped into windows and dropped to the ground, some 15 or 20 feet below.

Justice Stafford had just refused to release Stewart on probation after conviction for attempted highway robbery. The boy whipped out a pistol and fired three shots, two of which narrowly missed Assistant United States Attorneys Samuel Hawken and Harvey Given and Policeman Moffit.

SIGNS SUNDRY CIVIL CIVIL BILL

Bill Carries $116,000,000 in Appropriations.

Washington. — President Wilson signed the sundry civil appropriation bill, with a statement declaring that he would have vetoed, if he could, the provision in it exempting labor unions and farmers' organizations from prosecution under a certain $300,000 fund designated for operation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The president characterized the exemption as "unjustifiable in character and principle," but called attention to the fact that the department of justice possessed other funds with which to enforce the anti-trust law.

REV. E. G. MURPHY DIES

Former Birmingham Pastor and Founder of Child Labor Committee Dead

New York.—The Rev. Edward Gardner Murphy of the Protestant Episcopal church, founder of the National Child Labor committee, died at his home here aged 44 years. He was a native of Arkansas, and a graduate of the University of the South.

For many years he held a pastorate in Birmingham and took an active part in civic and educational movements in the South.

One of the most remarkable sales of real estate ever recorded in Russell county was that at Hurtsboro a few days since, when seventy-four one-eighth acre lots were sold to the highest bidders in the space of three hours. The average price paid was about $862 per acre, the total sale amounting to $10,350, and it is remarkable that the property was all taken by home men, the largest buyer being H. M. Rutherford, who bought seven lots. The same property cost $216 in 1885.

All saloons both retail and wholesale of Troy have been closed by the excise commission. This action was taken at a meeting of the commission, to which they had ordered all saloon dealers to appear and show cause why their licenses should not be revoked for violating the regulations. The charge upon which all were found guilty was permitting loitering in their respective saloons, which is prohibited by law and as a punishment the commission ordered all saloons closed for four days. This order affected four retail and one wholesale house, one retail house and one wholesale house having recently closed out on account of a failure to realize a profit.

A HIDDEN DANGER

It is a duty of the kidneys to rid the blood of uric acid, an irritating poison that is constantly forming inside.

When the kidneys fail, uric acid causes rheumatic attacks, headaches dizziness, gravel, urinary troubles, weak eyes, dropsy or heart disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills help the kidneys fight off uric acid—bringing new strength to weak kidneys and relief from backache and urinary ills.

A Kentucky Case

Miss A. G. Packham, nurse, Lakeland, Ky., says: "I had such pain through my kidneys that when I stooped it seemed as if my back would break. My head ached, specks floated before my eyes and my limbs were swollen. The kidney secretions were badly disordered and caused great discomfort. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me from the first and a short use entirely cured me."

MILK CRUSADE SAVES BABES

Stations for Distributing Infant Food Are Constantly Increasing in Various Cities.

A constantly increasing number of cities of all sizes are establishing milk stations and dispensing milk, whether pure whole milk, certified, modified, pasteurized or sterilized milk to mothers of babies that must be bottle fed. Some of the cities in which such institutions are maintained are: Albany, Baltimore, Boston, Buffalo, Chicago, Dayton, Detroit, Hartford, Honolulu, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Mo., Lawrence, Mass.; Louisville, Lowell, Milwaukee, Newark, New Bedford, New Haven, New York, Peoria, Pittsburgh, Providence, Rochester, St. Louis, Springfield, O.; Waterbury, Wilkesbarre, Worcester, Yonkers, Utica.

The milk station is simply a room sufficiently large to accommodate the patrons and equipped with a large ice box, a desk, some chairs and a table. An ordinary store is suitable for a station and sometimes, as in the case of the station at Utica, N. Y., a school room may be used for the purpose. The station is usually under the charge of a nurse, and a physician is in attendance at stated hours.

SCALES ON SCALP ITCHED

Muskogee, Okla.—"For more than a year I was afflicted with scalp disease. There were large white flakes or scales which caused the painful itching and my scratching would bring blood and cause sores. My hair came out in large quantities and what remained was thin, dry and lifeless. My temples were completely bare. During this time I tried everything that I thought would help me but nothing seemed to do any good. A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"I bathed with Cuticura Soap and applied Cuticura Ointment. At the end of about four weeks my scalp was sound and well and my hair had thickened up and grown wonderfully in such a short time." (Signed) Mrs. D. W. McClellan, Dec. 16, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

INFANT MORTALITY IS LOWER

Efforts of Health Officials During Last Five Years Have Brought Down Death List in Cities.

What the American cities are doing and can do toward preventing infant mortality and the high death rate of children under five years of age is the subject of a bulletin issued by the children's bureau of the department of labor. It is the purpose of the bureau to issue a similar bulletin annually and in time to make it a complete manual for municipal and philanthropic activities in the direction of child welfare. Summer campaigns for babies' lives have been waged with such marvelously good effect in some cities, that it seems to the bureau important to enlist the energies of as many cities in this work as possible. To this end it will be helpful to collect and present for the information of all, the little or much that is being done by the various cities.

The efforts of city health officials have resulted in the last ten years in reducing the general death rate in cities, below that of the rural districts and villages. This reduction in the general death rate is an encouraging indication of what is possible of accomplishment in efforts to reduce the infant death rate. Babies die of diseases which to a large extent are preventable, and thus when welfare work is directed toward saving their lives the response is immediate and decided.

The Best Hot Weather Tonic
GROVE'S TASTELESS chill TONIC enriches the blood and builds up the whole system, and it will wonderfully strengthen and fortify you to withstand the depressing effect of the hot summer. 50c.

Prof. Henson comes down several evenings a week for German lessons from Mr. Fred Krahmann.

Charlie Howard has the outside of his new house nearly completed.

Mrs. E. W. Butler and her little daughter, Margaret, with her mother, Mrs. Tupper, will leave this week for the North where they will spend the summer. We wish them a happy time and hope they will all return in the best of health.

Mayor Bice and J. W. Collins have formed a partnership and gone into the saw mill business. They are hustling to fill orders already received. Their many friends wish them success in their new enterprise.

Mr. Calvin Pugh was in town last Sunday. He still has an attraction here. We are glad the young men are drawn to our town.

Mr. Fred Krahmann is shipping some very fine blackberries. Mr. Krahmann shipped about twenty-five crates of fine dewberries and will have many more blackberries. The price has been excellent.

Mr. and Mrs Funk returned missionaries from South America had charge of the services of the Congregational church last Wednesday night which were very interesting.

The boys of the Thorsby Orchestra are re-organizing. The Orchestra was badly broken up by the departure of the three teachers of the high school, who were members.

W. B. Tomlin is spending the week in Birmingham.

The Red Men and the Woodmen of the World are combining their efforts for a grand picnic and a good time in general on the fourth of July.

Childrens Day was observed at the Congregational church Sunday. The primary department, under the direction of Mrs. S. E. Norton, also the intermediate classes and the young ladies class all took part in the songs and recitations. The little ones all performed their part well. Rev. Butler talked to the little folks for a few minutes, using for his text, "And he shall be like a tree." His talk was interesting to the older ones as well as to the little folks. Prof. Herbert and wife united with the church. Four children were consecrated to the Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Wolff's two little ones; Prof. and Mrs. Herbert's little one, and Mr. and Mrs. Butler's baby. The services throughout were beautiful, also the decorations of the church.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS
AND LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

MOUNT PLEASANT

The singing school which is to be taught at this place this summer will begin the 7th instead of the 14th, inst., if it is agreeable with the patrons. Prof. W. G. Culp requests the people to meet him here next Monday morning the 7th, and necide what is best to do. It will be an accommodation to him as it will enable him to teach one more singing school.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Wesson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Burnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Millford spent Saturday night at Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Foshee's.

Some of our people attended the Sundav school convention at Thorsby Sunday, while others attended the singing at Walnut Creek.

Mrs. G. H. Massey visited Mrs. Belle Baxley last Sunday.

Mr. A. J. Duncan is spending this week with his son, Lee, who is still in the infirmary in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harris of near Mulberry were recent visitors at Mr. R. M. Sims.

Mr. G. T. Tillery was a visitor at Mr. J. E. Kelley's Sunday.

Miss Katie Duncan spent last week with friends and relatives at Cooper.

Mr. J. H. Duncan spent last week with his brother in Birmingham.

Good luck to our new editor—let's all strive to help him along.

SINGING SCHOOL.

The fourth annual session of Eagle's Normal Musical Institute for Cross Roads, 1½ miles south of Thorsby, will begin Friday, July 4, 1913. This school is for the primary, the intermediate, and the advanced students of all grades of vocal music. The methods are correct; the system is complete; and the course of instructions clear and definite. If you wish to understand more thoroughly the fundamental principles of music, don't let this opportunity slip. Take advantage of your opportunities.

T. W. Childress, R. A. Smith } Secretaries.

DON'T KNOW THEY HAVE APPENDICITIS

Many Clanton people who have chronic appendicitis, which is not very painful, have doctored for years for gas on the stomach, sour stomach or constipation. Upchurch Drug Co. states if these people will try A SINGLE DOSE of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-i-ka, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis, they will be surprised at the INSTANT benefit. 5

FOR SALE—One 80 horse-power boiler and one 60 horse power engine, with belongings. Good Power for gin outfit. Will sell cheap. Apply to

NEW CEDRON.

Union-Bonner:—Please publish the following notice: Mayflower Lodge 417 (I. O. O. F.) will hold memorial service at the Hall at New Cedron on Thursday, July 24th. All Odd Fellows and the general public are invited to come and bring well filled baskets and enjoy the day together. We expect to have Grand Master Cramton and other speakers with us that day, and persons are warned to leave their booze and guns at home, as no misbehavior will be tollerated, but any persons misbehaving will be prosecuted.

W. C. Roper, M. C. Williams, G. W. Askins; Committee.

SINGING SCHOOL.

Prof. C. N. Oden will teach a singing school at Maple Springs commencing July 7th, ending July 29th. Everybody is invited to attend this school. I think it will be beneficial to one and all. Price $2.00 per scholar or ten cents per day when you go. Come boys and girls and learn to sing. I think it is much nicer to sing praises to our Lord than it is to stay out on the church yard and drink whiskey and smoke cigarettes.

DON'T use a cough medicine containing opium or morphine. They constipate the bowels and do not cure, only stifle the cough. Examine the label and if the medicine contains these harmful opiates refuse it. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound contains no opiates, is healing and soothing. For Sale by All Dealers Everywhere.

PICNIC ON FOURTH.

There will be a basket picnic at Bruce's Grove on the Fourth of July. There will be an up-to-date band to furnish music for the dancers, ball game and other amusements. Everybody is invited to come and bring a well-filled basket and help enjoy the day.

NOTICE OF REUNION.

There will be a reunion of the J. W. Thames family and kindred July 4, at Rockymount schoolhouse, three and one-half miles north-east of Jemison. Refreshments will be served. Everybody come and bring well filled baskets.

J. W. Harrel,
Jno. Thames.

WEST CHILTON.

On the 3rd Sunday in July there will be an all day singing at the new Union church, known as Union Springs on the Montevallo road just south of the Erven schoolhouse. Books used will be Harp and Harmony. All are invited. Bring books and well filled baskets with dinner. We expect some of the visiting leaders to be present.

The rain Sunday afternoon was heavy in some places. Just north of Randolph the storm was severe; unroofing houses, blowing down the crops, etc. Lighting struck Mr. Kelley's barn and killed his mule. At Ashby it is reported there never had been a heavier rain. Train No. 15 coming south had to slow up on account of so much water on the track.

The Masons had a great day at Randolph the 24th. Lots of people, lots of dinner. Had their officers installed by W. H. Thomas. Had speaking by Mr. Lyman, James Gentry and Rev. Carleton. Rev. Smitherman was in charge of the ceremonies.

Had singing at Hicks' schoolhouse Sunday. The rain came; the crowd in the house was so great until one or two ladies fainted.

The famous leader of Coxey's army in the panicky times of the nineties can chuckle now as he can some of his propositions coming into notice more and more. Also when the national alliance met in St. Louis it was joined by the K. of L. in demanding government ownership of the ways of transportation. What a howl it raised then. Now things are looking like the farmers knew what they were doing.

LITTLE SAND MOUNTAIN.

Editor Union- Banner:—Will you allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words.

Health of this community is very good at present. We had a nice rain Sunday last.

Mrs. Mattie Shaw and little daughter of Jemison and Mrs. Alice Johnson and little daughter of Birmingham spent Saturday and Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Cassie Lawrence.

Rev. Buford Lawrence visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lawrence Saturday night.

Mr. William Williams and family spent Sunday at Mr. J. F. Beadens.

Miss Essie Atkinson visited her cousin Miss Lillie Lawrence Saturday night.

Miss Lena Walker has returned from Georgia and reported a nice time.

Well I will close, wishing much success to the paper and its many readers.

Apple Blossom.

Doing hard work in a bent or stooping position puts a stitch in the back that is painful. If the muscles have become strained, you can't get rid of it without help. The great penetrating power of Ballard's Snow Liniment will appeal to you most strongly at such times, because it is the very thing you need. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

ROCKY MOUNT.

Rev. A. T. Vandiver will conduct the memorial service of Uncle Billie Northcutt at Rockymount cemetery Sunday, July 27th, at 11 o'clock. He will preach the funeral of Mr. G. S. Northcutt's little girl at 3 o'clock p.m.

There will be a public working at Rockymount cemetery on July 24th. Bring dinner and tools to work with and let us clean up the grave yard.

MOUNTAIN CREEK NEWS.

There was never before such a crop of blackberries known in this section as there is this year.

Miss Lucy Simpson after four years at school where she graduated is back and "at home," learning from Mrs. McMasters "how to keep house." Lucy is well liked by all the old veterans here.

Capt. J. M. Simpson, Dr. J. P. Ellsberry, A. J. Pride, W. H. McSwain and Capt. W. J. Bethune are attending the big reunion at Gettysburg. Four of the five men mentioned were severely wounded there 50 years ago.

Dr. C. H. Maddox will attend to the sick at the Home during Dr. Ellsberry's absence.

The program which has been arranged for the Fourth of July celebration at this place is very interesting. The exercises will take place at the Old Soldier's Home and will consist of an address, short and instructive, singing and music by a number of young ladies and gentlemen of the Mountain Creek Baptist Church, led by Mr. Samuel Andress, and also the old ladies of the home are practicing some old time music in which six of them will participate. Major C. A. Gunn will look after the rendition of the program. The citizens are all invited to attend and it is suggested that they bring lunch baskets. Round trip tickets can be procured by people living at adjacent towns.

ALL-DAY SINGING AT DARGIN JULY 4.

There will be an all day singing at Dargin, three miles north of Calera, Shelby county, Ala., on July the 4th. We are expecting Profs. J. D. Patton, H. M. Eagle, J. M. Dye, L. T. Grant, H. C. Collins, James Franklin, C. N. Oden, T. T. Taylor, P. B. Shaw, and W. H. Wood, and many others. The largest crowd that ever met at a song service in Shelby county is expected at Dargin on that day. Refreshments will be served. The profits of which will go for the benefit of the new church building. Trains No. 9, 10, 11 and 12 will stop at Dargin to accommodate those who might come by rail. All lovers of music are cordially invited to come and bring well filled baskets. Everybody come.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE

The next Teacher's Institute for Chilton County will be held at Clanton in the Courthouse for week beginning August 11, 1913.

The Institute will open at noon on Monday, August 11th, 1913, and will close at noon on Friday of the same week, so all who hold certificates, whether they have taught or not, are required to be present on Monday morning when the Institute opens and attend every day and also be present at each period as it will take that to make the four full days. I insist that all holders of State certificates be on time and do not be careless about attending as it means the loss of your certificate should you do so. NEW EDUCATIONAL LAW IN EFFECT OCTOBER FIRST.

State Superintendent of Education, Henry J. Willingham, has notified all the county educational boards, that after Oct. 1 they will be required by law to employ the full time of the County Superintendent in the interest of the various schools of the county. He emphasizes the importance of having the County Superintendent closely supervise the rural school work and all other duties pertaining to his office. The County Superintendent is allowed as his salary, 4 per cent of the money expended by the county as teacher's salaries, the minimum not to be less $1000. The county boards of education are under the new law taking effect Sept. 30, given the authority to select an assistant to the county superintendent to aid him in the school supervision. This is an immensely important act to the rural school. It is a great deal of help to the country school and teacher as well, to have the superintendent visit the school and make suggestions, and unless his whole time is given to the work he connot visit the schools and offer these suggestions, and the consequence is that the school must go without them. These new regulations take effect at the time the new County Superintendents, elected last November go into office, and we look for improved conditions in rural schools over the state.

CHILTON COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION, JEMISON, JULY 24th AND 25th, 1913.

The Executive Committee of the Chilton County Sunday school Association held a meeting in Clanton, Friday, June 27th. Dr. A. K. Horn, Chairman, Judson Strock, Rev. E. W. Butler, Judge L. H. Reynolds and E. L. Thornton, County President, were present. Arrangements were made for the County Convention which will be held in Jemison, Thursday and Friday, July 24th and 25th, 1913. The program will be published next week.

A WOMAN'S WORK sometimes reduces her strength to the depths of weakness—her devotion to household cares prevents sufficient rest and recreation. Thousands of women in this condition find Scott's Emulsion exactly what they need; it is predigested body-food so medically perfected that every drop yields direct returns in strengthening the organs and tissues and in making healthy, life-sustaining blood. Scott's Emulsion is devoid of alcohol or any harmful drugs, and overcomes tiredness and nervousness in a marvelous way.

LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TERSELY TOLD.

SOUTH, EAST, NORTH AND WEST

Notes From Foreign Lands, Throughout the Nation and Particularly the Great South.

Southern.

Wonderful tales come from Grady county, Georgia, of hail which fell in certain sections and lasted without melting five days, and that with the mercury playing around the hundred mark, too. Some of the hail was gathered up and carried to the homes, where ice cream was frozen with it.

A. O. Blalock of Fayette was nominated by President Wilson as collectorner of internal revenue of Georgia. The nomination was later confirmed by the senate.

Negotiations looking to a settlement of the proposed New River coal field, West Virginia, July 1, where 15,000 miners are employed, were called off and the call for a general strike was issued and mailed throughout the field by the officials of the United Mine Workers of America. Conferences had been under way to prevent the strike.

An official call for a strike of miners in the New River, W. Va., coal field was issued from the Charleston headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America. Fifteen thousand men are employed in that field. The strike order is effective July 1. Miners are also expected to strike in the Cabin Creek field, while conditions in the Paint Creek district are very uncertain.

A carload of war munitions, on its way from New York, to the camp of Venustiano Carranza, in northern Mexico, are held in Ne wOrleans pending decision by the United States department of justice, whether to allow it to proceed across the Mexican border. The consignment, which includes 128 rapid fire guns, several hundred cases of ammunition, and a quantity of side arms, is said to be a part of a large contribution of war munitions.

Judge G. B. Randolph, United Statese revenue commissioner at Anniston, Ala., has returned from a trip with the deputy revenue officers who have been scouring this country for alleged illicit distillers and retail liquor dealers, this being the first time in Judge Randolph's history that he has taken an active part in the apprehension of offenders. Several stills were destroyed in Calhoun county

J. H. Maxwell, Jr., the two-year-old son of J. H. Maxwell of Belleview, Fla., is alive and playing just as usual, despite the fact that he had as a playmate for several minutes a ground rattlesnake, which he picked up in the yard of his father's home. The little fellow came running into the house with the snake in his hands, laughing in great glee at his find. The snake was wriggling and attempting to strike him when his father seized and killed it.

Gettysburg stepped fifty years backward into the halo of history and looked again upon an army of blue and an army of gray, meeting at her doorstep to join in the semi-centennial celebration of the greatest battle of the Civil war and to show the world that scars are not so deep as the feeling of American brotherhood.

That the stars and bars as well as the stars and stripes will appear at the big camp of veterans during the anniversary celebration was indicated by an announcement from the office of the anniversary committee at Gettysburg, Pa., that "there is nothing to prevent the wearers of the gray from bringing along their battleflags."

Two hundred tons of fuel on board the steel tank steamer Mohawk, owned by the Standard Oil company, exploded with a terrific roar and a burst of flame in New York City while the vessel was at anchor off Tompkinsville, Staten Island, in New York bay, killing five persons and injuring six others. A dozen more are unaccounted for, but are believed to have been rescued. Two bodies wree seen floating in the hold while the fire boats were still pouring streams of water into the wrecked steamer.

Word has gone out to veterans of both armies all over the country not to take their tattered battle flags to to Gettysburg for the celebration of the fiftieth aniversary of the battle, for they cannot be flown to the breeze in the encampment. Every precaution will be taken to prevent the stirring up of animosities and feeling on the part of the old soldiers, and this is one of the precautions considered necessary.

To his visitors President Wilson has made it clear that he will not consider the name of former Gov. John A. Dix of New York for the office of governer of the Philippines or for any other post.

At Memphis, Tenn., nine of a party of fourteen United States engineers and other government employees were drowned near New Madrid, when the United States survey boat Beaver, which the party was aboard, capsized during a windstorm.

The senate has confirmed the nomnations of Cato D. Glover as registrar of the land office.

An aviator named Wight was killed by a fall near Brighton, England. His machine suddenly burst into flames and dropped to the ground. Wight was pinned beneath it. At Liege, Belgium, while an aviator, Parisot, was giving an exhibition flight at a village near there, the wing of the aeroplane struck and killed a youthful spectator. The machine capsized, burying Parisot in the wreckage. The aviator died a few minutes later.

Sixty Mongolians were burned to death in a pagoda at Kwei Hwacheng, Chiha, according to a dispatch received at St. Petersburg, Russia.

Miss Delia Farley Dana, daughter of Richard Henry Dana of Cambridge, Mass., and a granddaughterof Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, the poet, was married at Manchester, Mass., to Robert E. Hutchinson of Philadelphia. The marriage ceremony was performed by the town clerk, and the Socialistic ritual was used, because of the interest of the bride and groom in Socialism.

A strong force of Bulgarian troops attacked the Servian position at Zletovo and Ratkovitz, in Macedonia. The attack, according to oficial information, was unprovoked. Later reports from the battle scene said the Bulgarian artillery had gone into action and a fierce fight was in progress in which both sides had suffered considerable losses. The Bulgarian attack on the Servians has created a dangerous state of excitement

The record flight of a homing pigeon from Rio Janeiro, Brazil, is reported by Stephen Krupa, a Jeannette, Pa., fancier. Last April he shipped "Sunny Jim" and two other racing pigeons to a Rio Janeiro fancier, who liberated them on May 8. "Sunny Jim" put in an appearance after forty-eight days' flight. Krupa declares that a pigeon never before "homed" from a point below the equator. The air line distance from Rio Janeiro to this city is about 4,200 miles, nearly half of the distance being over water.

A thousand members of the crew of the giant liner Imperator in port at Hoboken, N. J., had a mass meeting and adopted resolutions denouncing working conditions on the vessel, demanding better food, better sleeping accommodations and a nine hour day. The resolutions were presented to the Imperator's commander.

Postponement of the date on which the new sugar tariff shall go into effect until March 1,1914, and a change of date when the income tax shall be operative from January 1, 1913, were agreed upon by majority members of the senate finance committee. Extension of time on the sugar schedule was agreed to in order that sugars purchased under the Payne-Aldrich rates can be disposed of without the handicap of the effect of reduced tariff rates.

For the purpose of taking the last step necessary to crush out the international traffic in smoking opium, cocaine and other noxious and habit-forming drugs, representatives of nearly all the nations of the world will gather at The Hague to continue the international conference which adjourned in that capital January 23, 1912. The purpose of the present gathering is to ascertain whether a sufficient number of powers will join in ratifying the international convention looking to the suppression of the opium traffic, drafted by that conference, to insure its successful operation.

An attack upon the "swivel-chaired admiralty" of the navy by Representative Howard of Georgia, in a running-fire debate that preceded the passage in the house of the senate bill to increase the number of midshipmen at the naval academy. He said he saw no necessity for difficult examinations

House Democrats, in caucus, have agreed upon the abolition of the commerce court as a party policy and, turning deaf ears to pleas from their leaders, rejected a plan for the creation of a budget committee to control all appropriations.

Free sugar in 1916 and free raw wool are established in the tariff revision bill, having been approved by the Democratic caucus of the senate. The sugar schedule as reported by the majority members of the finance committee and practically as it passed the house was approved by a vote of 40 to 6. Free raw fool as submitted by the majority and just as it passed the house swept the senate caucus by a vote of 41 to 6. This ratification of President Wilson's tariff policy came after a long series of developments.

The United States army is now short at least 1,000 horses—a greater shortage than ever before has existed. The war department already has expended $100,000 allowed by congress March 4 last, and while another appropriation of $175,000 will be available July 1, at present prices not nearly enough horses can be had to meet the need. Fortunately, however, prices are somewhat lower than last year. Most of the horses purchased are from the Missouri markets, although efforts are being made to gather some horses at [illegible], Va.,

STORY OF FAMOUS CIVIL WAR FIGHT

Battle of Gettysburg Which Brought Credit to Both Blue and Gray.

TURNING POINT OF CONFLICT

Total Losses on Both Sides in Three Days' Fighting Over 50,000—Several Generals Killed and Wounded.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

WASHINGTON.—It is possible, some people would say probable, that the Battle of Gettysburg changed utterly the course of American history. It was a great fight between armies of Americans, for probably fully ninety per cent. of the men who fought on the two sides were born natives to the American soil. The bravery shown at Gettysburg was of the order which Americans have shown on every field and which reflects credit upon the hardy and heroic ancestry of the men engaged, no matter from what race they may have sprung.

At Gettysburg there was nothing to choose between the valor of the North and the South. The South lost the fight, but it lost it honorably and with the prestige of its soldiery undimmed. The charges made on that field have gone down into history as assaults made under conditions which every man felt might mean death at the end. The defenses made at Gettysburg were of the kind which it takes iron in the blood to make perfect. At Gettysburg Northerners and Southerners replenished their store of respect for their antagonists. The battle marked the high tide of the war between the states. After it the South largely was on the defensive, but its defense was maintained with fortitude and in the face of privations which could not chill the blood of men fighting for what they thought was the right.

The Northern armies were persistent in their attacks through the campaigns which after a few months were started aginst the objective point, Richmond. Brave men here and brave men there, and after the end came it was the qualities which keep company with bravery which made the soldiers of the North and South so ready to forget and to forgive and to work again for the good of a common country.

The great battle of Chancellorsville was fought not long before the opposing Union and Confederate forces met on the field of Gettysburg. Chancellorsville was a Confederate victory. The Southern government believed that the victory should be followed up by an invasion of the North for, according to its reasoning, if an important engagement could be won upon

Maj. Gen. George G. Meade.

Northern soil the chances of foreign intervention or at least foreign aid to the Southern cause, would be forthcoming.

General Robert E. Lee late in the spring of 1863, made his preparations to conduct his campaign Northward into the state of Pennsylvania. He had under his command three [illegible] General James Longstreet commanding the First, General Richard S. Ewell commanding the Second, and General A. P. Hill commanding the Third. In the Union army which afterward confronted Lee at Gettysburg, there were seven corps, but the number of men in each was much less than that in a Confederate corps, the military composition of each being different. The Union corps commanders who under Meade were at Gettysburg, were Generals John F. Reynolds, W. S. Hancock, Daniel E. Sickles, George Sykes, John Sedgwick, O. O. Howard and H. W. Slocum.

Forces Almost Evenly Matched.

It never has been determined beyond the point of all dispute just how many men were engaged on each side in the battle of Gettysburg. It is known that the armies were very nearly equal in strength, the probabilities being that the Confederate force was a few thousand men stronger than the Union force, a difference which was balanced perhaps by the fact that the Union armies at Gettysburg were fighting in defense of their land from invasion, a condition which military men say always adds a subtle something to the fighting quality which is in any man. Some authorities have said that there were 100,000 men in the Confederate forces at Gettysburg to be confronted by 90,000 Union troops. Another authority says that the Confederate force was 84,000 and the Union force 80,000. As it was the armies were pretty nearly equally divided in strength.

In June, 1863, General Robert E. Lee began to move northward. Lee concentrated his army at Winchester, Va., and then started for the Potomac river, which he crossed to reach the state of Maryland. He fully expected to be followed by General Hooker's army and so General Stuart with a large force of cavalry was ordered by Lee to keep in front of Hooker's army and to check his pursuit of the Confederates if it was attempted.

Late in June the Confederate force reached Hagerstown, in the state of Maryland. It was General Lee's intention to strike Harrisburg, Pa., which was a great railroad center and a city where Union armies were recruited and from which all kinds of supplies were sent out to the soldiers in the field. While the Southern commander was on his way with a large part of his force to the Pennsylvania capital another part of his command was ordered to make its way into the Susquehanna Valley through the town of Gettysburg and then to turn in its course after destroying railroads and gathering in supplies, and to meet the Confederate commander with the main army at Harrisburg.

It was General Jubal A. Early of General Lee's command, who reached Gettysburg after a long hard march on June 26. From there he went to the town of York and from thence to Wrightsville. At this place he was ordered by General Lee to retrace his steps and to bring his detachment back to a camp near Gettysburg. When Early ahd obeyed Lee's order and had reached a point near Gettysburg he found the entire Southern force was camped within easy striking distance of the now historic town.

In the meantime things were happening elsewhere. General Hooker in command of the Union army which had been depleted at Chancellorsville, had succeeded in out-maneuvering General Stuart in command of Lee's cavalry, had got around Stuart's command in a way to prevent the Southern general from forming a junction with the forces of his chief commander. Lee gave over the proposed movement on Harrisburg when he heard of Hooker's approach and brought the different parts of his army together.

Four days before the Gettysburg fight began General Hooker resigned as commander of the Union army. Hooker and General Hallock disagreed upon a matter concerning which strategists today say that General Hooker was right. Three days before the battle began, that is, June 28, 1863, General George Gordan Meade was named as General Hooker's successor in charge of the Northern army. General Meade at once went into the field and established his headquarters at a point ten or twelve miles south of the town of Gettysburg.

Armies Meet at Gettysburg.

It seems that General Lee on hearing that Stuart had not succeeded in checking the Union army's advance had made up his mind to turn southward to meet the force of Hooker, or as it turned out the force of Meade. Lee with his force had advanced north beyond Gettysburg, while Meade with his force was south of the town. The fields near the Pennsylvania village had not been picked as a place of battle, but there it was that the two great armies came together and for three days struggled for the mastery.

On the last day of June, the day before the real battle of Gettysburg began, General Reynolds, a corps commander of the Union army, went forward to feel out the enemy. He reached Gettysburg by nightfall. His corps, the First, together with the Third and the Eleventh Infantry Corps with a division of cavalry, composed the Union army's left wing.

The Fifth Army Corps was sent to Hanover, southeast of Gettysburg, and the Twelfth Corps was immediately south of Gettysburg at a distance of eight or nine miles. This was on June 30, and the Union forces were fairly well separted, but they were converging and Gettysburg was their objective.

General Reynolds of the Union forces arrived at Gettysburg early on the morning of July 1. He dispatched a courier to Meade saying that the high ground above Gettysburg was the proper place to meet the enemy. Not long after this message was sent to Meade General Reynolds who dispatched it, was killed. He was on horseback near a patch of woods with his force confronting a large detachment of Confederate troops which was coming toward them. These troops of the enemy were dispersed by the Union batteries and Reynolds was watching the successful solid shot and shrapnel onset when a bullet struck him in the head killing him instantly.

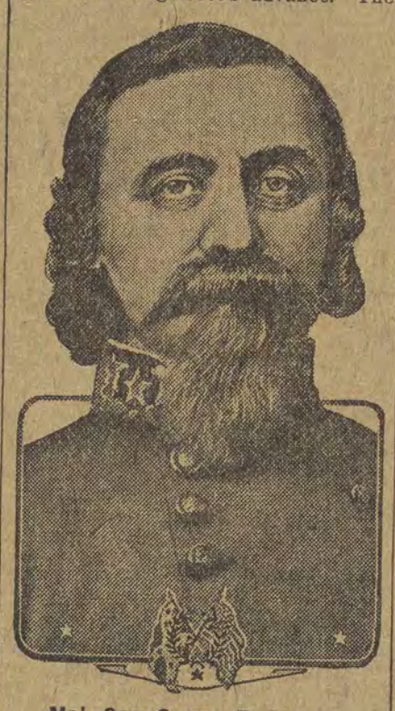
General Abner Doubleday succeeded Reynolds in command of the troops at that point of the field. A brigade of Confederates, a Mississippi organization, charged the Union forces, broke their organization and succeeded in making prisoners of a large part of a New York regiment. Later these men were recaptured and the Mississippi brigade was driven back, a portion of it surrendering. In the fight on the first day at this point of the field or near it, one Union regiment, the 151st Pennsylvania, lost in killed and wounded 337 men out of a total of 446 in a little more than a quarter of an hour's fight.

General Doubleday fell back to Seminary Ridge and extended his line. The forces employed against him here were greater than his own, and after hard fighting Seminary Ridge was given up. The first day's battle was in effect and in truth a victory for the Southern arms. On the night of July 1 General Hancock arrived and succeeded in rallying the Union forces and putting new heart into the men. General Meade on that night ordered the entire army to Gettysburg.

Victory Not Followed Up.

For some reason or other perhaps unknown to this day, what was virtually a Confederate victory on the first of July was not followed up by General Lee early on the next morning. General Meade therefore succeeded in strengthening his lines and in preparing for the greater conflict. One end of the Union line was some distance east of Cemetery Hill on Rock Creek, another end was at Round Top something more than two miles beyond Cemetery Hill to the south. The Confederate line confronting it was somewhat longer.

It is impossible in a brief sketch of this battle to give the names of the brigade and the regimental commanders and the names of the regiments which were engaged on both sides in this great battle. Meade, Hancock, Howard, Slocum and Sickles with their men were confronting Lee, Longstreet, Hill, Ewell and the other great commanders of the South with their men. The line of battle with the spaces in between the different commands was nearly ten miles. It was the Confederate general's intention to attack at the extreme right and left and at the center simultaneously. It was to be General Longstreet's duty to turn the left flank of the Union army and to "break it." Longstreet's intended movement was discovered in time to have it met valiantly. The battle of the second day really began with Longstreet's advance. The



Maj. Gen. George E. Pickett.

Southern general did not succeed in the plan which he had formed to get by Big Round Top and to attack the Third Corps from a position of vantage in the rear. General Sickles defended Round Top and Longstreet could not take it.

When one visits the battlefield of Gettysburg he can trace the course of battle of the second day where it raged at Round Top, Peach Orchard, Cemetery Hill, Culp's Hill, and what is known as The Devil's Den. The tide of battle ebbed and flowed. Little Round Top was saved from capture by the timely arrival of a brigade commanded by General Weed that dragged the guns of a United States regular battery up to the summit by hand.

At the end of the second day's fight it was found that the Southern army had failed to break the left flank of the opposing forces, that it had failed to capture Round Top and that the right flank of the Northern army, although vigorously attacked, had not been broken. There was a tremendous loss of life on both sides, and while in general the day had gone favorably to the Northren cause Gettysburg was still a drawn battle.

Charge of Gen. Pickett.

It was on July 3, the third and last day of the great battle of Gettysburg that Pickett's men made their charge which has gone into history as one of the most heroic assaults of all time. It was forlorn hope but it was grasped and the men of George Edward Pickett, Confederate soldier, went loyally and with full hearts to their death across a shrapnel and rifle swept field.

When the third day's fighting opened it began with an artillery duel, hundreds of guns belching forth shot and death from the batteries of both contending forces. It is said that this was the greatest duel engaged in by field pieces during the four years of the war between the states.

The Union guns at one time ceased firing, and it is said that the southern commander thought they had been silenced, and then it was that Longstreet's men made an assault and Pickett's men made their charge. The former general's objective was Big Round Top, but his forces were driven back. Picket formed his division in brigade columns and they moved directly across the fields over flat ground. They had no cover and they had no sooner come into effective range than they were met by such a storm of shot as never before swept over a field of battle.

They went on and on, and on closing in their depleted ranks and moving steadily forward to their death. Those of Pickett's men who reached their destination had a short hand-to-hand encounter with the northern soldiers. It was soon over and Pickett's charge, glorious for all time in history, was a failure in that which it attempted to do, but was a success as helping to show the heroism of American soldiers.

The losses at Gettysburg on both sides were enormous. The Union army lost Generals Zook, Farnsworth, Weed and Reynolds, killed; while Graham, Barnes, Gibbon, Warren, Doubleday, Barlow, Sickles, Butterfield and Hancock were wounded. The total casualties killed ,wounded, captured or missing on the Union side numbered nearly 24,000 men. On the Confederate side Generals Semmes, Pender, Garnet, Armistead, and Barksdale were killed, and Generals Kemper, Kimbal, Hood, Heth, Johnson and Trimble were wounded. The entire Confederate loss is estimated to have been nearly 30,000 men.

The third day's fight at Gettysburg was a victory for northern arms, but it was a hard won fight and the conflict reflects luster today upon the north and the south. Lee led his army back southward, later to confront Grant in the campaigns which finally ended at Appomattox.

Forces Engaged and Losses.

The forces engaged at the Battle of Gettysburg were:

Confederate—According to official accounts the Army of North Virginia, on the 31st of May numbered 74,468. The detachments which joined numbered 6,400, making 80,868. Deducting the detachments left in Virginia—Jankins' brigade, Pickett's division, 2,300; Corse's brigade, Pickett's division, 1,700; detachments from Second corps and cavalry, 1,300, in all 5,300—leaves an aggregate of 75,568.

Union—According to the reports of the 30th of June, and making allowance for detachments that joined in the interim in time to take part in the battle, the grand aggregate was 100,000 officers and men.

The casualties were:

COTTON MADE GOOD PROGRES PAST WEEK

PLANT GREW WELL AND CULTIVATION KEPT UP TO STANDARD.

GENERAL RAIN IS NEEDED

As Compared With May 25 Crop Shows 2.7 Point Improvement and Figures Are Placed at 81.8 For the Belt.

Memphis.—There has been an improvement in the crop since May 25, estimated at 2.7 points, and using the government condition report of June 2 as a basis, the condition of the crop as of date June 25 is placed at 81.8 per cent of normal.

The weather for the past week has been favorable and good progress was made all over the belt. Plant is growing rapidly in most sections and made up to a small degree the lateness that has characterized it. Although still somewhat late, the plant is sturdy and healthy all over the belt. Half-grown bolls are reported from San Antonio, Tex., and blooms have been found as far north as Shelby county, Tennessee.

There is much need of moisture in the central belt, and unless rains come this week considerable damage will result. However, the plant is being made to hold up well against drouth by the state of cultivation, which may be termed extraordinarily good, and if a general rain visits the central belt this week all damage will be overcome. Local showers fell in scattered localities all over the belt during the week and relieved the drouth in many sections, but a general rain is badly needed in the central belt and would not hurt in all states, except in a few localities in the Carolinas.

There is complaint of boll weevil from a constantly widening area, but the damage done so far is reported to be nominal, and in many sections of Mississippi and Louisiana the farmers have almost rid the fields of the pest by picking them and the punctures squares and burning them.

BLUE AND GRAY CAMP AGAIN

Prepare for the Fiftieth Anniversary of Great Battle.

Gettysburg, Pa.—Gettysburg stepped 50 years backward Sunday into the vista of history and looked again upon an army of Blue and an army of Gray, meeting at her doorstep to join in the semi-centennial celebration of the greatest battle of the war between the states and to show the world that scars are not so deep as the feeling of American brotherhood.

All day veterans in blue and gray trooped into the little town, which has slept peacefully among its hills since Lee and Meade turned their legions southward so long ago. More than 30 special trains came into the village during the day.

From the station of the two railroads that come into the village, it is a good long mile to the camp of 5,000 tents where the veterans are housed. Thousands shouldered their suitcases and walked. The sun was scorching hot and many succumbed before they found their tents. There was no complaining, however.

Every possible arrangement for the comfort of the united armies has been made. The camp itself lies on ground that has been baked as hard as brick and dried into dust by the winds.

WILL HONOR T. ROOSEVELT

Monument to Him Will Be Erected at Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala.—Unique in the history of the country is the movement here and in process of organiaztion to erect a monument to an ex-president of the United States, commemorating his service in a particular district through an official act of national scope.

In Birmingham, the metropolis of Alabama, and the south's industrial center, though in the heart of Democratic Dixie, funds are being volunteered to erect a handsome monument to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, because while president, he permitted the United States Steel Corporation to take over the properties of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company.

BALKAN STATUS IMPROVES.

Prospects of Peaceful Settlement of Trouble More Hopeful.

Sofia.—The prospects of a peaceful settlement of the Balkan situation are considered improved. It is said that Premier Daneff will go to St. Petersburg and it is rumored that the Bulgarian government is prepared to make some concessions to Servia.

Danger continues, however, in the military situation. It is reported that the Servians are concentrating large bodies of troops on their advanced line.

Galveston, Tex.—Stories of alleged persecution in Mexico were brought here Sunday by 72 refugees from Mexico, who arrived on the steamship Alabama from Tampico. They were assisted in getting away by Red Cross funds. M. A. Griffin of San Antonio said that on May 31 he was stood up against the wall of his home, covered by rifles of four insurrecto soldiers and given a count of ten to deliver $1,000 in gold.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala. as second-class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

There are some citizens of Clanton who are determined that this town shall have the Chilton County High School. Watch out for them. They are going to "start something" in that direction right soon, and they intend to start something that can be stopped by nothing save the building of the schooll.

There is some kind of strange disease among horses mules and hogs in this sec tion that is causing considerable loss. Only this week in Clanton there have been two fine horses and a mule to die with it. We have heard of several farmers losing fine hogs within the last few days.

The dry hot weather which has been over this section for the past few weeks was broken Saturday and Sunday, or at leas the drought was; the heat seems to be about as scorching as ever. Several sections of the county report heavy rainfall, and severe winds doing considerable damage to growing crops, especially large corn.

The Chilton County Baptists seem to be gerring protty well lined up, as was evidenced by the convention at Thorsby Sunday. They have gotton their Sunday School work strictly in harmony with their Church work, and the prospects are that they will soon begin to do things the way Baptists want them done. This seems a pretty feasible idea, for it is a poor tub that cannot stand on its own bottom.

If you should be disturbed some night by some low groaning noise, you need not become frightened. Very probably it is nothing more than your next-door neighbor snoring in his sleep on the veranda. For many have abandoned their rooms on account of the severe heat and are seeking relief by sleeping on the back porch; and you can occasionally hear one snoozing on the front porch, under cover of a dense cluster of morning glory.

Another thing that points to Baptist prosperity is the institution of the Baptist High School which is to open at Thorsby next fall. The supporters of the denomination in Chilton and Autauga Counties hope to make such a school of this one as the South Alabama Baptists have at Newton. Building such a school from the foundation is a job of no little magnitude, and it requires the loyal support of every Baptist in Cnilton and Autauga Counties. But by keeping in mind the old maxim: "Perseverance is the price of success," their hopes will some day be realized.

Last Monday the big road working machine came through town, and the first thing it reminded us of was the story of the famous Pipir of Hamlin. Trailing behind the thing were dozens of kids of every kind and dress. Some of them had on hats, and some in their haste had left home to follow the wonderful thing without thinking the world possessed any such thing as a hat. Those who were able to keek up with the machine were close behind it and others who were lame straggled far behind; still others stood on corners and eagerly watched the parade pass, because their mammas happened to see them just before they had time to join the band of youthful pilgrims. In every way it was a most striking likeness of the picture presented in the story books where the revengeful piper led the poor children away by his magic music and shut them up in the side of a hill. Only the music was different. That which the children of Hamlin followed surely was more fascinating than that made by the ugly road machine.

Every farmer has in min some bad swamp, bridge or hill on his public road which could be placed in first-class condition by a couple of days work with good teams and tools. Why not all rally to the call started by the Farmers Union and get together the last week in August and improve these bad hills, swamps and bridges? It will be a time of practically total idleness on the farm, being the period just between "laying by," and gathering time. You could not employ yourself in a better or more profitable way, and it is the most immediate way to secure an improvement in road conditions. It will help you next fall when you begin to haul your cotton to town.

We are publishing elsewhere a notice of the formation ot the Law firm of Middleton, Denson and Reynolds. Messrs Middleton and Reynolds are well known and prominent young attorneys of this town having been practicing their profession here for some time. Mr. Denson is aprominent lawyer of Birmingham and is also well known in Clanton, having had quite an extensive practice in the courts of the county. The new firm promises great success, as all the members are very enthusiastic lawyers.

Get in the line-up now and let us "land" the County High School proposition. We should not become so deeply interested in building roads, power plants and other things that we neglect the opportunity of giving our boys and girls high school training at home. It not only means immensely superior educational advantages placed within the grasp of your boy or girl but it means actual money saved to you who are to send them away. No school gives better preparation for entering college than a County High School, and no man wishes to send his boy or girl away to school when he or she can obtain the same training at home. These advantages are easily possible if you will only do your part, lend your support and good will to the move. You will soon have an opportunity to do so; and let every citizen of Clanton show an interest.

I have recently purchased the stock of goods and fixtures of T. G. Taylor and will remain in his old stand for a short time. As I have only a short time in which to get the goods out, and as my store is already stocked up I will be compelled to give bargains for this stock in order to reduce it where I can move it into my present place of business. So come one come all; bring your chickens, eggs or cash—either will be accepted for merchandise, and we guarantee that the amount will satisfy you.

WILEY LITTLEJOHN.

The editor of the Union-Banner speaks of the advantages and opportunities of a County High School from the standpoint of a student, having been in the past in direct connection with one. and all my experiences point out that there is not a greater advantage to the young man or woman than to have in his home town a County High School where he can prepare himself for entering college, and stay at home while he is doing so. Many boys and girls have gone away from Clanton to secure High School training, and in doing so they have carried with them from three to five hundred dollars every year, that should have been kept at home. Besides keeping these students and money at home, a High School here would bring boys and girls from other places who have their three or four huncred dollars to spend while in school. We should not sleep on the opportunity any longer. Let us get busy and bring Chilton out of that list of dead counties that have not enough energy to raise a county High School. She does not belong in that list, for she certainly possesses the means for raising and supporting the school, if any county in the state does.

DR. GRAGG RETURNS FROM TRIP TO NORTH.

Last Sunday night Dr. V. J. Gragg returned from a two weeks trip to the north. The main pnrpose of his trip was to attend the American Medical Association which recently convened in Minneapolis. But while he had a good excuse the doctor "stole" a few days from his practice and enjoyed quite a vacation. He spent a few days in Chicago, visiting some of the most noted surgeons in that city. He says the most enjoyable part of his trip was the five days spent in observation at the hospitals of the world-famous Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minn. The doctor says their various surgery departments were about as amusing to him as a five ring circus is to a ten year old boy. He returns to his work feeling much refreshed by his enjoyable vacation.

LOCAL DRUGGIST MAKES STATEMENT

Says Dodson's Liver Tone is the Best Remedy for Constipation and Shirking Liver he has Ever Sold.

Every person who has tried Dodson's Liver Tone and knows how surely and gently it starts the liver to working and relieves biliousness will bear out the Alred Drug Co. in this statement about Dodson's Liver Tone.

"It is a purely vegetable liquid, that entirely takes the place of calomel, harmless and pleasant to the taste, that has proven itself the most satisfactory remedy for a slow-working liver that most of our customers have ever tried. A large bottle sells for fifty cents and we do not hesitate to give the money back to any person who tries a bottle on the strength of this statement and is not satisfied with the result."

In these days of doubtful medicines and dangerous drugs, a statement like the above is a pleasant assurance that Dodson's Liver Tone is a reliable remedy for both children and grownups. In buying a bottle for immediate or future use it is well to make sure you are getting the genuine Dodson's Liver Tone and not some spurious imitation that has copied our claims, but do not stand back of their guarantee! You may be certain of getting the genuine if you go to Alred Drug Co. for it.

CLANTON TEAM STILL IN THE LEAD.

Clanton pulled off her most interesting exciting, and hardest fought baseball "stunt" at Jemison last Thursday, June 26. From the first of the game both sides contended vigorously, and the struggle continued unabated till the fourteenth inning. In the first part it looked very much as if the Jemison team would win, but the Clanton boys got down to real business and gradually gained on their opponents till in the eighth innning the score was 5 and 5. This score was held till 13 innning were played, but in the first of the fourteenth, Clanton made another score, when the game was closed with a final of 6 and 5 in favor of Clanton.

The features of the game were the sensational pitching of Pyron for Clanton and Bean for Jemison, and the excellent support the teams on both sides gave their pitchers. Batteries for Clanton were Pyron, Mcdowell; for Jemison Bean, Scott and Sims.

Up to this date Clanton has played eleven games and lost only one of them. We have the fastest amateur team in central Alabama, and our boys extend a challenge to any amateurs in the state who may wish to go against them.

The Clanton and Jemison teams tie up in a double header at Thorsby to-morrow, and indications are that it will be one of the most interesting contests of the season. A cash prize of ten dollars will be given the winning team in each game.

Popes and Newspapers.

A short time ago the managing editors of our newspapers demanded in great haste a complete article on the pope. Pius X., in fact, was for 48 hours passing a grave crisis. It was believed that death was near, but very happily he has regained his health.

In 1890 suddenly the rumor ran that Leo XIII. was near death. Immediately all our journals compiled a necrological article on the holy father, written in haste. But Leo XIII. did not die until 13 years later, and one could name a Parisian journal that kept this article "on the marble" (the composing stone)—that is to say, in reserve all these 13 years. We hope that the biography of Pius X., like that of his predecessor, who died at the age of ninety-three years, may likewise remain on the marble for 13 years.—Le Cri de Paris.

Patent No. 1,048,569.

A long-felt nursery want has been supplied at last by Jessie May Mitchell of Clayton, Mass.

The Scientific American says that she has procured a patent, No. 1,048,569, for a thumb and finger sucking preventer, in which there is a stall fitted on the thumb or finger, and a round disk, too large to be inserted in the mouth, is held by the stall on the end of the thumb or finger so that the latter cannot be put in the mouth.

Wonder if it can be used on the big toe?

If not, there is a chance for some fond and ingenious mother to secure patent No. 1,048,570.

To Lessen Wreck's Horror.

To swell the horrors of a sea disaster at night the lights are apt to be put out by the flooding of the electric generating plant. Experiments are being made on a new British vessel that is under construction, with a gasoline electric plant that may be placed on the bridge deck. This set will not only supply the light, but the wireless telegraph apparatus as well, until the very moment of complete submergence of the vessel. This generating set will be used only in emergencies.

Dr. T. H. Nabors, who has been with the Alred Drug Company for the past year or more as pharmacist, has severed his connection with that firm and will spend the summer at his home in Goodwater. His many friends regret very much to see him leave Clanton.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN "THE SUMMER GIRL" AND "THE SUMMER WOMAN."

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble and not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For Sale by All Dealers Everywhere.

CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to thank the good people of Clanton for the kindness shown me in the illness of my son. Especially Drs. N. S. Johnson, P. I. Hopkins and Mrs. Gamma Anderson.

A bad taste in the mouth comes from a disordered stomach, and back of that is usually a torpid liver:—A condition which invites disease. Herbine is the remedy needed. It corrects the stomach and makes the liver active and regular. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

CLANTON THE TOWN OF SHRINERS.

It is the boast of Clanton, and that with substantial reasons, that she possesses more Shriners according to population, than any town in the world. On account of this prominence and distinction the local shriners club was called upon recently by the Alcazar Shriners Temple of Montgomery to furnish that body with an officer. In compliance with this requsst the local order held an informal meeting in the Gowan Building Tuesday afternoon and elected Judge E. B. Deason to the honorable office—Second Ceremonial Master of Alcazar Temple.

At the same time the Local Shriners Club was organized with W. H. Sartor, President, and H. G. Reynolds, Secretary and Treasurer. They elected a committee on By-Laws, consisting of H. G. Reynolds, J. W. Stanfield, and Guy Higgins.

It is understood that some time in the near future the Clanton Shriners will entertain the Alcazar and other Temples at a ceremonial. Nothing definite as to arrangements and date have yet been made.

The agonizing discomfort and sense of suffocation that accompany hay fever and asthma may be greatly alleviated by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It has a soothing effect on the mucus linings, and relieves the gasping and tickling sensation in the throat and bronchial tubes. For Sale by All Dealers Everywhere.

MRS. SIMPSON ENTERTAINS.

Probably the most unique and enjoyable entertainment for the young people of Clanton this summer was that given by Mrs. H. M. Simpson Tuesday night in honor of Miss Sallie Oakley of Mississippi. The affair was styled as a "Tackey Party," and the guests were attired to harmouize with the occasion. All the styles of dress that have ever been in vogue since the early colonial days were represented. Among some of the most prominent were the maid of honor, Miss Oakley, who was a true representative of the ladies of the early days when it was all style to wear the hoop frock. Miss Mabel Jones was loudly in evidence with a very becoming hat and dress that would have been worn by a maid of a century ago with the greatest delight and self satisfaction.

Among the boys were Burton and Hoke of course. They seemed to take the occasion in just the same spirit as if it had been a true quilting party or corn husking of the days which the party so appropriately represented. Courtney Harper and Erle Pinckard were sights beyond description. Clarence Evans would have been taken for a real Roger Williams or some other Colonial Divine without the thought of Questioning his reality.

Several interesting games were played, and there was fun galore for every one present. Punch was served during the entire evening.

The prize for the tackiest girl, a bottle of Hoyts perfume was awarded to Miss Izora Callen by vote of the guests. A large bandana handkerchief was awarded to Mack Wyatt as being the tackiest boy. The visitor's prize, a large stick of peppermint candy was won by Miss Winnie Kelley of Sylocauga. In the cake walk contest the prize was won by Rilla Smith and Clint Jones.

The out of town guests who enjoyed the entertainment were: Misses Sallie Oakley, of Mississippi, guest of honor, Miss Winnie Kelley of Sylacauga, and Miss Fay Moore of Sellers, Ala.

Much credit is due Mrs. Simpson for the delightful way she entertained the guests of the party, and every one present was loud in expressing their enjoyment of the occasion.

BAPTIST CONVENTION HELD AT THORSBY.

A large number of people assembled from all parts of the county at the Baptist church in Thorsby last Sunday, in attendance at the Chilton County Baptist Sunday School Convention. The members of the Convention manifested great interest in the work and showed their determination to make a more united effort in the interest of the denomination in the county.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises led by Rev. M. C. Crumpton.

Prof. J. J. Pickens made a masterful presentation of his assigned subject: "Three Mountain Peak thoughts of the last Quarter's lessons."

"The parent's place in the Sunday School," was ably discussed by Mr. J. W. P. Murphy. The speaker showed plainly the duties of parents in coming to Sunday School, and seeing that the youths are reared under its influence. Prof. A. W. Tate, Principal of the Baptist Collegiate Institute at Newton spoke to the convention on the subject: "The Lord's Poor—The past and future." Prof. Tate made a most splendid address, not only covering his subject thoroughly, but branching out into those kindred lines of thought which govern the growth and perfection of ideal christian character and education.

The good citizens of Thorsby carried the delegates to their homes and furnished them dinner and pleasant entertainment during the noon hour.

The first subject for discussion after noon was, "Why should Baptists do their own Sunday School work?" This subject had been assigned Rev. W. M. Olive, who gave it a spleddid discusssion

The relation of Sunday school and church," was spoken to by W. H. Cannell.

The remainder of the time was taken up in short talks by various members and items of general business were disposed of.

An important subject throughout the meeting was that pertaining to the Baptist High School to be located at Thorsby.

This seems to be about the largest task the Baptists of this county have ever undertaken, but they are strong enough to take care of it if they can only keep up the proper interest and determination.

LOOKOUT FOR THE HEALTH OF YOUR HORSES THESE HOT DAYS!

Much of the sickness that impairs the health of work stock has its beginning in ordinary ailments of the organs of digestion or elimination. Stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels of animals are quickly benefitted by the use of BLACKMAN'S MEDICATED SALT BRICK.

WHERE ARE YOU GOING?

No one need have any trouble about finding a place to spend the fourth. There are to be celebrations "pulled off" at various places in the County.

Thorsby promises about the liveliest time of any. The Red Men and Woodmen are going to give a joint celebration. Hon. L. H. Reynolds is programmed to make an address; a delightful round of refreshments will be served at the noon hour; in the afternoon there are to be two ball games between the Clanton and Jemison teams; balloon ascensions and fire works at night—these are some of the main features that are on the program.

There is to be a celebration of no little interest at Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek, which is expected to draw large crowds wards.

Various picnics, barbecues, ball games, lemonade and ice-cream festivals are to be held at different places, and everyone expects to spend a "glorious Fourth."

Stings or bites of insects that are followed by swellings, pain or itching should be treated promptly as they are poisonous. Ballard's Snow Liniment counteracts the poison. It is both antiseptic and healing. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Emergency Plea.

One night Marjorie and her sister were enjoying a pillow fight before going to sleep. They had been told repeatedly to be quiet. Finally their mother could stand the noise no longer and started for their room. They heard her coming, and five-year-old Marjorie dropped down on her knees beside her bed and said: "Oh, God, please turn me into a mouse, so I can hide under the bureau!"

Peggy's Daddy.

A charming incident occurred when the king and queen visited the municipal buildings at Stoke recently, says the London Daily Mail. Among those who were presented to their majesties was the rector of Stoke, Prebendary H. V. Stuart. There was absolute stillness in the hall when, at the moment that the king was shaking hands with Prebendary Stuart, a child's voice rang out, with a glad cry of recognition, "Daddy!"

It came from a little girl in the gallery, the rector's daughter, Peggy, and it was so deliciously natural that everybody was at once put at his ease. The king and queen laughed heartily at the unexpected interruption. The face of the child turned red as she was gently chided, but she will certainly remember the queen's kindly smile as her majesty looked in her direction.

Old English Superstition.

Good Friday in former days enabled the careful English citizen to save his fire insurance policy, for it was firmly believed that an egg laid on that day would unfailingly extinguish any fire on which it was thrown, and such eggs were carefully saved for emergencies. So, too, bread baked on Good Friday had its protective value, for three loaves put in a heap of corn would prevent its being devoured by rats and mice. And an infant born on Good Friday was supposed to possess naturally the power of curing fevers.

CURE FOR IVY POISONING

New York Doctor Gives a Remedy Which Is Said to Have Been Proved Efficacious.

All sorts of things are advised for the cure of poisoning by ivy. So many people are bothered with the common "poison ivy" during the summer that there are always scores looking for a cure. A very simple one has been suggested by Dr. Robert T. Morris of New York. It is as follows:

"As soon as the symptoms of itching and redness appear and you know you have exposed yourself to the innocent looking but poisonous vine wash the spots thoroughly with green soap, using a brush for the washing and follow this with another thorough washing with 98 per cent. grain alcohol."

One treatment of this, if taken early enough, or when the first signs of the poison appear, will generally result in driving out the poison and effecting an immediate cure.

Newest Discovery for Sick Liver, Constipation, Sick Headache and Malaria

Everyone Feels Fine First Day After taking Carswell's Liver-Aid. No More Calomel for People of Clanton. Money Back if not Satisfied.

Kick Your Calomel out the Back Door.

Have you heard about the new liver remedy that Upchurch Drug Co is selling so much of? Don't bother any more with calomel; the new remedy is safer better, surer and no after misery and distress. And here's a statement that shows how good CARSWELL'S LIVER-AID is; if you buy it for any ailment for which we recommend it and you are not satisfied with results money back without red tape at Upchurch Drug Co.

CARSWELL'S LIVER-AID is purely vegetable; is pleasant to take (which makes it the ideal remedy to clean out the bowels of the little ones) it acts on the liver without harshness, gently but surely drives the poisonous gas and foul accumulation from the bowels.

It banishes constipation, ends the misery of sick headache, stomach distress and indigestion, and for malaria and kidney disease it is surely a quick acting, splendid medicine.

The LADY of the MOUNT

by FREDERIC S. ISHAM
AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS," "UNDER THE ROSE" ETC.
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WALTERS

COPYRIGHT 1908 BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO.

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI. was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles. Her Ladyship dances with strange fisherman, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious Le Seigneur Noir. He escapes. Lady Elise is caught in the "Grand" tide. The Black Seigneur rescues and takes her to his retreat. Elise discovers that her savior was the boy with the fish.

CHAPTER X.—(Continued.)

"'By this time the ship of the Black Seigneur had drawn nearer and our men put about and made for the Mount with a number of prisoners. Several shots were sent after us, but we managed to reach port.'"

"The officer in charge of the troops thinks this fellow, their leader, was wounded severely—fatally perhaps?"

"He thinks it most probable, your Excellency."

For some time the Governor, with frowning brows, sipped silently from a glass of liquor at his elbow, and, stiff, motionless, the commandant waited; close at hand, a dove plumed itself on the roof of the cloister walk; beyond, the girl again began to sing fitfully.

Out of the corner of his eye the commandant dared look at her, leaning now against the wall, the clear-cut, white features outlined against an illimitable blue background.

"Les amours—"

Involuntarily he started to raise a hand to his warlike mustache, when abruptly was his wandering attention recalled. "The man ashore I spoke to you about, has been taken into custody?"

"Yes, your Excellency; and is now at the barracks."

"Send him here. One moment—" The commandant paused, vaguely conscious the girl had moved away from the wall. "You spoke of there being a lack of room—these new prisoners must be confined in the dungeons; if necessary, crowd more of the others in the upper cells, and—there is still the Devil's Cage."

"The Devil's Cage?" Through the rose-tinted columns, above the Governor's head, the commandant could discern the figure of the Lady Elise, who had approached and now was gazing inquiringly at them. "Your Excellency would use that? One can neither lie down in it, nor sit in it, upright?"

"Well," the cold eyes flashed, "it is not intended for upright people! But the man you were ordered to arrest!" with sudden sharpness; "the man from the shore! Send him to me!"

"At once, your Excellency!" And responding promptly to his superior's mood, the commandant saluted briskly, and retired.

"What man?" The drapery of her gown drawn back, the Lady Elise stood poised on the court's low coping between the fairy-like pillars.

"No one you know, my dear."

"Which means—it is none of my concern?"

"Not at all." His voice was now perfunctory; and his expression, as he surveyed her, slightly questioning. "You are looking somewhat pale today?"

"Am I?" carelessly. "I—I feel very well." As she spoke, she went to him and leaned over the back of his chair. "Mon pere, won't you do something for me?"

"What?"

"Promise first." With her hand on his shoulder.

He reached up; the long, cold fingers stroked the shapely, warm ones. "One should never leap into the dark with a promise," he answered. "Especially to a woman."

"Not even when that woman is one's own daughter?" she asked, sliding to the arm of the chair.

He regarded the bright face now thoughful; the lips, usually laughing, set sensitively. "Is it another trip to the court, or do you wish to turn this stern old Mount again into a palace of pleasure? To invite once more the Paris lords and ladies—the King, himself, perhaps? It would not be the first time a monarch has been entertained at the Mount—or a Marquis, either, eh? Shall we ask the Marquis?"

She made an impatient movement. "I want you to promise to break up the terrible iron cage, and—"

"Tut!" Jocosely he pinched the fair cheek. "A girl's thoughts should be of the court and the cavaliers."

She turned away her head. "You treat me like a child," she said with a flash in her eyes.

"No, no! Like a woman," he laughed. "But the Marquis—perhaps he could not come here; perhaps he is too much concerned with the gaieties of Paris!" Her figure straightened; she was about to walk away, when—

"You ride this afternoon?" he asked.

"I had not thought of it."

"If you do I desire that some one accompany you." Her face changed; she looked at him quickly, and half turned. "Remember Saladin as well and—keep closer to the Mount in the future."

"Poor Saladin!" she breathed, with averted glance.

"He got his deserts!" answered the Governor harshly. "An ugly trick that of his—to bolt and leave you stranded at the extreme point of the mainland where the bay swings around!"

"The 'grand' tide—it came in so fast—and made so much noise—"

"It frightened him! Well, fortunate it was, indeed, you were not on his back; that you had already reached the point, and had had time to dismount! An unpleasant experience, nevertheless—with the water separating you from the Mount, and a great curve of land to be walked before you could arrive at a human habitation!"

"I—it wasn't a very comfortable feeling," she acknowledged, flushing.

"And if the fisherman hadn't subsequently seen you and taken you across in his little boat, you would have been more uncomfortable later. You rewarded him well, I trust?"

"He—wouldn't take anything."

"And you neglected to inquire his name?"

"I—did not think."

"You were so glad to get back?" remarked the Governor, regarding her closely. "What sort of man was he?" abruptly.

"Old."

"And—"

"That—is all I remember."

"Hum! Not very lucid. No doubt you were too overwrought, my dear, to be in an observant mood." His voice sank absently; his fingers sought among the papers, and, as his glance fell, the girl walked away. Again she leaned on the parapet, and once more regarded the barren waste below—the figures of the cockle-seekers, mere specks, the shadow of the Mount, stamped on the sand, with the saint, a shapeless form, holding up a tapering black line—a sword—at the apex.

"She is keeping back something. What?" Above an official-looking document the Governor watched her, his lips compressed, his eyes keen; then shrugged his shoulders and resumed his occupation. The death-like hush of an aerial region surrounded them; the halcyon peace of a seemingly chimerical cloister; until suddenly broken by an indubitable clangor—harsh, hard!—of a door, opening; shutting. The Governor lifted his head in annoyance; the dove on the roof of the cloister-walk flew away, and a short, fat man, breathing hard, appeared.

"Pardon, your Excellency! But the drafts! They seem sometimes to sweep up from the very dungeons themselves, and—"

"Well?"

Beppo cut short excuse, or explanation. "A prisoner is waiting without. The man, Sanchez, from the shore! Monsieur le Commandant, who brought him, told me to inform you."

The Governor considered a moment with down-bent brows. "You may show him in, but first," he glanced up with a frown, "I have a question to put to you."

"Your Excellency?"

"This morning you thought fit to apprise me," Beppo looked uncomfortable, "in view of the events of last night—that you saw yesterday this fellow, Sanchez, setting out in a sailboat, accompanied by a priest—a fact that might have been of great service to me, had I been aware of it in season!" The Governor paused to allow the full weight of his disapproval to be felt. "At what hour did you see them start out?"

"About dusk, the time of the 'grand' tide," was the crestfallen answer. "I was following the shore, feeling anxious on account of the Lady Elise, who, I knew, had gone in the direction of the forest, when I saw them, some distance out, but not too far to recognize this fellow's boat and in it two men, one of them in the black robes of a priest. I attached no importance to the incident until—"

The Governor interrupted. "You may send the prisoner in," he said shortly. "No—wait!" Toward the spot where the girl had been standing the Governor glanced quickly, but that post of observation was now vacant, and his Excellency more deliberately looked around; caught no sight of her. "You may send him in here," he said, "alone. I will speak with the prisoner in private."

CHAPTER XI.

The Governor Is Surprised.

But the Lady Elise had not gone. Passing from the cloister through the great arched doorway leading to the high-roofed refectory, she had stopped at the sight of a number of people gathered near the entrance. At first she had merely glanced at them; then started, as, in the somewhat dim light prevailing there, her eyes became fixed upon one of their number.

Obviously a prisoner, he stood in the center of the group, with head down-bent, a hard, indifferent expression on his countenance. Amazed, the girl was about to step forward to address him—or the commandant—when Beppo appeared from the cloister, walked toward the officer, and, in a low ill-humored tone, said something she could not hear. Whatever it was, the commandant caused him to repeat it; made a gesture to the soldiers, who drew back, and spoke himself to the prisoner. The latter did not reply nor raise his eyes, and the commandant laid a heavy hand on his shoulder, whereupon the prisoner moved forward mechanically, through the doorway.

"You are sure his Excellency said 'alone'?" asked the commandant.

"As sure as I have ears," answered Beppo.

"But her ladyship—see! She is walking after him."

Beppo shrugged his shoulders. "She always does what she pleases; no orders apply to her."

In the shadow of the cloister roof, at a corner where the double row of pillars met, the girl paused; looked out through the columns, her hand at her breast. The Governor was unconcernedly writing; not even when the prisoner stepped forward did he turn from his occupation; at his leisure dotted an "i" and crossed a "t;" sprinkled sand lightly over the paper; waited a moment; then tapped the fine particles from the letter. For his part, the prisoner displayed equal patience, standing in an attitude of stolid endurance.

"Your name is Sanchez?" At length the Governor seemed to notice the other's presence.

"Yes."

"And you formerly served the Seigneur Desaurac? Followed him to America?"

"As your Excellency knows." The servant's tone was veiled defiance.

A trace of pink sprang to the Governor's brow, though the eyes he lifted were impassive. "You will answer 'yes' or 'no'!" He reached for a stick of wax, held it up to the tiny flame of a lamp; watched the red drops fall. "When you returned, it was to live in the forest with—a nameless brat?"

"My master's son!"

"By a peasant woman, his—"

"Wife!"

The Governor smiled; applying a seal, pressed it hard. "The courts found differently," he observed in a mild, even voice, as speaking to himself and extolling the cause of justice.

"The courts! Because the priest who married them had been driven from Brittany! Because he could not be found then! Because—" The man's indignation had got the better of his taciturnity, but he did not finish the sentence.

"Either," said the Governor quietly, "you are one of his simple-minded people who, misguided by loyalty, cherish illusions, or you are a scheming rogue. No matter which, unfortunately," in crisp tones, "it is necessary to take time to deal with you."

"At your Excellency's service!" And the man folded his arms but, again turning to his table, the Governor apparently found some detail of employment there of paramount importance; once more kept the prisoner waiting.

The silence lengthened; in the dim light of the walk noiselessly the girl drew nearer; unseen, reached the old abbot's great granite chair with its sheltering back to the court and close to the Governor's table. Into the capacious depths of this chilly throne, where once the high and holy dignitary of the church had been accustomed to recline while brethren laved his feet from the tiny stone lavatorium before it, she half sank, her cheek against one of its cold sides; in an attitude of expectation breathlessly waited. Why was it so still? Why did not her father speak? She could hear his pen scratch, scratch!

They were again speaking; more eagerly she bent forward; listened to the hard, metallic voice of the Governor.

"You left the castle at once when the decree of the court, ordering it vacated, was posted in the forest?"

"My master told me to, pretending he was going, but—"

"I—I Feel Very Well.

"Have I not told you—" began the Governor sternly, when—

"Bah!" burst from the prisoner violently. "Why should I deny what your Excellency so well knows? I told my master not to trust her; that she would play him false; and that once out of his hands—"

"Her? Whom do you mean?" The Governor's eyes followed the man's; stopped. "Elise!"

"I think," her eyes very bright, the girl walked quickly toward him, "I think this man means me."

"Elise!" the Governor repeated.

"Forgive me, mon pere; I didn't intend to listen, but I couldn't help it—because—"

"How long," said the Governor, "have you been there?"

"Ever since—he came in. I suppose," proudly turning to the man, "it is useless to say that I did not play this double role of which you accuse me, and that I did keep, in every particular, the promise I made—"

"Oh, yes; you could say it, my Lady!" with sneering emphasis.

"But you reserve to yourself the right not to believe me? That is what you mean?" The man's stubborn, vindictive look answered. "Then I will deny nothing to you; nothing! You may think what you will."

His face half-covered by his hand, the Governor gazed at them; the girl, straight, slender, inflexibly poised; the prisoner eyeing her with dark, unvarying glance.

"Dieu!" he muttered. "What is this?" and concern gave way to a new feeling. Her concern for something—somebody—held him. A promise! "You can step back a few moments, my man!" to Sanchez. "A little farther—to the parapet! I'll let you know when you're wanted." And the prisoner obeyed, moving slowly away to the wall, where he stood out of earshot, his back to them. "You spoke of a promise?" the Governor turned to his daughter. "To whom?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

"Have I Not Told You—"

"Remained to resist; to kill." The Governor's tones, without being raised, were sharper. "And when, after the crime against the instruments of justice, he escaped to the high seas, why did you not go with him?"

"He wouldn't have it."

"Thinking you would be more useful here? A spy?"

"He said he would be held an outlaw; a price put on him, and—he dismissed me from his service."

"Dismissed you? An excellent jest! But," with sudden incisiveness, "what about the priest, eh? What about the priest?"

The man straightened. "What priest?" he said in a dogged tone.

"You are accused of harboring and abetting an unfrocked fellow who has long been wanted by the government, a scamp of revolutionary tendencies; you are accused of having taken him to sea," the prisoner started, "to some rendezvous—a distant isle—to meet some one; to wait for a ship; to be smuggled away—?"

The man did not reply; with head sunk slightly, seemed lost in thought.

"Speak—answer!"

"Who accuses me?"

From the stone chair the girl sprang; looked out. Her face white, excited, peering beneath the delicate spandrils and stone roses, seemed to come as an answer.

A Difference in Buttons.

Buttons make the supreme and mysterious separation of the sexes. And buttonholes. If as a man you will go through clothes, from overcoat to the underclothes, you will find that the buttons are on the right and the buttonholes on the left.

But you will notice that the feminine garments close up the other way and that the woman demands her buttonhole to correspond. Feminine clothes fold from right to left, masculine from left to right. And there the problem must be left by a puzzled commentator.

Looking Far Into the Future.

Italy has added to her agricultural area by draining the great Fucina marshes and thus providing a living for hundreds of thousands of her poverty-stricken population. It will probably be hundreds of years before America is so thickly populated that additional area will of necessity have to be acquired for farming, but when the time arrives there will be engineers able and willing to drain the great lakes.

Possibly Better Off.

Some one has compiled statistics showing that one thousand persons in the United States are at present employed in walking for wagers. Society would be just as well off if they were working for wages.—Judge.

In the Barber's Chair.

"No sooner was I seated in the chair," began Jones, "than the barber commented on the weather, and directed a current of discourse into my ears.

"'Je ne comprend pas,' said I, with an inward chuckle, thinking his volubility would be checked.

"In very good French he started in afresh. I looked at him as if bewildered, and then interrupted him by asking:

"'Was Sagen Sie?'

"He began to repeat in German all that he had been saying, when I shut him off with:

"'Oh, talk to me with your fingers. I'm deaf and dumb!'"

Mercy of Aviators.

Robert G. Fowler, an aviator, says that while he was flying across the Isthmus of Panama he found it would be easy for an aeroplanist to blow up the Gatun dam.

"There is absolutely no protection," he said. "I think the government has overlooked this.

"Any good aviator, flying a first class machine, could carry enough nitroglycerin or other high explosive, to blow such a hole in the dam that it would leave the whole canal useless. I could have done it myself, and I would not fear to attempt it at any time."

When a young man calls on a girl he might as well make love to her; she thinks that is what he is there for anyway.

A Kansas Judge has decided that a man is the owner of his wife's clothes. If her new bonnet costs too much to suit him he can wear it himself.

If a fellow could only utilize his castles in the air for aeroplane garages!

BANISHED
Coffee Finally Had to Go.

The way some persons cling to coffee, even after they know it is doing them harm, is a puzzler. But it is an easy matter to give it up for good, when Postum is properly made and used instead. A girl writes:

"Mother had been suffering with nervous headaches for seven weary years, but kept on drinking coffee.

"One day I asked her why she did not give up coffee, as a cousin of mine had done who had taken to Postum. But Mother was such a slave to coffee she thought it would be terrible to give it up.

"Finally, one day, she made the change to Postum, and quickly her headaches disappeared. One morning while she was drinking Postum so freely and with such relish, I asked for a taste.

"That started me on Postum and I now drink it more freely than I did coffee, which never comes into our house now."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum (must be boiled.)

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

BIG OIL STEAMER EXPLODES; 5 DEAD

STANDARD OIL VESSEL WRECKED OFF STATEN ISLAND.

SIX HURT; DOZEN MISSING

Explosion Heard for Miles and Fifty Men Aboard Were Thrown Into Water. Flash of Flame Lighted Up Bay and Brought Rescue.

New York.—Two hundred tons of fuel oil on board the steel tank steamer Mohawk, owned by the Standard Oil Company, exploded with a terrific roar and burst of flame Friday afternoon while the vessel was at anchor off Tompkinsville, Staten Island, in New York bay, killing five persons and injuring six others. A dozen more are unaccounted for, but are believed to have been rescued. Two bodies were seen floating in the hold while fire boats were still pouring streams of water into the wrecked steamer. The other three victims probably were blown to pieces.

Carelessness of a machinist's helper was reported to have caused the explosion. Fifty men, including the crew and 20 machinists, who were making repairs preparatory to the Mohawk's departure for Tuxpan, Mexico, were on board. A helper was declared to have dropped a washer into the hold below the fire room. Seeking to recover it, he is believed to have carried a lighted candle, which caused combustion among gases generated in the hold.

The explosion was heard for many miles. A 200-foot flash of flame, a column of smoke, the detonation, a volcano of debris, and the Mohawk settled aft, while fire boats, wrecking tugs and other harbor craft hurried to the scene from all directions.

A score or more of men who were blown overboard were rescued unhurt from the water. Others clung to the stanchions or rails or huddled in the bow, whence they were dragged to safety on boats.

COTTON SEWING THREAD FREE

Senate Caucus Again Wields Ax for the Household.

Washington.—Wielding the ax again on the tariff revision bill for the benefit of the household, the senate Democratic caucus determined to put cotton sewing thread on the free list.

This action followed a spirited debate and was carried by one vote over the protest of members of the finance committee, who defended the 15 per cent duty which was carried in the bill as it passed the house and which the senate majority on the finance committee did not alter.

Those who championed this favor to the housewife argued that the revenue to be derived from sewing thread was inconsequential and that to be consistent in attempting to lower the cost of living the senate should not quibble. Looking up the estimates they found that the estimated revenue to be derived was about $225,000 a year. This, they figured, was a small amount to worry about and on the free list cotton thread went, while committee members objected strenuously.

CORPORATIONS JOLTED.

Philadelphia.—This was "black Friday" for the corporations in the state of Pennsylvania. For the first time since William Penn was the father of the inhabitants, the grip of the corporations was given a terrific shaking.

The first shock came early Friday morning, when the legislature passed the public utilities measure which provides for a commission with more sweeping powers than any public utilities in the country.

STRIKERS USE DYNAMITE.

Police Kept Busy in Birmingham Street Car Disorders.

Birmingham, Ala.—Police and detectives have been kept on the jump answering alarms, and cases of violence in the street railway strike are growing frequent. Dynamite on the track blew off part of a wheel on a Doyles car Friday, and a stick of dynamite on the East Lake line was run over without exploding. Bolts and bricks are frequently thrown at cars from the upper stories of skyscrapers under construction.

PACIFIC RAILWAYS ADMIT LOBBYING

MADE DETERMINED EFFORTS "TO GREASE THE WHEELS."

R. S. LOVETT ON THE STAND

Lovett Tells of Efforts of Man Supposed to Be Congressman Riordan to Arrange Lobby Through Otto Kahn.

Washington.—Robert Scott Lovett, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, told the senate "lobby" investigating committee Wednesday that long-continued and determined effort had been made to have Edward Lauterbach, a New York lawyer, retained by his company "to grease the wheels" in Washington and prevent unpleasant agitation in congress against the dissolution plan of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific systems, ordered by the supreme court and now before the department of justice.

Judge Lovett made no charges that any corrupt methods had been used to secure the employment of Lauterbach. He did swear, however, that some one purporting to be Congressman Riordan of New York, over the telephone, had urged the retention of the New Yorker and had suggested the likelihood of difficulty in congress which might be averted by his employment as counsel.

A similar telephone conversation had occurred, he said, between a man also representing himself as Mr. Riordan and Maxwell Everats, counsel for the Southern Pacific.

Otto H. Kuhn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., a New York banking house interested in Union Pacific, the witness said, had had several conversations with Mr. Lauterbach personally, in which the lawyer had referred to what might be expected from the "radical" element in congress in relation to the dissolution plans of the two roads.

AGREE ON THE 2-CENT RATE

Large Railroads in Oklahoma Agree Pending Outcome of Litigation.

Oklahoma City.—Two cents per mile will be the passenger charge on all the larger Oklahoma railroads after the first week in July. Abandon Mohawk Victims.

New York.—After trying all day Sunday to reach the bodies of the four men imprisoned in the after compartments of the Mohawk, the tank steamship which was partly destroyed in the oil explosion off Tompkinsville Friday, the workmen have finally abandoned their efforts, owing to their inability to clear the craft of water.

Orientals Buy Land.

Stockton, Cal.—Woo Foon and Woo Sang of San Francisco, and Woo Jung Hoy and Woo Kis of San Joaquin county placed deeds on record Friday showing they had formed a syndicate and purchased part of Venice Island, one of the most productive of the delta region. The island is divided into $1.00 camps, one of which has been procured by the Chinese. This is one of the biggest land deals on record here in which Orientals have participated, and to anticipate operation of the anti-alien law the syndicate paid a heavy price for the land.

$3,000,000 IN REFUNDS.

Railroad Must Pay It As Result of Minnesota Decision.

St. Paul, Minn.—Minnesota railways making refunds to shippers and passengers of excess charges during the period of rate litigation are entitled to a gross earnings tax rebate on all sums so paid, according to J. G. Armson, chairman of the state tax commission. The amount of refunds is estimated at $3,000,000, and on this basis the state would re-

BROKE HORSE OF BAD HABIT

Bag of Sand, Something Like a "Punching Bag," Did the Business Quite Simply.

Noah Spears, a Bay Shore farmer, has discovered a way to break a horse of kicking, according to a Milford letter to the Wilmington (Del.) News. Spears tells the following story: "I filled a stout gunny sack with sand and suspended it from the ceiling in the rear of the stall by a rope in such a position behind the horse that its heels could have good play upon it. This large pendulum, needing only a strong power to start it, would swing with clocklike precision as soon as the horse began to play its acrobatic stunts upon it. At the first kick the bag swung away, only to return with more force, giving the animal much more than it had sent. This unexpected return on the part of the bag caused the horse to kick harder, but each time the bag returned harder and paid the animal with interest. Finally the horse, realizing that further kicking would be fruitless, stopped kicking. The bag was allowed to hang in the same position for an entire week, but no more use for it was seen."

FACE DISFIGURED WITH SKIN TROUBLE

3107 Foster Ave., Baltimore, Md.—"About five months ago little blisters appeared on my face. They looked like blisters from fire burns. They itched and burned something terrible, which caused me to rub them and they burst, then sores appeared which disfigured my face. My face was all full of sores. The disease spread from my face to my neck and back. When anything touched them they would burn and stick to my clothes, which kept me from sleeping and made me suffer terribly.

"I used home remedies and I used a salve but it did no good. I suffered about three months then I saw the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and I thought I would send and get a sample and try them. I used the sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me a great deal, so I bought some and used them about two months and they completely cured me." (Signed) Edward V. Thomas, Mar. 26, 1912.

Logical.

Little Robbie had been refused a second dish of ice cream. His grandma had told him that it would cause him a pain in the stomach.

While out walking with his uncle one afternoon they chanced to see a horse that had been taken sick. Robbie was informed by his uncle that the horse had a pain in the stomach.

Gazing at the helpless animal, the boy asked: "Uncle, did the horse have two plates of ice cream?"

Gilt Frames.

"His mind a blank, eh?" said George Ade of an elderly millionaire who, after a month's absence, had turned up pleading total loss of memory.

"His mind a blank!" Mr. Ade continued. "What a hackneyed old excuse that is! Why don't they get up, these wanderers, something new in the excuse line?

"They'd be all alike, these excuses, though; in substance. For the average man, in framing an excuse, always does it in guilt."

Bound to Bargain.

"What's the price of this silk?" asked a deaf old lady of a young shopman.

"Seven shillings," was the reply.

"Seventeen shillings!" she exclaimed. "I'll give you thirteen."

"Only seven shillings, ma'am, is the price of the silk," replied the honest shopman.

"Oh, seven shillings!" replied the lady, sharply. "Well, I'll give you five."—Youth's Companion.

Studying the Game.

On a certain southern golf course the sand pits are famous for their difficulty. A New York man played into one of the pits, and then cursed none the less malevolently, if silently, while he took six ineffectual strokes, raising only clouds of sand and fairly burying the ball. Presently he was aware of an interested and incredulous darky watching him.

"Whar you see dat snake you's tryin' to kill, man?" he demanded.

Anticipating.

"Say, Lawson, let me use your phone, will you?"

"Certainly. What's the matter with yours?"

"It's all right. I want to telephone to my wife that I'm going to bring a man to dinner. He's in my room now and I hate to have him watch my face when my wife tells me what she thinks of the proposition."

Wise Precaution.

"Jones always uses honeyed speech to every one."

"Then he ougtn't to mind if he ever has to eat his words."

Marrying a man with an impedi- in his speech is right, if there is no impediment to the hand that reaches for his pocket book.

Very Unusual.

"You newspaper fellows are ordinarily hard pressed for funds, are you not?" asked the genial stranger.

Our natural pride forbade us to agree with this outsider's conclusion. So we said:

"Why—er—not necessarily. What makes you think so?"

"I'll tell you. I am acquainted with a member of your profession—and a fine chap he is too. The other day I wanted to talk to him, so I called him up on the phone and asked him if he would lunch with me. He accepted, and at the appointed hour we sat at the table. I opened the conversation thus:

"Well, what's the news? Anything unusual in your line?"

"'Yes,' answered the reporter, 'this.'"

And Then He Left.

"I wish I was a star," the dude sighed, smiling at his own poetic fancy.

"I would rather you were a comet," she said, dreamily.

His heart beat tumultuously.

"And why?" he asked, tenderly, at the same time taking her unresisting little hand in his own. "And why?" he repeated, imperiously.

"Oh," she said, with a brooding earnestness that fell freezing upon his soul, "because then you would come around only once in fifteen years."

And he took his hat and went out into the shimmering moonlight.

Donald's Opinion.

Donald was an old Scotch beadle who officiated in a Highland kirk where the minister, never a bright star at any time, believed in giving full value for the money, as it were, in his discourses. A stranger once asked him his opinion of the sermons.

"Ah, weel," replied Donald, "you'll no get me to say onything against them, for they're a' verry guid, but I'll just remark this much:

"The beginning's aye over far frae the end, an' it would greatly improve the force o' it if he left oot a' that cam' in atween."

Willing to Oblige.

"While," says a New Yorker, "the Gotham car conductor is generally rude, sometimes he is witty.

"Not long ago, on a Broadway car, a woman said to the conductor in a voice of command:

"'You will let me off at 931.'

"The conductor regarded her curiously for a moment, while the other passengers grinned; then, quite submissively, he answered:

"'Yes, ma'am; what floor, please, ma'am?'"—Judge.

QUEER OCCUPATION FOR POET

Walt Whitman, Not Being Able to Make Both Ends Meet With His Poetry, Went Into Commerce.

"Walt Whitman wasn't as successful as the English poet, Alfred Noyes, in making both ends meet with his poetry," said a Philadelphia editor. "Walt's muse had nothing like the shallow, commonplace, commercial quality of the young Englishman's.

"I used to visit Walt Whitman in his old age in his little two-story wooden house in Mickle street, Camden. One day—it's a pleasant souvenir this, of old-time Philadelphia—one day in December I said to him:

"'Well, Walt, how are things going this winter? Any Christmas subscriptions needed?'

"'No,' said the old poet. 'No, indeed. I'm working now. I'm working for George W. Childs. He pays me $50 a month.'

"'Good!' said I. 'And what's your job with Childs?'

"'Riding in the horse cars,' said Walt. 'I ride about the city, I talk to the drivers and conductors. I find out which of them need winter overcoats, and, guessing their size, I notify Childs, who fits them out forthwith. It's easy, pleasant work, and it saves Childs a lot of trouble over measurements and so forth.'"

Why They Came.

Willie, aged four, had been invited out to tea with his mother, and, while he was being dressed for the occasion, the delights in store for him had been depicted in glowing terms.

While his mother chatted with their hostess, Willie sat in solemn silence, and at last the lady of the house rose.

"Now I must bring in tea," she announced, then added: "Would Willie like some tea?"

The child eyed her in astonishment, and, in a deeply hurt tone, responded:

"Why, that's what we came for!"

"Haren't you a little himpatient, Florence?" inquired the nurse, with just a tone of correction in her voice.

"No, I'm a little her patient!"

IN MEMORY.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jade Traywick the 8th of June and took from them their darling little baby boy, Barnie Lee. He was laid to rest in Pilgrims Rest cemetery the 19th. Mr. and Mrs. Traywick have the sympathy of their many friends, for we know it is so hard to give up loved ones. But little Barnie Lee now dwells with the angels and we know that our loss is Heaven's gain. Weep not dear father and mother for God knows best, and He does all things well; so weep not, but strive to meet little Barnie Lee in the great beyond where there will be no more good byes.

CLANTON TAKES DOUBLE HEADER FROM JEMISON.

Most Interesting Contest of the Season Between Clanton and Jemison Baseball Teams at Thorsby on July Fourth.---Clanton Adds to Her Already Superior Record.

BY JOE KANJUTZKY.

Few baseball games have ever proven more interesting to a crowd of "rooters" than that played at Thorsby on July 4th, between the Clanton and Jemison teams. Boosters from both places were on the scene, and gave their men all possible encouragement. No feature escaped their anxious gaze; and every time a player pulled off a "stunt" he was cheered by the yells of the sultry throng of spectators. All the players were in fine trim, and their playing showed them worthy of all the confidence of their supporters. Throughout the games the playing was so close that neither side could claim any very marked superiority over the other. But in the wind-up of the first game the score was 8 and 7 in favor of Clanton; in the second game 2 and 1 in favor of Clanton. The two $10 cash prizes were, therefore awarded to the Clanton team.

FIRST GAME.

Batteries for Clanton were Wilson and McDowell; for Jemison, Bean and Sims. The features of the game were the superb pitching of Wilson for Clanton, striking out twelve men, and allowing but four hits; the terriffic batting of Hugh Ramsey, Claud Reynolds and Albert Pyron. In the second inning Hugh Ramsey made a running one-handed catch which could not be outclassed. The box score was as follows:

CLANTON	AB	R	H	PO	A	E
Ramsey, H., ss	5	1	1	1	2	0

SECOND GAME.

Batteries for Clanton, McDowell and Pyron; for Jemison, Scott and Sims. The first three innings Clanton and Jemison both played shut out ball. But in the first of the fourth Reynolds went to the bat and made a hit. He was followed by Jim Ramsey who landed a home run, bringing in the only two scores in the game for Clanton. Jemison did not score till the last half of the fifth inning, when Abbott made a hit and scored by errors of Clanton. Box score is as follows:

SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC SURVEY.

Dr. C. W. Thompson and Mr. J. Sterling Moran from the bureau of Rural Organization co-operating with the Agricultural Department at Washington in the study of rural conditions, have begun at Thorsby and Jemison and the country tributary to these towns a government investigation of rural, social and economic conditions, the first in the south. Mr. Moran, with his family, will make his home in Thorsby, while conducting this work under the direction of Dr. Thompson, who has had wide experience in such matters under government auspices in other parts of the country.

This field has been selected as typical of a large section of the South, and through Mr. B. L. Moss, state agent, and Mr. W. H. Conway, county agent of demonstration work, the government officials were convinced that they would find hearty and intelligent co-operation on the part of all the people in this section in carrying on this great work for the public welfare.

Mr. Moran expects to remain in this field for several months, or long enough to visit every home in the territory assigned, and become acquainted with the men women and children and their living conditions. He is a man well equipped for this work and a big hearted social fellow whom it does one good to know.

UNION RALLEY.

There will be a union ralley at Mineral Springs on Saturday, July 19. There will be public speaking by several good speakers. Everybody invited to come, especially the ladies. Non-union men and everybody come and stay all day and bring a well filled basket. The union expects to furnish cold drinks and the profits will go for the union benefit. M. Gore, Sec-Treas.

LESS BOWEL TROUBLE IN CLANTON

Clanton people have found out that A SINGLE DOSE of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine etc., as compounded in Adler-i-ka, the German bowel and stomach remedy, relieves constipation, sour stomach or gas on the stomach INSTANTLY. This simple mixture became famous by curing appendicitis and it draws off a surprising amount of old foul matter from the body. It is wonderful how QUICKLY it helps. Upchurch Drug Co. 6

TEACHERS EXAMINATION

The next State Examination for Teachers of Chilton County, Alabama, will be held in the Courthouse at Clanton on the third Monday in July, 1913. All applicants should be present by 8:30 or 9 o'clock a.m., on Monday, July 21st, 1913.

ROCKY MOUNT.

Listen, everybody is invited to attend a public spelling match at school house Friday night. Refreshments will be served.

Many of our farmers are now laying by their crops and rushing off to public works, and the boys and girls started to school Monday a. m.

We have been suffering for rain in this section for some time, but we were blessed with a good rain Saturday p. m. So we are all reminded once again of God's goodness to us.

The Thames Reunion was a grand success, even if the Devil did succeed in carrying on some of his dirty work there, as he always does at many of our public gatherings. Bro. Winkler's patriotic address stirred the minds and hearts of all who listened to it. It was simply grand. In the afternoon Mr. Walter Harrel entertained the people about one hour with a stirring Educational doctrine. Mr. Cris Martin following him about 15 minutes. Sunday night at Oak Hill, the men and boys had the opportunity of listening to Bro. Winkler, our pastor, deliver a sermon on "True Manhood and Womanhood," he went to the bottom of this subject and proved to us beyond any doubt the cause of so many wretched and degraded characters going about over our country seeking to destroy all that is good and sacred. He never stopped there either, he gave us the remedy for the cause. This expression will give you an insight to remedy. "As the Father and Mother Are, so Will be the Son and Daughter." Would to God, we could have more sermons like this preached all over our land and country.

The health of our community is unusually good at present, for which we all should be very thankful.

POPLAR SPRINGS.

The health of our community is good. Rain is needed.

Prof. L. T. Grant's singing school opened at Poplar Springs Monday, July 7. Prof. Grant sung the good old song, "When I can Read my Title Clear." Prayer by the Secretary, after which the enrollment of pupils was taken, which was 45. We hope that we will have a good school. J. L. McDowell, Sec.

Doing hard work in a bent or stooping position puts a stitch in the back that is painful. If the muscles have become strained, you can't get rid of it without help. The great penetrating power of Ballard's Snow Liniment will appeal to you most strongly at such times, because it is the very thing you need. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Big Celebration at Thorsby the Fourth.

Woodmen and Red Men Unite in Furnishing Big Day of Pleasure and Amusement to the Public.---Ball Game, Public Speaking, Basket Dinner, and Other Features.

Among the various Fourth of July celebrations over the county, that given by the Red Men and Woodmen at Thorsby was by for the best and gained the largest attendance. Hundreds of people from the communities near Thorsby, and from Jemison, Clanton, Verbena and Mountain Creek were in attendance upon the occasion.

The day's festivities were begun by the grand march of the members of the Woodmen and Red Men lodges, led by the Thorsby Orchestra. They formed their line at the lodge hall and proceeded down main street to the grove on the campus of Thorsby Institute, where the audience was entertained by L. H. Reynolds in an eloquent and instructive address.

Following the speech a delightful basket picnic was enjoyed in the shade of the trees. Many excellent musical selections were rendered by the band throughout the day.

In the afternoon were two of the most interesting and well played ball games of the season, an account of which is given elsewhere.

After night the fun was continued by a display of fire works and the ascension of small balloons. The cheers and shouts of the boys and girls which followed them as they rose and soared to the starlit skies on the pleasant summer breeze gave loud expression of their great pleasure and enjoyment. About nine o'clock the festivities ceased, the crowds retired from the streets, and the flags which were suspended from poles and buildings were left alone to complete the celebration of the day which even they themselves were designed to commemorate.

SOLDIERS HOME CELEBRATED FOURTH.

A large number of visitors from adjacent towns and the neighborhood visited the Old Soldiers Home on the 4th and joined the Old Veterans in a suitable observance of the day.

Major C. A. Gunn presided. The Rev. O. W. Greer delivered a fine and instructive address; Miss Lucy Simpson recited; Veteran Andress read a poem written by Father Brannon; a quartette of old ladies residing at the Home sung some choice old tunes, and the young people of the Baptist church rendered some splendid selections.

Mrs. Carrie McMasters, assisted by Mrs. F. J. Snyder, was busy all day in making Veterans and visitors comfortable.

General John B. Fuller was present and dined with Miss Katie Lasseter, the matron.

Several hundred visitors were present. W. P. T.

WEST CHILTON.

Health in this community is good. The people are nearly all up with their work. Crops are just fairly normal in our part of the county. Cotton is small, but the large number of blooms show good prospects.

The Fourth has come and gone, and we hope everybody enjoyed it. It passed off quietly in this section. There was no disturbance and whisky drinking at all.

Our boys spend a great deal of their time playing ball. We wish them much pleasure and success.

On the Fourth there were five families gathered at one man's house and spent the day making ice cream. They all seemed to enjoy the day very much. There were some young men and women present and they spent a day of greatest pleasure together.

Let us hear from all parts of the county through the Union-Banner, so we may kuow what eachother are doing.

One of the Old Boys.

JACKSON'S CHAPEL.

The preaching at this place Sunday was good. Mr. Gant Riggins preached one of the finest sermons we ever had. I wish everybody in the community could have heard him. The music was excellent.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Mims and Mr. and Mrs. Ocie Mims visited Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones Sunday.

Mrs. Martin Henderson visited her uncle Mr. Warren Jones Saturday night.

Mr. William Jones and family visited Mr. W. G. Jones Sunday.

We are glad to know that Miss Essie Parker is improving in health.

Mrs. Martha Henderson left Monday for a visit to Birmingham.

Misses Alice and Eva Jones and Parlea Johnson spent the Fourth at Thorsby.

POPLAR SPRINGS.

LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TERSELY TOLD.

SOUTH, EAST, NORTH AND WEST

Notes From Foreign Lands, Throughout the Nation and Particularly the Great South.

Southern.

Three hundred and fifty animals—300 hogs and 50 head of cattle—were cremated at Nashville, Tenn., when the big stock yards of Bolling & Powers burned to the ground within 30 minutes after the alarm was turned in. The fire was discovered shortly after noon and burned so fiercely that the tanks of the Nashville Gas company, across the street, were expected to explode. Three streams of water saved the plant when a cordon of police forced the big crowd that had collected out of the danger zone.

A small cyclone swept the Waycross, Ga., section. At Hebardville, a suburb of Waycross, the Methodist church was blown down. Between Hebardville and Waycross, five frame houses were taken off of their foundations and two blown over. Two negro churches, both on the north side, were completely demolished and a third was so badly twisted that it will have to be rebuilt. Large plate glass show windows and numerous windows of offices in the large buildings in the city were smashed.

Harry C. Knight, known as the Hero of the Indianapolis Speedway," was instantly killed and his mechanician, Milton Michaelis, both of Atlanta, Ga., was fatally injured at Columbus, Ohio, when Knight's front wheel drive car blew a right tire and turned turtle on the 11t0h lap of the 200-mile automobile race.

A 50-gallon still was captured eight miles south of Griffin, Ga., by the deputy collectors. The still was located about fifty yards from the home of an old lady, 82 years of age, who gave two of the officers a lively race for a short time.

With about 150 judges and lawyers present the fifteenth annual convention of the North Carolina Bar association met at Asheville, N. C., in a three days' session. The principal address of the first session was that of Judge James S. Mannin of Raleigh, the president of the association, which was in the form of a message to the lawyers of the state.

J. L. Dempsy, a prominent farmer of Douglas county, Georgia, committed suicide by hanging himself with a blanket in the county jail at Douglasville. He had been temporarily deranged and placed in jail for safekeeping.

General

The waving of the American flag in Winnipeg, Man., while thousands of provincial soldiers were parading, precipitated a riot during which the flag was trampled and a number of persons received minor injuries. In the fight which followed a number of civilians were hurt, but none seriously. The American whose name could not be ascertained escaped without serious harm, and with the aid of the police eluded the crowd. The soldiers took no part in the demonstration.

Evidence that serious fighting is occurring in Macedonia is found in the arrival of large numbers of wounded and prisoners at the various Balkan capitals, but, owing to the silence at Sofia, and to the conflicting and probably biased stories from Servian and Greek sources, it is impossible to form an accurate idea of the struggle. There has been no formal declaration of war and although it is reported the Bulgarian minister to Greece has been recalled, he has not departed yet from Athens.

Five persons were killed and three injured, one probably fatally, when the "Scranton Flyer," on the Pennsylvania and Reading railroad, struck a wagon containing a picnic party at a railroad crossing near Quakertown, Penn.

Secretary Daniels has discovered how to keep cool. His prescription is: Think of cotton and forget about the warm weather. The secretary made known his discovery when some one at the navy department deplored the hot weather in his presence. "Do you realize," he asked, "that this is the finest possible weather for raising cotton?"

Bravery of the engine room crew of the battleship Louisiana helped the vessel out of a dangerous predicament when a valve bonnet blew off, flooding the starboard engine room. Incidentally the accident gave Capt. Templin M. Potts, who was dismissed by the naval "plucking board," and retires, a memorable experience at the close of his service. The rush of water through the pasasge opened by the displacement of the bonet carried the men off their feet and forced them against the machinery, but they stuck to their work.

John Nicholson of Vandalia, Mo., pleaded guilty in court to murdering his wife, Bertie Nicholson, and their nine-year-old adopted son, Horace, by pouring oil over them while they slept and setting fire to their bed clothing.

The Atlantic waters which have been allowed to run slowly against the lower gates at Gatun have reached sea level. The large gates are being put to the actual test of the full pressure for the first time.

True to the conviction that their observance of the one hundredth anniversary of Commodore Perry's victory on Lake Erie was more to commemorate a century of peace than to gloat over a fallen foe, the chiming of church belsl and the booming of cannon opened the celebration of the event in Erie, Pa. "Peace Sunday" was the name given to the occasion, and throughout the day there was no deviation from the title.

The settlement of the strike of the gold miners in the Rand district, in South Africa, which the government arranged with a committee of strikers, has proved ineffective, although comparative order was preserved. Casualties resulting from the fighting are now estimated at 110. Two officers, three soldiers and several policemen were wounded.

Gustave Hanson, said to have been a German mining engineer, was shot as a spy by Mexican federals at Torreon and Francisco Martinez, an American citizen, has been arrested by the rebels of Colombia, Coahuila, Mexico, where he is manager of an American-owned ranch, charged with giving information to the federals, according to reports reaching Pieras Morgan. The reports of Hanson's alleged execution came from Carrana sources at Moolova and were said to have been brought from Torreon by an American refugee.

After ten days of fighting more severe than anything in the last Balkan war, a little light begins to break upon the obscure operations. The Servians have lost more men than in the whole previous campaign, and semi-official statements from Belgrade have the appearance of preparing the public for news of a disaster. Desperate fighting is proceeding along the Vardar and Bregalinitz river, and there is heavy fighting between the Servians and Bulgarians in the neighborhood of Ketchana. Bulgaria's strategy appears to hold the Greeks in check.

Angered Pittsburg mothers who had seen an uncontrolled automobile plunge through a throng of several hundred children preparing for a parade on the streets of West Pittsburg, almost tore the clothes from the machine's chauffeur, Abe Yuengling, before he was turned over to the police. One of the children in the throng was killed and twelve others were hurt. Yuengling declared brakes on his automobile refused to work while he was coming down a steep grade.

A story of misrepresentation, impersonation of public men and organized effort to influence Wall street financiers probably without parallel in the history of congressional investigation was unfolded before the senate lobby committee. A prosperous-looking, self-possessed individual, calling himself David Lamar of New York, self-described as "an operator in stocks" and admittedly the bearer of several assumed names, was the principal in the remarkable session.

A bill to appropriate $300,000 to drain the swamp and wet lands of the country was introduced by Representative Tribble of Georgia. He explained that reclamation of the swamp lands of Georgia was important. He stated that if the swamp lands of Georgia were drained, the state of Georgia would buy no more corn and the other states would be coming like the children of Israel down into Georgia to buy corn.

It is reported that rifle pits and trenches are being dug by federal soldiers on the western outskirts of Juarez and barbed mire is being stretched as an additional defense against attack by the Constitutionalists. An outpost of 100 federals has been stationed two miles south of the town, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas.

Logan A. Vilas, an amateur aviator of Chicago, made the first aeroplane flight across Lake Michigan. His trip, made in a hydro-aeroplane, from St. Joseph, Mich., to Chicago, consumed one hour and 44 minutes.

Denver was selected for the 1916 meeting and W. F. Carter of Peoria, Ill., elected president of the Brotherhood of Locomitve Firemen and Enginemen convention.

Washington

Majority members of the senate finance committee decided that all the schedules of the new tariff bill except sugar and wool should become effective immediately after the enactment of the measure into law.

The waving of the American flag in Aldrich rates until March 1, 1914. Additional revenue was provided for by the committee when it decided, in view of the revenue tax on brandies, used in fortifying sweet wines, to levy a revenue tax of 25 per cent. ad valorem on what are known as "spurious wines," wines made from pummis and fortified with chemicals.

Uncle Sam closed the fishcal year 1913 with a surplus of $40,083,229, representing the excess of receipts over expenditures, exclusive of Panama canal and public debt transactions. This exceeds last year's surplus by $3,750,000. The Panama transactions, however, wiped out the surplus of ordinary receipts over ordinary expenditures and created a deficit of $2,149,000.

National banks will pay about one hundred thousand dollars into the United States treasury, as interest for one month on deposits of the federal government. This is the first step in carrying out Secretary McAdoo's recent order charging interest on government deposits at the rate of 2 per cent. per annum. The order became effective June 1 and as the interest will be paid on July 1 and January 1 of each year, the first payment will be for only the month of June. The government expects to earn more than a million dollars annually in this manner.

COTTON PLANT MADE BETTER PROGRESS

PAST WEEK WAS PROBABLY MOST FAVORABLE OF SEASON.

PLANT IS FRUITING HEAVILY

High State of Cultivation Kept Up and Plant in Condition to Withstand Any Kind of Extreme With Least Damage.

Memphis, Tenn.—The past week was probably the most favorable of the season on the cotton crop. At least the crop made better progress than during any other similar period this year. Under the stimulus of good rains, plenty of sunshine and warm days and nights the plant made splendid growth, and while still a bit late, made up much lost time during the week. The plant is strong and stocky, is beginning to branch out and is blooming and fruiting heavily.

Rains fell in sections all over the belt during the week. They were the heaviest and more nearly general in Texas and Oklahoma, where practically the entire area of both states received good rains. In the central valley the drouth was relieved, except in a few scattered localities that comprise a very small total area. In the east no great need of moisture had been felt, but good rains were falling at the end of the week.

The high state of cultivation that has characterized the crop from the start was in no want abated during the week. Fields are almost universally clean and tilth of soil is probably more nearly perfect than ever before known. This feature of the crop places the plant in the best of shape to withstand either drouth or rain with the least possible damage.

There is still complaint of boll weevil in infested districts. They are very numerous in sections of Mississippi and Louisiana, but the damage to date is hardly worth mentioning. Farmers are continuing a relentless war against the pest and in some sections they seem to have won their fight.

ROLLER COASTER HURTS 30

Two Probably Will Die as Result of Accident.

New York.—Thirty persons were injured, two of them probably fatally, when two trains of cars on the scenic railway at Palisades Park crashed together Sunday evening hurling them through the air upon the structure and to the ground below. The cause of the accident is believed to have been defective brakes or motors on one of the trains, which slid backward down a 65-foot incline into the other train, that was dashing behind it at express speed from the town of the first stop, 90 feet high. Another explanation was that the starter had sent out the second train before the first was completely out of the danger zone indicated by the red lights of the elaborate block system installed for safety upon the coaster.

ICE STRIKE ENDED.

Drivers and Helpers of Cincinnati Get Increased Pay.

Cincinnati, O.—Following conferences between representatives of the unions affected, and ice manufacturers, striking employes decided to return to work, thus ending the three weeks' strike which has caused much suffering and forced the city authorities to seize the ice plants and operate them for the city. The drivers and helpers are granted increased pay and recognition of their unions will be considered.

ROSE IN LORD'S GARDEN.

Pastor of Rockefeller's Church Thus Refers to Him.

Cleveland.—Wearing an overcoat, a silk hat and a bright blue necktie, John D. Rockefeller attended Sunday school services at the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church Sunday morning. Although Mr. Rockefeller is superintendent he seldom attends. During his sermon Dr. Bustard referred to John D. as one of the "roses in the Lord's garden." After the services Mr. Rockefeller congratulated the pastor on his sermon.

CARNEGIE TO THE HAGUE.

He Will Attend Opening of His Palace of Peace.

The Hague.—Andrew Carnegie is expected to be present here on August 26 for the opening of the Palace of Peace, which has been built at his expense. Great preparations have been made to give Mr. Carnegie a reception worthy of his universally recognized position as a general benefactor of mankind.

Infected With Tetanus.

New Orleans, La.—After suffering more than 24 hours with tetanus without knowing how he became infected, Jules Bitses, aged 34, resident manager of the Orpheum Theater, and well known in Southern theatrical circles, died at a hospital here. Mr. Bistes had received an injection of quinine several days ago to ward off malaria. It was discovered that the physician had previously given a patient an injection of tetanus antitoxin and attending physicians say it is their opinion Mr. Bistes was infected in this way.

THROWN FROM CAR RACER BEHEADED

HARRY C. KNIGHT AND MECHANICIAN MICHAELIS KILLED.

ACCIDENT AT COLUMBUS, O.

Goes 200 Miles on a Dirt Track in Three Hours, 21 Minutes and 48 Seconds. Knight Gained Title "Hero of the Indianapolis Speedway."

Columbus, O.—Harry C. Knight of Indianapolis, known as the "Hero of the Indianapolis Speedway," was almost instantly killed, and his mechanician, Milton McCallis of Cloves, N. M., died of a fractured skull here Friday afternoon, when Knight's front wheel drive car blew a right tire and turned turtle on the one hundred and tenth lap of the 200-mile automobile race contested under the auspices of the Columbus Automobile Association.

Johnny Jenkins of Springfield, Ohio, was following Knight a short distance, and, according to some of the witnesses, ran over Knight's body, which had fallen to the track. Jenkins declared he ran over something, but doesnt' know whether it was a body or a part of a machine.

Knight's head was badly crushed and the top part torn off. His legs were driven to his armpits and the rest of the body badly mutilated.

When the tire blew up the car turned over twice and landed in an upright position. Michaels was thrown out at the first turn and suffered a fractured skull. Knight was pinned under his steering wheel, but fell out just as the car finally righted. He died almost immediately after assistance reached his side.

A WARNING TO HOUSEWIVES

Department Finds Much Copper in the Celery Product.

Washington.—Now you must be careful of the celery you eat. The department of agriculture has discovered that there is copper in lots of celery and has issued a warning to housewives to give it a good washing before putting it on the table. The copper comes from the spray used by the farmers to kill bugs. The department says:

"The use of salts of copper in food products was discovered by the referee board to be deleterius to health. Under food inspection decisions 148 and 149 the importation of canned fruits and vegetables greened with copper has been stopped. This is parallel to the laws of France, where the use of copper vessels is forbidden in packing food products.

"The proof of the presence of copper in raw celery was obtained by analysis of samples of celery offered for sale in the markets of the District of Columbia and other cities. Analysis of four different samples of celery showed that before washing the edible part of the outside stalks contained from 9.1 to 29.2 parts of copper per million, or less than 1-6 to 1-2 grain of copper per 2 1-2 pounds of celery."

MILLIONAIRE DIES IN BED.

Terre Haute Man Made His Fortune in Groceries.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Herman Hulman, millionaire wholesale grocer and philanthropist, was found dead in bed here Friday. He was 82 years old, and death was due to exhaustion. Mr. Hulman was born in Germany, and came to Terre Haute in 1854, and had been engaged in the grocery business ever since. He is survived by two sons.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF.

Jealousy Prompts Act of an Atlanta Vaudeville Actor.

Kansas City.—Jealousy prompted Frank Bailey, a vaudeville actor of Atlanta, Ga., to shoot and kill his wife and teammate, Mazie Edwards, of Denver, and to commit suicide here Sunday. The woman was asleep when Bailey fired the fatal shot. The pair were married in Chicago three years ago after playing in the same bill at Chicago. In the last year Bailey had become extremely jealous.

SEVEN STABBED IN FIGHT AT REUNION

VETERAN IN BLUE RESENTED ABUSE OF LINCOLN.

SCENE IN HOTEL DINING ROOM

Roaring Storm Lowers Temperature Drenches Camp—Veterans Leaving. Lashed Down Tents and Seemed to Enjoy Rain.

Gettysburg, Pa.—Seven men were stabbed Wednesday night in a fight in the dining room of the Gettysburg Hotel, as a result of a fight which started when several men aroused the anger of an old veteran in blue by abusing Lincoln. Several of the wounded men are in a serious condition at the Pennsylvania State Hospital. The state constabulary are making desperate efforts to find the men who did the stabbing.

According to all the information the authorities could gather, the fight started suddenly and was over in a few minutes. It began shortly before 7 o'clock, when the dining room was full of people, and caused a panic among the scores of guests. The men who were stabbed, according to the information the surgeons gathered, jumped to the defense of the veteran when the others closed in. Knives were out in a second, and the room was thrown into an uproar. It was all over before the rest of the men in the room could get their breath and the men responsible for it had fled.

The man who the police charge with doing the stabbing gave his name as W. B. Henry, Philadelphia. He claimed to be a son of R. R. Henry, of Tazewell, Va., a general in the Confederate army.

Henry, with one or two companions, was seated at a table and there was a general talk about the war, which soon developed ugly feeling. Finally, according to eye-witnesses, Henry applied a vile epithet to Abraham Lincoln. It was resented hotly by a Union veteran, who seized a glass or bottle and threw it at Henry. Immediately there was an uproar and Henry, according to the version the constabulary gives, jumped to his feet, drew a knife and began slashing at those nearest to him. Tables were upset, bottles, glasses and other missiles flew through the air. One eye-witness said Henry chased him around the room, first stabbing him in the arm, then stabbing him in the back.

A roaring storm swept down out of the Blue Ridge Plateau of Gettysburg, bringing needed relief to thousands of veterans in Blue and Gray who have sweltered for four days in an atmosphere dangerous in a city of 50,000 old and weary men. For more than a half hour the rain came pouring down upon the sun-cracked and wind-swept encampment grounds.

Too Many Laws.

Camden, N. J.—Thomas R. Marshall, vice-president of the United States, told the pupils of the North Baptist Church of this city that there were too many laws. He condemned as one of the greatest evils in the country the idea that the standard of right and wrong is furnished by the statute books.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF.

Fortune Teller Had Said Another Would Soon Take His Wife.

Salisbury, Md.—During a fit of jealous frenzy Friday, Nelson A. Baker of Pittsville, Md., shot and killed his wife in their home, then rushed to a field and shot himself to death. It is said that Baker had been told by a fortune teller recently that a man who frequently passed the Baker residence would take his wife from him, and that is thought to have unbalanced his mind.

WOULD RAISE $1,000,000.

Campaign for Endowment of Southern Methodist University Begins.

Dallas.—A campaign is to be launched for an additional endowment fund of $1,000,000 for the Southern Methodist University here, according to a decision reached by trustees of the institution. Half of the sum is to be used for the academic and scientific department, $250,000 for the erection of a hospital and the balance goes to the theological department.

VETERANS FACE SUN AS THEY FACED FIRE IN '63

15,000 GATHER IN TENT WITH TEMPERATURE AT 100 DEGREES.

EXODUS HAS ALREADY BEGUN

Gen. B. H. Young and G. A. R. Chief Speak—Remnant Hold Conclave at Spot Where Charge Which Swept Half Their Number Begun.

Gettysburg, Pa.—In the pitiless glare of a sun that sent the mercury bubbling over the hundred mark and made clothes a burden and a bath only a delusion, the armies of the north and south Tuesday began the formal exercises set to mark the semi-centennial of Gettysburg. Veterans to the number of 15,000, the army officers estimated, filed into the big tent set apart for the exercises, sat in the haze of heat for two hours and shook the camp with their cheers when the speakers made reference to a reunited station.

Although the men in gray were far outnumbered by those in blue, there were possibly a thousand southerners in the amphitheater, and what they lacked in numbers they made up in lung power. When Gov. Tener finished his speech Gen. Bennett H. Young, commander-in-chief of the Confederate veterans, rose slowly and bowed to him. "I can give you something that no one else can give you," he asid. "We will now give you the rebel yell."

Nine famous Confederate generals and a thousand veterans of the south gave it so loudly that it was heard far back in the camp toward Gettysburg.

When Gen. Young stepped forward to deliver his address he was greeted with wild enthusiasm, the Union veterans, led by Commander-in-Chief Beers, giving him three lusty cheers and a "tiger."

He took as his keynote the conviction of each side in the great struggle that each fought for a principle, which each believed was the truth. One of his opening statements was that the northern soldiers deserved more credit than the southerners for the promulgation and successful realization of the present great reunion, which he characterized as the greatest movement of its kind in the world.

This compliment to the northern veterans was greeted with loud cries of "No," to which Gen. Young quickly replied: "I know better than you do." His speech captured the audience, and he was overwhelmed by handshakes.

Alfred B. Beers of Bridgeport, Conn., commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, addressing the Blue and Gray veterans, pointed out that the history of the world holds no record of such a spectacle as this—the voluntary meeting on a battlefield of those who constituted the armed forces who fought against each other.

Many veterans got no further than one meal in camp and one look at the crowded tents and then started back home as quickly as they could go.

SAMUEL S. SANDS KILLED

Stepson of Wm. K. Vanderbilt Caught Beneath Overturned Auto.

New York.—Samuel Stevens Sands, stepson of William K. Vanderbilt, was killed in an automobile accident near West Hampton, L. I. The machine he was driving overturned when a tire burst. He lived only long enough to tell who he was and to request that his wife be notified.

G. Winthrop Sands, a brother, was killed in an automobile accident in France five years ago. His father, Samuel Stevens Sands, was killed by a fall while hunting about 20 years ago.

"OLD GLORY" CAUSE OF RIOT

Flag Is Trampled and Number of Persons Are Injured.

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—The waving of the American flag here Friday while thousands of provincial soldiers were parading, precipitated a riot, during which the flag was trampled and a number of persons received minor injuries.

The incident occurred when thousands of soldiers from Winnipeg and Manitoba were marching through the city on their return from annual camp at Sewell, where there had bmeen maneuvers under Sir Ian Hamilton.

CHEESE COMPANY BANKRUPT.

Biggest Firm of Its Kind in World Files Petition.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The biggest cheese dealing firm in the world, the H. J. Bamford Company of Plymouth, Wis., Wednesday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, the failure being due to the recent sudden fall in the cheese market prices. The liabilities are scheduled at $151,502.67, of which $17,000 is secured. The assets are scheduled at $155,000, nearly all in cheese warehouses.

NEGRO "ELKS" HALTED.

Perpetual Injunction Against "Improved Order" Granted.

P. O. E. in Ohio.

WOMAN SURVIVOR OF BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG

That woman played a prominent part in the greatest battle of the Civil war that was fought just fifty years ago, is apt to be forgotten until a mute reminder such as is seen in the photograph is brought to our attention. Fifty years back is a long time to remember, yet here one of those who fought under the stars and bars, five decades ago, is greeting one of the women nurses and one of the few remaining ones whose husband was the comrade in arms of the grizzled old veteran.

SIDELIGHTS OF GETTYSBURG REUNION

The great reunion of the blue and the gray on the battlefield of Gettysburg has passed into history. It was in all respects the most unique gathering of the soldiers of the 60's ever held. Men who fought each other fifty years ago this year fraternized as long-separated brothers. Naturally such a gathering would be productive of many incidents, both pathetic and humorous. As many stories were floating about as there were veterans at the reunion.

The camp is full of unexpected meetings. Every day brings forth numerous meetings between men who have not seen one another for many years. Many are commonplace, but some are extraordinary. For instance, here is one:

I. D. Munsee of Erie county, Pennsylvania, a soldier in the 111th Pennsylvania, was captured by the confederates at Peachtree Creek, Ga., when he was one of Sherman's army on the celebrated march to the sea. He was being conveyed to the rear by a confederate soldier when the union batteries opened fire upon the party among whom he was a prisoner. The man who was guarding Munsee was hit and fell, knocking Munsee down and lying on top of him.

Seeing his chance of escape, Munsee lay very still under the unconscious confederate while the battle raged around them. That night he slipped from under the body and escaped to the union lines.

"I thought that fellow was dead," said Munsee, "but I saw him today. Poor fellow, his mind's bad, and he didn't recognize me, but I was sure of him. I couldn't even get his name, but I'm goin over later to the Georgia camp and try to find out who he is."

Here is a story which was told by A. T. Dice, vice-president of the Reading railway:

Once upon a time there were a veteran in gray and a veteran in blue. They came to Gettysburg and in the course of events and visits to hotels they happened to meet. They looked over the sights of Gettysburg and the monuments of the field. But they found they must part.

The one in blue lived in Oregon; the one in gray in New Orleans. They went weeping together to their station and passed by train after train, deferring the parting that must come. Just what they said, just how they reached the final grand idea of the meeting, Mr. Dice did not know.

But, however, yesterday they finally decided that the time for parting had come. The one from Oregon could not figure how to reach home via New Orleans and his gray comrade, while willing to see the west, didn't have the money for a ticket.

They lined upon on the platform as their trains stood waiting and then before the crowd, they slowly stripped off their uniforms and exchanged them there while the curious flocked to see them.

The Oregonian who came proudly to town with a coat of blue, went as proudly away with one of gray and the veteran from Louisiana who boasted the gray of the south sat with swelling chest in his new uniform of blue.

A striking contrast is seen in the menu provided for the soldiers fifty years ago and what they enjoyed this year:

1863—Breakfast—Hardtack, bacon, beans and coffee.

Dinner—Bacon, beans, hardtack and coffee.

Supper—Beans, hardtack, bacon and coffee.

1913—Breakfast—Puffed rice, fried eggs, fried bacon, cream potatoes, fresh bread, hard bread, butter and coffee.

Dinner—Fricassee chicken, peas, corn, ice cream, cake, cigars, fresh bread, hard bread, butter, coffee, iced tea.

Supper—Salmon salad, macaroni and cheese, fresh bread, butter and coffee.

Chief Clerk George G. Thorne of the state department at Harrisburg told of the call made by a Union veteran early on the morning of the fiftieth anniversary of the start of the battle, who related that his conscience troubled him because of the fact that on that fateful morning many years ago he had succumbed to temptation and stolen a quantity of onions from the Thorne garden, which was located near the historic Seminary ridge. He told Thorne that he desired, at this late day to pay for the onions and thus relieve his conscience.

Needless to say, his offer of money was refused, but the Thornes would like to learn the identity of the soldiers who upset eight beehives in the dead of night and appropriated all the honey they contained.

A remarkable coincidence of the camp was the meeting of two men of exactly the same name, coming from towns of the same name, but in different states. One fought on the union side in the battle of Gettysburg, and the other with the confederates.

These two men are John Carson of Burlington, N. J., and John Carson of Burlington, N. C.

They met by the merest chance. The Jersey Carson was walking along one of the streets, and saw a man in gray. Just to be friendly, the Jersey man stopped him and gave him a greeting. It was not until they had talked for several minutes that they discovered their names were identical, as well as the names of their towns.

A grandson of Francis Scott Key, composer of "The Star-Spangled Banner," is here. He is John Francis Key, aged eighty-two, of Pikeville, Md., and he is a veteran of the Second Maryland infantry of the confederate army.

Wearing a suit of gray, Key came into town, weak and almost dropping. He has been in failing health, but declared he was "going to see Gettysburg on this occasion or die."

One of the oldest veterans in the big camp is Captain W. H. Fleig of Houston, Texas, who was ninety years of age on his last birthday, February 23. During the war he served with distinction in the marine department of the confederate navy. Captain Fleig is one of the best preserved men in camp and is more active than many of the other veterans a score of years less advanced.

Fifty years to the hour from the time when the first shot preceding the battle was fired a reunion meeting of the blue and the gray was held in the big tent. The gray cavalry men who fought the skirmishes that led up to the three days' fight pledged themselves in the shadows of the stars and stripes to "forget" and their brothers in blue swore by the stars and bars that the fight was over for all time.

There were several women from the village in the tent and six one-time schoolgirls, gray-haired and aged now, sang "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys," while the veterans wept like boys, but with pride. The six women who sang the battle song were among those who thronged the streets of Gettysburg after the advance guard of the southern army left it 50 years ago. On the night when Buford's men came riding into the village on the heels of Wheeler's men in gray, maidens strewed flowers along the streets and bells in the churches pealed out the news of the coming of the blue and the town went wild.

Of all the scores of girls who welcomed the vanguard of Meade, only a half dozen could be found, and they stood, white-haired with tears in their eyes on a platform in the big tent and sang to the weeping soldiers in the seats below.

"I'm afraid we can't sing like we sang 50 years ago," said the matronly woman who acted as leader as she led the way up the steps to the platform.

"We don't care; just sing again," shouted the veterans. As the first notes of the war-time melody came from them in quavering tones, the veterans both of the north and of the south sat quiet with eyes fixed upon the singers. The hum of the chorus came from every side, and the old men wept openly.

Aside from the old soldiers themselves, an interesting figure is Mrs. Longstreet, widow of the commander at the front of the Confederate lines in the third day's battle. Mrs. Longstreet walked a mile through the broiling sun out to the old Rogers house to interview General Sickles.

Some time ago Mrs. Longstreet sent a long telegram as representing the southern veterans in protest against the old Union veteran being thrown in jail in New York because of some financial affairs. It was said that Sickles misunderstood the spirit and his pride was so hurt that their meeting today would not be cordial.

"General, I have written an article about you for publication," said Mrs. Longstreet at the meeting, and she read several pages of the highest tribute to the old corps leader, whom she characterized as having come back and being once again in the saddle. Half a hundred old Sickles' men gathered on the lawn and the reading became dramatic. General Sickles leaned back in his big chair, closed his eyes, and looked back to meeting with Longstreet.

Here his widow was praising to the world the valor which she claimed had gone unrecognized by the government. Tears flowed down the Sickles cheeks now tanned by his ninety-third summer, and his old followers doffed their hats and mingled their tears with those of their old leader, wetting the ground upon which long ago had been soaked by their blood.

James H. Lansberry of St. Louis, Mo., who enlisted in the Third Indiana cavalry from Madison, Ind., recited to his comrades the details of his capture in the town of Gettysburg by Confederates 50 years ago. Following the skirmish just outside of town which marked the opening of what was to be a world-famed engagement, he had been detailed to assist in carrying a wounded officer to the old seminary in Gettysburg. While in town frantic women flocked about him and begged that he tell of the battle. He remained to tell the story, with the result that he had to spend several days in following the Confederate army as a prisoner. After tramping 50 miles over rough country without shoes he succeeded in escaping and finally made his way back to Gettysburg, where he remained till August in assisting in the care of the wounded, which were housed in the seminary, churches, barns and public buildings.

One of the unadvertised reunions of the celebration occured in the confederate section of the camp. A fife and drum corps of men in blue tramped up and down the streets of the confederate part of the city of tents.

They stopped before the tents, played such a fanfare as only drums and fifes can make, summoned forth the occupants and shook hands, threw their arms about the gray shoulders and in a dozen other ways showed their feelings of friendship.

They kept it up for hours and visited practically every "reb" tent. Their reception was as warm as their greeting.

One of the most interesting places in camp was the lost and found bureau, located under the benches in the big tent. Everything found on the grounds was brought there and thousands applied every day for missing articles.

There were at least 100 crutches piled up in the bureau, dozen or so applicants having called for them. Those who come to redeem their lost crutches seldom can recognize them and most of them go away with somebody else's.

There was one wooden leg also lying unclaimed. It was brought in by a Boy Scout, who had found it under a tree.

Several sets of false teeth were found.

Sixty-three applications for divorce were filed during June in Jefferson county. Thirty-three suits in the Chancery court, twenty-five in the Circuit court and five in the City court. More than two divorce suits a day, including Sundays, during the month when Cupid is supposed to reap the benefit of a young man's fancy in the spring. Sixty-three divorce suits during one month is probably a record for Birmingham. If this were kept up for a year it would mean 756 divorces in a year. That would mean one-fourth of the white marriages in the county would result in failure.

Montgomery is on a building boom. Announcement has just been made that a splendid four-story structure costing between $50,000 and $100,000 will be built on the northeast corner of Dexter avenue and Perry streets.

TO ENCOURAGE HOG RAISING

Southern Railway Endeavoring to Stimulate Interest in Live Stock Raising.

Atlanta, Ga.—In the effort to encourage Southern farmers to raise more hogs, the Southern Railway, through its Live Stock Department, has issued a booklet entitled, "Hog Production and Conditions for Success in the South," a copy of which will be furnished on request by F. L. Word, Live Stock Agent, Atlanta, Ga.

The booklet contains much practical and valuable information as to the care and feeding of hogs, selection of breeds, treatment of diseases, and cutting and curing meat. Chapters on each subject have been supplied by experts.

That the South consumes more pork and raises less than any other part of the United States despite the fact that pork can be produced more cheaply in the South than in the North or West, is a well known fact and a condition that greatly impedes the progress of the section. The long open season and the great variety of food crops at his command give the Southern farmer the opportunity to make more money raising hogs than is possible in any other territory.

The Live Stock Department of the Southern Railway devotes its efforts entirely to stimulating interest in live stock raising in the territory along the Southern Railway and the services of its experts are available without charge of any kind to any farmer or other person interested in live stock.

LIKE JAIL, REFUSE TO LEAVE

Five Out of Seven Prisoners Remain While Two Make Way to Freedom.

Oregon City, Ore.—Because they "just sorter liked" the gray walls of the Clackamas county jail, the grub provided them and the amiable Sheriff Mass, who so carefully looks after their comfort, five out of seven prisoners refused to leave the place at night, after Charles Bennett and Harry Walters had made possible a wholesale jail delivery.

These two, serving year sentences, burned a hole in the ceiling of the jail, just below the sheriff's office, large enough to insert the blade of a bucksaw and then sawed their way to freedom.

A hole about 15 by 18 in the floor of the sheriff's office and an open window on the south side of the courthouse told the story in the morning when officials came to work.

ANGLER GETS EAGLE ON HOOK

Farmer, With Oar, Kills Bird Which Swooped Down and Snatched His Catch.

Barnwell, S. C.—Perry Hiers, a farmer of Rosemary township, caught an eagle with a fish hook while angling near his home the other evening.

He was in his boat inspecting some "set lines" when he made his curious catch. The bird had been soaring high above him in circles as he raised the lines.

The eagle dropped like a plummet and snatched a fish on one of the hooks and before it could liberate itself Hiers dispatched it by a blow with an oar.

He brought the eagle to town. It measured five feet nine inches between the tips of its outstretched wings.

What Do You Know About This?

Fort Worth, Tex.—Because he kissed a mule, J. H. Kelley, a laborer, was fined $33 in the city police court the other day. He was arrested by Patrolman Stanley, who explained to the court that he found Kelley on the street fondly caressing a big brunette mule; kissing it on the nose, and the animal refused to reciprocate. Kelley pleaded for leniency, promising that he would never, never kiss a mule again, but the judge sternly turned him down and imposed the highest fine the law allowed him.

Alarm Locates Fire.

A fire alarm box which indicates the floor on which the fire is located and also in what part, designed particularly for factory buildings in which a large number of women are employed, has been brought out by a Brooklyn inventor.

Boxes are placed on each floor. In case of fire, the alarm is sounded by pushing the button indicating the part of the floor where it has started. If the fire is at the east end, for instance, the button marked "East" is pushed. This sets off an alarm bell on all the boxes in the building and illuminates a number and letter to indicate the fire's position. If, for example, the fire is near the center of the third floor, "3C" will be illuminated on every box. This tells every person in the building the location of the fire and enables them to determine the safest way to take to reach a place of safety—Popular Mechanics.

Harsh Tone Brings Answer.

In questioning a person who talks in his sleep it has been found that a harsh or commanding tone brings more immediate results. If you wish to learn the amount of your wife's millinery bill, speak sharply to her while she is muttering in her sleep and she probably will answer.

His One Hope.

"Indeed," declared Mrs. Henpeck, "I guess I have just as good a chance of going to heaven as you." "Not if I get there first," replied her husband.

Practical Fashions

LADY'S BOX-PLAITED WAIST.

This waist has a large box plait down the front and another down the back. The closing is in front. The low neck is trimmed with a wide collar and the long sleeves end in a deep cuff. The waist has a tight fitting guimpe. Madras, batiste, voile or other soft material can be used for this waist.

The waist pattern (6257) is cut in sizes 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 2⅝ yards of 36 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Altering Model to Fit Picture.

In his later years Frederick William, king of Prussia, was sorely afflicted with gout. The twinges of pain aggravated his naturally irascible temper. During the attacks he was accustomed to divert his mind by painting. His models were always soldiers.

One day he kept a tall grenadier posing for a long time. At length the picture was finished. The king turned to the man, and in a terrible voice asked: "What do you think of that?"

"The cheeks are redder than mine," was the hesitating reply.

"I'll soon fix that!" thundered the old king.

So he seized his brush, and painted both cheeks of the terrified grenadier a brilliant red.

Telling It.

"I knew by the way our deaf and dumb neighbor was using the sign language that she was happy." "Why was she happy, do you suppose?" "Because she had a secret on hand."

Family Trees Defined.

While the family tree of the elephant runs mostly to trunk, that of the chorus girl does nothing of the sort.

Inevitably So.

"There is something funny about that legislative bill."

"Of course there's something funny about it. It's the joker in it."

No Intoxicating Bliss.

"Is there any osculation permitted at this party?"

"No; the permit says only soft drinks allowed."

Not the Same.

"Is that bill going to pass?" "No; it's going to get the go-by."

County Court was in session Monday and Tuesday. It brought quite a number of people here from over the county.

The Commissioners met in a called session on Monday to dispose of some business connected with the county road work.

Teachers, keep in mind that the date of the County Teachers Institute is from noon on Monday, Aug. 11, to noon on Friday, Aug. 15. As you value the possession of a state teachers certificate, so should you value the necessity of attending this institute; for if you do not answer to the roll calls, your license will be cancelled.

We are publishing elsewhere in this issue an announcement of the first session of the Unity-Chilton Baptist High School located at Thorsby. This school is to open its first session on September 3, and marks the beginning of what we hope to prove an institution of high educational rank in the field of preparatory school work. It is due the support of every Baptist in Chilton and Autauga counties. If you have a boy or girl who is ready to enter high school and be prepared for college you could not do better than arrange to send him or her to this school.

Last week we received from various persons, announcements of singing schools, in all amounting to about seven or eight. We published these because we had not given our correspondents any instructions regarding such matter. But here we wish to call your attention to a few things in connection with these announcements. In spite of the spiritual and religious good that may be accomplished by a singing school, it is nothing more than a money-making proposition on the part of the teacher in a great majority of cases. And this being true, such announcements as we have been receiving would necessarily be classed as pur advertising matter.

Seeing this matter as we do, we cannot find where it would be just to our advertisers who pay for advertising their business if we take these notices free of charge. Consequently, in future, if any one wishes a singing school notice inserted, write it up as short as possible and send with the copy one cent for every word in the article, and we will be glad to give it space. We do not do this because of any ill feeling to any singing school or teacher; we do it simply because it is justice to all our patrons alike. If a merchant wishes to advertise his business he pays us for it. If a teacher wishes to advertise his business, it seems that he, likewise should pay for it.

Agitation has been started on the movement to institute the seventh grade examination plan for the rural schools of the county. This plan has been tried by other counties, and has proven vastly pleasing and successful. We think that Chilton should also start the practice, and believe it would prove a great stimulant to the rural schools. But here; we have a problem to offer in connection with the matter.

The primary idea of the rural school supervisor, Prof. Baker, in working out this plan of examination and awarding of certificates was to bring the rural schools of the state into direct connection with the County High Schools. It brings the courses of study in the rural and County High Schools into direct working connection. But here is the thing that is puzzling us: How are we to connect our rural schools with our County High School, when we have no County High School? Some may say that we could let our rural schools lead up to the denominational high schools in the county. Yes they could do that; but that is not the plan of the state department, and hence in such a course we could not secure the state aid that is provided counties having a county high school. Here's our solution of the problem: The time has come when Chilton county must have a County High School. It is the only thing that will enable her to hold her rightful place among her sister counties in the furtherance of the cause of education. We have already lost myriads of advantages that would have been given us by a County High School. Shall we longer continue to slumber? We believe the time has come when Chilton county will take hold of her advantages.

WHY THE FARMERS SHOULD ORGANIZE

BY J. R. ROBINSON

Why should this be so? Because he is the backbone of this country and does not get in turn for his labor what justly belongs to him. Why is it that he does not get what he is entitled to? The answer is very simple; because he is unorganized and uneducated. The farmers are in a position to bring about a change and to secure their rights if they would only stick together. The farmers are beginning to wake up to the fact that they have never received their right share of the profits of their earnings. They are beginning to realize that they are entitled to more profits than they are getting under present conditions. They are beginning to think and act for themselves and to run their own business. I am glad it is so. They can get their rights when they realize things as they are and unite and organize and act in unison, but they can do nothing if they act independently, for their power is so scattered that they can only be effectual when they unite in a harmonious action. He can do nothing for himself when fighting alone. He is fighting against odds that are overwhelming and power simply ignores them and the only way that he can ever receive any recognition or retain his rights is to unite with his fellow man in a strong harmonious organization and this unison of action, this organizing of small powers can make one mighty power that will receive recognition and be accorded a hearing when any question of right is up for settlement. It is time that someone take a step forward; it is time that someone stand out in the limelight and proclaim the rights of the farmers and offer them something for the initial step in the great awakening and the great change that will restore to the farmers the use and profits of their own earnings and saving. It is a grand thing to know that farmers are awakening to a realization of what they can accomplish for themselves by united efforts.

When you feel lazy, out of sorts and yawn a good deal in the day time, you can charge it to a torpid liver which has allowed the system to get full of impurities. FOURTH OF JULY SHOOTING

On last Friday, July 4th, Obie Smith, a young white man was shot by Jim Simmons, another white man, at a public gathering near Poplar Springs. The ball from the revolver struck Smith on the calf of the leg, and fractured the bone. He was brought to Clanton immediately and the bullet removed by surgeons. The wound, though very painful is not serious.

The only cause for the shooting seems to be that Simmons was on one of those typical old time Fourth of July drunks, and did not realize exactly what he was doing. All day he had been riding up and down the road giving demonstrations with his forty-some-odd, one of which resulted in the wounding of Smith.

Simmons was placed in jail, and given trial in the County Court Monday and Tuesday. He was tried Monday for carrying concealed weapon; he was given a fine of $50, which he paid. Tuesday he was tried for assault with intent to murder. He waived this case to the grand jury, and was released under $500 bond to await their hearing.

Reduction.

Charles L. Sinnixon, a London advertisng expert, was praising in New York the change that has come over the advertisement.

"In advertising, as in other things," he said, "it has been found that honesty pays, and today, throughout the world, the successful advertiser is modest and conservative in his statements.

"Advertising is no longer mistrusted Things are no longer as they were in Phatt's day.

"'You know Phatt, our 400-pound bookkeeper?' said one man in the street to another.

"'Yes. What of him?'

"'Well, he saw an ad in a paper—"Fat folks reduced, $5"—and he answered it.'

"'Did he get any reply?'

"'Oh, yes; it was just as advertised.'

"That's good. And how much was he reduced?'

"'Why, just as the advertisement said, $5.'"

Trouble at the Crossin'.

"Hullo, Cyrus. How's things over to th' Crossin'?"

"Pretty duberous. We got a race war on."

"No!"

"Yep. Couple o' Swedes from Wisconsin started a market garden on th' north-rd."

"Well?"

"The board o' selectmen held a meetin' right away an' passed a anty alien act."

"Well, well!"

"Yep. Peleg Brown has writ to Guv. Johnson of Californy, askin' how to enforce it. An' ever'body in town is wonderin'."

"Wonderin' what?"

"Ef Sweden is goin' to declare war."

Youthful Courtesy.

Prof. William Howard Taft of Yale had a practical illustration of personal popularity a few days ago. He was a passenger on a trolley car on his way to the golf links. It was not a "pay-as-you-enter" car, and when the conductor came within his reach the ex-president-professor offered his fare, which was rejected with the remark: "That's all right; a lad on the platform paid for you, Mr. President." For a moment Mr. Taft looked puzzled, but then he smiled broadly and evidently appreciated the courtesy.

CLANTON MATTERS

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Dennis of Montgomery are visiting relatives here this week.

Tax Collector, J. Dudley Collins, was a visitor at The Union-Banner office Tuesday.

Miss Annie Spann of Montgomery is visiting Miss Mary Curry this week.

Miss Mary Curry returned last Tuesday afternoon from Livingston where she has been visiting relatives and friends.

Miss Nellie May Porter of Le Grand, Ala., is the charming guest of Miss IzorCal len this week.

Mr. Sam Kanjutzky made a trip to Birmingham in an auto Sunday, where he spent the day with relatives, returning Monday afternoon.

Messrs. J. L. Burnett, W. A. Moore, C. T. Walker, E. M. Frith, B. F. Frith, G. W. Frith, Z. T. Burnett, B. F. Griffin of Lawley attended court here Tuesday.

MASQUERADE PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Callen were at home to the younger set on Tuesday evening, July 8th at a Masquerade Party in honor of their charming house guest, Miss Oakly.

The out-of-town guests were Misses Nellie May Porter, Winnie Kelly and Jewel Campbell.

This affair was one of the prettiest and most unique of the summer season and was most enjoyably entered into by the young masqueraders, whose costumes were carried out to perfection by their unusual quaintness and originality.

Dainty and cooling fruit beverage was served by "Little Red Riding Hood" and later in the evening delicious ices and cakes were enjoyed to the fullest extent.

Mrs. Callen, always a most gracious hostess, made this affair so informal and pleasant that the young people pronounced it the "best occassion of their lives."

Mrs. Hugh Jones assisted Mrs. Callen in receiving her guests.

Miss Oakley is a cousin of the host, and is from Starksville, Miss., and brings with her a charm of the old South which enables her to number her friends by the score. Some of the older residents remember with pleasure her mother, who visited Mrs. Mary Callen Simpson.

HELD UP LIFE MIRROR WRONG

Strindberg Saw Only the Worst in Human Nature, and Wrote According to His Convictions.

Strindbery had an uncanny power of psychological analysis, says a priter in the London Nation. He exhibits himself to the world naked and raving, but the exhibition causes him no shame. He also dissects his foes with convincing malice. So it is in the plays. He displays the average vulgar coquette, the worst product of the older social conventions which taught her that her sex is her fortune, with an insight that is not wholly unjust in its remorseless and ungrateful brutality. But there is in him this quality of intellectual honesty, that in revealing the woman who is a coquette he is also compelled to exhibit the man who is a sensualist. The latter revelation is apparently altogether unconscious. He sees and despises the triviality and tinsel of the animal attraction in the woman; he reveals, but does not appear to despise, the brutality and vulgarity of the animal passion in the man. He regards the man as the creative mind, yet shrinks from placing on him the responsibility for what he has written on the "slate" of the woman's mind. His was a genius which worked its hardest and best under the impulse of hatred. He has the insight of malice, the vision of scorn.

PAY BIG PRICE FOR VANITY

English Women Said to Be Resorting to Extreme Measures to Reduce Size of Their Feet.

Fashions sometimes travel slowly. Now that the centuries-old bandaging of women's feet to reduce their size is being given up in China, the practice has cropped out in London. A beauty specialist is responsible. Since women have taken to short dresses they have pinched their feet in smaller shoes, but the reduction of a half size in the footgear does not make an effect of daintiness.

So the clever faker devised a method of shrinking feet. He applies astringent chemicals and binds the feet in a rubber bandage. The tissues shrink and shrivel up under this process, and the victim of this fad can appear to have very dainty feet when shod in glove-fitting shoes; but her wrinkled, bony feet, when uncovered, are shockingly ugly.

The fad is costly, for the faker charges big fees, and physicians predict that the victims of this maltreatment will be unable to walk at all after a year or two.

Transporting Live Fish.

Transportation of live fish is expensive because it requires from one to four gallons of water for each pound of fish. Much more economical is to freeze the live fish in blocks of ice. The fish are at first contained in a large amount of water, then while the tank is placed in a closed space, oxygen under pressure arrives upon the water so that the greater part can now be drawn off and the fish remain in cood condition in a very small amount of water, as the oxygen supplies their respiration. Freezing is now done by plunging the vessel with the fish into a refrigerating tank and in this way an ice block is obtained in which the fish are frozen, but will come to life again when thawed out. Upon arrival at their destination the fish are put through a very slow thawing process, which lasts for about ten hours.

SEVENTH GRADE EXAMINATIONS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Last year in the County Teachers Institute, Prof. N. R. Baker, State Supervisor of rural schools, explained to the teachers of the county a plan he had originated which provided that every student of the rural school, upon completing the course, which runs through the seventh grade, be given an examination, covering the work done, and if passed satisfactorily the student be given a certificate entitling him to admission to the County High Schools of the state. This plan is indeed a good one, and if carried out according to the arrangements planned by Mr. Baker's department, means vast improvements in the educational field of the rural school. It will place before the boy or girl a definite and tangible aim to work for, and he or she will be more interested than if no end to the effort could be seen. The plans for the examination are simple and could be carried out at a very small expense. The awarding of the certificates could easily be made an occasion of the greatest pride and satisfaction to those receiving them.

The teachers institute is to be held at the courthouse during the week beginning Aug. 11th. That will be a good time to discuss the matter, and every teacher should be thinking of it so he or she will have some good idea to offer on the subject. It means a great deal to the rural school facilities, and should be instituted.

BOY FALLS FROM TREE.

On last Friday the ten year old son of Mr. John Oaks, who lives about four miles east of Clanton, happened to a very painful accident. Several children were playing with some pet dogs that belong at the home, and in the game the little boy climbed a tree to puzzle the dogs. When the dogs "treed" him he was about fifteen feet from the ground. By some means he lost his balance and fell. The result was one arm broken just above the rist, and some painful cuts and bruises on the head and face. Medical attention was given him immediately and, it is thought that he will soon be recovered from his injuries.

MAN PROVES HIS SUPREMACY

Aviators Outstrip the Swiftest Birds in Their Marvelous Flight Through the Air.

Nature has long put the air first in the speed of living creatures. Next to the birds came the land animals. The fishes trailed behind.

It has come to that already with man's speed records. Tuesday a French aviator named Guillaux drove a flying machine 118 miles in an hour, from Savigny-sur-Brave to Paris, and thereby beat the best record ever made by an automobile in this country or Europe by about six miles. No railroad train ever came anywhere near the sustained speed of the "birdman," who averaged almost two miles a minute for 60 minutes.

The fastest racing boats, it is needless to say, are far behind the record of the automobiles and the railroad trains. Their feats are wonderful, in view of the conditions they have to contend against, but their limit, so far is less than a mile a minute, for any distance, however short.

So the air becomes the field for man's swiftest travel. Flight leads in human devices for fast movement from place to place, just as it does with the birds, the beasts and the fishes. But it is still an open question whether or not the record flight of 118 miles an hour surpasses the fastest flying ever done by a bird.

GOOD DEFINITION OF "CHIC"

Visiting Englishman Well Describes the Elegant Women Who Are the Pride of New York.

Lord Morley, at a luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton in New York, said of the American woman:

"The American woman as she glides in her motorcar down Fifth avenue, or as she hurries from her jeweler's to Sherry's, is perhaps the most elegant woman in the world.

"Fifth avenue is perhaps the most elegant street in the world. Broad and straight, bordered with splendid shops and hotels of pale stone, drenched with sunshine and roofed with a luminous blue sky, Fifth avenue is a fitting promenade for America's beautiful women.

"But these women dress, perhaps, a little too boldly for the street. Take, for example, their tight gowns with a slit at the side—a slit through which advances and retreats a slim foot in a patent leather shoe and a supple ankle in a gossamer silk stocking. This is perhaps too overwhelming a costume for street wear.

"Yet in such a costume the American woman is undoubtedly chic. And this raises the question: What is chic?"

Lord Morley paused and smiled. Then he continued:

"Way of the Tree of Life."

"Thou shalt have none other gods but me." If a man had been able to keep that one commandment perfectly the other nine would never have been written; instead, he has comprehensively disregarded it, and perhaps never more than now in the twentieth century. Ah, well! this world, in spite of all its sinning, is still the Garden of Eden where the Lord walketh with man, not in the cool of the evening, but in the heat and stress of the immediate working day. There is no angel now with flaming sword to keep the way of the Tree of Life, but tapers alight morning by morning in the Hostel of God to point us to it; and we are as gods knowing good and evil, partake of that fruit "whereof whoso eateth shall never die;" the greatest gift of the most awful penalty—eternal life.—From "The Roadmender," by Michael Fairless.

Art of Economy.

All economy, whether of state, households, or individuals, may be defined to be the art of managing labor. . . . Now, we have warped the word "economy" in our English language into a meaning which it has no business whatever to bear. In our use of it, it constantly signifies merely sparing or saving; economy of money means saving money—economy of time, sparing time, and so on. But that is a wholly barbarous use of sense, for it is not English, and it is bad Greek; barbarous in a treble sense, for it is not English, it is bad Greek, and it is worse sense.

Economy no more means saving money than it means spending money. It means the administration of a house; its stewardship; spending or saving; that is, whether money or time, or anything else, to the best possible advantage.—Ruskin.

Solving the Problem.

Ruth and Helen's mother was trying to teach the little girls the value of unselfishness, and not always wanting their own way. One day she got them a couple of pieces of cake, and as one piece was larger, she said: "Now, to whom shall I give the larger piece?" Each girl said to give it to the other, but Helen, seeing this did not solve the problem, said: "Well, mamma, you had better do as Ruth says this time."

Futile Sacrifice.

Cholly—What's the matter, Fwank, deah boy?

Fwank—Oh, Cholly, Ethel tells me she loves another.

Cholly—What hard luck, after your devotion!

Fwank—Hard luck! Why, Cholly, in the last six months her father's dog has bitten me nine times.

NEW FOOD FOR THE SOLDIER

Ration Is Said to Be the Best That Has Yet Been Devised to Keep Troops in Health.

Soldiers are going to receive a new war bread, made after a recipe kept secret by the technical section of the commissariat and which has just been experimented with successfully by the troops in the east.

This produce is in the form of small biscuits and contains a certain quantity of sugar and purified vegetable fat, which gives it an agreeable taste, while furnishing to the muscles of the consumers a supplement of carbon which allows them to accomplish a stronger effort.

The men consumed two biscuits in the morning coffee, one in the soup, eight as table bread.

The taste of this war bread, which recalls a little that of the petit beurre biscuits or of the Japanese katapan—sweet biscuits that are distributed to the troops in the field—is more agreeable than the former one; its aspect is also more appetizing and it was eaten with satisfaction, especially with the coffee and as table bread.

Its prolonged use caused no gastro-intestinal indisposition, neither did it provoke, as its predecessor, the disagreeable "biscuit diarrhea."

The utilization of oats has also been tried in a very interesting way as a food for the soldier in the field. During 30 consecutive days a company of infantry received a soup of torrefied oatmeal. During the first 15 days this company marched 340 kilometers. During the other 15 days it accomplished maneuvers in camp.

Now, during these 30 days no man of this company went on the sick list, while in each of the three other companies of the same battalion which accomplished the same marches and the same maneuvers eight or ten men went every day to the doctor's consultation.

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI. was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles. Her Ladyship dances with strange fisherman, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious Le Seigneur Noir. He escapes. Lady Elise is caught in the "Grand" tide. The Black Seigneur rescues and takes her to his retreat. Elise discovers that her savior was the boy with the fish. Sanchez, the Seigneur's servant, is arrested and brought before the governor.

CHAPTER XI.—(Continued.)

The slight form of the Governor stirred as to the shock of a battery.

"There is no harm in telling now," hurriedly she went on. "He saved me from the 'grand' tide—for I was on Saladin's back when he bolted and ran. I had not dismounted, though I allowed you to infer so, and he had carried me almost to the island of Casque when we heard and saw the water coming in. The nearest place was the island—not the point of the mainland, as I felt obliged to lead you to think, and we started for it; we might have reached the cove, had not Saladin stumbled and thrown me. The last I remembered the water came rushing around, and when I awoke, I was in a watch-tower, with him—the Black Seigneur!"

The Governor looked at her; did not speak.

"I—I at first did not know who he was—not until this man came—and the priest! And when he, the Black Seigneur, saw I had learned the truth, he asked me to promise—not for himself—but because of this man!—to say nothing of having met him there, or the others! And I did promise, and—he sent me back—and that is all—"

"All!" Did the Governor speak the word? He sat as if he had hardly comprehended; a deeper flush dyed her cheek.

"You—can not blame me—after what he did. He saved me—saved my life. You are glad of that, mon pere, are you not? And it must have been hard doing it, for his clothes were torn, and his hands were bleeding—he can't be all bad, mon pere! He knew who I was, yet trusted me—trusted!"

The Governor looked at her; touched a bell; the full-toned note vibrated far and near.

"What are you going to do?" Something in his face held her.

Again the tones startled the stillness. "Remember it is I who am responsible for—"

"Your Excellency?" Across the court appeared Beppo, moving quickly toward them. "Your Excellency?"

"One moment!" The servant stepped back; the Governor looked first at the girl; then toward the entrance of the cloister.

"You want me to go?" Her voice was low; strained; in it, too, was a hard, rebellious accent. "But I can't—can't—until—"

"What?"

"You promise to set him free! This man who brought me back! Don't you see you must, mon pere? Must!" she repeated.

His thin lips drew back disagreeably; he seemed about to speak; then reached among the papers and turned them over absently. "Very well!" he said at length without glancing up.

"You promise," her voice expressed relief and a little surprise, "to set him free?"

"Have I not said so?" His eyelids veiled a peculiar look. "Yes, he shall be liberated—very shortly."

"Thank you, mon pere." A moment she bent over him; the proud, sweet lips brushed his forehead. "I will go, then, at once." And she started toward the door. Near the threshold she paused; looked back to smile gratefully at the Governor, then quickly went out.

CHAPTER XII.

At the Cockles.

A rugged mass of granite, rent by fissures, and surrounded by rocks and whirlpools, the Norman English isle, so-called "Key to the Channel," one hundred miles or more northwest of the Mount, had from time immemorial offered haven to ships out of the pale of French ports. Not only a haven, but a home, or that next-best accommodation, an excellent inn. Perched in the hollow of the mighty cliff and reached by a flight of somewhat perilous stairs, the Cockles, for so the ancient tavern was called, set squarely toward the sea, and opened wide its shell, as it were, to all waifs or stormy petrels blown in from the foamy deep.

Good men, bad men; Republicans, royalists; French-English, English-French, the landlord—old Pierre Laroche, retired sea-captain and owner of a number of craft employed in a dangerous, but profitable, occupation—received them willingly, and in his solicitude for their creature comforts and the subsequent reckoning, cared not a jot for their politics, morals, or social views. It was enough if the visitor had no lenten capacity; looked the fleshpots in the face and drank of his bottle freely.

The past few days the character of old Pierre's guests had left some room for complaint on that score. But a small number of the crew of the swift-looking vessel, well-known to the islanders, and now tossing in the sea-nook below, had, shortly after their arrival toward dusk of a stormy day, repaired to the inn, and then they had not called for their brandy or wine in the smart manner of seamen prepared for unstinted sacrifice to Bacchus. On the contrary, they drank quietly, talked soberly, and soon prepared to leave.

"Something has surely gone wrong," thought their host. "Why did not your captain come ashore?" he asked. "Not see his old friend, Pierre Laroche, at once! It is most unlike him."

And on the morrow, the islanders, or English-French, more or less privateersmen themselves, were equally curious. Where had the ship come from? Where was it going? And how many tons of wine, bales of silk and packages to tobacco, or "ptum," as the weed was called, had it captured? Old Pierre would soon find out, for early that day, despite the inclemency of the weather, he came down to the beach, and, followed by a servitor, got into a small boat moored close to the shore.

"He is going aboard!"

"Who has a better right? His own vessel!"

"No; Andre Desaurac—the Black Seigneur's! They say he long ago paid for it from prizes wrested from the Governor of the Mount."

"At any rate, old Pierre entered into a bargain to build the boat for him—"

"And added to his wealth by the transaction."

Later that morning the old man came ashore, but, according to habit, preserved a shrewd silence; in the afternoon a small number of the crew landed to take on stores and ammunition—of which there was ever a plentiful supply at this base; that night, however, all, including their master, betook themselves to the Cockles.

"Glad to see you ashore, mon capitaine." Pierre Laroche, standing at the door, just beyond reach of the fierce driving rain, welcomed the Black Seigneur warmly; but the young man, one of whose arms seemed bound and useless, cut short his greeting; tossed bruskly aside his heavy cloak, and called for a room where he might sit in private with a companion. This person the landlord eyed askance; nevertheless, with a show of bluff heartiness, he led the way to a small chamber, somewhat apart, but overlooking the long low apartment, the general eating and drinking place of the establishment, now filled by the crew and a number of the islanders.

"Your capitaine has been hurt? How?" A strapping, handsome girl, clad in red and of assured mien, passing across the room, paused to address a man of prodigious girth, who drank with much gusto from a huge vessel at his elbow.

"Did not your father, Pierre Laroche, tell you?"

"He? No; all he thinks of is the money."

"Then must le capitaine speak for himself, Mistress Nanette."

"You are not very polite, Monsieur Gabarie," she returned, tossing her head; "but I suppose there is a reason; you have been beaten. In an encounter with the Governor's ships? Did you sink any of them? It would be good news for us islanders."

"You islanders!" derisively.

"Yes, islanders!" she answered defiantly. "But tell me; a number of you wear patches, which make you look very ugly. They were acquired—how?"

"In a little clerical argument!" growled the poet.

She glanced toward the secluded apartment; its occupants—the subject of their conversation, and a priest, a feeble-looking man of about seventy, whose delicate, sad face shone white and out-of-keeping in that adventuresome company. "At any rate, the Black Seigneur hasn't lost his good looks!"

"Take care you don't lose your heart!"

"Bah!" Her strong bold eyes swept back. "Much good it would do me!"

"And for that reason—"

"Messieurs!" the landlord's voice broke in upon them; "behold!" it seemed to say, as pushing through the company, he preceded a lanky lad who bore by their legs many plucked fowls and birds—woodcock, wild duck, cliff pigeons—and made his way to the great open fireplace at one end of the room. There, bending over the glowing embers, the landlord deliberately stirred and spread them; then, reaching for a bar of steel, he selected a poulet from the hand of the lanky attendant and prepared to adjust it; but before doing so, prodded it with his finger, surveyed it critically, and held it up for admiring attention.

"Who says old Pierre Laroche doesn't know how to care for his friends? What think you of it, my masters?"

"Plump as the King's confessor," muttered the poet.

"Or your King himself!" said one of the islanders.

"On with the King! Skewer the King!" exclaimed a fierce voice.

"And then we'll eat him!" laughed the girl, showing her white teeth.

"Thoughtless children!" From his place at the table in the small room adjoining, the priest, attracted by the grim merriment of the islanders, looked down to regard them; the red fire; the red gown.

"Here, at least, will you find a safe asylum, Father," said his companion, the Black Seigneur, in an absent tone; "a little rough, perhaps, to suit your calling—"

"The rougher, the more suitable—as I've often had occasion to learn since leaving Verranch."

"Since being driven from it, you mean!" shortly.

"Ah, those revolutionary documents—placed in my garden!"

"To make you appear—you, Father!—a sanguinary character!" But the other's laugh rang false.

"Alas, such wickedness! But I was too content; the rose-covered cottage too comfortable; its garden, an Eden! It was more meet I should be driven forth; go out into the highways, where I found—such misery! I reproached myself I had not sought it sooner—voluntarily. From north to south peasants dying, women and children starving, no one to administer the last rites—on every side, work, work for the outcast priest! For ten years it has occupied him—a blessed privilege—"

"And then," the young man, who had seemed absorbed in other thoughts, hardly listening, looked mechanically up, "you came back?"

"A weakness of age! To see the old place once more! The little church; God's acre at its side; to stand on the hill at Verranch and look out a last time over the beautiful vale toward the Mount!" Briefly he paused. "Yet I am glad I yielded to the temptation; otherwise should I not have met your old servant, Sanchez; who told me all—how you had long been looking for me, and arranged our meeting for that day—on the island of Casque!"

"But not," the young man's demeanor at once became intent; his eyes gleamed with sudden fierce lights, "for what followed!"

The priest sighed. "Shall I ever forget it? The terrible night, the troop-ship, the killed and wounded. And the poor fellows taken prisoners! I can not but think of them and their fate. What will it be?"

The other did not answer; only impatiently moved his injured arm and, regarding him, the down-turned, dark countenance, the knit brows, quickly the priest changed the subject of conversation.

In the large room some one began to play, and before the fire, where now the birds were turning and the serving-lad, with a long spoon was basting, the dark-browed girl started to dance. At the side of the hearth old Pierre smoked stolidly, gazed at the coals, and dreamed—perhaps of the past, and dangers he had himself encountered, or of the present, and his ships scattered—where?—on profitable, if precarious errands. Somberly, in no freer mood than on the occasion of their first visit to the inn, the crew looked on; but a tall, savage-appearing islander soon matched her step; a second took his place; from one partner to another she passed—wild, reckless men whose touch she did not shun; yet it might have been noticed her eyes turned often, through wreaths of smoke, mist-like in the glare and glimmer of dips and torches, toward the Black Seigneur.

Why—her gaze seemed to say—did he not join them, instead of sitting there with a priest? She whirled to the threshold; her flushed face looked in. "Are you saying a mass for the souls of your men who were captured?"

"I see," he returned quietly, "you have been gossiping."

"A woman's privilege!" she flashed back. "But how did it happen? And not only your arm," more sharply regarding him, "but your head! I fancy if I were to push back a few locks of that thick hair I should discover—it must have been a pretty blow you got, my Seigneur Solitude!" He made no reply and she went on. "You, who I thought were never beaten! By a mere handful of troops, too! Did you have to run away very fast? If I were a man—"

"Your tongue would be less sharp," he answered coolly, the black eyes indifferent.

"Much you care for my tongue!" she retorted.

"No?"

"No!" she returned mockingly, when above the din of voices, the crackling of the fire, and the wild moaning of the wind in the chimney, a low, but distinct and prolonged call was heard—from somewhere without, below.

The Landlord Deliberately Stirred and Spread Them.

"What is that?" Quickly Nanette turned; superstitious, after the fashion of most of her people, a little of the color left her cheek. Again was it wafted to them, nearer, plainer! "The voices of dead men from the sea!"

"More like some one on the steps who would like to get in—some fisherman who has just got to shore!" said old Pierre Laroche, waking up and emptying his pipe. "Throw open the door. The stones are slippery—the night dark—"

One of the crew obeyed, and, as the wind entered sharply, and the lights flickered and grew dim, there half staggered, half rushed from the gloom, the figure of a man, wild, wet, whose clothes were torn and whose face was freshly cut and marked with many livid signs of violence.

"Sanchez!" From his place the Black Seigneur rose.

The others looked around wonderingly; some with rough pity. "What's the matter, man?" said one. "You look as if you had had a bad fall."

"Fall!" Standing in the center of the room, where he had come to a sudden stop, the man gazed, bewildered, resentful, about him; then above the circle of questioning faces, his uncertain look lifted; caught and remained fixed on that of the Black Seigneur. "Fall?" he repeated, articulating with difficulty. "No! I had—no fall—but I will speak—with my master—alone!"

CHAPTER XIII.

The Seething of the Sea.

"'I have concluded to deal leniently with you,' said the Governor; 'set you free!' I could not believe."

Alone in the little chamber, the door of which now was closed, shutting them from sight of the company in the general eating and drinking room adjoining, Sanchez and the Black Seigneur sat together. Before them the viands that had been placed on the table were untouched; the filled glasses, untasted. As he spoke, the man bent forward, his words disjointed; his eyes gleaming.

"'But,' the Governor added, 'the criminal must be taught not to forget;' then turned to his soldiers. 'Beat me this fellow from the Mount!' he commanded."

"What!" The blood sprang to the dark face of the listener; he half started from his chair.

"And they did! A merry chase, down the streets, across the sands! I, an old soldier!" His voice choked. "Beaten like a dog!"

For some moments the young man looked at him; then again sank back; stared straight ahead. Without, the laughter and harsh voices of the islanders had become louder; within the little chamber, the only sound now was the hard, persistent ticking of the clock on the shelf.

"But how," at length Desaurac made a movement, "did he—"

"Learn!" violently. "The way I told you he would!"

"You mean—"

"That I was betrayed and you were—by the Lady Elise—"

"Impossible!" the Black Seigneur exclaimed with sudden violence.

"Because she has a pretty face!" sneered the other.

"Silence! Or—"

"That is it!" The servant's voice rose stridently. "Beaten at one end, threatened at the other!"

The arm the young man had reached out fell to his side. "Hush! You're mad; you don't know what you're saying!"

"And you did not know what you were doing! Oh, I dare say it—I tell you now I little liked the task of taking her back; expecting some sort of treachery, and, when it came, was not surprised! Any more than, when they had brought me before the Governor, I saw her at the cloister—watching, hiding—"

"Hiding!"

"Behind the coping to listen when he, her father, was questioning me! And, when I looked up and caught her, she walked out—to show me I might as well confess!"

"She did that?"

"Then tried to cozen me into believing it was not through her," went on the man bitterly, as if speaking to himself. "But I know the lying blood—none better—and when she saw it was no use," he paused and looked up, the marks of the stripes on his face seeming suddenly to burn and grow livid, "she acknowledged it to my face! 'I won't deny.' Those were her words! And when she left the place, she turned around to look back at me—and laugh—"

"You are not mistaken?"

"Perhaps," said the man, a venomous light in his obstinate eyes, "it was all a fancy; or—I am lying!"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Tax on Wisdom.

Alderman James V. McMasters has a "David Harum" horse case to decide that will take the wisdom of a Solomon. He announced after hearing the evidence yesterday that he would need two days in order to study the merits of the case and that he would give his decision on Monday. The suit was brought by J. D. Page, a milk dealer of the north side, against the Riverside Horse and Mule Company to recover $162.50 which he paid in April, 1911, for a horse bought at the company's stables. Page says the horse died shortly after from pneumonia. The company's representative explained that the horse was sold on a commission basis and that as far as he knew the animal was not sick when sold to Page.

The hearing lasted for an hour and the "horsey talk" was too much for the alderman to decide the case off hand.

The Gyroscope.

When the movement of the gyroscope attains a high degree of speed it is very difficult to displace the plane of the top, which balances itself in the most unlikely positions. An attachment of this kind, but of very large dimensions, if placed on a wagon or a boat, gives the vehicle extraordinary stability. Trains resting on a single line of wheels set under the middle of the car have attained high speed during recent experiments in Germany and have proved perfectly stable.—Harper's Weekly.

The Best Hot Weather Tonic

GROVE'S TASTELESS chill TONIC enriches the blood and builds up the whole system, and it will wonderfully strengthen and fortify you to withstand the depressing effect of the hot summer. 50c.

The Lord helps him who helps himself, but don't let that prevent you from helping others.

Astonishing Coiffures.

Coiffures are to be high again, but not so high as in the past. Formerly doorways had to be heightened to accommodate the eighteenth century woman of fashion. Marie Antoinette's hairdresser had to mount a stool in order to get above his work. Women of that time had to kneel in their coaches to get their head covering inside, or drive with their heads out of the windows. Mme. de Genlis was caught by her hair while hastening to greet Voltaire at Ferny, but escaped Absalom's fate, her hair remaining on the bough. And the Duchess de Chartres had room on her hair one evening for a miniature man-of-war in full sail, on another for a representation of her little son, Louis Philippe, sleeping in the lap of his nurse.

Bees Addicted to "Dope."

Just add this one to all the queer things that have happened in the year of grace 1913 and believe it's true, because W. E. Baker, deputy auditor of the state of Ohio, says he can prove it.

The honey bees near Fostoria, which is Baker's home town, have contracted the opium habit. Like the Chinese, they get theirs from the poppy. Baker and many other residents of Fostoria grow oriental poppies.

The bees have found this out, and of late they are leaving acres of clover blossoms to hunt out the poppy beds. They work very vigorously for an hour or so and then fall to the ground apparently as stupefied as are opium smokers after "hitting the pipe."—Fostoria (Ohio) dispatch to New York Sun.

CUBS' FOOD

They Thrive on Grape-Nuts.

Healthy babies don't cry and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food, Grape-Nuts, and get well.

"My baby was given up by three doctors who said that the condensed milk on which I had fed her had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked 1½ tablespoonfuls in one pint of cold water for half an hour, then I strained off the liquid and mixed 12 teaspoonfuls of this strained Grape-Nuts juice with six teaspoonfuls of rich milk, put in a pinch of salt and a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong, healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies on and is also a delicious healthful food for grown-ups as we have discovered in our family."

Grape-Nuts is equally valuable to the strong, healthy man or woman. It stands for the true theory of health. "There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

VETERANS HEAR THE PRESIDENT

Mr. Wilson Delivers Address at Gettysburg Celebration.

DRAWS LESSON FROM BATTLE

Declares Great Army of the People Must Fight Peacefully to Perfect the Nation All Love.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 4.—National day in the semi-centennial celebration of the Battle of Gettysburg was made especially notable by an address delivered by President Woodrow Wilson. In his audience were many thousands of the veterans who fought in the great battle, as well as a great throng of other visitors.

The president's address follows:

Friends and Fellow Citizens: I need not tell you what the battle of Gettysburg meant. These gallant men in blue and gray sit all about us here. Many of them met here upon this ground in grim and deadly struggle. Upon these famous fields and hillsides their comrades died about them. In their presence it were an impertinence to discourse upon how the battle went, how it ended, what it signified! But 50 years have gone by since then and I crave the privilege of speaking to you for a few minutes of what those 50 years have meant.

What have they meant? They have meant peace and union and vigor, and the maturity and might of a great nation. How wholesome and healing the peace has been! We have found one another again as brothers and comrades in arms, enemies no longer, generous friends rather, our battles long past, the quarrel forgotten—except that we shall not forget the splendid valor, the manly devotion of the men then arrayed against one another, now grasping hands and smiling into each other's eyes. How complete the union has become and how dear to all of us, how unquestioned, how benign and majestic, as state after state has been added to this great family of free men! How handsome the vigor, the maturity, the might of the great nation we love with undivided hearts; how full of large and confident promise that a life will be wrought out that will crown its strength with gracious justice and a happy welfare that will touch all alike with deep contentment! We are debtors to those 50 crowded years; they have made us heirs to a mighty heritage.

Nation Not Finished.

But do we deem the nation complete and finished? These venerable men crowding here to this famous field have set us a great example of devotion and utter sacrifice. They were willing to die that the people might live. But their task is done. Their day is turned into evening. They look to us to perfect what they established. Their work is handed on to us, to be done in another way but not in another spirit. Our day is not over; it is upon us in full tide.

Have affairs paused? Does the nation stand still? Is it what the 50 years have wrought since those days of battle finished, rounded out, and completed? Here is a great people, great with every force that has ever beaten in the life blood of mankind. And it is secure. There is no one within its borders, there is no power among the nations of the earth, to make it afraid. But has it yet squared itself with its own great standards set up at its birth, when it made that first noble, naive appeal to the moral judgment of mankind to take notice that a government had now at last been established which was to serve men, not masters? It is secure in everything except the satisfaction that its life is right, adjusted to the uttermost to the standards of righteousness and humanity. The days of sacrifice and cleansing are not closed. We have harder things to do than were done in the heroic days of war, because harder to see clearly, requiring more vision, more calm balance of judgment, a more candid searching of the very springs of right.

Tribute to Their Valor.

Look around you upon the field of Gettysburg! Picture the array, the fierce heats and agony of battle, column hurled against column, battery bellowing to battery! Valor? Yes! Greater no man shall see in war; and self-sacrifice, and loss to the uttermost; the high recklessness of exalted devotion which does not count the cost. We are made by these tragic, epic things to know what it costs to make a nation—the blood and sacrifice of multitudes of unknown men lifted to a great stature in the view of all generations by knowing no limit to their manly willingness to serve. In armies thus marshaled from the ranks of free men you will see, as it were, a nation embattled, the leaders and the led, and may know, if you will, how little except in form its action differs in days of peace from its action in days of war.

May we break camp now and be at ease? Are the forces that fight for the Nation dispersed, disbanded, gone to their homes forgetful of the common cause? Are our forces disorganized, without constituted leaders and the might of men consciously united because we contend, not with armies, but with principalities and powers and wickedness in high places. Are we content to lie still? Does our union mean sympathy, our peace contentment, our vigor right action, our maturity self-comprehension and a clear confidence in choosing what we shall do? War fitted us for action, and action never ceases.

Our Laws the Orders of the Day.

I have been chosen the leader of the Nation. I cannot justify the choice by any qualities of my own, but so it has come about, and here I stand. Whom do I command? The ghostly hosts who fought upon these battlefields long ago and are gone? These gallant gentlemen stricken in years whose fighting days are over, their glory won? What are the orders for them, who rallies them? I have in my mind another host, whom these set free of civil strife in order that they might work out in days of peace and settled order the life of a great nation. That host is the people themselves, the great and the small, without class or difference of kind or race or origin; and undivided in interest, if we have but the vision to guide and direct them and order their lives aright in what we do. Our constitutions are their articles of enlistment. The orders of the day are the laws upon our statute books. What we strive for is their freedom, their right to lift themselves from day to day and behold the things they have hoped for, and so make way for still better days for those whom they love who are to come after them. The recruits are the little children crowding in. The quartermaster's stores are in the mines and forests and fields, in the shops and factories. Every day something must be done to push the campaign forward; and it must be done by plan and with an eye to some great destiny.

How shall we hold such thoughts in our hearts and not be moved? I would not have you live even today wholly in the past, but would wish to stand with you in the light that streams upon us now out of that great day gone by. Here is the nation God has builded by our hands. What shall we do with it? Who stands ready to act again and always in the spirit of this day of reunion and hope and patriotic fervor? The day of our country's life has but broadened into morning. Do not put uniforms by. Put the harness of the present on. Lift your eyes to the great tracts of life yet to be conquered in the interest of righteous peace, of that prosperity which lies in a people's hearts and outlasts all wars and errors of men. Come, let us be comrades and soldiers yet to serve our fellow men in quiet counsel, where the blare of trumpets is neither heard nor heeded and where the things are done which make blessed the nations of the world in peace and righteousness and love.

LOOK TO RUSSIAN OIL FIELDS

Are Certain to Play an Important Part in Furnishing Power for Battleships.

In discussing the fact that the use of oil instead of coal as fuel in the English navy is under consideration it is time Russia should pay serious attention to this question. If England is replacing its own cheap coal by the more expensive foreign product, there must be important advantages on the side of naphtha, and in the future Russian fleet the part to be played by this fuel will be a most important one, the Novoe Vremya says. Many mills and factories have gone over to naphtha as fuel and the consumption is increasing every year.

Russia owns immense oil fields and it could be the chief supplier of the world. The need of organization in the business is recognized by the government and a number of special meetings have been held for discussing the subject. New conditions have been laid down for the exploitation of government territories, and the regulations for investigations have been changed. Some territories known as being rich in oil have been closed to private enterprise, such as the Apsheron peninsula, near Baku, and various islands of the Caspian sea, as well as some territories in the Transcaspian Ural and Gerghana districts, and others in the north of Russia and Siberia, amounting to millions of acres. The reason for this action is the wish to preserve these districts from exhaustion.

Another question concerns the matter of investigation. It is quite necessary that the right of investigation be granted on a large scale, and not only for comparatively small lots of ground, where the investigation might not pay. The government is aware of this fact, and, according to the new regulations the plots of ground allotted for investigation are to be increased tenfold.

The most advisable system is to grant concessions that would induce capitalists to place their money in such undertakings. Under the new regulations regarding the investigatich of naphtha districts, the government proposes to publish geological descriptions of the various districts.

Ready Wit Saved Situation.

A very laughable incident once occurred in the house of commons. An Irish member having risen was assailed by loud cries of "Spoke! Spoke!" meaning that having spoken once already he had no right to do so a second time. He had evidently a second speech struggling in his breast for an introduction into the world, when seeing after remaining for some time on his legs, that there was not the slightest chance of being suffered to deliver a sentence of it, he observed with imperturbable gravity and in rich Tipperary brogue: "If the honorable gintlemin suppose that I was going to spake again they are quite mistaken. I merely rose for the purpose of saying that I had nothing more to say on the subject." The house was convulsed with laughter for a few seconds afterward at the ready wit of the Hibernian M. P.

"The great men are all dead," she said, with evident regret.

"But the beautiful women are not," he replied, looking earnestly at her.

Recipe for Making Jokes.

There is nothing any easier than writing jokes. Simply jot down your ideas for the jokes, say two or three hundred, on a slip of paper; then seat yourself before a typewriter. Feed blank paper into the typewriter and inject the ideas through your finger tips into the keys. Continue to do this until all of the ideas on the slip are exhausted, then gather up the jokes, which have piled themselves into a heap on the opposite side of the typewriter, send them to editors and receive your checks. A couple of hours a day spent in this manner should bring you in revenue enough to support a wife and nine children, run a six-cylinder touring car and buy bonbons for a soul-mate. Try it.

Let Them Wear Them!

It is observed that one or two tasteful advocates of embellishment of the male dress are writing to the papers declaring that men should be allowed by custom to wear not only bracelets, but earrings, too, if they desire. Well, who prevents them? They can wear both if they wish. They can also do better and wear nose rings, which would be a more truly American adornment, inherited from the real natives of this country.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Imitating Her Elders.

Sister and brother, neither of whom has reached the mathematical age, were playing the other day on the lawn at their home in Twelfth street, says the Indianapolis News. The brother had great respect for his sister's knowledge, for she went to school. He looked forward to the day when he should become a pupil and grow wise.

"I think," he said, "when June is gone it will be cooler."

Then suddenly:

"When will June be gone?"

The little sister attempted to answer, but, evidently fearing to lose her brother's admiration, she placed her hand on his shoulder, and with a tone of mild surprise she said:

"Why, David, you ought to know that."

CAPTAIN KNEW HIS VISITOR

Also Realized That Even Superdreadnough Would Be Imperiled by Presence of Idiot.

The brand-new battleship of the superdreadnought type had been thrown open to visitors. Her captain stood at the gangway receiving his guests, pride and delight in his magnificent vessel shining in every lineament. Suddenly his gaze concentrated upon an approaching figure. His face grew pale to the lips; he shook in every fiber. Controlling his terror by a mighty effort, he turned hastily to his executive officer.

"Clear for action, Mr. Bloodlet," he cried. "Beat to quarters. Load with grape. Order the marines to concentrate behind me, prepared to repel boarders."

"Aye, aye, sir," responded the officer promptly, although thoroughly bewildered.

The blood returned to the captain's face and he regained his composure as he remarked how quickly his order were carried out, and how they were prepared to meet their formidable foe successfully. Then his eyes again sought the object of his fears. He was close aboard. "Hello, cap'n!" he cried, a vacuous smile playing about his weak mouth.

"Back!" shouted the captain sternly. "Back, or I'll blow you up!"

"Say, cap'n, that's what you seem to be doin'," responded the enemy, giggling.

"Don't you try to set foot on board my ship," continued the captain vehemently. "I'm not going to jeopardize boat, crew and visitors for your pleasure."

"Oh, say, cap'n," remonstrated the enemy with another silly grin, "don't you know me?"

"You bet I do. You're the idiot that rocks the boat, and you shall not come on board mine."

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

R. F. D. No. 8, Maryville, Tenn.—"My baby, when three months old, took eczema on his face and head. His head and one side of his face were almost in a solid sore. The eczema at first was kind of a rash and then it broke out in water pimples and they would burst and looked very badly. It would itch and burn so badly that he could not rest at all and his hair just all fell out at once till his head was perfectly bald. He could not sleep at night and was very cross.

"I tried remedies without any relief at all; he only got worse all the time until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. He had great relief the first application. He was soon cured and his hair began to grow back and now he has just beautiful fine hair and has no sign of eczema." (Signed) Mrs. H. D. Clabough, Jan. 28, 1913.

THORSBY ITEMS.

Fourth of July was a great day in Thorsday and it was estimated that there were nearly three thousand people in town, everything went off the very best throughout the day. The Red Men and Woodmen marched from the business portion of the town to the Institute grounds, led by the band. After arriving there Mayor Bice addressed the crowd with a few words of welcome. Judge Reynolds made one of his fine speeches and told several of his good jokes, the kind that makes everyone laugh. Smiley Smith, the State Secretary for the Red Men made a nice little talk, telling of the work and purpose of the Order of Red Men. Dinner was eaten on the grounds. In the afternoon two ball games were played between Clanton and Jemison, Glanton winning both games, some baloons went up and at night fireworks. Everyone seemed to realize the meaning of celebrating the Fourth. There was no drinking and no disorderly conduct of any kind. Every place of business was crowded throughout the day. The town was cleaned of all ice cream, cold drinks. and so on. People from all the surrounding towns near here. We are always glad to welcome them and we say let the Red Men and the Woodman who furnished such a good time this year do so next.

FLORENCE NORMAL CATALOGUE.

One of the very best catalogues issued in the state this year is that of the State Normal School at Florence, Ala. A good large number of school catalegues come to our desk, and we always enjoy going through them and seeing just what things are being done, but in point of planning and execution this catalogue from Florence seems to "put one over," as the boys say. That is right. If a school gets out a catalogue, it should be a good one. Not that we favor the gaudy, highly illustrated affairs, filled with the windy word-paintings of those compression artists, but a good catalogue, well prepared and well printed, is a thing of real value and we like to see this kind,

Then the "Old Normal" is doing things. Just think of an attendance of 575, total! That begins to look like business. If there is any institution in our country doing more on a similar state appropriation, we wish that somebody would show it to us. The attendance is large, the students are all hardworked and yet enthusiastic, and the spirit of progress is present in every line of this splendid bulletin

If you have not seen a copy of this catalogue, write to the President, Dr. Jas. K. Powers, Florence, Ala.

A price is set on the head of the rat in Tokyo, and, according to the Far East, "The sight is frequently seen in the side streets of the city of some blooming damsel gingerly conveying a small rat, suspended by a string tied to its tail, to the police box. Here an official receipt is given for the rat, which entitles the holder to 5 sen, and so the plague is combated and the people protected against foul epidemics."

Veterans Celebrate Fourth of July.

Number of Visitors at the Soldiers Home Make a Day of Pleasure for the Occupants.---Those who went to Gettysburg tell Story of the Reunion.

By W. P Thompson.

The Fourth of July was observed at the old Soldiers Home in a most fitting, pleasant and patriotic manner. Camp 1711 was assembled at 2 p. m. with Major C. A. Gunn in the chair, who explained to the veterans and visitors present the day, etc.

The Rev. O. W. Greer, of the Baptist church delivered a splendid and entertaining address, speaking of Revolutionary times and the deeds of patriots who who freed America. He next spoke of the veterans of the Civil War, both the living and the dead, in a most laudable manner.

Several old ladies connected with the Home, aged seventy and over, led by the veteran Andress, sung good old tunes just like they were sung 50 years ago. Veteran Andress read a poem written by Father Ryan and then the Baptist church young people, at least a dozen of them, made music both vocal and instrumental, which was truly delightful.

Mrs. J. F. Snyder, of Montgomery, was present and assisted in the program and at the organ.

Miss Lucy Simpson, a daughter of Capt. Simpson, recited several selections which were received by visitors and veterans with expressions of delight.

Mrs. Carrie McMasters was here, there and all over the place, making the occasion enjoyable to all alike.

In a single sentence, the day was suitably observed and everyone enjoyed it who took a part or was present. General John B. Fuller came up from Montgomery, and made himself, as he always does, very agreeable.

Major Gunn explained that as a general invitation had been extended to others than members of the Camp to be present, he would not adhere to the regular order of business, but would proceed by calling on Capt. W. J. Bethune to address the assemblage. Capt. Bethune responded by giving a most interesting ac of his recent trip to Gettysburg. He told of the loving memories of old war times as recounted by the meeting of fellow veterans on the field of Gettysburg again. He was impressed with the kindness shown the party at all places where they stopped.

Dr. J. P. Eilsberry followed in a splendid brief address, dwelling especially on the uniform treatment shown at Gettysburg, and insisting that Providence certainly had something to do with that gathering, where men met so cordially 50 years after the conflict, and carnage reigned.

Capt, James M. Simpson was introduced and explained to the old veterans and visitors the impression left on his mind after participating in the Gettysburg reunion, and said that nothing but kindness and good feeling was to be seen on the part of Federal soldiers of 1861-5.

The Hon. F, A. Gulledge, who visited Gettysburg, was present and addressed the meeting. The affair was enjoyed by the men who conld not go to Gettysburg, owing to age and infirmities. Those veterans of the Home who attended the reunion were Capt. W. J. Bethune, A. J. Pride, Dr. J. P. Ellsberry, W. H. McSwain and Capt. J. M. Simpson.

Social and Economic Survey in Chilton

Some Interesting Facts Regarding the Government Investigations Being Conducted at Thorsby and Jemison by Mr. J. Sterling Moran.

Just as the good business, whether farmer or merchant finds it necessary to make use of the inventory to measure income against outlay in any particular part of his business, so also where we turn to rural life problems we find it necessary to apply the same business methods.

There is conducted in this country a decemal inventory, or census, to show increase or decrease in population, value of farm lands, livestock, buildings, etc., and a great many other things of interest to the country at large. No one quostions the value or necessity of such an accounting; it is good business.

As a supplement to these general surveys it is necessary to make a more intensive study of certain communities that are typical of large stretches of territory. It is only by such methods that the social, economic, political and educational activities can be compared and their efficiency determined.

A section of country nine miles wide north and south and twenty miles long east and west, including the villages of Jemison and Thorsby in Chilton County, Alabama, has been selected for the following reasons:

1. Because it is typical of that large stretch of territory extending from northeastern Mississippi around the southern end of the Appalachian mountains, through the Carolinas and into Virginia, and from the Appalachian mountains on the north to the great Pine Belt on the South.

2. Because it is geologically typical of all the above named territory.

3. Because in this section all the elements of population with people from many sections and countries are in a gradual process of amalgamation.

4. Because Chilton county has responded, as perhaps no other county has to government experts in their efforts to co-operate with the agencies already at work to bring in scientific methods. The demonstration work under County Agent, Mr. W. H. Conway, which according to one well informed man has, "Increased agricultural production at least forty per cent" and the recent campaign conducted by Dr. Carl A. Grote for better sanitary conditions, have all had the effect of putting the people in a particularly receptive attitude to any efforts of the government looking toward a betterment of conditions.

The department of agriculture at Washington in all its varied activities is a great clearing house for the experimental work of the county and the world at large, and it is making available to every one, though its bulletins the knowledge thus acquired.

The survey just beginning is the first of its kind in the South, (there having been one completed and one in progress in Minnesota) therefore Alabama and Chilton county in particular is to be congratulated upon having the first of the Southern Surveys within its borders.

Mr. J. Sterling Moran, with headquarters at Thorsby, will make a house to house canvass asking what will seem innumerable and useless questions about distribution of time between work, eating, sleeping and recreation, the educational status of different members of the household, the business relations as regards buying and selling, the organizations to which the people belong such as fraternal, civic, political, religious, educational and economic, the attitude of the people toward roads, schools, recreation, etc.—in short he will seek to get as nearly as possible a replica of the life of the people.

The uses of such a survey are many, among which the most important are:

1, To give other communities the benefit of the things that are efficient here, and to bring in from other communities the things that have been of service elsewhere.

2. To determine what the social and economic needs are with a view to later applying a remedy.

It is hoped and believed that Mr. Moran's work will be facilitated by the willingness of every one to answer his questions, knowing that any information thus given will be treated as strictly confidental.

The value of the survey depends entirely upon the ability of the investigator to get the facts.

NEWS OF THE WEEK

LATE NEWS OF THE WORLD TERSELY TOLD.

SOUTH, EAST, NORTH AND WEST

Notes From Foreign Lands, Throughout the Nation and Particularly the Great South.

Southern.

C. A. Dorian, an aviator who has been giving exhibition flights at Atlantic Beach, Florida, fell a distance of 50 feet from his Wright biplane while flying along the beach and was seriously injured. He had been working tunning up the machine, and started in a southerly direction down the beach. After traveling about two hundred yards the machine had risen to the height of about fifty feet, when suddenly it swerved to the right and crashed to the beach, pining Dorian beneath it.

Four negroes—Meegs Griffin, John Crosby, Tom Griffin and Nelson Bryce—were found guilty of murder and sentenced to death for the murder of John Q. Lewis, a highly respected Confederate veteran of the Cornell section of Chester county, South Carolina, who was shot to death in his store April 26 last. The negroes were sentenced to die in the electric chair Friday, September 26, next. The verdict of guilty and the sentencing of the four prisoners came as the culmination of the most sensational murder trial in the annals of Chester county.

Harry Stillwell Edwards' resignation as postmaster at Macon, Ga., has been called for by the postoffice department, and Curtis Nottingham will be nominated as his successor. This is the home town of Senator Bacon, and, according to established senate precedent, he is entitled to fill this office just as Senator Smith will select the postmaster at Atlanta.

What virtually is an ultimatum in the militia controversy was served on Governor Blease of South Carolina, and the militia authorities of that state by officials of the war department. The action was taken because of the governor's refusal to instruct the militia to conform with the requirements that entitle state troops to federal aid.

Joseph A. McClane, United States Senator Davis Elkin's manager during the latter's campaign in West Virginia last winter, was a witness in the trial of Rath Duff for alleged bribery. "A vote for senator is worth $6,000 and $100 a day expense money," McClane said Duff told him.

John Dobson, a farmer, aged 50, residing near Central, S. C., died from wounds received in a pistol duel with his 17-year-old son. It is said that the boy attempted to aid his mother, whom Dobson is alleged to have been mistreating. Dobson, returning the fire, mortally wounded another son who had taken no part in the difficulty. After the shooting the elder boy escaped and surrendered to the sheriff. Dobson was shot four times.

General

Twelve persons were killed and about fifty others were injured when a Pacific electric interurban train ran into another electric train at Vineyard station, a junction on the outsgirts of Los Angeles. As nearly as could be learned, both trains were inbound from Venice, an ocean beach town, 16 miles from Loss Angeles. They were crowded with homeward bound residents of Los Angeles, who had spent the day at the beaches, and it is reported that many of the injured were severely hurt.

Having failed in her hazardous coup, Bulgaria is now showing herself anxious for peace. No formal armistice has yet been arranged, but it is believed hostilitites are virtually ended. It is feared, however, that the settlement of peace conditions will prove a long task, many new elements having entered to complicate matters. Russia is already taking steps in the Balkans to arrange for a cessation of hostilities.

Thirty-three years ago Adolph Olson, nine years old, was detained at Ellis Island, N. Y., while the immigration authorities made sure that his parents were in Nebraska, and that he had a home to which he might go. Now this same Adolp Olson, now Gov. Adolph Everhart, is striving in New York to aid Alois Lormer, 15 years old, a German lad, who is detained at Ellis Island. The lad was on his way to the home at St. Paul, Minn., of his uncle, Thomas Neuman, when detained for lack of funds, and because he was unaccompanied.

Carl Huffman, his wife and three children and his aunt, Miss Missouri Huffman, were killed almost in front of the old San Gabriel mission, near the city of Los Angeles, Cal., when comotive. A fourth child, a little girl, leaped from the motor car just before the crash and escaped with minor injuries.

The police of Los Angeles, Cal., sent to the state authorities of Ohio a copy of the remarkable "confession" of Simon P. Heflensteine, aged 52, who said that he killed Pearl Bryan and committed six other murders. According to Heflensteine he killed Pearl Bryan at Toledo, Ohio, and took her body to the place where Jackson and Walling, the men who died for the murder, dissected it.

The Bible societies of English-speaking countries distributed 14,308,595 Bibles throughout the world during the last year, according to figures compiled by the American Bible Society.

During the delivery of a lecture at Hendersonville, N. C., Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan paused in the course of his lecture to state that he is compelled to deliver chautauqua addresses in order to supplement his governmental salary, which, he declares, is not sufficient to meet his expenses.

The condition of William M. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is declared most satisfactory by the surgeon in attendance. His progress toward recovery from the operation for appendicitis he underwent was said to be normal, but in view of his delicate constitution, it was stated he would require several days of complete rest.

Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, of New York was exonerated from the charges of misconduct preferred by the grievance committee of the Bar Association of New York. This was the culmination of a four days' trial before the senate and assembly judiciary committees. The findings were reached by a practically unanimous vote.

The Italian consul in New York is advised that two agents of the Italian government are leaving Italy for this country to get Porter Charlton and take him back to Italy to stand trial there for the murder of his wife on their honeymoon at Lake Como on June 7, 1910. The authorities of the Hudson county jail in Jersey City have been directed to turn the alleged murderer over to the Italian agents in accordance with the recent mandate of the United States Supreme court.

During the progress of a dispute near Carnegie, Okla., in relation to his title to a six-foot row of beans, D. A. Dodington shot at A. S. Jones, his neighbor. The bullet went wide and struck and killed Mrs. Dodgington, thirty feet away. Unaware of the result of his first shot, Dodgington emptied his pistol at Jones, this time seriously wounding Benjamin Robinson, a bystander.

Forest fires are blazing fiercly on three sides of Mount Tamalpais, a landmark near San Francisco, Cal., and playground and park of all the cities clustered about San Francisco bay. Three villages are threatened. The mountain was cloaked with a mantle of white smoke, which streamed across the bay like a wind blown scarf, but as darkness fell the mountain blazed above the bay and ocean like an enormous beacon, illuminating the sky for miles.

Lieut. Loren H. Call of the United States army aviation corps was killed instantly by the fall of his aeroplane just north of Texas City, near Houston, Texas. He had started his flight from the aviation field in the Second army division mobilization camp. The dangerous thing known to aviators as a "warm air current" is held responsible for the death of Lieutenant Call. About two hours after sunrise Lieutenant Call, making practice landings, had risen from the aviation field, which borders the Gulf of Mexico, had turned his biplane northward, away from the water, crossing the browntented army city, and was flying over the level treeless section

Secretary Garirson has ordered Col Edwin P. Brewer of the Fourteenth cavalry at Fort McIntosh, Texas, to demand the release of five Americans, together with 350 cattle and thirty horses, held by the Mexican revolutionists at Hidalgo, Mexico. Secretary Bryan requested the action.

President Wilson has sent the following nominations to the senate: Ambassador to Germany, J. W. Gerard of New York; minister to Spain, Joseph E. Willard of Virginia; deputy commissioner of pensions, Edward E. Tieman of Missouri.

A lobby investigation of extraordinary scope was authorized by the house to supplement the senate probe already under way. With the adoption of the Henry investigation resolution a special committee of seven members was appointed by Speaker Clark, with Representative Garrett of Tennessee as chairman. The committee will make plans for the institution of the probe. While the house investigation was prompted largely by the allegations of Col. M. M. Mulhall regarding the legislative activities of the National Association of Manufacturers, the resolution is drastic.

A hair-raising story of hand-to-hand conflict with spear-hurling Moro savages in a battle to the death on an isolated mountain top, with no quarter given or expected, was cabled to the war department from the Philippines by Major General Bell. It was the commanding general's report on the campaign of Gen. John J. Pershing, which resulted in the extermination of the last considerable band of rebellion Moros and the complete disarmament of this warlike tribe. None of the Moros would surrender, some escaped, but the remainder were

The year just closed established a record for the United States bureau of fisheries in the number of eggs taken and later planted. It ran to the enormous total of 3,640,000,000, which broke the record made in the previous year by 173,000,000. The largest number of any one kind was in flat fish,

General plans for the descent of women suffragists on the capitol were agreed upon when officers of the National Woman Snffrage association determined that the "attack" on the national legislature would be marked by a monster automobile parade. Suffragists from many states have advised the committee of their intention to take part. The woman will gather at Hyattsville, Md., on the morning of July 30. A reception will be held there by the local committee and, after forming in procession, the long line of motor cars will charge upon Capitol Hill.

UNCLE SAM COMES TO THE RESCUE

McADOO'S ANNOUNCEMENT ESTABLISHES CONDITION.

RUN ON BANK IS STOPPED

Pittsburgh Bank for Savings Withstands Attack—Treasury Official, Who Superintended Closing, Says Bank's Affairs Mismanaged.

Pittsburgh.—To the decisive statement of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, issued Monday night, is attributed the restoration of almost normal conditions in financial Pittsburgh, despite the closing of the doors of the First-Second National Bank, an institution which had been accredited one of the strongest in the country. While the situation was tense in the financial world, and little information as to possible developments was obtainable, the flat statement of facts of the secretary served to develop an overnight optimism that grew as Tuesday advanced. The closing of the First-Second was naturally followed by suspension of its affiliated bank, the First National of McKeesport, and the appointment of receiverships for the banking house of J. S. & W. S. Kuhn, Inc., whose principals were the majority stockholders of both institutions, and a like action with the American Waterworks & Guarantee Company, an enterprise fathered by the Kuhn interests.

Another Kuhn interest which was affected, the Pittsburgh Bank for Savings, suffered somewhat from the complication, a run being started on it, chiefly by small depositors. This continued, somewhat increased, but it appeared to abate as the day wore on. Crowds assembled about the bank building and the sidewalk about the building was roped off, with mounted police prancing their horses within the lines on the sidewalk. The people were forced outside the ropes into the middle of the street. The crowds were made up mostly of curious spectators. The small groups of depositors that entered the bank were promptly paid $50 upon demand, and required to give the legal notice of 30, 60 and 90 days to withdraw other amounts above stated figures. Fifty-seven thousand dollars was withdrawn from the bank, while deposits were $27,000.

John Skelton Williams, assistant secretary of the treasury, returned to Washington from Pittsburgh, where he superintended the closing of the bank, and reported that the institution had been "freely mismanaged," necessitating a reference of the conditions to the department of justice.

GOOD ROADS AID TO FARMS

Big Jump in Land Values of Jackson County Ala.

Washington.—How good roads improve values is specifically shown in a statement issued today by the office of public roads of the department of agriculture. The department has gathered data that shows beyond the shadow of a doubt that where road improvement has happened values jump. Advances are due essentially to the decrease in the cost of hauling produce to market. The use of the automobile then becomes possible. It is probable, too, says the public roads office, that immigration is greater where road conditions are favorable.

KILLS HIS WIFE AND CHILD

Oklahoma Farmer Runs Amuck, But Is Captured.

Hobart, Okla.—D. A. Dodgen, a farmer living four miles east of this place, Wednesday morning shot and killed his wife and infant child, mortally wounded his father-in-law and shot and seriously wounded two men who attempted to prevent him from shooting the child.

Dodgen was captured two hours later at Fort Cobb, Olka., a remote point, but whether he has been summarily dealt with or not is not known.

No cause is assigned for the tragedy and little details have been brought to this city.

Four Dead and Score Injured.

Cambridge.—Three persons were killed, a fourth probably fatally injured and a score of others hurt Sunday when a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train crashed into a Cambridge and Byesville interurban street car at a crossing in East Cambridge.

FIVE ARE DROWNED.

Mother Gives Her Life Trying to Save Her Four Children.

Bryan, Tex.—A mother and her four children were drowned near here Tuesday, when the woman gave her life in vainly attempting to save the little ones. She was Mrs. Frank Petranello. Carrying her six-months-old infant, the woman went to seek her three oldest children, and found them struggling in the water of a large tank. Panic-stricken, she climbed to their aid, and all were drowned.

Bill for Farmers' Loans.

Washington.—Representative Hullings of Pennsylvania has introduced a Progressive bill to create federal farmers' loan associations to make loans on agricultural lands. The measure would require all such associations to get authority from the comptroller of the currency to commence business and deposit with the treasurer promissory notes equal to their capital stock, with three per cent interest, receiving in return United States circulating notes equal to the par value of the stock.

$6,000,000 WILL BE ASKED FOR LEVEES

MISSISSIPPI RIVER COMMISSION FINISHES JULY MEETING.

GRADUATED LEVEE SYSTEM

All Parts of Levee Would Be Put Three Feet Above High Water Mark. New Orleans Man Wants Spillway for Water.

St. Louis.—The Mississippi river commission, which held its July meeting here, adjourned Saturday until November, after completing its annual report, to be submitted to congress, asking for an additional appropriation with which to carry out proposed levee improvement and revetment work between St. Louis and New Orleans, La.

While no member of the commission would divulge the amount of new appropriation to be asked, it was learned on good authority that the amount will be approximately $6,000,000 or more, or about the size of the last appropriation.

The report and findings of the commission will not be made public until the report has been submitted to congress.

One of the features of the present session of the commission has been to map out a system of graduated levees on the Mississippi river between Cape Girardeau and New Orleans. According to the plans the work is so to be arranged that the levees will be graduated so that at all places they will be three feet above the high water mark. In this way the commission expects to avoid future flood occurrences.

Mayor Behrmann of New Orleans brought the attention of the members of the commission to the spillway plan, and he asked taht they visit New Orleans and make a survey for the purpose of finding out the practicability of building a spillway.

The commission is planning to make extensive river and levee improvement with a view of avoiding floods such as have occurred in the past several years.

Since the district of the commission has been extended to Rock Island, Ill., a special survey will be made of the new district just north of St. Louis with a view of determining just what improvements in the district are necessary.

WANT AMERICANS RELEASED

They Are Being Held by Mexican Rebels at Hidalgo.

Washington.—Secretary Garrison has ordered Col. Edwin P. Brewer of the 14th Cavalry, at Fort McIntosh, Tex., to demand the release of five Americans, together wth 350 cattle and 30 horses, held by Mexican revolutionists at Hidalgo, Mexico. Secretary Bryan requested the action.

The attention of the state department was called to the imprisonment of the Americans and the seizure of their property by Consul General Garrett at Neuvo Laredo, Mexico. When Consul Garrett demanded the release of his countrymen the revolutionists told him they must await orders from Piedras.

STORM SWEEPS ITALY.

Floods Add to Suffering of Italians After Recent Quake.

Rome.—A terrific storm is raging throughout Italy. In many places the country has been devastated and the crops destroyed. It is accompanied by remarkably cold weather for the season. Officially the temperature in Rome at noon Tuesday fell below 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Such weather in the middle of July has not been recorded in Italy since the year 1313.

Hold Wife for Husband's Death.

Atlanta, Ga.—Attorneys representing the plaintiffs in the suit to set aside the will of the late Joshua B. Crawford, disposing of an estate valued at $250,000, Friday filed with Auditor J. N. Anderson her a copy of the verdict of the Carroll county coroner's jury, holding that the Atlanta capialist's death was due to poisoning. The coroner's jury also recommended that Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, who married the capitalist a few weeks before his death, be held pending an investigation by the local grand jury.

THREE VILLAGES ARE THREATENED BY FIRE

MOUNT TAMALPAIS PLAYGROUND OF CALIFORNIA BLAZING.

3,000 ARE FIGHTING FLAMES

Burning Mountain Lights Country for Miles—Flames Go Down in Day, But Each Evening Trade Winds Renew Them.

San Francisco.—Forest fires are blazing fiercely on three sides of Mount Tamalpais a landmark of California and playground and park of all the cities clustered about San Francisco Bay. Three villages are threatened. The mountain was cloaked Wednesday by a mantle of white smoke which streamed across the bay like a wind-blown scarf but as darkness fell the mountain blazed above th bay and ocean like an enormous beacon illuminating the sky for miles.

Each morning since the blaze started it has seemed that danger was past but each afternoon the trade wind blustering in from the Pacific has whipped the flames into life and driven them across canyons and trenches laboriously cut through the underbrush and into fresh timber on the far side of areas burned bare by back fires.

The fires are believed to have resulted from carelessness of campers.

Three thousand soldiers sailors naval apprentices forest rangers militiamen and volunteer fire fighters are fighting the flames and the women in the threatened territory are working as hard as the men.

Mount Tamalpais lies on the north side of San Francisco Bay. Easy of access by ferry and electric lines and one of the beauty spots of California its foothills have become dotted with cities and villages while on its slopes are hundreds of country homes of wealthy Californians.

TOWNS PAUPERIZED BY TRUST

This Is Testimony of A. B. Jarvis of Henderson, Ky.

Washington.—The Imperial Tobacco Company, the so-called tobacco trust, in Kentucky, has pauperized hitherto prosperous towns in the tobacco belt, according to testimony of A. B. Jarvis, an independent of Henderson, Friday before the congressional tobacco commission.

Not only were growers at the mercy of the trust, he declared, "but what few factories were going had been rented by the trust at its own prices.

"I cannot tell you the soure of my information, for I promised to keep that a secret," declared Jarvis. "I believe that the price of our tobacco was fixed by the representatives of the Imperial Company and of the Italian government at Richmond, Va., before they began buying in Kentucky. I have never seen the Imperial and the Italian buyers compete."

Jarvis said the Imperial was using dark tobacco "to drive the independent British manufacturers out of business," and little profit was made by anyone on it.

WANT 15-CENT COTTON.

Problem of Holding 3,000,000 Bales Is Discussed.

Dallas, Tex.—The problem of getting and holding 3,000,000 bales of cotton until it can be all sold for 15 cents per pound was the main feature discussed at Friday's session of a convention of southwestern cotton men, called here by a cotton company. About 1,000 persons are in attendance.

HAILSTONES LIKE WALNUTS.

Terrific Storm Strips Trees and Crops Bare.

Columbus, O.—A terrific rain and hail storm swept parts of Columbus and Franklin county Wednesday afternoon, breaking plate glass windows by the hundreds in the city and doing great damage in the country. On the south side hailstones as large as walnuts were shoveled up after the rain. Fruit trees were stripped bare and crops on truck farms were destroyed.

GOOD PROGRESS MADE BY COTTON

PLANT MADE GOOD GROWTH AND IS FRUITING HEAVILY.

WEATHER FORCED GROWTH

Heavy Producing District of Texas Free From Pest—Good Rains Relieved Drouth in Central Valley and Parts of Eastern States.

Memphis.—The cotton crop passed another week of good growth and progress, although there were rather more complaints—all, however, of a minor nature—than have been noticed in previous reports. Weather over the belt was favorable—almost ideal in most states—except in portions of the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. In these sections there was some complaint of lack of rain, which was being supplied as the week closed.

The plant made good growth and is fruiting heavily practically all over the belt. Some of the lateness was overcome during the week, although, taken as a whole, the plant is still a bit small. However, it is strong and stocky and is branching out and taking on much fruit. High temperatures in the west, coming as they did on the heels of good general rains, were of benefit in forcing growth where the plant was small, and in checking the advance of boll weevil in Southeastern Texas.

Cultivation was continued at the same high standard that has maintained throughout the season, except that in portions of North Carolina there was some complaint of foul fields. Generally speaking, however, the fields are in almost perfect condition. Laying by has begun and the work of cultivating will soon be finished, with the crop probably in the best condition from this standpoint ever before known.

Boll weevil made some progress during the week and considerable damage was done in infested areas of Mississippi and Louisiana. In Southeastern Texas the weevil is doing some damage, but the heavy producing section of the state is free from the pests so far. In the extreme southern portion of the state a fairly good crop has been made ahead of the weevil.

ADOPTS 300 POOR CHILDREN

Tulsa Millionaire Wants to Make Number 1,000.

Tulsa, Okla.—Charles Page, a local millionaire, reputed to be worth $5,000,000, has adopted 300 poor children and hopes to swell the number to 1,000. He has provided that at his death the bulk of his estate will go toward helping poor children and maitnianing a home which he has established at Sand Springs, a suburb of Tulsa.

Page has financed a street car line, which runs from the village to the home, and each day the poor children who do not live at home are gathered up and taken out there, where they are taught in one of the best schools of the state.

He has also provided that any boy or girl who may wish a college education after completing the course in his school can elect the institution that he wishes to attend and Page will defray all expenses.

Connected with the home he runs a farm and canning factory, where the boys and girls can work in off hours, and every branch of manual training and domestic science is taught by skilled teachers.

12 KILLED; 50 ARE INJURED

Interurbans Collide Between Los Angeles and Venice.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Twelve persons were killed and about fifty others were injured Sunday night when a Pacific Electric Interurban train ran into another electric train at Vineyard Station, a junction on the outskirts of Los Angeles.

First reports from the wreck were conflicting. As nearly as could be learned both trains were in-bound from Venice, an ocean beach town sixteen miles from Los Angeles. They were crowded with homeward-bound residents of Los Angeles when had spent the day at the beaches, and it is reported that many of the injured were severely hurt.

SHOT BY BLACK HAND.

Kenosha Baker Is Afraid to Give Police Information.

Kenosha, Wis.—Kenosha had a new black hand scare Sunday when an attempt was made to assassinate Samuel Clement, 50 years old, and a wealthy Itailan baker of this city. Clement was called from his home by two men and as he walked out onto the street, was shot down. Three shots were fired, but only one of them took effect. Clement was seriously wounded.

Only Case of the Kind.

Birmingham, Ala.—Four times has the death sentence been imposed on Erwin Pope of Calhoun county, in this state, for the murder of James McClurkin in 1910, and for the fourth time the supreme court of Alabama has reversed and remanded the case. The last reversal was made because of the refusal of the trial judge to give certain rulings regarding the admission of evidence. No other man, so far as known, has been tried for his life five times on the same charge.

Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union of America

Matters of Especial Moment to the Progressive Agriculturist

Good care cannot be administered in bulk.

We are what we think, not what we think we are.

The first steps in prosperity should not be too tottering.

City people, not reinforced from the farms, would soon run out.

Regulating the hours of labor can not be accomplished by legislation.

The most difficult things we have to deal with are not always the largest.

Reading other people's opinions often shows us how far off we are in our own.

In doing something well worth doing, every man ought to find his highest satisfaction.

The people who complain of too much rain forget that it may mean an increased crop later on.

Those who spend much time trying to hatch up unpleasant things are always too busy to enjoy life.

Farming would indeed be a profitable business if the producer received the greater portion of what the consumer pays.

Farmers produce more wealth than the town and city people, yet in the matter of schools they are still in the pioneer stage.

To revive the memories of a mistake for the purpose of doing harm to one who is struggling to do better, is a crime greater than the mistake.

Co-operation is alternative on the one hand against the future monopoly of land, and on the other against narrowed-down opportunity and slum conditions in country life.

Self-made men are rare. Back of all these so-called self-made men—back of their prosperity and position, is a wife and mother—the real force that raises them from obscurity.

Our every-day life brings so many troubles and disappointments that we are foolish to look on the dark side of things and court many a rap that might otherwise be avoided.

CO-OPERATION THAT COUNTS

Among Other Things Illinois Assemblage Urge Better Understanding Between All Classes.

Six hundred representative citizens of Illinois held a joint meeting recently with the members of the Illinais legislature at Springfield to discuss proposed legislation. They represented the banks, the manufacturers, commercial associations, improvement associations, good roads organizations, farmers' institutions, the Illinois Federation of Labor, the state grange and the automobile manufacturers and owners. That the meeting bore good fruits is indicated by the following program for united work in the legislature agreed upon:

1. State and federal aid in good roads building in Illinois, with an ultimate expenditure of $1,000,000.

2. Eventual improvement of 20 per cent. of Illinois, 95,000 miles of mud roads, accommodatng 80 per cent. of traffic and saving $30,000,000 annually to Illinois farmers.

3. Utilization of the inmates of penal institutions of the state in preparing paving material for permanent roads.

4. Co-operation between bankers, manufacturers, farmers, educators, transportation agencies and workers to the end that a better understanding may be fostered among all classes.

5. Vocational education for youths of the state, along the lines laid down by Edwin G. Cooley, former superintendent of the Chicago schools, who spent a year in studying the vocational school system of Europe.

6. A state-wide and unified effort on the part of reform associations to adapt the education of the young, both in the crowded city and the farming districts, to the changed conditions in this country, particularly with the idea of eliminating present temptations that confront the youths in the city and lead to lives of crime.

CO-OPERATION PROPER THING

Farmers Can, in Most Cases, Double Profits by Working Together in Selling Their Produce.

If you are growing fruit on even a medium scale and have neighbors who are doing the same thing you can, in most cases, double your profits by working together and looking up a market before selling time comes. In some states the agricultural colleges are hunting a market for the fruit growers. In Kansas last fall the college brought together buyers and sellers for 400 cars of apples. This has taught the fruit grower he does not have to depend on the local buyer with his 50 or 100 per cent. profit, but that he can sell his own crop this way more easily than he raised it and with resulting profits almost as great. The commission man who would not hesitate to beat a single fruit grower will thing twice before he defrauds a whole organization who can report him from one end of the state to the other. The state motto of Kentucky is one all fruit growers should adopt: "United we stand, divided we fall."

FARMERS MUST CO-OPERATE

Business Men Take Crops and Handle Them Through Organization Until Consumer Is Reached.

Practically every business interest in the commercial world co-operates to a greater or less extent except the farming interests. It is true that in isolated instances farmers do co-operate in certain directions but as a whole the farmer faces the business world as an individual. In addressing the Tri-State meeting, Mr. R. A. Wilkinson brought out many good points on the subject of co-operation among farmers. In part he said:

"In olden times everything was produced on the farm, but the change in conditions when machinery was introduced, made it possible to produce more food than was needed on the farms. To make a market for this manufacturing was encouraged. This manufacturing became organized and demanded protection, which it received through the tariff, which it received self for the purpose of protecting the profits. In considering the selling price the cost of production was considered and to this a sum was added sufficient to make a good return on the investment. The farmer has been selling his products for what these organizations and interests were willing to pay as modified by supply and demand. There has been no consideration of the cost of production and profits in setting the price on farm products, and why not? Why should not the farm products bring enough to cover cost of production, plus a fair margin of profit? Wheat, for instance, in the last five years varied as much as 50c a bushel, while the bread which is made from it has commanded the same price regardless of the farmer's return. The cost of production on the farm has not varied to this extent.

"The way to bring about this better condition is for the farmer to consider his farm as a business proposition, that he consider the cost of production, which will bring him to a study of farm management—consideration of details. It would also mean that marketing will be given as much attention as producing. At present what the farmer receives bears but little relation to what the consumer pays. The businessmen who take the crop from the farmer and handle it until it reaches the hands of the consumer are organized to pay as little as possible and to charge as much as traffic will bear.

"For the farmer to go up against this organization single handed shows a most colossal self conceit. The only way to meet this combination is through combination; that is for the farmers to combine, or in other words co-operate.

"The politics of the steel trust is steel; the politics of the railroads is railroading; the politics of the farmer should be farming. To do this, they must organize. In North Dakota the farmer pays seventh-ninths of the taxes and exerts less than seven-hundredths of the power in government. In the legislative policy of the country the farmer is never considered. No matter how much the legislation affects the interests of the farmer, he is not called into the council. When any measure is brought up that affects the manufacturer or the transportation agency or the commercial interests—they are consulted—their interests are considered.

"The president of Cornell university in a recent address contended 'the day of the ordinary farmer is passing,' that the tendency is for the larger corporations to take up land and that these will be running the farms in large estates and under scientific management, much as their large corporations, and that the farmer of today will be the hired man of these big concerns. The farmers are about the only all-round men that we have in the United States. The men who are engaged in industry are each working in a very narrow sphere. We need this all-round man, his home his children who are furnishing the new blood, that furnishes the brains that is taking the leadership in our commerce and industry.

"The only way for the farmer, as we know him today, to maintain his position is for him to co-operate in the producing and the marketing the products of the farm and in demanding legislation for his interests."

FARMERS UNITE FOR CREDIT

Idea Has Been Adopted by Settlers in South Africa—May Extend to Other Parts of Country.

An experiment that will be followed with much interest has recently been started in Umtali, declares a writer in the Rhodesia (South Africa) Herald. A number of farmers have clubbed together to form a credit society and, I am told, the scheme is being well supported by the banks. This particular society has for its immediate object the purchase of dairy stock with the idea of setting going a local dairy industry. The cows are to be purchased with money advanced by the banks on the joint and several credit of the members of the society. A maximum limit is to be fixed beyond which no member will be allowed to go. This and various other details would vary in different districts and according to the precise purpose of any credit society.

It is evident that the idea may be extended in several other directions, and if successful in Umtali it will certainly be adopted in other parts of the country.

MOB CHASES MEN IN PISTOL BATTLE

Demands Lynching of Fugitive Who Fires Into Crowd.

POLICEMAN TO RESCUE

Trouble Started When Customer Refused to Pay for Meal and Then Started to Shoot Up Restaurant in Regular Western Style.

Chicago.—At 6:30 the other night sixty-one-year-old William McClean, 1149 West Washington boulevard, walked into John Bonaris' restaurant on Aberdeen street. From 6:30 to 6:40 William busied himself eating some 30-odd cents' worth of food.

At 6:41 William refused to pay for the food and the trouble started. John called William names and William drew a revolver and started to shoot. John dived behind the counter, came up with two large pistols of his own and started in to show William what real shooting was. William fled north on Aberdeen street to Madison street. John followed and shots flew thick and fast.

There was a Salvation Army meeting on the corner. William landed in the middle of the drum, kicked his way clear, spilling the collection, and fled toward May street with a tambourine over his left ankle.

A thoughtful citizen on the third floor of one of the Madison street lodging houses thought William should stop. He landed a water pitcher on William's head. William took a couple of shots at the man, but his aim was poor.

A mob, the Salvation Army and John closed in rapidly from the rear. William started west again, not without letting fly a full cylinder of lead pellets. Again nobody was hurt, but the excitement and anger of the pursuers became more intense.

Patrolman Peter Bernacchi heard the shots, saw the fleeing William and unlimbered his own heavy artillery.

Impartial in his distribution of his bullets, William tried to shoot at the policeman. But the revolver would not explode. They grappled and the policeman got the revolver.

John raced up and demanded immediate execution of William. He waved his own revolver and threatened to get justice himself. The patrolman pushed a regulation revolver into William's ribs and made him open the patrol box, call the Desplaines street station, and put in a riot call.

Ten minutes later a wagon load of bluecoats arrived on the scene. They started to club their way through the mob. Cries of "Lynch the bandit" had been started and mingled with the prayers for "peace" on the part of the Salvation Army.

It ended with the police forcing a way through to Bernacchi and his prisoner. They were put into the wagon. John also was put in with the man who had refused to pay for his food. Both went to the station and both were locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct.

WOMAN PUTS MASHER IN CELL

Says "Hello Kid!" to Police Matron; She Flashes Star and Arrests Him.

Joplin, Mo.—It doesn't pay to flirt with a police matron. Harry Wilson, a railroad man, the other day started a flirtation with one in the street, but didn't get far.

"Hello, kid!" he said, as she passed him.

The matron, Miss Vernie Goff, who is five feet eight inches tall and weighs 186 pounds, stopped and looked at him.

"Were you speaking to me?" she inquired.

Wilson replied that he was.

Matron Goff then showed a police star and led the masher to jail.

Wilson's wife learned of his arrest three hours later and appeared at police headquarters.

After lecturing him through the bars she paid his fine, assessed for disturbance, and Wilson was released.

Speaking in Paris again of his experiments, Dr. Alexis Carrel of New York, Nobel prize winner, said: "I can only operate on the heart, lungs and arteries of an animal. I have had many struggles with the measures which the American anti-vivisection societies have been taking. Why electrocute a condemned man? Why not give me his body? The condemned man will not suffer any more and he will render a last service to society, which he has dishonored."

HAD SOME WAY TO TRAVEL

Thirsty Man Had Not Thought of Possibilities When He Made Contract With Guide.

After North Carolina voted to be a dry state its citizens became very suspicious of strangers.

One day a commercial traveler went up to an old negro in a little town in the eastern part of the state and said to him:

"Say, uncle, if you will lead me to some place where I can get a drink I'll give you two dollars."

The old darkey looked him carefully over, accepted the two plunks, and said: "All right, boss, just foller me."

He led the thirsty one through the town, on through the suburbs, into the country, and then started due west. After they had traversed about five miles in silence and still nothing in sight, the man asked:

"Look here, Mose! Where are we going after this drink?"

"We's gwine over into Kentucky, boss; we can't get nuthin' in dis state."—Judge

Her Lucky Day.

Frances is only a little girl, but she has a quick mind and the gift of language that sometimes distinguishes children who associate much with their elders. The other day Frances came home to her mother with cheeks like roses and eyes like stars.

"Oh, mamma," she exclaimed, happily, "I've had the best luck this morning! I got downtown just at the psychological moment!"

"Did you dear?" was mother's pleased inquiry. "And what happened?"

Said Frances, solemnly: "I saw a parade."

FOUND A WAY
To Be Clear of Coffee Troubles.

"Husband and myself both had the coffee habit, and finally his stomach and kidneys got in such a bad condition that he was compelled to give up a good position that he had held for years. He was too sick to work. His skin was yellow, and there didn't seem to be an organ in his body that was not affected.

"I told him I felt sure his sickness was due to coffee and after some discussion he decided to give it up.

"It was a struggle, because of the powerful habit. One day we heard about Postum and concluded to try it and then it was easy to leave off coffee.

"His fearful headaches grew less frequent, his complexion began to clear, kidneys grew better until at last he was a new man altogether, as a result of leaving off coffee and taking up Postum. Then I began to drink it too.

"Although I was never as bad off as my husband, I was always very nervous and never at any time very strong, only weighing 95 lbs. before I began to use Postum. Now I weigh 115 lbs. and can do as much work as anyone my size, I think."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular Postum (must be boiled.)

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

THE UNION AND BANNER.

Published Every Thursday at Clanton
Chilton County, Alabama.
UNION PUBLISHING CO.
OSCE BIRD, Editor and Manager.

Subscription price, in advance, per year, $1.00.

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second-class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

In assuming the management of The Union-Banner I do so realizing the responsibility of the position. I shall put forth my best efforts to make the paper a success and assist in building up the material interest of Chilton county. I believe in the great and fundamental principles of progressive government and believe that our aim should always be to raise the standard of citizenship to a higher level. The progressive spirit of the age is taking hold of every avenue of human endeavor and he who attempts to "stand pat" will be run over in the onward march of the civilization of this age. The Union-Banner will stand courageously and boldly for those progressive principles of progress and development that lift humanity to a higher plane; and while I shall advocate the progressive priuciples I shall do so in the spirit of fairness, that recognizes and respects the opinions of those who differ with me. The Union-Banner will stand at all times for the moral uplift of the people in educational and social affairs.

There is but one salvation for the people of this great country and that is in the education of the rising generation.

I shall always with my best efforts try to advance the cause of better roads, better schools, better educational facilities—and shall not indulge in personalities, personal abuses and such things will not be allowed to enter the columns of this paper so long as I have the management of it; a man's public record is open for inspection but this paper will not indulge in personal abuses.

In politics the policy of the paper will be progressive and I shall adhere strictly to the principles enunciated in the platform of that party, believing that those principles enacted into laws will subserve the interest of the whole people.

I ask the co-operation of the citizens of the county and hope to merit your good will by always standing for the right and the advancement of the interests of our town, county and state.

OSCE BIRD.

Montgomery heads the list in the Ball League. Good many fans are rejoicing over that fact.

Gov. Blease, of South Carolina has decided he needs the aid of "Uncle Sam," and he has signified his intention to be good.

The weather man predicts warm and fair weather for the next few days. The recent showers have added much to the crops throughout the State.

W. J. Bryan's salary is too small; he can't make a living and has to lecture as a supplement. We wonder when the famous Commoner gets to be president if that salary will hold him.

There is one way to accomplish almost anything and that is to work and work hard. The Union-Banner staff is composed of workers and if real old hard down honest dealing and hard work will make a success we are going to make it. This office is equipped to do the best job work and we have the men to do it. All we we want is your orders.

The School Teachers of the great State of Georgia have been compelled to go without their pay for several months. The legislature now in session over there should see that those faithful servants of the people get their pay at once.

The Union-Banner office is one of the best equipped offices in the country and it reaches a large number of the farming people. A merchant who advertises in this paper will get first a neatly printed "ad" and too he will get results. Try us.

Jack Johnson has made his escape to France and by so doing has evaded his penitentiary sentence of one year for white slave traffic, so long as he does not return to the United States. There is some talk however of that country sending him back to America.

The writer does not feel that the citizens of Chilton county are total strangers to him, he having lived in the adjoing county, Shelby for quite a number of years. While his interests has not been exactly the same he has been in touch, in a measure, with Chilton citizens and his good wishes has always been with them. He would be glad to have his friends drop in to see him when in town.

The financial condition of Alabama is in better shape now than it has been since he took charge of the office, according to Governor O'Neal. The Governor is whipping things into shape right along, and the future is brightening every day.—Advertiser.

There is still room for improvement along that line. Alabama could not be set up as a Criterion. Too many offices and too many officers.

The merchants of Chilton county should remember that the Union Banner reaches a large mumber of the farmers in the county as well as town people. The people who trade most are the farming people and these days they are wise and wide awake. The rural routes have done lots to educate the people and today the farmer gets his paper right at his door and the merchant who advertises his business and offers the inducement gets the trade.

Mr. J. Sterling Moran, the government statistician who is in charge of the social and economic survey of Thorsby and Jemison and the adjacent communities was in Clanton Saturday. This interesting gentleman is getting acquainted with general conditions with which he is to be surrounded while carrying on his work. He will soon begin his detailed investigations, which will involve the compiling of statistics covering the entire social and economic life of every family in the prescribed territory. Few of these surveys can be made owing to the heavy expense attached to them; hence they are confined to sections which are supposed to represent conditions which are prevalent over large areas. This investigation was centered around Thorsby and Jemison because those communities are typical of the life and habits of the people in a large section of the south.

Mr. Moran is an expert in his line of work and he expresses a very favorable impression with the people of our section. This work is one of the various ways in which the government is attempting to lend material aid to rural conditions, and it should receive the hearty support of every person whom it will reach.

Prof. W. T. Bean, who assumes the responsibilities of the office of County Superintendent of Education next October was in town Saturday. He says he is devoting his time largely to reading and studying of subjects connected with the office he is to fill and is using every effort to be fully capable of meeting the demands. It was indeed interesting to hear him outline his policies on the subject of a County High School, and the Seventh Grade Examination plan. We feel certain that Mr. Bean will take hold of his duties with his characteristic determination and resolution to do things, and predict for him a succcessfull administration.

FUTURE OF CHILTON.

The Birmingham District is now considered, the country over, as the best district in the south. For business and for hustle there is none that equals it. Our County is right in the midst of it. In fact, the Birmingham district extends for many miles around the Magic City. The prospect of the counties adjoining Greater Birmingham are brighter today than ever in the history of this country. Chilton county has advanced more in the last 10 years than it did in the 25 years before that. It is moving upward every day and the next 10 years will show a greater increase than the 10 years just past. The farming interest of the county is advancing rapidly and when that interest thrives and prospers all others advance. The farmers of Chilton we are informed are in good circumstances and the crops are flourishing.

There is nothing to keep Chilton county from the front.

DON'T LET YOUR LIVER GET LAZY.

Dodson's Liver Tone will keep it Working and make You feel Well and Clean—No Bad After-Effects.

If you have allowed your fear of calomel to keep you from toning up your liver when it gets a little sluggish and lazy—try Dodson's Liver Tone, and note how quickly and harmlessly it starts the liver and relieves constipation and billious attacts.

When you take Dodson's Liver Tone, you don't have to stay in the house all day. None of the weakening and harmful after-effects of calomel follow its use. Dodson's Liver Tone is a mild, pleasant vegetable liquid that cannot hurt either children or grown people. Yet it easily overcomes the most stubborn and inactive liver without making you quit eating or working.

These are not just claims. Alred Drug Co., backs up every one of these statements and agrees to refund the price of Dodson's Liver Tone with a smile to any person who pays his 50 cents for a bottle and ist't satistied that he got his money's worth.

Imitations of Dodson's Liver Tone are another proof that it is good thing. Nobody ever imitates a poor remedy. Be sure you get the genuine Dodson's Liver Tone—the kind that is guaranteed.

Bliss.

GOOD ROADS NOTICE.

Whereas, the Alabama Good Roads Association has designated August 15th and 16th as annual Good Roads Days, and

Whereas, Governor O'Neal has issued his proclamation naming said days as "Good Roads Days" to be observed in every County in Alabama.

Therefore I, E. B. Deason, as Probate Judge of Chilton county desire to join in this movement by calling upon the people of our County, irrespective of age and location to observe these days by assisting in working the roads of our County.

Hoping much good may come of this movement, I am

Respectfully,
E. B. Deason,
Judge of Probate.

REPORT OF THE COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER FOR MONTH OF JUNE.

Births—White, Male	15
White, Female	11

Grand total of births		31
Deaths—White, Male	2

Colored, Female	1
Total		6
Grand total of deaths		16

The prevailing diseases are typhoid fever, measles. Our report of births, deaths and infectious diseases are short of the average. The State department of health advises me to report names of delinquent Doctors or midwives to the Probate Judge. We hope however, that this will not be necessary as nearly all have reported this month.

As all reports are put on record in book form and bound and placed on open shelves in theState Health Office for inspection for time to come, great care should be used in their preparation.

I would also call the attention of the doctors to lack of reports of typhoid fever. If they report more deaths from this disease, than cases of the disease, then it will appear from the record that the disease is very fatal or not well treated.

Yours for better reports,
V. J. GRAGG,

Something New.

"It may be trite and commonplace, though fitting, to quote the well-known Wordsworthian couplet that the 'lives of great men all remind us how to make our lives sublime.'"—Hamilton Advertiser.

No, no; these Wordsworthian couplets are always fresh to us.—London Punch.

Money and Prosperity.

Some of the most flourishing countries in the world, such as the United States, Canada, Argentina, Australia and France, have a large supply of money in proportion to their population, but so have poor Paraguay and Spain. On the other hand the per capita supply of money is notably small in Germany, Chile and Sweden, which are also prosperous and progressive. Argentina leads the world in the stock of money relative to the number of inhabitants.

New Kind of Work.

Cynthia, a young negro cook, who had recently given up her employment in order that she might try her luck at the easier profession of cateress, met her former mistress on the street. (This is from Life.) "Good morning, Cynthia," said the lady. "Where are you working now?" "I isn't workin' nowhere now, ma'am," replied Cynthia, coyly; "I'se capering for a congressman."

Daily Thought.

Let your first effort be not for wealth, but independence. Whatever be your talents, whatever your prospects, never be tempted to speculate away, on the chance of a palace, that which you need as a provision against the workhouse.—Lord Lytton.

No. 666

This is a prescription prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25c

Will Get Rid of Felon.

To cure a felon, take common salt, as used for salting pork or beef, dry in the oven, pound fine, mix with equal parts of spirits of turpentine, put in a cloth and wrap around the affected part. As it gets dry put on more. Twenty-four hours of this treatment will kill the felon.

Reputation.

After a man has made a reputation it is the trying to decorate it that generally gets him into trouble.—Puck.

Removing Mildew Stains.

Soaking mildew stains in buttermilk or sour milk will many times remove them, but not always. Try a solution of one heaping teaspoonful of chloride of lime to a quart of soft water; strain, when well dissolved and dip the mildewed spots in it until the stains disappear, then rinse immediately and thoroughly in clear water.

Always Something to Blame.

Some men blame their shortcomings on their families and others on the newspapers.—Atchison Globe.

CLANTON MATTERS

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Mrs. Phil Crump of Birmingham is visiting her parents here.

Mr. W. E. Maddox went up to Calera Sunday.

Miss Mary Will Stewart of Montgomery is visiting her mother of this place.

Miss Glennie Evans is spending several weeks at Talladega Springs.

Mr. W. C. Robinson, of Cooper, was among the visitors to Clanton Tuesday.

Mr. J. B. Blankenship and daughters were visitors to the Union-Banner office this week.

G. W. Jones of Lomax was in to see us Wednesday, and gave us a communication from his brother, J. B. Jones, in New Mexico, which will be published later.

Mr. W. Q, Childress, a prominent farmer of Mt. Carmel community was a caller at the Union Banner office this week, and while here he renewed his subscription.

A bad taste in the mouth comes from a disordered stomach and, back of that is usually a torpid liver:—A condition which invites disease. HERBINE is the remedy needed. It corrects the stomach and makes the liver active and regular. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Hon. L. B. Pounds, of Pletcher, was in town Tuesday. In speaking of the crop coditions in that section Mr. Pounds stated that the farmers were very much in need of rain: crpos were suffering quite seriously.

When you feel lazy, out of sorts and yawn a good deal in the day time, you can charge it to a torpid liver which has allowed the system to get full of impurities. HERBINE cures all disorders produced by an inactive liver. It strengthens that organ, cleanses the bowels and puts the system in good healthy condition. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurch Drug Co.

Mr. R. C. Riggins, a well-wisher of the Union-Banner, and one of Chilton's prosperous citizens, was among the visitors to this office this week. The latch string hangs on the outside, and we are glad to have you call and see us while in town.

Mr. A. J. Blankenship, of Chelsea, Shelby county, called to see us Wednesday. Mr. Blankenship and his family are on a visit to his father, Mr. J. B. Blankenship of this county.

RHEUMATISM AND THE HEART

Don't overlook the grave fact that rheumatism easily "settles in the heart," and disturbes the valvular action. The cure consists in removing the cause. Foley Kidney Pills so tone up and strengthen the kidneys that they keep the blood free of poisons and uric acid crystals, that cause rheumatism, swollen joints, backache, urinary irregularties, and disturbed heart action. Try them. For Sale by All Dealers Everywhere.

Mr. Hoke Pipes and Mr. John Silas made a trip to the Dam Sunday. Judging from their appearance upon returning, and owing to the fact that they made the trip in an open top buggy, we would conclude that they must have encountered a rain somewhere in the round. Hoke says it reminds him that it would be a good idea to take a top buggy at least, next time.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN "THE SUMMER GIRL" AND "THE SUMMER WOMAN."

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble and not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For Sale by All Dealers Everywhere.

Mr. J. M. Smith, a prominent farmer living on route 4 was in Clanton Saturday. In coming to town he incidently passed thru his orchard, which by the way, is a very fine one, and plucked a branch about two feet long from one of his fine plum trees. The little sprig contained 28 large luscious ripe plums, which he so kindly presented to the boys in the Union-Banner office. We thank you, Mr. Smith, and invite you to come to see us again, via the orchard.

OBEY THAT IMPULSE!

Instead of enduring the daily torment of weak back, backache, sore kidneys, swollen joints and rheumatism, obey that impulse to take Foley Kidney Pills. They co-operate with nature, which accounts for their success in all kidney and bladder disorders. They are healing, strengthening and tonic. Obey that impulse to-day and give them a chance to help you. For Sale by All Dealers Everywhere.

FOUND ONE WITH REAL MERIT AT LAST.

"I take pleasure in saying that Owen's Ideal Poultry Remedy is of special merit."

"I have had very little results from the use of other Poultry Remedies and had about arrived at the conclusion that they were alll worthless, when I was inducedto try yours. I had thirty hens giving only three or four eggs per day. After using your remedy, my returns from the same hens were remarkable, running up to eifhteen eggs per day within eight days. I am satisfied that you have a formula that is scientifically constructed and will bring fine results."

MISS MATTHEWS ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF CLANTON VISITORS.

On Tuesday evening, Miss Sallie Mack Robinson and the Messrs. Chappelle were the guests of honor at an Informal Tea in the spacious home of Miss Emmette Matthews. The table was laid for twelve. The handsome center piece composed of lucious fresh grapes was one of the most attractive features of the table. The charming little hostess was at her best on this particular occasion. Mr. John Chappelle who was at one time a member of the Alabama Glee Club, sang several numbers during the evening. Miss Matthews, by request, furnished several selections on the violin, accompanied on piano by Miss Sartor. Later in the evening the moonlight and thought of water mellons lured the guests to the Pergela. The guests were Misses Sallie Robinson, Ruth Kate Mullins, Bessie VanDerveer, Margaret Chappelle Elnor Sartor; Messrs. John Chappelle, Frank Chappelle, Henry Chappelle, Victor Heard, Barney Roberts and Fen Jones.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church held a regular monthly business meeting at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Middleton on last Monday afternoon, and the following officers were elected:

Mrs. J. C. Jones, President; Mrs. Chappelle, Vice President; Mrs. Matthews, Secretary; Mrs. White, Treasurer.

After a delicious repast the meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Potts in August.

PUT BEST FOOT FORWARD

No Better Advice Can Be Given Than to Present a Brave Front to the World.

If every pair for whom wedding bells are to ring this June would take to heart the thought that their private affairs are their own, not to be told to outsiders and not paraded to the world, they would insure and safeguard their self-respect and the permanence of their home.

The temptation may arise when first there is a little friction to seek sympathy from mother, sister, or intimate friend.

That temptation should be trampled under foot.

Confidential friends are not invariably to be trusted. With or without the best intentions the third party intruding in the affairs of a married couple is in peril of making mischief.

Make it a rule to confide wholly without secrets or reserves in one another from the hour that you become husband and wife, and you will have little to fear, though the four winds should blow around your house. It will stand against any tempest and prove itself strong and hallowed, your sanctuary and your castle, if you confide in and defend your union. Never let a quarrel last over night. Present a brave front to the world. There is common sense in the homely advice to put the best foot forward.

GREAT NEED FOR LOVELINESS

Commercialism Threatens to Destroy Much That Is Beautiful in the World.

In our terrible haste to make a living nowadays we are apt to forget that it is even more important to keep life worth living. The desire for wealth and for comfort, the forgetfulness of beauty and art, which began as symptoms of a purely American disease, are spreading rapidly over the world.

Ruskin and Matthew Arnold only a century ago expressed fears that America would vulgarize the world. Whether we have done it or not, at any rate it is to a great extent accomplished. Imagine a modern "passionate pilgrim" who, reaching the far famed, much sung Como and, raising the glance from the dome of the cathedral, finds in large black letters across the mountain an advertisement of Tot—a digestive tablet—and of vermuth!

There could be no finer work in the world today for women than to band themselves together into a league for the preservation of loveliness. For you may take it as fact: all that is noblest and best in the human spirit, all that is gentlest and strongest and bravest, feeds upon loveliness.

No Standardized Dress.

It is a pleasure to stamp despitefully on the praise of Prof. Walter Sargent of Chicago for the Chinese custom of "one established style of dress for women."

Life might be cheaper under such a dull, gray provision of costume. But it would certainly not be worth living. The whole trouble with costumes today is that they are too much alike. Instead of designing a dress that is becoming to her own dimensions, proportions and other endowments of nature, the average woman accepts the fashion of the hour, whatever it may be—large sleeves, small hips, no waist or whatever the fashion may decree.

What is needed is not more standardization, but more individuality in dress. A declaration of independence is the crying feminine need of the hour—not a uniform designed by any board of economists.—New York Tribune.

Convict Made Pets of Mice.

An interesting story of a convict and his two pet mice is told in the report of Captain Hanson, the prison commissioner of London.

Captain Hanson said the convict, who was imprisoned at Parkhurst, had two pet mice, but was ordered to another prison, where he was unable to take his pets. Captain Hanson promised to have them cared for, and himself went to the cell for the mice.

"Never shall I forget the parting scene," continued the officer. "The man took each of the mice, calling them by name, kissed them, and then put them in a little box he had lined with flannel, and with them a piece of bread and a piece of cheese he had saved."

Couldn't Return Civility.

A Scottish farmer was asked to the funeral of a neighbor's wife, and as he had attended the funeral of both her predecessors, his own wife was rather surprised when he informed her that he had declined the invitation.

For some time Sandy would give no reason for the refusal, but he couldn't stand the old lady off, so finally he told her with some hesitation:

"Weel, ye see, Janet, I dinna aye like to be acceptin' ither folks' civilities when I niver hae onything o' the kin' to offer in return."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

But the Neighbors.

Apropos of a scandal that had roused Palm Beach during the spring season, Frederick Townsend Martin said whimsically at a dinner in New York:

"Busybodies around everywhere. Love may be blind, you know, but the neighbors always have their eyes

Baptismal Custom.

A pretty custom is followed at baptisms in Heligoland. While a psalm is being sung a procession of little boys and girls troop in, passing in front of the altar. Each child carries a panniken of water, the contents of which are poured into the baptismal font. Thus all the child's future playmates contribute to the water with which the baby is admitted into the church.

Largest Black Diamond.

Do you know that the largest black diamond in the world was discovered in Brazil in 1895? It weighed 3,078 karats, and was discovered in the marsh "do Lama," near the town of Lencoes, in the state of Bahia, by one of those searchers called here "garimperios." The name of this lucky fellow was Sergio Borges de Carvalho, and he sold his find to an agent named Jose Bezerra de Cerqueira for 190,000 francs (about $47,500).

Daily Thought.

The purest and most lasting human friendships are permeated with an element of reverence.—Austin Phelps.

Age of Pessimism.

"I had a talk with a pessimistic friend the other day. I don't think I ever met any one so completely soured on the world. He told me he doubted human honesty—that he didn't believe in the faith of man, nor the constancy of woman. Life to him was all graft and greed. He was very bitter." "Your friend must have had a lot of hard experiences. How old is he?" "Nineteen."

Emergency Plea.

One night Marjorie and her sister were enjoying a pillow fight before going to sleep. They had been told repeatedly to be quiet. Finally their mother could stand the noise no longer and started for their room. They heard her coming, and five-year-old Marjorie dropped down on her knees beside her bed and said: "Oh, God, please turn me into a mouse, so I can hide under the bureau!"

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI. was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles. Her Ladyship dances with strange fisherman, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious Le Seigneur Noir. He escapes. Lady Elise is caught in the "Grand" tide. The Black Seigneur rescues and takes her to his retreat. Elise discovers that her savior was the boy with the fish. Sanchez, the Seigneur's servant, is arrested and brought before the governor. Lady Elise has Sanchez set free. Seigneur and a priest at the "Cockles."

CHAPTER XIII.—(Continued.)

Outside, the wind, blowing sharper, whistled about the eaves, beat at the window and shook the blinds angrily; far below, a steady monotone to those other sounds, could be heard the rush and breaking of the surf.

"Why did I cross myself that day on the island, when I saw her—behind you?" Sanchez's taciturnity—the reticence of years—suddenly burst its bonds. "Because she made me think of the former lady of the Mount—the Governor's wife—who betrayed the Seigneur, your father! I promised him to keep the secret—he would have it, for the sake of the lady; but now—to you! Your father was stabbed at the foot of the Mount by the Governor!—"

"Stabbed! By him!"

"It was given out," sourly, "by rogues—again to shield her!"

"But—"

"That same day he had a letter—from her. As evening fell he walked near the Mount—was followed by the Governor, who sprang, struck in the back and left him for dead! I found him and took him home. But before he recovered, it was reported my lady had died—"

"How?"

"I know not; a punishment, perhaps! She was always delicate—or liked to be considered such—a white-faced, pretty, smiling thing whose beauty and treachery this other one, the daughter, inherits. It was the ghost of herself looking over your shoulder that day on the island, with the same bright, perfidious eyes—"

"Enough!" Angrily the Black Seigneur brought down his hand. "I will hear no more!"

"Because she has caught your fancy! Because you—"

"No more, I say! Think you I would not avenge your wrongs at once, were it possible? That I would not strike for you, on the instant? But now? My hands are tied. Another one who has not tasted food for many hours. The other, for his part, showed no immediate desire to disturb that occupation; for some time waited; and it was not until the servant stopped, reached out his arm for a glass, to drink, that the young man again spoke.

"The palace? The plan of the Mount? Did you notice? Tell me something of it—how it is laid out—"

Sanchez swallowed; set down the glass hard. "Yes, yes! I saw much—a great deal!" he answered with eager zest. "Oh, I kept my eyes open, although I seemed not to, and was mindful of learning all I could!"

"Here!" From his pocket the young man took a note-book; pencil. "Set it down; everything! I know something, already, from the old monks—the rough diagrams in their books. You entered where? Take the pencil and—"

The minutes passed and still Sanchez traced; seemed almost to forget his injuries in his interest in the labor. Plan after plan was made; torn up; one finally remained in the hand of the Black Seigneur.

"You think—" Anxiously the servant watched his master's face; but the latter, straight, erect, with keen eyes fixed, did not answer.

"You think—" again began the man when the ancient time-piece, beating harshly the hour, interrupted.

"Eleven o'clock! High tide!" The Black Seigneur pushed back his chair and rose.

"Good!" Sanchez's alacrity indicated a quick comprehension of what the movement portended.

"You—had better remain here!" shortly.

"Me?" said the servant with a harsh laugh. "Me?"

"Have you not had enough of my family—my service?" the young Seigneur demanded bitterly.

"Bah!" muttered the other. "The dog that's beaten springs at the chance to bite! You go to rescue your comrades. I—will go with you!"

"In which case, death—not vengeance—will most likely be your reward!"

"I care not!" stubbornly.

A moment the Black Seigneur regarded him; then made a gesture.

"Well, have your way!" He listened. "The wind is in the west."

"A little south of west," answered the man.

"A rough night for your boat to have crossed!"

"Oh, I was bound to come! And if you hadn't been here, I'd have gone on, on—till I found you—"

The hand of the young man touched the other's shoulder. "Come!" he said, and threw open the door.

"No More, I Say!"

matter—of life, or death—presses first!"

Sanchez looked at him quickly; said no more; between them, the silence grew. The servant was the first to move; turning to the table, he began to eat; at first mechanically; afterward faster, with the ravenous zest of

"You are going in the storm?" The girl, Nanette, intercepted them.

The Black Seigneur nodded shortly. "It must be an important mission to take you to sea on such a night. Why don't you stay where it's warm and comfortable? Or," with a laugh, "at least until Monsieur Gabarie," indicating the corpulent figure intrenched behind a barricade of dishes and bottles on a small table near the fire, "has finished the little puppet play he is writing."

"It is finished!" As he spoke, the poet rose. "I had but written 'curtain' when you spoke. Your wine, fair Nanette, hath a rarely inspiring quality!"

"Oh, I care not for your compliments!" she returned. "Your capitaine," again studying the Black Seigneur with dark sedulous eyes, "has not found it so much to his liking! He has neither asked for more, nor drunk what he ordered; and now would venture out—"

Unmindful of her words the young man called to old Pierre.

"Well," she went on, throwing back her head, "if you lose your ship, come to me, and—I'll see you have another!"

Above in his chamber at the inn, not long thereafter, the priest, looking out of the window, saw a line of men file down the narrow stairs; embark in the small boats from the sheltered nook where they lay, and later, in the light of the moon, breaking from between scudding clouds and angry vapors, a ship that got under way—glided like a phantom craft from the heaven and set seaward through the foam.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Pilgrimage.

From far and near the peasants and the people of the towns and villages, joined in the customary annual descent upon—or ascent to—the Mount. None was too poor, few too miserable, to undertake the journey. A pilgrimage, was the occasion called; but although certain religious ceremonies were duly observed and entered into by some with fanatical warmth, many there were, who, obliged to pay tithes, nourished the onerous recollection of the enforced "ecclesiastical tenth" to the exclusion of any great desire to avail themselves of the compensating privilege of beholding and bowing before the sacred relics. To these recalcitrant spirits, license and a rough sort of merrymaking became the order of the hour.

Early in the morning the multitude began to arrive—in every manner of dilapidated vehicle, astride starved-looking donkeys and bony horses, or on foot. Many who had camped out the night before, by wayside or in forest, brought with them certain scanty provisions and a kitchen pot in which to boil thin soup, or some poor makeshift mess; others came empty-handed, "pilgrims" out at the elbow and shoeless, trusting to fortune for their sustenance, and looking capable even of having poached in one of the wide forests they had traversed, despite a penalty, severe and disproportionate to the offense, for laying hand on any lord's wild birds or rabbits.

Savage men; sodden men—good, bad and indifferent! Like ants thronging about the hill, they straightway streamed to the Mount; took possession of it, or as much as lay open to them; for around the top, chosen abode of the Governor, extended a wall; grim, dark and ominous; bristling with holes which seemed to look blackly down; to watch, to listen and to frown. Without that pretentious line of encircling masonry, the usual din, accompaniment to the day and the presence of so many people, prevailed; within, reigned silence, a solemn hush, unbroken by even a sentinel's tread.

"I shall be glad when it's all over!" Standing at the window of her chamber the Lady Elise had passed in dressing to look out upon the throng—a thousand dots upon the sand, dark moving masses in the narrow byways, and motionless ones near the temporary altars.

"Oh, my Lady!" Her companion, and former nurse, a woman about fifty years of age, ventured this mild expostulation.

"There, Marie! You can go!"

"Yes, your Ladyship—"

"One moment!" The slender figure turned. "This fastening—"

In an instant the woman was by her side.

"Have you heard anything more about the prisoners, Marie?" abruptly. "Those who were tried, I mean?"

"Nothing—only Beppo said they are to be hanged day after tomorrow—when the pilgrimage is over."

"Day after tomorrow!" The brown eyes looked hard and bright; the small white teeth pressed her lip. "And the man my fa—the Governor had—whipped from the Mount—you have heard nothing more of him—where he has gone?"

"No, my Lady; he seems to have disappeared completely; fled this country, perhaps, for those islands where so many like him," half bitterly, "have gone before!"

The girl looked up in a preoccupied manner. "Poor Marie! Your only sister died there, didn't she?"

"Yes, my Lady; I never saw her after she left France with her husband and baby girl. He was an unpatriotic fellow—Pierre Laroche!"

"No doubt," said the Governor's daughter absently, as the other prepared to leave the room.

Alone, the girl remained for several moments motionless before the great Venetian mirror; then mechanically, hardly looking at the reflection the glass threw back at her, she finished her toilet. This task accomplished, still she stood with brows closely drawn; afar the flute-like voices of the choir-boys arose from different parts of the Mount, but she did not seem to hear them; made a sudden quick gesture and walked toward the door in the manner of one who has arrived at some resolution.

Passing down a corridor, she reached an arched opening whose massive door swung easily to her touch, and let herself out by a private way, which had once been the ancient abbot's way, to an isolated corner of a small secluded platform. From this point a stairway led up to a passage spanning a great gulf. Below and aside, where the red-tiled houses clung to the steep slope of the rock, fluttered many flags; yet the girl did not pause either to contemplate or admire. Only when her glance passed seaward and rested on the far-away ocean's rim of light, did she stop for an instant—mid-way on the bridge—then, compressing her lips, moved on the faster; down the incline on the other side; up winding stairs between giant columns, reaching, at length, that bright and grateful opening, the cloister. With an unvarying air of resolution she stepped forward; looked in; the place was empty—silent save for the tinkling of the tiny fountain in the center.

"Are you looking for some one, my Lady?"

The voice was that of Beppo, who was regarding her from an angle in the cloister walk.

"I am looking for his Excellency. I suppose he is—"

"In the apartments of state, my Lady. But—" The girl frowned.

"But, but!" she said. "But what?"

"His Excellency has left word—he was expecting a minister from Paris—that no one else was to be admitted; the matter was so important that he wished no interruptions."

She had already turned, however;

The Governor Himself Appeared.

moved on past him without answer. At the inner entrance to the "little castle" or chatelet, which presently she reached, the girl stopped. Here, without, in the shadow of two huge cylindrical towers, that crowned the feudal gate-house, a number of soldiers, seated on the steps, clinked their swords and talked; within, beneath the high-vaulted dome of the guard-room lolled the commandant and several officers on a bench before a large window. Immediately on her appearance they rose, but, merely bowing stiffly, she started toward a portal on the left. Whereupon the commandant started forward, deferentially would have spoken—stopped her, when at the same moment, the door she was approaching opened, and the governor himself appeared. At the sight of her he started; a shade of annoyance crossed his thin features, then almost immediately vanished; his cold eyes met hers expectantly.

"I have been told you were very busy, yet I must see you; it is very important—"

A fraction of a moment he seemed to hesitate; then with an absent air: "Certainly, I was very busy; nevertheless—" he stepped aside; permitted her to pass, and softly closed the door. With the same preoccupied air he walked to his table before one of the large fireplaces whose pyramidal canopies merged into the ribs of the vaulting of a noble chamber, and, seating himself in a cushioned chair, looked down at a few embers.

"I came," standing, with her fingers straight and stiff on the cold marble edge of the table, the girl began to speak hurriedly, constrainedly, "I wanted to see you—about the prisoners—"

He did not answer. Gently stroking his wrist, as if the dampness from some subterranean place had got into it, he evinced no sign he had heard; and this apathy and his apparent disregard of her awoke more strongly the feeling she had experienced so often since that day in the cloister, when he had promised to set free the servant of the Black Seigneur; had kept his word, indeed, but—

"Can't you see," she forced herself to continue, "after what the man Sanchez thought—suspected about me, what he said that day at the Mount, after what he, the Black Seigneur, did for me"—the Governor started—"that you, if you care for me at all," he looked at her strangely, "at least, should—"

"As I told you the other day," his accents were cold, "why concern yourself about outlaws and peasants clamoring for 'rights!'"

"But it is my concern," she said passionately. "Unless—"

"Neither yours nor mine," he answered in the same tone. "Only the law's!"

"The law's!" she returned. "You are the law—"

"Its servant!" he corrected.

"But—you could spare their lives! You could deal with them more mercifully!"

"The law is explicit. In the King alone rests the power to—"

"The King! But before word could reach him—"

"Exactly!" As he spoke, the Governor rose. "And now—"

"You will not hear me?"

"If there is anything else—"

Her figure straightened. "Why do you hate him so?" she asked passionately. "You have hastened their trial, and would carry out the sentence before there is time for justice. And the man whom that day you ordered whipped from the Mount—after letting me think him safe! After all that his master did for me! Why was he lashed? Because of him he served of of the old Seigneur before that? heard you ask about him—of his having gone to America? Why did you care about that?"

"You seem to have listened to a great deal!"

"And why did he go to America?" she went on, unheeding. "Did you hate him, too? What for?"

"If you have nothing else to talk about—" He glanced at the door.

"And the lands!" she said. "They were his; now they are yours—"

"Unjustly, perhaps you think."

Why He Laughed.

Mayor Shank of Indianapolis said t a woman interviewer the other day: "It's you women who must fight th economic battles of the future. Th men are so busy earning the money that they have no time to give to the campaign for cheaper living. This must be a woman's campaign, and woman will fight it best with the ballot. That's why, when I hear men laugh at the thought of woman's suffrage struggle, I'm disgusted and ashamed. Such laughter seems as inopportune as Smith's. Smith, you know, laughed loud and long on the way home from his wife's funeral."

A Tower of Skulls.

In 1809 the Turks defeated the Servians at Nish, and in memory of the victory built a tower of stone and Servian skulls. At one time visitors and tourists used to carry away skulls as souvenirs, and not so many years ago the heads were still to be seen embedded in the walls. When Nish became Servian, however, as many skulls as could be extracted were given Christian burial. A few still remained, too firmly held by the plaster, and of these two, in a glass case are shown at the memorial church close by.—Wide World Magazine.

Boy's View of Policemen.

A boy's view of policemen is thus quaintly expressed in the examination papers of the Albert Street school, Bulwell, Nottingham, England:

"One of our well-known men in the large towns is the policeman; he is a very large man, and looks very smart in his suit of blue.

"If he sees a boy who ought to be at school, he tries to catch him and take him to school, where he is punished.

"His duties are many. At night he walks quietly down the streets in case there are any robbers. . . . He carries a lamp about with him to see where the robber escapes. If the robber hides, he will be traced. The policeman carries a staff, a whistle, and some handcuffs in case he needs them."

When Ex-President Taft Was Married.

It was formerly a pleasant custom of society reporters to indulge in predictions as to the glorious future of the happy pair. A journalistic prophet of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, in writing of the wedding of Miss Helen L. Herron, daughter of John W. Herron to William Howard Taft, which occurred twenty-seven years ago, had this to say:

"William H. Taft is one of the young men of the city who may be depended upon in public affairs. He is one of the highest standing of the graduates of Yale, and his original powers, perfect integrity and courage and correct instincts, as well as thorough information, have made him useful, won for him the friendships and enmities most complimentary, and opened for him a career that has the highest promise of great distinction."

SHROPSHIRES GAIN IN FAVOR

Reason Is These Sheep Give Better Returns for Money Invested Than Other Breeds.

What has made the Shropshire so popular? More Shropshires are fed and marketed in England than any other two breeds. The reason the breed is popular, is because these sheep give better returns for money invested than any of the mutton breeds, writes H. K. Gibson of Duchess County, N. Y., in the Orange Judd and Farmer. The English farmers are not slow to find out what sort of live stock is the most profitable for them to keep, and American farmers are not slow, either. The Shropshire registry association has nearly as many members as all other sheep registry associations of the mutton breeds combined. This is ample proof of the popularity of the breed.

Now, back of this breed are the business capabilities of the Shropshire to make lots of money. These sheep show a profit to their feeder and breeder if given any reasonable chance to do so. They are the most cosmopolitan of the button breeds and on the same amount of food will excel the other breeds in making more pounds of both mutton and wool than their rivals. They are also very prolific. With good care, at least 1¼ lambs may be expected on the average to each ewe in the flock, but it is not uncommon even in large flocks to get an average of 1½ lambs to each ewe. I doubt if there is any breed that is better adapted for crossing or for breeding on our own native ewes than the Shropshire. Anyone who follows the market reports of the leading live stock markets will see that lambs sired by Shropshire rams are continually topping the market. The winnings at the leading live stock exhibitions show that for grades and crossbreds three-fourths of the winners are sired by Shropshire rams.

GOOD SANITATION OF STABLE

If Proper Care Is Given Horses and Their Barns No One Can Object to Them in Big Cities.

(By PROF. JOHN WILLARD BOTHE.)

One of the most imperative needs from the standpoint of health in great cities, is stable sanitation. Thousands upon thousands of horses are stabled in every large city. If proper care is taken of these horses and their stables, no one can object to their presence, because they are reasonably quiet and a properly cared for stable is practically odorless. You will say immediately that you never saw a properly cared for stable, then, and that is probably right, as there are very few of them.

The sanitary stable should have waterproof floors, built of some material that will not absorb the liquid manure, and sloped to drain properly. Cement is undoubtedly the best of these, and it should be covered with a slatted board flooring in the stalls to keep the horses from sleeping on a cold cement, and to prevent slipping.

The question of bedding is very important in many ways. Its function is to keep the horse off the floor and to absorb the liquid manure. It also is better for the horses' feet than a hard floor. Wheat or oat straw is the best bedding known, as it is light, dry, warm, springy and highly absorbtive. Barley and rye straw would be equally good if it were not for the "beards" or barbed tips of the green husk, which irritates the horse's skin. Marsh hay has little value because it is coarse, flattens down and absorbs very little. Shavings and tanbark are poor bedding for the same reason.

Horses should be cleaned very carefully in warm weather, and it is an excellent plan to wash their mouth, head and legs with cold water at noon and night.

Hog Cholera Serum.

Good clean hog cholera serum usually retains its potency for at least a year after sealing, if kept cold and in dim light. Farmers frequently order more serum than they need and then wish to know whether it can be safely put away for future use. When a serum bottle has been opened and the serum exposed to the air, except in the hands of a very careful and expert operator, it is very likely to be contaminated and spoiled for future use.—M. H. Reynolds, Veterinarian.

COMPOSITION OF THE PINK

Stem Should Be Strong Enough to Support Flower Without Drooping and With Broad Petal.

(By W. R. GILBERT.)

In a good pink the stem should be strong enough to support the flower without drooping, and not less than from ten to twelve inches high, which will elevate it above the foliage. The calyx or rod ought to be proportionately long, straight, and not to narrow, but correspond with the size of the flower, not incurved, but rather turned outwards, so that the flower may expand freely and without bursting out at the side. The petal should be broad, flat and substantial, and as free from indentation on the edges as possible. It is not desirable for the flower to be too double, and there ought to be a sufficient number of rows of petals to show symmetry without being crowded, each row being smaller in size than the next below, lying over each other in regular imbricated form. In a laced kind the belting should be even and equal in breadth, surrounding the outer edge of each petal and uniting with the eye. Whatever the color is it ought to be uniform, rich and solid. In the purple a rich purplish maroon, and in the red the nearer approach to scarlet the better. In all the classes the white ought to be clear and distinct, without blemish. Propagation is most readily accomplished by pipings—which are simply the tops of the shoots—struck under hand glasses; very strong soil should not be used for the pink, for too rich a compost only injures it and makes the color run. The most suitable soil is a fresh loam, only ordinarily fertile, the top spit of an old pasture, with a fourth part cow dung, and both thoroughly rotted together. Care should be used that there are no wireworms in it, as they are very destructive, not only to the pink but also to the carnation and picotee. Where perfection is studied, it is best to have nothing else in the same bed, which may be 12 inches deep of the above named material. Plant about the middle of August, about eight inches apart, and make the soil somewhat solid around the neck of the plants, but do not bury too deeply. If dry weather should occur give a good soaking of water, but keep as dry as possible through the winter. Towards the end of April stirring the soil and giving a top-dressing will greatly invigorate the plants and assist the bloom. As the flower stems approach blooming have in readiness a quantity of slender twigs; fix one to each plant and tie loosely with soft thread. When the flowers begin to expand, if it is desired to have them quite perfect, examine the pods, and if they appear to be opening more on one side than the other take a penknife and slit the closed divisions equally, but not so far as to let the petals fall down and out of place. At the time tie a small bit of bast round immediately under where slit; this will prevent bursting and keep the flower uniform in shape. If there be during blooming a thin covering of muslin fixed over the bed, and raised sufficiently high above the flower, so as not to rub them, the flowering will be considerably prolonged, and the colors much more distinct and clear. Where it is desirable to save seed and keep the progeny in class character, each class ought to be kept separately, and the flowers assisted by artificial fertilization, choosing those of the same class, with good marking, to hybridize with. The pink is easily forced and is a most desirable acquisition among early spring flowers. The care requisite to accomplish this object is very little. As soon as pipings can be had off forced plants strike them in pots or pans in sand under a hand glass in a gentle heat. After they have struck root gradually harden them off, and plant them out in well prepared beds, in which they will make strong plants, ready for lifting and potting by October; afterwards keep them in a cold frame. For forcing, the Pheasant's Eye, white with dark eye; Moss's Red, which is later than the last, and Paddington Pink, which is later still, are the best. In forcing them they may be placed near the glass in any house where a temperature of 50 or 55 degrees is kept at night. Whatever house they are forced in care should be taken to keep them freely exposed to the sun, for this is the main secret of success

HAD PREMONITION OF DEATH

New Jersey Man's Fear of Coming Disaster Laughed at by Comrades, But It Was Verified.

John Hueselmans, superintendent of a lumber yard in Harrison, N. J., started home after a day of intense worry through fear of impending disaster. His premonition caused several of the workmen to deride him. John Bissell of Newark led in the scoffing.

As Hueselmans was passing a 40-foot-high pile of heavy timbers Bissell, who was at work on top, uttered a warning cry and leaped to the ground. As he did so the great bulk of lumber swayed and toppled over. Hueselmans was buried beneath the mass and was instantly killed. Bissell, by his leap, avoided the crumbling pile and landed just beyond the timbers. The fall, however, resulted in his receiving numerous fractures and he was removed in a critical condition to St. Michael's hospital.

A crowded trolley car was passing the lumber yard at the time. The passengers, many of them workmen on their way home, rushed to the spot and began moving the timbers. It was half an hour before Hueselmans' mangled body was extricated.

Tired of Bossing.

When Mary went home to Ireland for a visit to the old farm, after a four years' course in general housework in America, she found a new baby brother. "And he was thot spoiled you couldn't live in the same house with him," recounted Mary to her old mistress. "Such a raisin' as he had had! I towld me mother 'twas different altogether from the bringin' up of us older children. 'Twas do this, an' we done it—or get a whippin'. But with the little wan now—if she says to him 'do this,' he says, 'No, I don't want to,' an' never a budge does he make. But my mother was not set back by my scoldin'. She just sayed, 'Oh, well, wait until you've lived as long and as much as I have, and you will get tired of bossin', too."

FACE FULL OF PIMPLES

Ruffin, N. C.—"My face became full of pimples and blackheads, and would itch, burn and smart. The skin was rough and red. I was really ashamed of my face. My arms and back were affected almost as badly. The pimples would fester and there would come a dry scab on top. The trouble caused my face to be disfigured badly and the itching would bother me so I could not sleep well nights, especially during warm weather.

"The trouble lasted me three long years without anything doing me any good until a friend told me about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and then I decided to try them. After the first application I could see some improvement. After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment two weeks I did not look like the same person; most of the pimples had disappeared. At the end of four weeks I was completely cured." (Signed) Miss Mamie Mitchell, Jan. 9, 1913.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

The McTavish family was dining, and each member eagerly watched Mr. McTavish carving the fowl, none so eagerly, however, as the dog, for that intelligent animal never took his eyes off the bird. Suddenly the knife slipped and sent a fragment of poultry rolling on the floor.

"Michty me," cried McTavish, "the leg, my own favorite bit. The dog'l get it."

"No, it won't, father," said the youngest McEavish. "He'll not get it. I've got my foot on it."—Young's Magazne.

Horrible Thought.

Senator Borah of Idaho tells this story of how a psychologist and mediumistic professor was received in a small town in his state:

The professor was talking to a young society bud about the possibilities of the journeyings of one's soul. "Why, my dear young lady," he declared, "it is possible for you in your sleep to travel to other planets in the middle of the night."

"Oh, professor!" she cried in evident alarm. "Not in my nightgown!"—The Sunday Magazine.

Foreman of Jury Had Claimed They Had One Mind, But Losing Lawyer Wanted to Be Shown.

Counsel for the prisoner looked hopefully at the faces of the jurors as they filed into their seats, and listened hopefully as the foreman announced that they had agreed. His client had enjoyed ample provocation for the assault upon the person of Tobias Jones; but the jurors were uniformly Tobias' friends and not unbiased.

"The jury is all of one mind, your honor," the foreman said. "We find the prisoner guilty."

"You hear the verdict, counsel," remarked the judge. "The jury is all of one mind. Have you anything to ask of the court before sentence is pronounced?"

"Yes, your honor," replied counsel, still hopefully; "for the purposes of the appeal which my client will take, it would be of material assistance to learn which one of the twelve men who have reached this verdict is possessed of the one mind you are so careful to mention."—New York Evening Post.

An old darky was encountered by the expedition sent by Uncle Sam for the relief of sufferers by the Mississippo floods. Uncle Eph was in a dilapidated looking skiff or dugout, which he was having considerable trouble to keep afloat. "Hello there, uncle! What do you want?"

"Nothing but wings, boss," was the answer.

ALABAMA BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The first annual Baptist State Sunday school convention will convene at the Baptist Encampment Grounds, Pelham, Ala., beginning Monday night, July 28, with devotional services conducted by Rev. H. B. Woodward of New Decatur.

The speakers for the three nights of the convention will be Rev. R. J. Bateman, D. D., of Troy, Rev. R. M. Inlow, D. D., President of Union University, Jackson, Tenn. Dr. Bateman speaks at 7:45 and Dr. Inlow at 8:30, following devotional services each night conducted by Rev. H. B. Woodward.

The days beginning Tuesday morning and running through Thursday morning will be full of good things for Sunday school aud Christian workers generally. Each day will be begun by an early devotional exercise at 6:45, conducted by Rev. O. P. Bentley of Enterprise.

Then at 8:45 the real work of the morning begins with conferences which will cover every phase of Sunday school endeavor and to be conducted by some of the leading workers of the state. In the three days there will be 18 conferences of 45 minutes each, when those interested in a particular sphere of Sunday school work may find just the discussion in just the formal way that may prove helpful.

Mr. D. H. Marbury, known and loved by all Sunday school workers in Alabama, will speak on Tuesday morning and Wednesday morning at 10:15. Mr. C. R. Bell of Anniston will speak this hour on Thursday morning.

Prof, R. E. Gaines of Richmond, Va., of the faculty of Richmond College, speaks each morning during the convention at 10:45 on topics covering three great periods in the lives of Sunday school pupils.

He will be followed by Rev. A. C. Davikson, D. D., of Livingston.

In the afternoon there will be a rest period until 5 o'clock, when Rev. W. F. Yarbrough, D. D., of Anniston will speak on Sunday school evangelism.

The work of the Convention will close Thursday and the annual encampment will begin Friday night and continue for ten days. The program for the encampment is probably the best that has been offered to the Baptists of the state. An unprecedented attendance is looked for.

Serious Wreck On Dam Road

Head on Collision Results in One Killed and Two Injured.

It was a serious wreck which occurred Sunday afternoon on the branch road running from Ocampo to Lock 12 on Coosa River. The accident happened at a point about one and one-fourth miles from Camp No. 4 of the construction company. Engines No. 20 and 23 headed into each other, and the fireman on engine 23 was killed and engineer Honeycutt on engine 20 was considerably shaken up.

Conductor Zuber, who was unfortunate to be one of the victims, and who is now convalescing at the Hopkins Infirmary, stated to a Union-Banner reporter:

"We had been in habits of flagging in, and I stayed waiting 35 minutes trying to get orders. The wires being down we then decided to smoke in. We had gone about seven miles when engine 23 and engine 20 ran into each other. I was badly bruised up but am improving now."

The Union-Banner was unable to ascertain the name of the fireman who was killed. The injured parties are all improving.

Clanton High School Report

Record of School Funds For the Past Year.

RECEIPTS:

Balance from last year	$ 39.00
From state appropriation	1190.00
From city appropriation	500.00
From incidental fees	1898.00
Total	$3627.00

DISBURSEMENTS:

Salary paid Principal	$1080.00
Salary paid teachers	2115.00
For catalogues, report cards and programs	45.00
For janitors	42.00
For fuel, light and janitors supplies	117.00
For crayon, erasers etc	20.00
Balance	208.00
Total	$3627.00

It will be seen thatwe are able to make the best report ever issued on our school. But it will atso be noted that more than half of the funds are still paid by the students in the way of incidentals or tuition. Yet we want to thank the Mayor and Council for their assistance. Next year we will have to furnish another room with desks and possibly all the rooms will require new heaters; and in addition to this it seems that the crowded condition of the school will necessitate an additional teacher, so our expenses will be considerably increased. We are endeavoring to select the best faculty possible, and with the co-operation of all the people of the town we are determined to improve considerably ontlast year.

Entertainment by D. C. Club.

Young Men of Thorsby Given Delightful Banquet by the Young Ladies.

The select young ladies club of Thorsby, under the name of the D. C. Club, gave an elegant reception in the form of a banquet to their young gentlemen friends, a few nights ago, at the home of one of their lady members, Miss Velma Cummings. The beautiful lawn was artistically decorated with Japanese lanterns, in the midst of which was placed a long table. Here the guests were seated and served with numerous courses and dainty refreshments, in the most elite style. After refreshments the tables were removed and a general good time with games followed. The young ladies proved to be excellent entertainers and this coupled with the beautiful surroundings, and the ideal night left an impression with the young men long to be remembered. That the D. C. Club won favor with their guests was beyond a doubt as they all voted to give their loyal support to the work of this organization.

Here is to their success,

PEOPLE SHOULD GUARD AGAINST APPENDICITIS.

Clanton people who have stomach and bowel trouble should guard against appendicitis by taking simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-i-ka, the German remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY because this simple mixture draws off such a surprising amount of old foul matter from the body. Rockymount.

Health in this community is very good. Most people are done work and crops are fine.

Our school at Rockymount under Prof. F. B. Williams is progressing fine. I am glad to live in a district where every body wants a good school and works to that end. We have a school building here that every one should be proud of. While it is true we have made a failure on one or two schools here, last winter we employed Prof. F. B. Williams and he got behind things here and in a short time we realized a great many improvements. The house was painted and fixed, steps built and a library bought and other accommodations provided for the school. What we have now every district can have. Talk education and every one feel responsible lor the progress of the school. Dont let a few people with petty greivances hinder the educational interests of your community. The government of your school is safe in the hands of the people and when you get a good teacher one that improves things where he or she goes keep that teacher for good teachers are hard to find. I am glad that the Rockymount people have employed Prof. F. B. Williams for their school this winter. Hope every body will do their part to make this school the best one at all at this place.

Union Springs

(West Chilton)

While the July sun beams on us severely, even a glance at nature's surroundings reveals the fact that sweet summer is waning.

The singing here Sunday was good. A nice crowd gathered. Some came from Ashby, Randolph and other points; one gentleman from Goodwater. The opening song was directed by Prof. Miles Lawley. Prayer by Rev. J. N. Scott. Then Prof. Jackson led the class, followed by Prof. Lawley and Rev. Mr. Waldrup until noon, then came dinner. O my! what a bounty, cakes and pies galore. To say nothing of the numerous other dishes under whose rich burden the table almost groaned.

In the afternoon Profs. Blankenship, Armstrong, Jackson and Lawley were leaders. Also Messrs. Blankenship and Jackson gave good talks. Closing song, "Fair Fields of Eden," by Prof. Lawley; Benediction by Rev. J. N. Scott.

The singing of the local class at Waldrup's schoolhouse on the afternoon of the 1st Sunday in August is called in on account of Prof. Miles Lawley's singing at Rehoboth on that day, but the class will meet on the 3rd Sunday afternoon as usual.

Rev. Hodgens of Tafton and others held a series of meetings here last week. Mr. Hodgens' last discourse was quite interesting on the glory of the former and latter houses; the former being Solomon's Temple, the latter the church glorified. He very strikingly portrayed the glory of the Temple. It was erected without noise, so the church will be in the first resurrection. The stones for the Temple were made ready before the bnilding, so the members of the church now are being polished and chiseled prepared for the Heavenly Temple, even though she is a holy people, yet she is now in her humiliation being made ready to be associated with her great leader in lifting up all the willing ones of the race to life; to judge the world to judge angels. Her marriage will be such as earth has never known. In like manner will her crowning be. After she is glorified the dead billions of earth will live again; sorrow and sighing will flee away, the finally impenitent lost. Death and the grave destroyed, thus the latter house will so far eclipse the former that doubtless the happy nations will say the hal has never yet been told.

Mrs. Higgins Entertains

Young People Enjoy the Most Pleasant Party of the Summer.

On last Friday evening the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Higgins on Third Avenue was open with a most pleasing welcome to a large number of Clanton's younger social set. The assemblage was in honor of Messrs. John Sidney Silas and John Burton Higgins who leave soon for Georgia, where they will be in school next year. A large number of guests were present, consisting mostly of the students of the Clanton High School last session. The out of town visitors were Miss Evelyn Richardson of Leesville, La., Miss Nellie Mae Porter of Le Grand, and Miss Jewel Campbelle of Birmingham.

As the guests arrived they were received and conducted to the parlor by Mrs. Higgins, in the most pleasant manner. Delightful music rendered throughout the evening by several of the young ladies added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

Perhaps the most amusing feature of the evenings entertainment was a guessing contest between the boys and girls. There were so many close rivals at guessing that the winner could not be determined; so it was decided to draw straws for the honor. Miss Annie Gragg drew the straw that won the girls prize which was a large box of candy. The boys' prize, a handsome stick pin, was drawn by Mr. Dewey Eubanks.

Mrs. Higgins was assisted in entertaining by Miss Richardson, the charming visitor from Louisiana, who served punch on the front porch during the early part of the evening and later, delicious ice cream and cake.

Too much praise cannot be given Mrs. Higgins for her charming manner of entertaining the young folks. Until a late hour the youngsters carried on their fun and merriment, just in the way they used to do at school when the teacher had gone to dinner. When they parted everyone expressed the highest appreciation of the kindness and pleasure received at the hands of the gracious hostess and her lovely assistant.

News of the Soldiers Home

Items of Interest Picked up by our Correspondent.

Recently the State Board of Control of the Alabama Soldiers Home, located near Mountain Creek, held a meeting in Governor O'Neal's office with six of the nine members present, and elected Capt. J. M. Simpson, Commandant, for the next two years, and Dr. J. P. Ellsberry, physician. These two gentlemen have held office at the Home in their respective capacities for the past seven years and are now re-elected for two years more.

The Board instructed Captain Simpson to purchase 20 acres of land adjoining the Home for the use of the Home, provided the terms, etc., were agreeable. The Home now controls said land on a 20 year lease which will expire 9 years from this date. The Board listened to the reading of reports made by the officials and adopted the same.

Veteran John H. Williamson died on Friday morning at four o'clock a. m. and was buried in the Home cemetery at 5:30 p. m. The deceased was 75 years of age, and entered the Home on December 7th, 1901, from Jefferson county. The funeral services were conducted by Capt. J. M. Simpson, Commandant of the Home.

Southern.

The heat wave under which the Southwest has sweltered the last few days pushed the mercury to 97 degrees in Atlanta, Ga., making a record for the year. The minimum through the day was 76 degrees, higher than it has been this year. Reports from points throughout the south Atlantic states indicated intense heat from Virginia to Florida. The highest temperatures were recorded in Georgia towns. No deaths were reported. Charleston, S. C., fell behind other southern towns with a maximum temperature of only 89 degrees.

Pinned beneath an overturned locomotive, Huston Fleming, an engineer, put an end to his torture by cutting his own throat when spectators of his plight refused his request to kill him. Fleming, with Floyd Hamlin, an air inspector, was testing a new locomotive in the Louisville and Nashville yards at Decatur, Ala., when it was hurled from the tracks by a switch engine and overturned.

T. Sambola Jones of Louisiana, commissioner-at-large from the United States of the Panama-Pacific exposition to be held at San Francisco, Cal., in 1915, addressed the general assembly of Georgia extolling the merits of the great exposition and of the Panama canal and urging that a proper showing be made by the state

New rules requiring cotton bales for export to be of uniform size and condition are said to have preyed on the mind of Joseph Settegast so that he committed suicide at Augusta, Ga. He was found in his bed with a bullet hole in his right temple. He grasped a revolver in his right hand. The new rules regulating bales would have forced him to change his methods to such an extent as to cause him big financial loss.

The first scouting party sent out from Georgia by the United States government department to meet and study the deraded approaching cotton boll weevil, make a study of him so that he can be identified, and learn how the people of Mississippi and Louisiana are handling the situation this insect enemy to cotton is creating, will be projected from Athens, Ga.

For the murder on May of Aaron Campbell, his youthful son-in-law, and J. H. Campbell, the father of Aaron, at Bishopville, Lee county, South Carolina, with a shotgun, M. L. Garrett went to his death in the electric chair at the state penitentiary at Columbia. Garrett was surrounded by bloodhounds and with his daughter, whom he forced to accompany him to the swamps, was saved from lynching by the sheriff, eluding a mob by the quick use of an automobile. The man requested prison officials to kill him quickly.

A party of United States marines and sailors from the reserve fleet, most of the sailors wearing the name bands of the cruisers Colorado and California, started to "clean up the town," as they expressed it, by attacking the Socialist and Industrial Workers of the World headquarters in Seattle, W. h. A second party of men from the Pacific reserve fleet attacked the big industrial workers' headquarters in the southern part of the city. The contents of the buildings were dragged into the street and a bonfire made of them. A provost guard of fifty men was hurried ashore in cutters to arrest all the men ashore.

Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, professor of political economy in the University of Wisconsin, has been selected for minister to China. Doctor Reinsch is a writer of recognized authority on Oriental topics and far Eastern politics. His works on those subjects have been translated into Japanese, Chinese, Spanish and German. Doctor Reinsch was born in Milwaukee in 1869, was educated in Berlin, Rome and Paris and began his college career in the University of Wisconsin in 1899.

Miss Inez Milholland, the New York suffragist, was married in London to Eugene Boissevain, a wealthy Dutchman, whose home is in Amsterdam. Inez Milholland is the daughter of John Milholland, a wealthy New York lawyer, and is herself a practicing lawyer with offices in the financial district, New York. She has been prominent in woman's suffrage work since her graduation from Vassar. She has apeared in her professional capacity in legal cases affecting the condition of working girls.

A plot to assassinate President Huerta, General Felix Dias and General Blanquet, the war minister, has been frustrated by the arrest of one deputy and ten others of prominence. It is said the intention was to use bombs at some opportune moment when these officials were driving through the streets. Documents were found on the prisoners identifying them as supporters of Zapata and setting forth an outline of the plot. Several of the prisoners have confessed. In a building somewhat remotely located they had practiced the throwing of bombs, studying the effect.

Four thousand rebels from Nan King (province of Kiang-Sue, China) who had crossed the Yang-Tuo-Kiang, to attack the northerners, met defeat at the hands of 2,000 loyal troops near Suchowfu, in the northwestern part of Kiang-Su province, a short distance across the northern border of Anhwei province. Doctor Sun Yat Sen, former provisional president of the republic, finally has taken sides in the revolt by openly proceeding to Nanking, where the southerners are much disheartened by their defeat.

Both Turkey and Roumania are rapidly pushing the occupation of as much Bulgarian territory as possible, not ostensibly with a view to permanent occupation, but in order to procure for themselves a weightier voice in the final settlement. King Charles of Roumania has gone to join his army headquarters.

In response to appeals from the inhabitants who reside along Duck Creek, Ohio, covering an area of from 15 to 30 miles, a carload of provisions was sent from Marietta, Ohio. Hundreds of persons are homeless in the Duck creek valley. According to information received, about one hundred homes were washed away following the cloudburst and heavy rains. The streams are all receding now.

Rcihard Allen, aged 58, said to be a prosperous farmer of New Madrid, Mo., is in jail at Louisville, Ky., and will resume his journey to the state penitentiary at Frankfort to serve a two-year sentence pronounced upon him twenty-six years ago for killing Deputy Sheriff Charles Tucker at Liberty, Ky. After his conviction twenty-six years ago, Allen escaped from the jail at Liberty and had not been heard from until recognized recently in Missouri by relatives of Tucker.

Accused of buying pretty Anna Gorzo, 16 years old, from her mother for $30 and then shipping her to Phillipsburg, N. J., Henry Herzog and Paul Boy were arrested charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Mrs. Margaret Gorzo, the mother, asserted that the men who boarded at her home so poisoned her mind against Anna that she was willing to sell the girl. Later Mrs. Gorzo repented and went to the police with her story.

Henry A. Agena, an ordinary seaman, was fatally scalded and James Leary, a first class electrician, was badly injured when a steam valve blew cut in the dynamo room of the battleship Nebraska in the dry dock at the Charleston navy yard, Boston. Agena was working as an electrician's helper with Leary when the accident occurred and was immediately removed to the United States naval hospital at Chelsea. He died later.

Washington

President Wilson ended a lot of speculation by sending to the senate the name of Joseph S. Davis of Albany, Georgia, as marshal for the southern district of Georgia. Ever since Senator Bacon announced the selection of Mr. Davis for this place there had been very positive predictions that he would never be accepted by the department of justice or the president.

A large number of nominations of consular officers will be transmitted to the senate soon. The list will include many of the names contained in the slate which failed of confirmation at the close of the Taft administration. It is said this list will be the first demonstration of the purpose of President Wilson to continue the application of civil service principles in the consular service, as many of the officers named for promotion are either Republicans or of unknown political affiliations.

The American reply to the last two Japanese notes on the Californian alien land law was delivered by Secretary Bryan to Ambassador Chinda, who at once cabled it to Tokio. As in the case of the preceding notes, contents of the latest one were withheld from publication. There is some expectation in official circles that the delivery of this last note will conclude the negotiations on this subject between the two countries, for the present at least, if not altogether. The result has been reached through the exchange of five notes, negotiations beginning May 8, last.

Administration officials at Washington admitted that the situation in Mexico and diplomatic inquiries over Europe as to what the attitude of this country would be toward its neighbor on the south were engaging their deepest attention. Secretary Bryan had a conference with President Wilson and the foremost subject before them was the Mexican problem. Earlier at had been discussed at length at the cabinet meeting. It is stated that European diplomats stationed in Mexico have sent to their respective governments identical notes in which the United States' position is declared.

Representatives of the 80,000 conductors and trainmen of Eastern railways who have voted to strike for higher wages and managing officers of the railroads agreed at the white house in Washington to submit their differences to arbitration under the provisions of the Newlands-Clayton act which President Wilson and congressional leaders promised to make law.

After a ten-year contest the government has granted permission for automobiles to enter Yellowstone National park, and army officers are now working to widen the approaches to the "loop," which constitutes the main thoroughfare through the park. As the work is being done under the direction of the war department, Secretary Garrison will visit the park in connection with his forthcoming trip of inspection of Western army posts. The approaches which are to be widened are those leading to the "loop" from the south, to east and west. Thus ends a long-drawn-out controversy.

ENGINEER, SCALDING, CUTS OWN THROAT.

Decatur.—Crushed by an overturned engine and slowly scalding, Huston Fleming, an engineer, begged bystanders to kill him and cut his own throat when his entreaties were refused. Floyd Hamlin, of Columbia, Tenn., an air inspector, also lost his life as a result of the same accident. The men were trying out a new engine in the Decatur yards of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad when a switch engine ran into the locomotive, knocking it from the tracks.

Oil Stored With Water.

A new hydraulic method of storing petrol or gasoline is credited with important advantages. The unused space in the storage tank is kept always filled with water, and a simple pumping mechanism causes the water to force the oil out as required.

In refilling the tank the water is drained away. The two liquids do not mix, the light oil always floating on top; there is no loss from evaporation, as there is no gas to escape on refilling, and the oil is preserved unchanged for any length of time.

FORGOT DESIRE TO QUESTION

Chairman's Reception of Would-Be Interrogator Somehow Discovered the Rest of Them.

At a political meeting in a certain New South Wales gold-mining district the chair was taken by an athletic miner. The candidate during his speech was much interrupted by hootings and rough chaff, and his chairman was soon in a state of boiling indignation. Smothering his wrath, however, he pacified the "boys" by assuring them that at the end of the candidate's speech they should be at liberty to put any question they chose. Accordingly, at the end of the harangue he arose and inquired in stentorian tones and in a rich Irish brogue: "His inny gintleman a question to airsk?" A stout little Welsh miner, who had been a conspicuous disturber of the peace of the evening, shuffled slowly up the steps of the platform. But at the top he was met by the chairman, who, without the slightest warning, delivered a terrific left-and-righter, and sent the Welshman sprawling on his back. "Now," roared the chairman, "has inny other gintleman a question to airsk?"—and there was no response.

Negligence Called Manslaughter.

The case of Stehr vs. State before the supreme court of Nebraska involved the sentence of a father for from one to ten years in the penitentiary for criminal negligence, because during a blizzard in Nebraska, when the weather was bitter cold, he permitted the fire to go out, snow drifted through a crack in the door and a broken windowpane and the bedding of all the members of the family was frozen stiff. The feet of one of the children were frozen, and although such fact was apparent to the father no physician was called in for sixteen days, when amputation was found to be necessary and the child died of blood poisoning. The defendant was convicted of manslaughter for criminal negligence in failing to provide medical care after he discovered the frozen condition of the child's feet. In affirming the conviction the court held that for a parent having special charge of an infant child culpably to neglect it so that death ensues as a consequence is manslaughter, although death or grievous bodily harm was not intended, and if the parent has not the means for the child's nurture it is his duty to apply to the public authorities for relief.

CLOUDED BRAIN

Clears Up on Change to Proper Food.

The brain cannot work with clearness and accuracy, if the food taken is not fully digested, but is retained in the stomach to ferment and form poisonous gases, etc. A dull, clouded brain is likely to be the result.

A Mich. lady relates her experience in changing her food habits, and results are very interesting:

"A steady diet of rich, greasy foods such as sausage, buckwheat cakes and so on, finally broke down a stomach and nerves that, by inheritance, were sound and strong, and medicine did no apparent good in the way of relief.

"My brain was clouded and dull and I was suffering from a case of constipation that defied all remedies used.

"The 'Road to Wellville,' in some providential way, fell into my hands, and may Heaven's richest blessings fall on the man who was inspired to write it.

"I followed directions carefully, the physical culture and all, using Grape-Nuts with sugar and cream, leaving meat, pastry and hot biscuit entirely out of my bill of fare. The result—I am in perfect health once more.

"I never realize I have nerves, and my stomach and bowels are in fine condition. My brain is perfectly clear and I am enjoying that state of health which God intended his creatures should enjoy and which all might have, by giving proper attention to their food." BAD CASE OF DANDRUFF

Bissell, Ala.—"I had a very bad case of dandruff on my head. I was tormented by itching and my hair began to come out by the combfuls. I almost became frantic, fearful that I would lose all of my hair which was my pride. There were some pimples on my scalp and I scratched them until they made sores. My hair was dry and lifeless.

"I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent to my druggist for three cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I washed my scalp with warm water strong with the Cuticura Soap and dried, afterwards applying the Cuticura Ointment, working it in the scalp slowly with my fingers. After using them for several days my hair began to stop coming out. The dandruff all disappeared and in less than four weeks a cure was accomplished permanently." (Signed) Miss Lucy May.

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI. was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles. Her Ladyship dances with strange fisherman, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious Le Seigneur Noir. He escapes. Lady Elise is caught in the "Grand" tide. The Black Seigneur rescues and takes her to his retreat. Elise discovers that her savior was the boy with the fish. Sanchez, the Seigneur's servant, is arrested and brought before the governor. Lady Elise has Sanchez set free. Seigneur and a priest at the "Cockles." Sanchez tells Desaurac that Lady Elise betrayed him, but is not believed. The Seigneur plans to release prisoners at the Mount. Lady Elise pleads with her father to spare the lives of condemned prisoners.

CHAPTER XIV.—(Continued.)

"No, no!" she cried. "I didn't mean—I didn't imply that. Of course not! Only," putting out her hands, "I try to understand, and—you have never taken me into your confidence, mon pere! You have been indulgent; denied me nothing, but—I don't want to feel the way I have felt the last week, as if——" quickly she stopped. "No doubt there are reasons—although I have puzzled; and if I knew! Can't you," abruptly, "treat me as one worthy of your confidence?"

"You!" he said with quiet irony. "Who—listen!"

The girl flushed. "I had to, because—"

"And who misrepresented facts, as in the case of—Saladin!"

"But—"

"How long," standing over her, "were you on the island?"

"I—don't know!"

"You don't?" His voice implied disbelief.

"Part of the time I was unconscious—"

"In the watch-tower with him!"

She made a gesture. "Would you rather—"

"What did he say?"

The girl's eyes that had been so steadfast, on a sudden wavered. "Nothing—much."

"And you? Nothing, too? Then how was the deception devised—the pact entered into—"

Her figure stiffened. "There was no pact."

"Treason, then? The law holds it treason to—"

"You are cruel; unjust!" she cried. "To me, as you were to him. That old man you had whipped! I wonder," impetuously, "if you are so to all of them, the people, the peasants. And if that is the reason they have only black looks for me—and hatred? As if they would like to curse us!"

He turned away. "I am very busy."

"Mon pere!"

He walked to the door.

"Then you won't—won't spare them?"

He opened wide the door. Still she did not move, until the sight of the commandant without, the curious glance he cast in their direction, decided her. Drawing herself up, she walked toward the threshold, and, bowing perfunctorily, with head held high, crossed it.

CHAPTER XV.

The Voice from the Group.

"No one from the household is allowed through without an order!"

"You will, however, let me pass."

"Because you have a pretty face?" The sentinel at the great gate separating the upper part of the Mount from the town, answered roughly. "Not you, my girl, or—"

But she who importuned raised the sides of the ample linen head-dress and revealed fully her countenance.

"My Lady!" Half convinced, half incredulous, the soldier looked; stared; at features, familiar, yet seeming different, with the rebellious golden hair smoothed down severely above; the figure garbed in a Norman peasant dress, made for a costume dance when the nobles and court ladies had visited the Mount.

"You do not doubt who I am?" Imperiously regarding him.

"No, my Lady; only—"

"Then open the gate!" she commanded.

The man pushed back the ponderous bolts; pressed outward the mass of oak and iron, and, puzzled, surprised, watched the girl slip through. Of course it was none of his affair, my lady's caprice, and if she chose to go masquerading among the people on such a day, when all the idle vagabonds made pretext to visit the Mount, her right to do so remained unquestioned; but, as he closed the heavy door, he shook his head. Think of the risk! Who knew what might happen in the event of her identity being revealed to certain of those in that heterogeneous concourse without? Even at the moment through an aperture for observation in the framework to which he repaired upon adjusting the fastenings, he could see approaching a procession of noisy fanatics.

The apprehension of the soldier was, however, not shared by the girl, who, glad she had found a means to get away from the chilling atmosphere of her own world, experienced now only a sense of freedom and relief. In her tense mood, the din—the shouting and unwonted sounds—were not calculated to alarm; on the contrary, after the oppressive stillness in the great halls and chambers of the summit, they seemed welcome. Her pulses throbbed and her face still burned with the remembrance of the interview with her father, as she eyed unseelingly the approaching band, led by censer- and banner-bearers.

"Vierge notre esperance—" Caught up as they swept along, she found herself without warning suddenly a part of that human stream. A natural desire to get clear from the multitude led her at first to struggle, but as well contend with the inevitable. Faces fierce, half-crazed, encompassed her; eyes that looked starved, spiritually and physically, gleamed on every side. Held as in a vise, she soon ceased to resist; suddenly deposited on a ledge, like a shell tossed up from the sea, she next became aware she was looking up toward a temporary altar, garish with bright colors.

"Etends sur nous—" Louder rose the voices; more uncontrollable became the demeanor of the people, and quickly, before the unveiling of the sacred relics had completely maddened them, she managed to extricate herself from the kneeling or prostrate throng; breathless, she fled the vicinity.

Down, down! Into the heart of the village; through tortuous footpaths, where the pandering, not pietistic, element held sway; where, instead of shrines and altars, had been erected booths and stands before which vendors of nondescript viands or poor trumpery vented their loquacity on the pilgrims:

"All hot! All hot!"

"A la barque! A l'ecaille!"

"La vie! Two drinks for a liard!"

"Voila le plaisir des dames!"

The Mount, in olden times a glorious and sacred place for royal pilgrimages, where kings came to pray and seek absolution, seemed now more mart than holy spot. But those whom the petty traders sought to entice—sullen-looking peasants, or poorly clad fishermen and their families—for the most part listened indifferently, or with stupid derision.

"Bah!" scoffed one of them, a woman dressed in worn-out costume of inherited holiday finery. "Where think you we can get sous for gewgaws?"

"Or full stomachs with empty pockets?" said another. "The foul fiend take your Portugals!"

The nomadic merchants replied and a rough altercation seemed impending, when, pushing through the crowd, the girl hurried on.

Down, down, she continued; to the base of the rock where the sand's shining surface had attracted and yet held many of the people. Thither they still continued to come—in bands; processions; little streams that, trickling in, mingled with and augmented the rabble. An encampment for the hour—until the "petite" tide should break it up, and drive it piecemeal to the shore or up the sides of the Mount—it spread out and almost around the foundations of the great rock. Only the shadows it avoided—the chilling outlines of pinnacles and towers; the cold impress of the saint, holding close to the sunlit strand and basking in its warmth.

Some, following the example of their sea-faring fellows, dug half-heartedly in the sands in the hope of eking out the meager evening meal with a course, salt-flavored; others, abandoning themselves to lighter employment, made merry in heavy or riotous fashion, but the effect of these holiday efforts was only depressing and incongruous.

"Won't you join?" Some one's arm abruptly seized my lady.

"No, no!"

Unceremoniously he still would have drawn her into the ring, but with a sudden swift movement, she escaped from his grasp.

"My child!" The voice was that of a wolfish false friar who, seeing her pass quickly near by, broke off in threat, solicitation and appeal for sous, to intercept her. "Aren't you in a hurry, my child?"

"It may be," she answered steadily, with no effort to conceal her aversion at sight of the gleaming eyes and teeth. "Too much so, to speak with you, who are no friar!"

"What mean you?" His expression, ingratiating before, had darkened, and from his mean eyes shot a malignant look; she met it with fearless disdain.

"That you make pretext of this holy day to rob the people—as if they are not poor enough!"

"Ban you with bell, book and candle! Your tongue is too sharp, my girl!" he snarled, but did not linger long, finding the flashing glance, the contemptuous mien, or the truth of her words, little to his liking. That he profited not by the last, however, was soon evident, as with amulets and talismans for a bargain, again he moved among the crowd, conjuring by a full calendar of saints, real and imaginary, and professing to excommunicate, in an execrable confusion of monkish gibberish, where the people could not, or would not comply with his demands.

"So they are—poor enough!" Leaning on a stick, an aged fishwife who had drawn near and overheard part of the dialogue between the thrifty rogue and the girl, now shook her withered head. "Yet still to be cozened! Never too poor to be cozened!" she repeated in shrill falsetto tones.

"And why," sharply my lady turned to the crone, "why are they so poor? The lands are rich—the soil fertile."

"Why?" more shrilly. "You must come from some far-off place not to know. Why? Don't you, also, have to pay metayage to some great lord? And banalite here, and banalite there, until—"

"But surely, if you applied to your great lord, your Governor; if you told him—"

"If we told him!" Brokenly the woman laughed. "Yes; yes; of course; if—"

"I don't understand," said the Governor's daughter coldly.

Muttering and chuckling, the woman did not seem to hear; had started to hobble on, when abruptly the girl stopped her.

"Where do you live?"

"There!" A claw-like finger pointed. "On the old Seigneur's lands—a little distance from the woods—"

"The old Seigneur? You knew him?"

"Knew him! Who better?" The whitened head wagged. "And the Black Seigneur? Wasn't he left, as a child, with me, when the old Seigneur went to America? And," pursing her thin lips, "didn't I care for him, and bring him up as one of my own?"

"But I thought—I heard that he, the Black Seigneur, when a boy, lived in the woods."

"That," answered the old creature, "was after. After the years he lived with us and shared our all! Not that we begrudged—no, no! Nor he! For once when I sent word, pleading our need, that we were starving, he forgave—I mean, remembered me—all I had done and," in a wheedling voice, "sent money—money—"

"He did?" Swiftly the girl reached for her own purse, only to discover she had forgotten to bring one. "But of course," in a tone of disappointment at her oversight, "he couldn't very well forget or desert one who had so generously befriended him."

"There are those now among his friends he must needs desert," the crone cackled, wagging her head.

A shadow crossed the girl's brow. "Must needs?" she repeated.

"Aye, forsooth! His comrades—taken prisoners near the island of Casque? His Excellency will hang them till they're dead—dead, like some I've seen dangling from the branches in the wood. He, the Black Seigneur, may wish to save them; but what can he do?"

"What, indeed?" The girl regarded the Mount almost bitterly. "It is impregnable."

"Way there!" At that moment, a deep, strong voice from a little group of people, moving toward them, interrupted.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Mountebank and the People.

In the center walked a man, dressed as a mountebank, who bent forward, laden with various properties—a bag that contained a miscellany of spurious medicines and drugs, to be sold from a stand, and various dolls for a small puppet theater he carried on his back. It was not for the Governor's daughter, or the old woman, however, his call had been intended. "Way there!" he repeated to those in front of him.

But they, yet seeking to detain, called out: "Give the piece here!"

Like a person not lightly turned from his purpose, he, strolling-player as well as charlatan, pointed to the Mount, and, unceremoniously thrusting one person to this side and another to that, stubbornly pushed on. As long as they were in sight the girl watched, but when with shouts and laughter they had vanished, swallowed by the shifting host, once more she turned to the crone. That person, however, had walked on toward the shore, and indecisively the Governor's daughter gazed after. The woman's name she had not inquired, but could find out later; that would not be difficult, she felt sure.

Soon, with no definite thought of where she was going, she began to retrace her steps, no longer experiencing that earlier over-sensitive perception for details, but seeing the picture as a whole—a vague impression of faces; in the background, the Mount—its golden saint ever threatening to strike!—until she drew closer; when abruptly the uplifted blade, a dominant note, above color and movement, vanished, and she looked about to find herself in the shadow of one of the rock's bulwarks. Near by, a scattering approach of pilgrims from the sands narrowed into a compact stream directed toward a lower gate, and, remembering her experience above, she would have avoided the general current; but no choice remained. At the portals she was jostled sharply; no respecters of persons, these men made her once more feel what it was to be one of the great commonalty; an atom in the rank and file! At length reaching the tower's little square, many of them stopped, and she was suffered to escape—to the stone steps swinging sharply upward. She had not gone far, however, when looking down, she was held by a spectacle not without novelty to her.

In the shadow of the Tower of the King stood the mountebank she had seen but a short time before on the sands. Now facing the people before his little show-house, which he had set up in a convenient corner, he was calling attention to the entertainment he proposed giving, by a loud beating on a drum.

Rub-a-dub-dub! "Don't crowd too close!" Rub-a-dub-dub! "Keep order and you will see—"

"Some trumpery miracle mystery!" called out a jeering voice.

"Or the martyrdom of some saint!" cried another.

"I don't know anything about any saint," answered the man, "unless,"—rub-a-dub-dub!—"you mean my lord's lady!"

And truly the piece, as they were to discover, was quite barren of that antique religious flavor to which they objected and which still pervaded many of the puppet plays of the day. The Petit Masque of the Wicked Peasant and the Good Noble, it was called; and odd designation that at once interested the Lady Elise, bending over the stone balustrade the better to see. It interested, also, those official guardians of the peace, a number of soldiers and a few officers from the garrison standing near, who unmindful of the girl, divided their attention between the pasteboard center of interest and the people gathered around it.

Circumspectly the little play opened; a scene in which my lord, in a waistcoat somewhat frayed for one of his station, commands the lazy peasant to beat the marsh with a stick that the croaking of the frogs may not disturb at night the rest of his noble spouse, seemed designed principally to show that obedience, submission and unquestioning fealty were the great lord's due. On the one hand, was the patrician born to rule; on the other, the peasant, to serve; and no task, however onerous, but should be gladly welcomed in behalf of the master, or his equally illustrious lady. The dialogue, showing the disinclination of the bad peasant for this simple employment and the good lord's noble solicitude for the nerves of his high-born spouse, was both nimble and witty; especially those bits punctuated by a cane, and the sentiment: "Thus all bad peasants deserve to fare!" and culminating in an excellent climax to the lesson—a tattoo on the peasant's head that sent him simultaneously, and felicitously, down with the curtain.

"What think you of it?" At my lady's elbow one of the officers turned to a companion.

"Amusing, but—" And his glance turned dubiously toward the people. Certainly they did not now show proper appreciation either for the literary merits of the little piece or the precepts it promulgated in fairly sounding verse.

"The mountebank!" From the crowd a number of discontented voices rose. "Come out, Monsieur Mountebank!"

"Yes, Monsieur Mountebank, come out; come out!"

With fast-beating heart the Lady Elise gazed; as in a dream had she listened—not to the lines of the puppet play; but to a voice—strangely familiar, yet different—ironical; scoffing; laughing! She drew her breath quickly; once more studied the head, in its white, close-fitting clown's covering; the heavy, painted face, with red, gaping mouth. Then, the next moment, as he bowed himself back—apparently unmindful of a missile some one threw and which struck his little theater—the half-closed, dull eyes met hers; passed, without sign or expression!—and she gave a nervous little laugh. What a fancy!

"Act second!" the tinkling of a bell prefaced the announcement, and once more was the curtain drawn, this time revealing a marsh and the bad peasant at work, reluctantly beating the water to the Song of the Stick.

"Beat! beat!
At his lordship's command;
For if there's a croak,
For you'll be the stroke,
From no gentle hand."

A merry little tune, it threaded the act; it was soon interrupted, however, during a scene where a comical-looking devil on a broomstick, useful both for transportation and persuasion, came for something which he called the peasant's soul. Again the bad peasant protested; would cheat even the devil of his due, but his satanic Majesty would not be set aside.

World That Was New to Her.

Tommy Conovan, a property man in Cleveland, possesses among his personal "props" a number of amusing stories. This is one of them:

"I used to be on the door at the Lyceum. One night when Joseph Murphy was playing there an old Irish lady approached with a ticket in her hand. Evidently she had never been in a playhouse before and was somewhat bewildered. She watched the line passing by me and listened as I called out 'upstairs' or 'downstairs' according to the tickets handed me. Finally she slowly approached and gave me her coupon.

"'Upstairs,' I called.

"'Whisper,' she said, as she leaned toward me, 'can you tell me on what floor I can see Joseph Murphy?'"

Bird Slaughter Condemned.

A strong protest is being made in South Australia against the continual slaughter of such rare birds as the ibis, the egret, cranes and spoonbills to supply the demands of milliners. The slaughter is objectionable not only as destroying some of the most beautiful and interesting creatures of nature, but, according to the Journal of Agriculture, also as rendering South Australia ever more prone to plagues of grasshoppers, and is a prime cause of the decline of its fish resources. As the wandering birds disappear the crustaceans that destroy fish spawn increase the multitude.

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

Housework is hard enough for a healthy woman. The wife who has a bad back, who is weak or tired all the time, finds her duties a heavy burden.

Thousands of nervous, discouraged, sickly women have traced their troubles to sick kidneys — have found quick and thorough relief through using Doan's Kidney Pills.

The painful, trying times of woman's life are much easier to bear if the kidneys are well.

A North Carolina Case

Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson, Statesville, N. C., says: "I suffered acutely from bladder inflammation and almost total suppression of kidney secretions. My usual weight was 140 lbs., but I had run down to 90. Doctors said an operation was my only hope, but I would not consent and was given up to die. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me completely."

"I want my money back for these here socks," said the man as he handed the clerk a package. "The sign you had up said the socks was guaranteed for three months.'

"Well, what's the matter with the socks?" asked the clerk.

"I only wore them three weeks, and I had to take them off and buy another pair because this pair had holes in the toes," replied the man.

Overdid It.

"What's the matter?" asked the lawyer's friend. "Been in a railroad accident?"

"No. I had a jury case the other day, and I argued so elaborately for the purpose of making it appear that my client was a fool instead of a knave that I got him acquitted on that plea."

What Made Him Sick.

Certainly public employes who have to submit daily to a rapid fire of well-meant but needless questions may be excused if they occasionally turn upon their persecutors. An elevator boy, in the New York Tribune, was one of the victims.

"Don't you ever feel sick going up and down in this elevator all day?" a fussy lady asked him.

"Yes, ma'am," courteously replied the elevator boy.

"Is it the motion going down?" pursued the lady.

"No, ma'am."

"The going up?"

"No, ma'am."

"Is it the stopping that does it?"

"No, ma'am."

"Then what is it?"

"Answering questions, ma'am."

Entered April 15, 1903, at Clanton, Ala., as second-class matter, under act of congress of March 3, 1879.

Some of the State officials over in Mississippi seem to have gotten in bad.

Secretary Bryan has cancelled several dates and will return to Washington to confer with Ambassador Wilson.

The campaign for the various candidates for Governor is beginning to warm up in some sections of the State.

A good rain visited Clanton and Chilton County Sunday afternoon, which makes the already good crops hump.

How to handle the boll weevil and other infectious plagues is the subject of much experimenting these days.

Governor Sulzer of New York says he can live on $1.25 per day. Some difference between his mode of living and that of Secretary of State Bryan. Eh!

The Commissioners race in Birmingham is warming up. Some of his friends think Geo. B. Ward, former Mayor of Birmingham, has a good show. A man's friends in a contest of that kind always see the bright side.

Every citizen in the county should give a helping hand on good road days, which are August 15th and 16th. Good roads make good citizens and good property. Two days could not be spent better for the whole people.

The Legislative Reference Committee of the Progressive National Service, and to Progressive members of Congress, have been busily engaged for three months in the preparation of tentative drafts of bills for the Congressional program. A program of eleven measures was adopted.

The Progressives of Portland, Oregon, have just won a smashing victory in the election of H. R. Albee to be to be the first mayor of that city under the new charter. Technically it was a nonpartisan election, but the facts show an unmistakable victory for the Progressives.

The school proposition in the state at large perhaps does not receive as much attention from the law makers as it should. However, each year the legislature is in session it adds a little. Well, every little bit helps, and it is to be hoped that at last Alabama will get up with other states along that line.

"Behind the ostensible government sits enthroned an invisible government, owing no allegience aud acknowledging no responsibility to the people," declares the Progressive National Platform. The trail of this invisible government in and out of the halls of congress and elsewhere about the National Capital and throughout the country seems at last to have been uncovered partly at least, through the astounding confession of Col. Mulhall who was for years one of its active agents in Washington and elsewhere.

The more the Diggs-Caminetti white slave case develops the worse it becomes for President Wilson and the cabinet members involved. Indeed, another cabinet member, none other than William J. Bryan himself, has now involved himself in it by coming voluntarily to the defense of Attorney-General McReynolds and Secretary of Labor Wilson, as well as the Commissioner General of Immigration, Mr. Caminetti, father of one of the defendants.

The thriving little town of Greensboro has advanced a step, and a long step at that, toward progress. On the twentieth it opened the doors of a public library. The scheme was handled by the "Poets Circle," assisted by Miss Martha Young and the members of the "Kit Kat Club."

We understand that some few people are considering seriously the County High School proposition. This is a matter that should concern every friend of education in Chilton. The writer, being a new comer and not conversant with existing conditions, does not claim to know the best means by which the state's requirements are to be met. But coming from a county that has the school and seeing the service rendered by it, we predict a great good to the county should the school be constructed.

From a financial standpoint it will be a paying proposition to any town or community. The State will pay over $3,000 in teachers' salaries to be spent, you might say, where they are received. The people of the different sections of the county would move in near the school to educate their children. This would necessitate the buying of small tracts of land, erecting houses, and an uplift along general lines.

The executive committe of the Progressive National Committee met at Progressive National headquarters, New York City, on Friday, May the twenty-third, and devoted two days to considering reports from the several departments of its organization. At the conclusion of the meeting the following statement was issued by Walter F. Brown, Chairman of the committee on organization:

Reports from every part of the country show conclusively that there is no sentiment among the Progressives for any kind of party amalgamation. On the contrary the reports are unanimous that Progressives everywher resent all such suggestions, and refuse to act with any other party. Republican politicians in various parts of the country are proposing milk and water reforms and talking merger. Having, by hook and crook, acquired the complete control of their party organizations, of course they are now seeking votes to place them in power. Such votes will not be cast by Progressives.

"Since the first of the year more than five thousand Progressive party clubs have been organized, and this work will be continued with increasing vigor. The funds for organization work are being contributed in small sums from practically every state in the Union and the volume of support is steadily increasing. In every state where a United States Senator is to be elected next year, the Progressive party will have its own party candidate. It will also have its own party candidates in every state and in every congressional district. By arousing public opinion, the Progressives have forced several legislatures to adopt Progressive measures. The Progressive party will continue its fight as a distinct party organization for every plank in its platform, until it is enacted into law."

THE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL.

When it comes to politics this paper proposes to stand for its party and its principles, but we do not believe that politics should enter into social, educational or religious affairs to the extent that the welfare of the whole people goes wanting. Such a state of affairs we believe does not exist in this county. We believe our citizens will all join hands and hearts on a question common to all, and pull together for the betterment of each citizen and his offspring.

There is one question now before the people of Chilton county, which is of vital importance to each and every citizen, and that is securing, establishing and maintaining a County High School.

Not only does the progress of modern times demand it; not only does the welfare of every citizen demand it; but the rising generation demands that this school be a fixture in the good old county of Chilton.

The great state of Alabama has provided a law by which this institution of learning can be had by every county, and most of the counties have taken hold of the proposition. Why should Chilton be in the back ground along this line? There IS no reason why. It only takes the concerted efforts of the citizens to get this school.

If the whole citizenship will join hands on this one purpose we wager the proposition that the school will be forthcoming, and when we do establish it, it is not for a day or a season only, but will be a lasting good to the generations to come. This is one proposition which is common to all. The benefits to be derived are shared by the whole people. We owe it to the boys and girls growing up in the county of Chilton to see to it that this school be provided for them.

GOOD ROADS NOTICE.

Whereas, the Alabama Good Roads Association has designated August 15th and 16th as annual Good Roads Days, and

Whereas, Governor O'Neal has issued his proclamation naming said days as "Good Roads Days" to be observed in every County in Alabama.

Therefore I, E. B. Deason, as Probate Judge of Chilton county desire to join in this movement by calling upon the people of our County, irrespective of age and location to observe these days by assisting in working the roads of our County.

Hoping much good may come of this movement, I am

Respectfully,

Judge of Probate.

USE OF CALOMEL PRACTICALLY STOPPED

Dangerous Drug Giving Way for Safer, More Reliable Remedy.

Hundreds of people in this vicinity alone have stopped the use of dangerous calomel when their liver is acting slowly, and take Dodson's Liver Tone instead.

Dodson's Liver Tone is always safe and has none of the bad after-effects which so often follow the use of calomel. It is a pleasant tasting vegetable liquid that starts the liver gently and surely, and relieves constipation and biliousness and causes no restriction of habit or diet.

Many preparations have sprung up that imitate the claims made for Dodson's Liver Tone, but remember Dodson's Liver Tone is the tried and tested remedy that has proven such a good medicine and so satisfactory to every user—is the reason these imitations are on the market.

Dodson's Liver Tone cannot hurt any one and if it fails to do all that is claimed for it Alread who sells it, will give your money back.

Hunts Hares With Auto.

Sport in a new form now appeals to a New Zealand farmer. Driving in a motor car with two powerful headlights, he bags nightly between six and a dozen hares, the animals being so fascinated by the glare of the lamps that they become stationary targets.

They Know All About Us.

A French writer says that Americans use a coal-black china dinner service when in mourning.

OPEN SEASON FOR DOVES WILL BEGIN ON AUGUST 1

Wardens Urged by Wallace to Enforce Game Laws of The State

John H. Wallace, Jr., State Game and Fish Commissioner, has addressed special instructions to all the game and fish wardens of the State, directing their attention to the fact that the open season on doves will begin on August 1, and admonishing the wardens and their deputies to be on guard for the purpose of apprehending all persons who may shoot doves out of season, hunt without linenses or violate any other of the provisions of the game and fish law. The Commissioner especially inveighs against the barbarous practice of baiting doves. His special instructions to the various county wardens of the State are as follows:

"The season on doves will open August 1. You are admonished to be on guard in order to apprehend all persons who may seek to shoot these birds, just prior to the expiration of the closed season. See to it that all persons who hunt doves after the 1st of August are duly equipped with hunters' licenses and otherwise conform to the provisions of our game conservation statutes. Dove-shooting is esteemed as a great sport in the South altho' in many States of the Union doves are considered as a none-game bird. See too it therefore that the bag limit of twenty-five doves per day is not violated by any hunter. Post your deputies in every part of your county and caution them to be on the look-out for those who may attempt to spread grain or other food for the purpose of attracting or baiting doves. Dove-baiting is a relic of barbarism. The practice has been largely stopped in the past, and this season heroic efforts will be taken by the department of game and fish in order to stamp it entirely out.

"When convinced that the law has been violated in any particular, swear out a warrant immediately against the defendant and spare no pains in bringing the guilty party to justice. Be on the lookout for persons who may attempt to violate the fish law by using seines and other illicit devices for the purpose of taking fish. Instruct your deputies to exercise that same degree of diligence that this Department will expect of you in compelling a strict observance of the laws for the protection of wild life and for the preservation of fish."

We publish the above taken from the Montgomery and which will be of information perhaps as regards the game laws.

ARE YOU SURE

you are giving your stock the right kind of care? You know the dangers of summer heat and how important it is that your work stock should have the proper attention during this hot weather. They should have plenty of salt, as salt is cooling and healing to over-heated and inflamed membranes of the stomach and bowels. Nothing will serve this purpose so well as Blackman's Medicated Salt Brick and every man whose stock is exposed to the summer's heat should use it.—Guaranteed.

Libby's Veal Loaf
A Picnic Favorite

Good at home, too. So handy for a dainty lunch when you don't want to cook a meal. As a Sandwich Meat it has no equal; there are a dozen other Libby Luncheon Specialties at your grocers. Get acquainted with them. Try Libby's Veal Loaf fried: Cut the contents of one can of Veal Loaf into quarter-inch slices. Fry golden brown in small quantity of butter. Garnish with cress.

SAW OPPORTUNITY FOR JOKE

President Taft's Reply to Request Had Secretary of War on the Anxious Seat.

William H. Taft, when he was president, never overlooked an opportunity for a joke. In the closing months of his administration Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of war, wrote Mr. Taft a very urgent request that he give a friend of Stimson a certain federal position.

Mr. Taft wrote to Stimson as follows:

"My Dear Stimson: I am very sorry I cannot do anything for your friend in response to your letter of today. I would like to accommodate you, but it is impossible. Sincerely yours,

"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

Under that he wrote:

"Turn over."

Then Mr. Stimson read on the other side of the paper:

"I couldn't do it today because I gave the fellow the job yesterday."—Popular Magazine.

French View of Women.

The life of a woman can be divided into three epochs; in the first she dreams of love, in the second she experiences it, in the third she regrets it.—Antoine Jean Casse de Saint Prosper.

Legal Opinion.

"A cat sits on my back fence every night, and he yowls and yowls and yowls. Now, I don't want to have any trouble with Neighbor Jones, but this thing has gone far enough, and I want you to tell me what to do?"

The young lawyer looked as solemn as an old, sick owl, and said not a word.

"I have a right to shoot the cat, haven't I?"

"I would hardly say that," replied young Coke Blackstone. "The cat does not belong to you, as I understand it."

"No, but the fence does."

"Then," concluded the light of law, "I think it safe to say you have a perfect right to tear down the fence."

Original Sort of Ham.

A lady gave a luncheon recently and explained that she always cooked ham by the recipe used by Thomas Jefferson, which had been handed down in her family for years.

This recipe required that the ham be cooked for about two hours by simmering, but under no condition must it be allowed to boil.

A ham was on the stove, its destinies presided over by a young colored woman from up in the mountains.

"Jane," called the mistress of the house, "don't let that ham boil."

"No'um," replied Jane, "I ain't er gwine to boil no ham. It's on the stove now just a simpering!"

Not the Way.

An "advanced" woman tells the New York Tribune that "women are headed straight for trousers." We beg to inform the dear girl that the manner of approach must be reversed before the effort can be successful.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Some Girls Do.

"I wonder why all the girls in our set titter whenever they see me."

"I think your fiancee passes your love letters around, my boy."

Which Is Different.

"He says he is always outspoken in his wife's presence."

"He means outalked."

Many a man has been sold who didn't get his price.

TOOK ON DIFFERENT ASPECT

Somehow Antics of Playful Pups on Second Morning Did Not Appeal to Mr. Knox.

The morning was young and beautiful and Mr. Knox stood at the side window and looked over into the next yard interestedly. He chuckled for sheer delight as he watched the antics of two little pups his neighbor had bought a few days before.

"Oh, Amy, come here and see these pups, over in Porter's yard," he called to Mrs. Knox, who was busily arranging the breakfast table. "Aren't they just having a circus? Bless 'em!" he went on, with all the effusiveness of a genuine dog lover. "Oh, look, Amy, they have taken the morning paper off the porch and each one has an end of it in his mouth, tussling with it. Is there anything in the world more cunning than a little pup?" His enthusiasm was running away with him. "I think, dearie, we will have to get a dog one of these days."

The next morning Mr. Knox arose, dressed and went down to bring in the morning paper, as was his habit. He was just in time to see the cunning little pups next door playfully tearing his paper into shreds and each vanishing around the house with a portion of it. He came back to the kitchen sullenly.

"Those blankety blang dogs next door have torn up the paper," he said, wtih no trace of his earlier enthusiasm.

Dull Boy.

"Thomas, you have disobeyed your grandmother."

"No, I didn't, mother."

"Yes, you did. Have you not been in swimming?"

"Yes, mother."

"Didn't I hear her say to you not to go in swimming?"

"Oh, she didn't tell me that. She only came out and said: 'Boys, I wouldn't go in swimming,' and I shouldn't think she would, an old rheumatic woman like her; but she didn't say anything about our going in swimming."

Made a Difference.

"Darn those cats!" "Don't shoot, Abner. I think the one with the contralto voice is our tabby."—Washington Herald.

When put to the test, some virtues are found to be thinly veneered.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN TORE HER CLOTHES

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Malone, N. Y., — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has certainly done me a lot of good. I first heard of it when I was a girl and I always said that if I ever had female trouble I would take it.

"I suffered from organic inflammation and would have spells when I would be in such pain that I would tear my clothes. One day my husband got the neighbors in to see what the matter was but they could not help me. My first thought was for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sent my husband out for it and took it until I was entirely cured. I am a woman of perfect health and my health and happiness came from Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. You may rest assured that I do all I can to recommend your wonderful medicine to my friends."—Mrs. Fred Stone, Route No. 3, Malone, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

What We Believe

The officials of the L. & N. do not, can not believe, that any considerable number of the good people of Alabama share the feeling of bitterness expressed against the L. & N. by certain individuals and newspapers.

The L. & N. supplies unexcelled service at reasonable rates.

The L. & N. has contributed, and continues to contribute, to the development and upbuilding of every enterprise in the State.

From the resorts along the gulf coast, through the fertile fields and farms, to the mountains rich in coal and iron, men of expert ability in the employ of the L. & N. have left the imprint of their constructive efforts.

The L. & N. is more dependent upon the territory through which its lines operate than that territory is dependent upon the L. & N. Consequently the L. & N. exerts its best efforts to conserve and promote the welfare of its territory.

The very life blood of the L. & N. comes from the farms, the mines and the manufacturing enterprises. The L. & N. is anxious to replenish as generously as lies in its power the resources it requires, to the end that a healthy circulation may be maintained to nourish growing industry.

We call upon the thoughtful citizens of Alabama to give careful consideration to the issues inyolved.

Insofar as the L. & N. injures the territory through which it operates, to the same extent will the L. & N. be injured.

Insofar as the territory through which it operates inflicts injury on the L. & N., to the same extent will the territory be injured.

This is a law of business.

The L. & N. seeks to be regarded as a co-worker for the general good. It will go to any reasonable, even generous ends, to promote the welfare of all the people.

But we submit that we know far better than can any individual or newspaper to what extent we can go in our work of development and sound rate making, and yet remain within the domain of good business. The operation of a railroad is our life work.

Emmett O'Neal Instantly Killed on Camping Trip

Emmett O'Neal, a Huntsville newspaper man, was shot and killed accidently by his friend while on a camping trip. The shot which killed came from a pistol in the hand of his dearest friend Fulghum Hall. Mr. Hall thinking the pistol was empty.

A sad feature of the tragedy was that O'Neal and Hall had just completed arrangements to be married in a double wedding within a few months and their fiancees were witnesses of the terrible accident.

Mr. O'Neal was a son of the editor of the Mercury-Banner.

County High School Assured.

Committee of Citizens is Appointed to Confer With State Board.

On Monday a body of representative citizens met the Town Council and County Commissioners, assembled for the purpose of finding out the best means of meeting the state's requirements in erecting a County High School building. After hearing various reasons why the school should be built, a very happy and easy solution seemed to present itself. It was decided that three agencies should aid in the undertaking: the county, the town, and the friends of education in the town and over the county. The agreement reached was that each of the said agencies should confribute one third to the cost of erection. A committee was appointed to meet the state Board in Montgomery, and ascertain what the state's demands would be. The committee is composed of the following gentlemen: Judge E. B. Deason, Judge L. H. Reynolds, Dr. E. A. Matthews, Hon. Moses Robinson, Hon. Tipton Mullins and Prof. J. J. Pickens.

Wedding at Thorsby

The fact that the people of Thorsby love one another has again been illustrated by the marriage at the home of the brides parents in Thorsby, at 4:30 p.m., on Wednesday when Miss Charlotte May Mastin, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. O. C. Mastin, and Mr. Phillip W. Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Horn, of Thorsby, were united in the bonds of matrimony by the Rev. S. H. Herbert. Only the immediate families of the contracting parties and two or three special friends attended the ceremony, and few knew that the wedding was to occur at this time. The bride wore a white satin gown trimmed with shadow lace, and was attended by her sister, Miss Ella Mastin.

Mr. and Mrs. Horn left Thorsby on the south bound train Wednesday evening leaving no address. After a brief absence they expect to return, and in the near future will make a new home in Thorsby, where Mr. Horn, like several other young men of the town, has become prominent in business with his father.

PEOPLE SHOULD GUARD AGAINST APPENDICITIS.

Clanton people who have stomach and bowel trouble should guard against appendicitis by taking simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-i-ka, the German remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. JUST ONE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY because this simple mixture draws off such a surprising amount of old foul matter from the body. Dog Day Warning Issued by Moss

State Bactercologist, Mr. P. B. Moss has issued a warning to all the people about the effect of dog days.

He advises that we watch the brutes carefully and if scratched or bitten by dogs to have an investigation and see that the dog is not rabid.

It seems that an epidemic of mad dogs has caused the warning.

Prof. J. A. Blankenship, of New Salem, was in this part of the country Sunday and Monday.

As it is probable that the singing at Rehoboth will be next Saturday, the local class at Waldrup's schoolhouse will meet next Sunday afternoon as usual, so the appointment is not canceled as per last week's Union-Banner.

Misses Mae and Neelie Waldrup, two of Union Springs' beautiful belles, were visiting in Bibb last week.

By the way, did you read Senator McCumber's speech on the tariff? It was a home trust, showing how the farmer will fare under low tariff; his products selling cheap, and wages must inevitably come low too.

Democratic papers are calling attention to the fact that business is not hurt yet. They must be thinking of the panicky times just before McKinley's administration. Oh! we know there is something to dread.

Miss Alphie Waldrup of Randolph is visiting here this week.

Mr. Rondy Busby of Providence was here Monday.

President Selects Negro Register of U. S. Treasury

Position Paying $4,000 a Year Seems Destined For Negro Race.

Washington, July 27.—There is one four thousand dollar office in this capital city that seems destined to have a negro glued to it indefinitely, unless the Senate should take a notion to refuse to confirm the nomination. For nearly twenty years now some fellow of African descent has been holding down that job. It is the position of Register of the Treasury.

There isn't much if any hard work in connedtion with the place, but the man who falls into the sinecure has the personal satisfaction of knowing that a facsimile of this signature appears on the paper money the American people and others tote around in their pockets. President Wilson sent to the Senate a few days ago the nomination of Adam E. Patterson of Oklahoma to be Register of the Treasury. No sooner had the list been posted than quick inquiry was being as to the possibility of the selection being a white man. Pattrrson is a negro lawyer of Muscogee, which is the home city of United States Senator, Robert Latham Owen.

On being asked if he had indorsed Patterson for Register, Senator Owen said that it was his understanding, as well as that of other Oklahoma Democrats that President Wilson and members of the cabinet had some weeks ago decided that this particular position should be set aside for the negro race, and that being the case they came to the conclusion that if the office was to be bestowed on a negro they would try to secure it for an Oklahoma negro, and they landed the prize. It is also understood that Senator Gore backed Patterson.

SYNOPSIS.

Comtesse Elise, daughter of the governor of the Mount, has chance encounter with a peasant boy. The "Mount," a small rock-bound island, stood in vast bay on the northwestern coast of France, and during the time of Louis XVI. was a government stronghold. Develops that the peasant boy was the son of Seigneur Desaurac, nobleman. Young Desaurac determines to secure an education and become a gentleman; sees the governor's daughter depart for Paris. Lady Elise returns after seven years' schooling, and entertains many nobles. Her Ladyship dances with strange fisherman, and a call to arms is made in an effort to capture a mysterious Le Seigneur Noir. He escapes. Lady Elise is caught in the "Grand" tide. The Black Seigneur rescues and takes her to his retreat. Elise discovers that her savior was the boy with the fish. Sanchez, the Seigneur's servant, is arrested and brought before the governor. Lady Elise has Sanchez set free. Seigneur and a priest at the "Cockles." Sanchez tells Desaurac that Lady Elise betrayed him, but is not believed. The Seigneur plans to release prisoners at the Mount. Lady Elise pleads with her father to spare the lives of condemned prisoners. Disguised as a peasant Lady Elise mingles with the people and hears some startling facts. A mysterious Mountebank starts a riot.

CHAPTER XVI.—(Continued.)

"You may rob your master," he said, in effect; "defraud him of banalite, bardage and those other few taxes necessary to his dignity and position; but you can't defraud Me!" Whereupon he proceeded to wrest what he wanted from the bad peasant by force—and the aid of the broomstick!—accompanying the rat-a-tat with a well-rhymed homily on what would certainly happen to every peasant who sought to deprive his lord of feudal rights. At this point a growing restiveness on the part of the audience found resentful expression.

"That for your devil's stick!"

"To the devil with the devil!"

"Down with the devil!"

The cry, once started, was not easy to stop; men in liquor and ripe for mischief repeated it; in vain the mountebank pleaded: "My poor dolls! My poor theater!" Unceremoniously they tumbled it and him over; a few, who had seen nothing out of the ordinary in the little play took his part; words were exchanged for blows, with many fighting for the sake of fighting, when into the center of this, the real stage, appeared soldiers.

"What does it mean?" Impressive in gold adornment and conscious authority, the commandant himself came down the steps. "Who dares make riot on a day consecrated to the holy relics? But you shall pay!" as the soldiers separated the belligerents. "Take those men into custody and—who is this fellow?" turning to the mountebank, a mournful figure above the wreckage of his theater and poor puppets scattered, haphazard, like victims of some untoward disaster.

"It was his play that started the trouble," said one of the officers.

"Diable!" the commandant frowned. "What have you to say for yourself?"

"I," began the mountebank, "I—" he repeated, when courage and words alike seemed to fail him.

The commandant made a gesture. "Up with him! To the top of the Mount!"

"No, no!" At once the fellow's voice came back to him. "Don't take me there, into the terrible Mount! Don't lock me up!"

"Don't lock him up!" repeated some one in the crowd, moved apparently by the sight of his distress. "It wasn't his fault!"

"No; it wasn't his fault!" said others.

"Eh?" Wheeling sharply, the commandant gazed; at the lowering faces that dared question his authority; then at his own soldiers. On the beach he might not have felt so secure, but here, where twenty, well-armed, could defend a pass and a mob batter their heads in vain against walls, he could well afford a confident front. "Up with you!" he cried sternly and gave the mountebank a contemptuous thrust.

For the first time the man's apathy seemed to desert him; his arm shot back like lightning, but almost at once fell to his side, while an expression, apologetically abject, as if to atone for that momentary fierce impulse, overspread his dull visage. "Oh, I'll go," he said in accents servile. And proceeded hurriedly to gather up the remains of his theater and dolls. "I'm willing to go."

CHAPTER XVII.

The Mountebank and the Hunchback.

Up the Mount with shambling step, ead down-bent and the same stupid pression on his face, the mountex went docilely, though not silentTo one of the soldiers at his side ke often, voicing that dull apion he had manifested when ed into custody.

his head lower, until, regarding him, his guardian must needs laugh. "Here's a craven-hearted fellow! Well, if you really want to know, they'll probably lock you up for the night with the rest of rag-tag," indicating the other prisoners, a short distance ahead, "in the cellar, or almonry, or auberge des voleurs; and in the morning, if you're lucky and the Governor has time to attend to such as you, it may be you'll escape with a few stripes and a warning."

"The auberge des voleurs!—the thieves' inn!" said the man. "What is that?"

"Bah! You want to know too much! If now your legs only moved as fast as your tongue—" And the speaker completed the sentence with a significant jog on the other's shoulders. Whereupon the mountebank quickened his footsteps, once more ceased his questioning. It was the soldier who had not yet spoken, but who had been pondering a good deal on the way up, who next broke the silence.

"How did it end, Monsieur Mountebank?—the scene with the devil, I mean."

The man who had begun to breathe hard, as one not accustomed to climbing, or wearied by a long pilgrimage to the Mount, at the question ventured to stop and rest, with a hand on the granite balustrade of the little platform they had just reached. "In the death of the peasant, and a comic chorus of frogs," he answered.

"A comic chorus!" said the soldier. "That must be very amusing."

"It is," the mountebank said, at the same time studying, from where he stood, different parts of the Mount with cautious, sidelong looks; "but my poor frogs!—all torn! trampled!"

"Well, well!" said the other not unkindly. "You can mend them when you get out."

"'When!' If I only knew when that would be! What if I should have to stay here like some of the others?—pour etre oublie!—to be forgotten?"

"If you don't get on faster," said the soldier who had first spoken, "you won't be buried alive for some time to come, at least!"

"Pardon!" muttered the mountebank. "The hill—it is very steep."

"You look strong enough to climb a dozen hills, and if you're holding back for a chance to escape—"

"No, no!" protested the man. "I had no thought—do I not know that if I tried, your sword—"

"Quite right. I'd—"

"There, there!" said the other soldier, a big, good-natured appearing fellow. "He's harmless enough, and," as once more they moved on, "that tune of yours, Monsieur Mountebank," abruptly; "it runs in my head. Let me see—how does it go? The second verse, I mean—"

"Beat! beat!
Mid marsh-muck and mire,
For if any note
frog's throat,
ire!'"

"Yes; that's the one. Not bad!" humming—

"For if any note
Escapes a frog's throat
Beawre my lord's ire!"

"Are the verses your own?"

"Oh, no! I'm only a poor player," said the mountebank humbly. "But an honest one," he added after a pause, "and this thieves' inn, Monsieur?" returning to the subject of his possible fate, "this auberge des voleurs—that sounds like a bad place for an honest lodging."

"It was once under the old monks, who were very merry fellows; but since the Governor had it restored, it has become a sober and quiet place. It is true there are iron bars instead of blinds, and you can't come and go, as they used to, but—"

"Is that it—up there?" And the mountebank pointed toward a ledge of rock, with strong flanking buttresses, outjutting beneath a mysterious-looking wall and poised over a sparsely-wooded bit of the lower Mount. "The gray stone building you can just see above the ramparts, and that opening in the cliff to the right, with something running down—that looks like planking—"

"Oh, that is for the wheel—"

"The wheel?"

"The great wheel of the Mount! It was built in the time of the monks, and was used for—"

"Hold your tongue!" said the other soldier, and the trio entered the great gate, which had opened at their approach, and now closed quickly behind them.

For the first time in that isolated domain of the dreaded Governor, the mountebank appeared momentarily to forget his fears and gazed with interest around him. On every side new and varying details unfolded to the eye; structures that from below were etched against the sky in filmy lines, here resolved themselves into vast, solid, but harmonious masses.

Those ribbons of color that had seemed to fall from the wooing sky, to adorn these heights, proved, indeed, fallacious; more somber effects, the black touches of age, confronted the eye everywhere, save on one favored front—that of a newer period, an architectural addition whose intricate carvings and beautiful roses of stone invited and caught the warmer rays; whose little balcony held real buds and flowers, bright spots of pink dangling from, or nestling at, the window's edge.

"Yonder looks like some grand lady's bower," as he followed his captors past this more attractive edifice, the mountebank ventured to observe. "Now, perhaps, lives there—"

"Hark you, my friend," one of the soldiers bruskly interrupted; "a piece of advice. His Excellency likes not babblers, neither does he countenance gossip; and if you'd fare well, keep your tongue to yourself!"

"I'll—I'll try to remember," said the mountebank docilely, but as he spoke, looked back toward the balcony; at the gleaming reflection full on its windows; then a turn in the way cut off the pleasing prospect, and only the grim foundations of the lofty, heavier structure on one hand and the massive masonry ramparts on the other greeted the eye.

For some distance they continued along the narrow way, the mountebank bending lower under his load and observing the injunction put upon him, until the path, broadening, led them abruptly on to a platform where a stone house of ancient construction barred their further progress. But two stories in height, this building, an alien edifice amid loftier piles, stood sturdily perched on a precipitous cliff. The rough stonework of its front, darkened by time, made it seem almost a part of the granite itself, although the roof, partly demolished and restored, imparted to it an anomalous distinctness, the bright new tile prominent as patches on some dilapidated garment. In its doorway, beneath a monkish inscription, well-nigh obliterated, stood a dwarf, or hunchback, who, jingling a bunch of great keys, ill-humoredly regarded the approaching trio.

"What now?" The little man's welcome, as mountebank and soldiers came within earshot, was not reassuring. "Isn't it enough to make prisoners of all the scamps in Christendom without taking vagabond players into custody?"

"Orders, good Jacques!" said one of the soldiers in a conciliatory tone. "The commandant's!"

"The commandant!" grumbled the grotesque fellow. "It is all very well," mimicking: "'Turn them over to Jacques. He'll find room.' If this keeps on, we'll soon have to make cages of confessionals, or turn the wine-butts in the old cellar into oubliettes."

"If any of our ancient flavor lingers in the casks, your guests would have little reason to complain!" returned the other soldier. "But this fellow, he'll make no trouble—"

"Oh, I suppose we'll have to take care of him!" muttered the dwarf. "In the thieves' inn there's always room for one more!" Obeying the gesture, at once menacing and imperious, that accompanied these words, the mountebank, who had been eyeing his prospective host not without visible signs of misgiving, reluctantly entered.

But as he did so, he looked back; toward the soldier who had displayed half-friendly interest in the play.

"If you care to know more about the piece—" he began, when the maledictions and abuse of the misshapen keeper put a stop to further conversation and sent the mountebank posthaste into the darkness of the cavern-like hall intersecting the ground floor.

On either side closed doors, vaguely discerned, hinted at the secrets of the chambers they guarded; the atmosphere, dark and close, proclaimed the sunlight long a stranger there. At the end of the hall the dwarf, who had walked with the assurance of one well acquainted with that musty interior and all it contained, paused; shot sharply a bolt and threw open a door. The action was the signal for a chorus of hoarse voices from within, and the little man stayed not on the order of his going, but, thrusting the mountebank across the threshold, leaped nimbly back, slammed hard the door, and locked it.

Cries of disappointment and rage followed, and, facing the company that crowded the dingy little room almost to suffocation, the latest comer found himself confronted by unkempt people who shook their fists threateningly and execrated in no uncertain manner. A few, formerly spectators of his little play, inclined again to vent their humor on him, but he regarded them as if unaware of their feeling; pushed none too gently to a tiny window, and, depositing his burden on the stone floor, seated himself on a stool with his back to the wall.

As a squally gust soon blows itself out, so their temper, mercurial, did not long endure; from a ragged coat one produced dice, another cards, and, although there were few sous to exchange hands, the hazard of tossing and shuffling exercised its usual charm and held them. The minutes wore away; motionless in his corner, the mountebank now watched; then with his head on his elbow, seemed sunk in thought. Once he rose; stood on his stool and looked out between the heavy bars of the narrow window.

"Not much chance to get out that way," observed a fellow prisoner. "What did you see?"

"Only a chasm in the sands."

"The sands!" said the man. "Cursed the day I set foot on them!"

To this malediction the other did not answer; stepped down and, again seated in his corner, waited, while the light that had grudgingly entered the narrow aperture grew fainter. With the growing darkness the atmosphere seemed to become closer, more foul; but although he breathed with difficulty, the mountebank suffered no sign of impatience or concern to escape him; only more alertly looked and listened—to a night bird cleaving the air without; to muttered sounds, thieves' patois, or snatches of ribald mirth within; and, ere long, to new complainings.

"Our supper! What of our supper?"

"The foul fiend take the auberge des voleurs and its landlord?"

"Vrai dieu! Here he comes!" as the footsteps were heard without.

And the door, opening, revealed, indeed, in the rushlight, now dimly illuminating the hall, the hunchback not laden, however, with the longed for creature comforts, but empty handed; at his back the commandant and a number of soldiers.

"You fellow with the dolls!" Blinking in the glare of the torches, the dwarf peered in. "Where are you? Come along!" as the mountebank rose, "you are wanted."

"Wanted?" repeated the player, stepping forward. "Where?"

"At the palace," said the commandant.

"The palace!" stopping short. "Who can want me there?"

"Who?" The dwarf made a grimace. "Who?" he repeated mockingly.

"Her ladyship," said the commandant, with a reproving glance at the jailer.

"Her ladyship!"

"Haven't you ears, my man?" The commandant frowned and made an impatient gesture. "Come, bestir yourself! The Governor's daughter has commanded your presence."

"Down With the Devil!"

Violin Brings Farmer Wealth.

Finding himself suddenly possessed of a violin evidently of great value, Charles Riley, a Gettysburg farmer of moderate circumstances, is now happy over the turn of affairs which he believes has freed him for the rest of his life from financial worries. The violin was supposed to be worthless and came to him in the distribution of his father's personal effects.

Riley thought little of the instrument until he was offered $50 for it. He then suspected that it might be worth more, and refused the offer. Gradually the would-be purchaser increased his offer until it reached $7,500, which Riley still refused.

Later in the day an effort was made by another person to buy the violin, but Riley is holding on to it until he can obtain more. The instrument bears the date "1703," which is carved on it. His father purchased it at a public sale.

Notable Wedding Anniversary.

A golden wedding celebrated at Rothesay, Buteshire, England, the other day, possessed several notable features. The family party, including grandchildren, numbered about 50, and of the sons present some traveled from South Africa and Canada.

SUMMER CARE OF THE PIGS

One May See Pretty Good Profit in Feeding at Present High Price of Feed and Pork.

Many farmers think that they cannot afford to feed the pigs liberally during the summer season. The pigs are allowed to shift for themselves in many instances, and, of course, do not make much growth, but one may see a pretty good profit in feeding at the present high prices of both feed and pork.

The hogs will just about live on the pasture they can gather from the field, and what grain is given them goes to growth, and any one who has tried it has found that only a moderate ration fed to the shoats on pasture will make a good growth throughout the season.

Early spring pigs of any breed can be made to average a pound of gain a day by the time they are eight or ten months old, and a parge part of this can be made on pasture.

Results of Vaccination.

The Kansas experiment station has received reports of the result of vaccinating 32,000 hogs against cholera. In herds infected before vaccination 70 per cent of the hogs survived. In herds not infected before vaccination 99 per cent. survived. This shows very clearly that the time to use the cholera serum is before the disease hits the herd.

The losses from swine disease this year promise to be much less than that, but there is a good deal of it scattered over the corn belt and all precautions should be taken. Serum is available now in nearly all important swine-producing states, and those who own hogs should take advantage of it.

Ewe After Lambing.

After lambing ewes should not be fed too heavily for a week or two. Bran alone is good ration for the first few days. Gradually the ration can be increased, using one part bran, one part oil meal and five parts corn.

Practical Fashions

LADY'S DRESS.

This simple dress opens in front, a little to the left of the center of both blouse and skirt. A smart collar trims the neck which is cut out deep in front to display the front of a one piece guimpe which is worn with the dress. The skirt has three gores and is made with the high waist line.

The dress pattern (6312) is cut in sizes 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size requires 4¾ yards of 36 inch material for the dress and ¾ yard of 36 inch lining and ½ yard of 22 inch net for the yoke.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Emmett C. O'Neal, a young newspaper man, son of R. L. O'Neal, editor of the Mercury-Banner of Huntsville, was shot and instantly killed by a pistol in the hand of his dearest friend, Fulgham Hall. The tragedy was an accident resulting from Young Hall's belief that the weapon was empty. A large party was spending the week-end in camp on the banks of Flint river and most of the campers were gathered in the main tent after returning from a frog hunt. The boys and girls had been examining a revolver belonging to O'Neal, and after a time he placed the cartridges in the chamber and laid it on a cot. Hall picked it up and snapped it, not witnessing the reloading of the weapon, and there was an explosion, the bullet entering O'Neal's mouth and penetrating the brain. Death was instantaneous. "Did she come to the door when you serenaded her with your mandolin?"

"No; but another fellow came along and brought her out with an auto horn."

Poor John.

"John," said Mrs. Newlywed, "I've got to have some money and some new clothes and some new shoes and a hat and a new coat."

"Gracious!" replied John, "you don't have to have all that, do you?"

"Well, I really do, but I'll compromise on the money."

Brute!

"My husband is one of the most stubborn men in the world."

"He can't be any more stubborn than mine."

"Oh, yes, I'm sure he must be. Yesterday I had an engagement to meet him at three o'clock."

"Yes?"

"Well, it was nearly 4:30 when I got there, and he won't admit yet that the rest he got while he was waiting did him good."

Just Wanted to Be Sure.

Four four entire hours had the lady remained in the shop. She had visited every department and worried the majority of the salesmen without spending a penny.

Toward the close of the afternoon one of the salesmen, feeling somewhat exasperated, ventured to make a mild protest.

"Madam," he asked sweetly, "are you shopping here?"

The lady looked surprised, but not by any means annoyed.

"Certainly," she replied. "But what else should I be doing?"

For a moment the salesman hesitated, then blurted out:

"Well, madam, I thought perhaps you might be taking an inventory."

Then the lady melted away among the shadows by the door.

TIRED OF HIS PEEVISHNESS

Millionaire Gently Reminded That He Was Not Alone in Quest of the Missing Link.

A western millionaire of the "newly rich" variety recently came to New York and one of his first extravagant purchases was a pair of diamond-crusted cuff-links, for which he paid $250.

But the pride of possession lasted only two days, for one of the links became lost. High and low the millionaire hunted for it, turning the whole hotel upside down in the search, but it was not discovered. But he would not give up the search.

One evening a week later, while giving a dinner party to a few friends and business associates, he recounted the circumstancer of his loss and concluded by saying:

"Confound it; I don't understand it Here I've spent a whole week hunting for that there missing link, and still, by crackev, I can't find it!"

"Oh, cheer up," advised one of the men who was bored by the recital. "Charles Darwin spent a whole lifetime in the same quest, but he wasn't half as peevish as you are!"

Modern Life.

"John, you'll kill yourself smoking."

"Never mind, my dear. For 15,000 coupons the tobacco company will provide you with a new husband."

His Mind on Insects.

She (hearing her father coming)—Fly!

He (a bit moony)—Where? I'll swat it!

She—No, no! I mean flee!

He—Oh! Where did it nip you?

Not Too Hot.

The kindly district nurse had sent to Mary's cheerless home fuel and food and clothing. Several days later she visited the house to find Mary and the family warm, comfortable and happy.

"You're such a good woman," said the little mother earnestly. "And I've been praying to the dear Lord every night that he will bless you, and when you die send you to a nice, warm place."

Compliment.

"The English are a heavy-handed race," said a suffragette in the smoking room of the Colony club.

She lighted a fresh cigarette and sipped her coffee.

"The English are heavy-handed," she repeated. "I went to hear Mrs. Pankhurst lecture in Woodstock on my last visit to England, and do you know how the jolly old farmer chairman introduced her? Well, this is what he said, intending it for a compliment, mind you:

"'Ladies and gentlemen, you have heard of Mr. Gladstone, the grand old man. Let me now introduce to you the grand old woman.'"

True Business Instinct.

Topham's was the smartest emporium for miles around. You had to be the last word in "go" before a situation was obtained in that establishment. Keen business men filled every post.

One afternoon when trade was in full swing an unfortunate customer fell down the first floor stairs.

"Help!" he groaned in agony. "I do believe I've broken my leg!"

A shopwalker immediately flew to his side.

"Broken your leg, sir?" he inquired, sympathetically. And then, in sharp, clear tones: "Cork legs! Third counter to the right, sir! Forward, Miss Davis!"

LED HOST IN PATH OF DUTY

Abernathy "Kids," on Trip to Washington, Said to Have Induced Paper Man to Go to Church.

The two Abernathy kids, who came through Indianapolis on motorcycles on their way to New York, made a newspaper man go to church, though they probably did not know it.

The N. M. had the boys as guests at his house while they were in town. The first night when it came time to go to bed the boys handed him a surprise when they both said their prayers. Sunday morning the boys intimated that they always went to church. When one of them naively asked the host: "Do you go to church?" he said that he did, though he admitted inwardly that he had been neglecting the church going of late.

"Well, let's go to church," said Temple, who is nine years old.

"Would you like to go with me or would you boys just as soon go with the boy across the street?" asked the newspaper man, eyeing the porch swing which swayed gently in the breeze.

"We'd rather go with you," said Louis, the elder. And they all went. The newspaper man admitted afterward that he had not attended church for six months.—Indianapolis News.

So Far.

Jill—How far has he got?

Bill—Oh, he's written all the press-agent stuff!

Do They Eat Them?

Yeast—I see exports of American horses are increasing. Last year the value of our horseflesh sent to foreign countries was nearly $5,000,000.

Crimsonbeak—Mercy! What eaters those foreigners are, to be sure!

Long-Lost Mine Found.

The long-lost Cinnabar mine in Nevada has been found after a search lasting more than thirty years. The discovery was made some weeks ago by George Keough while searching for strayed stock, seven miles from Mina.

The discovery was kept secret until claims were staked and assays made of the ore, showing it to run high in quicksilver.

Following the announcement of the finding of the mine a rush was started for the district in which it is located.

Hawthorne, after finding the Cinnabar deposit, became confused and lost his way on the desert. He wandered about for several days and finally landed at New Boston, formerly a thriving camp, but now extinct.

He conducted expedition after expedition in search of the deposit, but his efforts were fruitless. He described the location, stating that two petrified trees stood near the mound.

The stone trees are to be noticed today as described by the old prospector, who died thirteen years ago.

Bonehead.

Mollie—What were you and that fellow arguing about?

Chollie—The size of my head.

Mollie—Oh, that was the bone of contention, was it?

His First Thought.

Germany may take a hand in Mexico mattets if the United States fails to act.

Secretary Bryan has been subjected to many criticisms about his lecture tour.

The Chilton County Fair this time will surpass any former fairs.

The street car men's pay in the city of Birmingham has been increased.

Hon. J. Thomas Heflin has refused to debate the woman suffrage question with the ladies.

Mrs. Jane Sherrell of Franklin county died a few days ago at the ripe old age of 99 years.

Ty Cobb is dissatisfied again. Ty is not only a batter, but he is always bawling about something. Bnt he's alright.

Several of the Democratic candidates for Governor are claiming the glory of the recent decision of the Supreme Court in reducing the rate on the L. & N.

Why shouldn't Clanton have a County High School? There is no reason why, because it has all the prerequisites. It is a live, progressive town, and Chilton County needs sucn a school.

They claim they are going to make five million bales of cotton in Texas this year. Somebody said we had just as well turn the cotton business over to that state, but the prospects point to a good crop in Alabama.

"The best way to solve the servant problem is to wait on yourself," says the Marion County News. What about nulking "old pide" and washing dishes, Bro. Wilson?"—Cordova Herald.

Yes, and churning?

Alabama lands it seems are adapted to most any kind of truck raising. The farmers of Baldwin county have sold $35,000 worth of cucumbers during the present year and will now raise a crop of sweet potatoes on the same ground. So says the Cordova Herald.

The Chilton County Fair is not so long off now. This is a proposition all citizens should be interested in. The crops in Chilton this year are better than for many years, and our farmers are in better spirits. The fair this time, we predict will be better than ever before.

It is our understanding that the state law provides that the various school boards of the counties have the power to give better salaries for the County Superintendents. If this is the spirit of the law lt is good, and we would be glad to see the County Superintendents amply paid for their services, and paid enough to justify their giving their entire time to their work.

From various sections of the state come favorable reports of crops.

The Mexico situation is a perplexing problem now before the United States government.

Postmaster General Burleson's new order on the parcels post goes into effect August 15.

Capt. Kolb, Charles Henderson and B. B. Comer are beginning to warm up the campaign for governor.

Former Governor B. B. Comer, who is now a candidate for Governor, says the railroads spent $182,000 to defeat him in 1906.

The women's department of the Alabama State Fair in Montgomery this fall it is said is going to be the greatest ever.

The news from Washington indicates that plans for definite action on the Mexico situation are being discussed.

They say the Decaturs are coming to be very dry towns. If this is true perhaps it is a step and a long one towards prohibibition in the state, according to what they used to say.

Watermelons are plentiful in this section of the State. Chilton county furnishes some fine ones. Mr. E. H. Mims brought some dandies to town last Saturday, the largest weighing 56 pounds.

The sacred harp singing convention held in Birminghrm last week was a decided success. and was largely attended. A large concourse of people in the state were present, and many from other states attended.

Jack Johnson is said to have an income of $1,200 a week while playing on a Paris stage, and that his appearance there has been acclaimed. Except as a prize fighter Johnson couldn't make $2 in any business in the United States."—Advertiser.

He couldn't even get to be a flunky over in Texas, his home state.

The school teachers of Georgia are still pointing the finger of scorn at the legislature of that state. which has been in session for several weeks and has not yet provided for them. The Constitution is making a manly fight for the teachers.

The Youngblood Construction Co., of San Antonio, Tex., under the supervision of Mr. Raymond L. Davis, is placing some valuable and much needed repairs about the court house and jail. Some new cages being placed in the jail will make more room and no doubt the work will prove to be of lasting good, as this Company puts in the best work in its line.

The decision of the Federal Court Judges making the passenger rate on the L. & N. Railroad after August 12, 2 1-2 cents per mile is favorable to the people, and at the same time gives the railroad ample pay for its services. Most of the democratic candidates we believe are claiming the glory; at least two or three of them are anyway. Mr. Henderson, as head of the Railroad Commission, seems to be gratified over it.

"A correspondent to the Blount County Journal inquires if he hasn't broke the record as one day recently he plowed out an acre of corn, killed a chicken hawk, and also 43 snakes. As far as we are concerned we vote him the prize; if there is anybody else who can beat it let him speak up."—Cordova Herald.

Here's another vote for him. If he didn't have the jimmies that night after seeing so many snakes, then he's a good one.

SCHOOL CHILDREN AND THE STATE EXPOSITION.

The educational systtm of the United States is the secret of her rapid advance ement and prosperity. It is early and compulsory training of our children that has put our country at the top of all nations, both in agricultural and commercial pursuit.

While the slow and thorough training of the public schools has been the means of producing the greatest men and women the world has ever known, yet it is a well known fact that the agricultural and commercial expositions which are constantly being conducted in all parts of the country nad a large share in the moulding of a most valuable education in our children in a few years, that by other methods would require years of toil and study to obtain.

In catering to the school children for attendance at the state exposition to be held in Montgomery from September 29th to October 4th, Mr. F. G. Salter, the president and Mr. Geo. T. Barnes, the secretary are doing a work which will be far-reaching and of inestimable worth.

INGERSOLL'S DENUNCIATION OF ALCOHOL

In a speech delivered before a jury in a liquor case the late Robert G. Ingersoll said:

I am giving that there is a prejudice against any man who manufactures alcohol. I believe that from the time it issues from the coiled and poisonous worme in the distillery until it empties into the laws of death, dishonor and crime, it demoralizes everybody that touches it, from its source to where it ends. I do not believe anybody can contemplate the object without being prejudiced against the liquor crime.

All we have to do, gentlemen, is to think of the wrecks on either bank of the sfream of death, of the suicides, of the insanity, of the ignorance, of the destitution, of the little children tugging at the faded and withered breast of weeping and despairing mothers' of wives asking for bread, of the men of genius it has wrecked, the men struggling with imaginary serpents, produsedby this devilish thing; and when you think of the jails, of the alms-houses. of the aslyums, of the prisons, of the scaffolds upon either bank, I do not wonder that every thoughtful man is prjudiced against this damned stuff called alcohol. Intemperance cuts down youth in its vigor, manhood in its strength, old age in its weakness. It breaks the father's heart, bereaves the doting mothep, extinguishes natural affection, erases conjugal love, blots out filial attachment, blights parental hopes, brings down mourning age in sorrow to the grave. It produces weakness, not life. It makes wives widows; children orphans; fathers fiends, and all of them paupers and beggars. It feeds rheumatism, invites cholera, imports pestilence and embraces consumption. It covers the land with idleness, misery, crime. It fills your jails, supplies your almshouses and demands your asylums. It engenders controversies, fosters quarrels and cherishes riots.

It crowds your penitentiaries and furnishes victims for your scaffold. It is the life blood of the gambler, the element of the burglar, the prop of the highwayman and support of the midnight incendiary. It countenances the liar, respects the thief, esteems the blasphemer. It violates obligation, reverences fraud and honors infamy. It defames benevolence, hates love, scorns virture and slanders innocence. It incites the father to bitcher his helpless offspring, helps the husband to massacre his wife and the child to grind the patricidal ax. It burns up men, consumes women, detests life, curses God, despises heaven. It suborns witnesses, nurses perjury, defiles the jury box and strains judicial ermine. It degrades the ciiizen, debases the legislator, dishoners the statesman and disarms the patriot. It brings shame, not honor; misery, not safety; despair, not hope; misery, not happiness, and with the malevolence of a fiend it calmly surveys its frightful desolation and unsatiated havoc. It poisions felicity, kills peace, ruins morals, blights confidence, slays reputations, and wipes out national honor, then curses the worlk and laughs at its ruin. It does all that and more. It murders the soul. It is the sum of all villainies, the father of all erimes, the mother of all abominations, the devil's best friend and God's worst enemy.—Commoner.

When you feel lazy, out of sorts and yawn a good deal in the day time, you can charge it to a torpid liver which has allowed the system to get full of impurities. Herbine cures all disorders produced by an inactive liver. It strengthens that organ, cleanses the bowels and puts the system in good healthy condition. Price 50c. Sold by Upchurc h Drug Co.

The Alabama State Exposition

To be Held at Montgomery Sept. 29 to Oct. 4; Will Boost the State; Educational Exhibits.

The Alabama State Exposition which will open in Montgomery on September 29 rnd close October 4, will be one of the greatest expositions ever held in the South, both from an educational and an amusement standpoint.

The advertising the State will receive from this exposition will be the best it has ever had. It is just as necessary to advertise a State as it is to advertise the merchandise in a store, for the reason that the great news agencies carry to the outside world much news, the nature of which often tends others to prejudice against it. It is therefore up to every citizen in the state to do something to counteract these adverse reports, and the way to do it is to co-operate with Montgomery by attending the 1913 exposition.

The success of the 1913 exposition is already assured. The personnel of the new officers and directors is enough to assure even the most pessimistic that this years exposition will be the greatest in the history of Alabama.

Many northern farmers are expected to visit the exposition and arrangements have been made for exhibits from demonstration farms which will show that in the state of Alabama can be raised any crop that can be raised anywhere in the world, and that these crops san be raised in greater abundance and with greater abundance than elsewhere.

The amusement features of the exposition this year will be great. The fireworks display will be absolutely free. Seats in the covered grand stand will be sold for twenty-five cents each, but seats in the bleachers, which will accommodate over two thousand people, will not cost anything. The race traok has been put in excellent condition and the races this yesr will be a national event.

The railroads will put on reduced rates and run extra trains during the exposition the same as last year.

County Sunday School Convent'n

The Annual Convention of the Chilton County Sunday Association, which was in session Thursday and Friday at Jemison, closed Friday with a climax session full of enthusiasm over the prospect for the coming year's work.

The address Thursday by D. H. Marbury, on "The Superintendent and His Work," was one of the features of the convention. Mr. Marbury being Alabama's representative on the executive committee of the Internatioual Sunday School Association, as well as a member of the State Executive Committee of the Alabama Sunday School Association. His coming to the convention at Jemison was anticipated with great eagerness by workers, and his able address was given close attention.

Friday the reports from the district presidents were given, and showed that two districts were up to the gold standard of the State Association. The convention expressed appreciation of the work of the two districts, of which E. L. Thornton, of Mountain Creek, and W. E. Thomas, of Jemison, are the respective presidents.

After the reports and a strong address by W. D. Dillard, of Mathews, state home department superintendent of the Alabama Sunday School Association, an address was made by Leon C. Palmer, of Montgomery, State Secretary, on "Results of Organized Sunday School Work in Alabama." He called attention to the fact that the State Sunday School Association is based on the principle of co-operation without organic union, that its convention discuss methods of Sunday School work without touching on doctrinal or denominational differences, and that it works soley by suggestion and not by authority. In this way it is able to assist many and hinder none.

In as much as 90 per cent of all Sunday school problems are common to all denominations alike, it is good business economy to share the expense of an organization which deals with these between all denominations. In this way each denomination gets the benefit of all Sunday school wisdom, of not only its own but other denominations, yet pays only a share of the expense.

In the afternoon Thursday, the convention by rising vote pledged to bring Chilton County up to the gold star standard by the next state convention. The officers of last year with a few exceptions, were re-elected and were installed by W. D. Dillard and Dr. George Macon, Dean of Howard College. The next meeting was appointed for Mulberry, after which the convention adjourned. The state association was represented by W. D. Dillard, home department Superintendent; Leon C. Palmer, general Secretary, and Mrs. L. C. Palmer, office assistant.

The following officsrs were chosen by the nominating committee and elected by the convention for the next year: E. L. Thornton, Mountain Creek, President; W. E. Thomas, Jemison, Vice President; Miss Mary Carr Gibson, Verbena, Secretary - Treasurer; Miss Della Williams, Verbena, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer; Dr. A. K. Horn, Thorsby, J. H. Gulledge, Verbena, L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, G. W. Fox, Maplesville, and E. W. Butler, Thorsby compose the Executive Committee.

Those In charge of the various departments are as follows: Elementary Department, Miss Della Williams, Verbena; Secondary Division, J. W. Mitchell, Maplesville; Adult Department, M. C. Crumpton, Thorsby; Home Department, Miss Ella Gilbert, Thorsby; Teacher Training Department, S. H. Herbert, Thorsby; Mission Department, Miss Nelia Johnson, Jemison; Temperance Department, Judson Strock, Verbena.

Just before adjournment the following resolutions were submitted and approved by the convention:

1st. Resolved, that we as the Chilton County Convention thank our State and County official workers, and all speakers for the many good things they have brought us.

2nd. That we, as County Superintendents, District and Sunday School Superintendents strive harder to get the co-operation of all the schools and strive to do greater and more efficient work for the Master's cause.

3rd. That we extend our thanks to the Baptist of Jemison for the use of their Church building.

4t. That we extend our thanks to the Committee on Arrangements for their tireless efforts in providing homes for visitors and especially to the good people of Jemison for their kind hospitality.

5th. That we extend our thanks to the State and County newspapers for the liberal space given in their columns for making public the doings of the convention and the general work of the Association.

MONEY REFUNDED WITH A SMILE

Leading Drug Store Will Give Money Back Should There Ever Be a Case Where Dodson's Liver Tone Fails.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a mild vegetable Liver Tonic which operates so successfully in cases of constipation, torpid liver or biliousness that it has practically taken the place of calomel—the drug which is so often dangerous. Alred Drug Co. who sells Dodson's Liver Tone, recommends it as a reliever of constipation, sour stomace, biliousness and sluggish liver. It works gently, surely and harmlessly. If a bottle should ever fail to give satisfaction Alred Drug Co. will refund the price paid without question.

The price of Dodson's Liver Tone is 50 cents per bottle. Be sure you get Dodson's Liver Tone and not some medicine put up in imitation that is not backed up by a guarantee and that may contain harmful drugs.

Police Rely on Finger Prints.

Francis Galton, finger print expert and authority, estimates that the chances of finding the fingers of two persons giving exactly the same impression are not greater than one in 640,000,000,000. Police experts regard finger prints, which can not be disguised, as far the most conclusive means of identification.

Malaria or Chills & Fever

Prescription No. 666 is prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken. 25c

Played for Place.

Harold and Mary (the little girl next door) had been playing together in the yard. Suddenly Mary began to cry and said that Harold had hit her. Harold was called into the house and asked why he had struck the little girl. "Well," he answered, "she hit me second."

The agonizing discomfort and sense of suffocation that accompanys hay fever and asthma may be greatly alleviated by the use of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It has a soothing effect on the mucus linings, and relieves the gasping and tickling sensation in the throat and bronchial tubes. For Sale by All Dealers Everywhere.

Origin of Present-Day Games.

Though we get our games of tennis from the eastern countries, most of our games of bat and ball come down to us from the ancient north. Ring games and games in which light objects are thrown come also from forest countries, where the spear was a familiar weapon. But all of them alike appear to revert in origin to early experiences of the race by which they worked out their salvation.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN "THE SUMMER GIRL" AND "THE SUMMER WOMAN."

While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble and not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For Sale by All Dealers Everywhere.

In the PUBLIC EYE

AS HIS CONSTITUENT SAW IT

Representative "Phil" Campbell of Kansas is the proud father of a young daughter who likes unusual pets. In her young life she has lavished affections on all sorts of queer pets, her latest acquisition being a chameleon—one of those tiny reptiles which assume the color of any article on which they are placed. The chameleon has a tiny gold chain about its neck, and at the other end of the chain is a pin, that it may be attached to one's waist.
